George M. Reynolds on Saturday last told the members of the Irish Fellowship Club that a great many of the citizens of this country have hazy ideas respecting banking and currency and that considerable doubt exists in the minds of some of them as to what really constitutes money.

"Money as most people call it," he said, "is not money at all, but evidence of money," using for illustration a $20 gold piece, silver and gold certificates of various denominations, a nickel and a 1-cent piece. "This blank piece of paper and this blank check represent as much intrinsically as the certificates I have just shown you," he added.

"Ninety-five per cent of the business of the country is done on a credit basis through the medium of checks, and the banks are merely reservoirs for a community into which its credit is poured."

THE GROWTH OF FIRST TRUST

The First Trust and Savings Bank, the affiliated institution of the First National Bank of Chicago, has again enlarged its quarters. Increasing business has made necessary the addition of the space, forty feet by forty feet, at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets, which will be utilized for the bond and savings departments. The bank now occupies some 12,000 square feet of floor space, the entire ground floor frontage of the First National Bank building, with the exception of a small store on Dearborn Street, and has entrances from both streets.

This is the fourth increase in space since the opening of the bank almost ten years ago. Since that time the capital and surplus have reached $7,500,000 and the deposits have grown to more than $54,000,000, a truly remarkable showing and one that is probably unsurpassed in Chicago's banking history.

HARRIS TRUST PURCHASES HIGHWAY BONDS

The Harris Trust and Savings Bank has just purchased $500,000 Kern county, California, highway five per cent bonds. The bonds are dated September 1, 1913, are due serially 1919 to 1938 and are tax exempt in California and income tax exempt any place in the United States.

COMPLAIN AGAINST INCOME TAX LAW

Bond dealers are complaining that the new income tax is going to work costly injustice to them by permitting the bank institutions acting as trustees to come into possession of valuable mailing lists which have in some cases taken years to compile. The new law requires the trustees to include in their reports to the government the names of all persons whose tax has been deducted. Many of these banking institutions in recent years have established bond departments, and the information they secure as the result of the new law gives them an opportunity for stimulating purchases of bonds by writing to the investors whose names they obtain. It is estimated that the mailing lists of some of the bond houses cost as high as $100,000.

NEW BOND HEAD FOR CHICAGO BANK

W. E. Colt, Jr., has been selected as head of the bond department of the Illinois Trust and Savings of this city. He will have charge of what practically is a new department, as the bond department of the bank has been handled by the general officers heretofore.

Mr. Colt has retired from partnership of the former stock exchange firm of Colt, Harts-horne & Picabia of New York. He has been identified with banking business in the East over twenty-five years.

The New Banking and Currency Bill

The new banking and currency bill known as the Federal Reserve Act, now under consideration in Congress, is of vital interest to every banker.

It is necessarily technical in its nature and therefore hard to understand.

We have prepared a Digest of the bill, concise, compact, and so arranged as to enable the busy man to grasp its essential features in a few minutes. A copy of this Digest will be sent to anyone on request.

MINNEAPOLIS MAY BE EXCHANGE CENTER

Bankers of Iowa, who draw millions of dollars of exchange annually on Chicago banks, have a plan to draw instead on Minneapolis if the plan goes through, according to F. W. Dingley, cashier of the Algona (Iowa) State, who was in Minneapolis last week. Thousands of drafts drawn on Chicago come back with Minneapolis indorsements on them, Mr. Dingley said. Business between Minneapolis and northern and north central Iowa towns has grown so rapidly that numerous payments are made and the usual form of payment is for the Iowa debtor to buy a draft on Chicago. "The banks throughout my state," said Mr. Dingley while in Minneapolis, "have for many years issued Chicago exchange. We have found within the past few years that a large portion of our drafts come back bearing the indorsement of Minneapolis, showing that they have been given in payment for goods purchased in this section. My visit is partially on other matters, our state being heavy buyers of northwestern securities, but after talking with bankers in Iowa, I promised to take the exchange matter up with our correspondents here. I see no reason why Minneapolis exchange should not prove popular in the middle west and especially in the northwestern sections. I believe it can easily be arranged for."

EXPANDED BUSINESS

Sidney Spitzer & Company, investment bankers of Toledo, Ohio, have removed to new offices at 234 to 240 Spitzer building, second floor, coincident with the change, they also announce the opening of Cincinnati offices at 207 Traccon building, with Messrs. Hill and Porr managers. Mr. Hill formerly was with the Provident Savings Bank and Trust Company and Mr. Porr with the Fifth-Third National, Cincinnati.

INSURED IN FAVOR OF BANK

J. E. Franklin, president of the Bankers Trust, St. Louis, has taken out a $250,000 life insurance policy in favor of that institution. The idea of corporations taking out insurance on their officials is not entirely new, having been advocated a long time by bankers and business men. The Bankers Trust, however, is the first St. Louis banking institution to follow the plan.

DULUTH SCHOOL CHILDREN THRIFTY

Pupils of Duluth schools have deposited $6,342.60 in savings bank accounts since the opening of school this year, according to figures prepared by R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools.

The money is deposited in the First National Bank. Every week a representative of the bank visits each school to receive deposits from the pupils. The children form a row and hand in their deposits in turn. Although he has compiled no figures to show the number of children depositing, the superintendent is of the opinion that the majority of pupils have contributed to the total deposits.

The practice of receiving deposits from school children has been in vogue here for three years and has been found a valuable means of teaching the pupils thrift.

SMITHFIELD BANK REORGANIZATION

The Bank of Smithfield, Smithfield, Ill., which heretofore has been controlled by Smithfield capital, will, to a considerable extent, be controlled by Cuba capital in the future, some Cuba men having purchased stock formerly owned by the Reynolds Brothers. Officers have been elected as follows: C. K. Parvin, president; K. Layne, vice-president; A. W. Voorhees, cashier; W. L. Robinson, assistant cashier.

TOUGH SLEDDING FOR CURRENCY BILL

The administration decision to throw the currency bill into a conference of senate democrats resulted in an outburst on the floor of the senate Monday and a do-nothing session of the deadlocked senate banking committee.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who has voted "anti-administration" throughout the committee's deliberations, declared on the floor that he would not change his convictions, "even to meet the views of the president of the United States," and that he would not enter a caucus that would prevent his voting his convictions.

Senator Reed of Missouri said the time had not come to give up hope for an agreement in the committee, and urged that nonpartisan deliberations in the committee continue. He declared his willingness to abide by caucus, however, if one was found necessary.

CHARGES AGAINST BANKERS DISMISSED

The cases against J. A. Cunningham, F. J. Cunningham, and S. P. Reynolds, charged with receiving deposits at the Pemiscot (Mo.) County Bank, when they knew the bank was insolvent, have been dismissed. The assistant prosecuting attorney moved the dismissal of the charges, as he believed they could not be sustained.

A MASTER'S DEGREE

From A. C. McClurg & Co. comes a big story in miniature. It is "A Master's Degree" by Margaret Hill McCarter, and self-mastery is the theme. It is a college tale and has to do with youth, athletics and the development of manhood in a western institution of learning. There is a very persistent romance which discloses the difference between eastern culture and western assertiveness.

PURCHASE McHENRY BANK

The Bank of McHenry, McHenry, Ill., recently was sold to Fremont Hoy of Woodstock, and son, Clarence F. Hoy, of Crystal Lake, Perry and Owen, former owners, retiring because of Mr. Perry's advanced age and Mr. Owen's ill health. Clarence F. Hoy will become active manager of the bank, which for the present will continue under the name of Bank of McHenry. It is the intention of the new owners to change the institution into a national or state bank as soon as possible. Fremont Hoy has for many years been affiliated with the firm of M. D. Hoy & Son, who own and operate the Farmers Exchange Bank of Woodstock. They also established the Bank of Huntley about twelve years ago and continued to own and operate it until they incorporated it as the State Bank of Huntley last spring with a capital of $50,000 and deposits carried of nearly $300,000. One year ago interests represented by Mr. Hoy acquired control of the State Bank of Crystal Lake, of which Mr. Hoy became president and his son, Clarence F., vice-president. Mr. Hoy also is vice-president and secretary of the Peoples Life Insurance Company of Chicago.

DIVIDEND FOR DEPOSITORS OF DEFUNCT BANK

Depositors of the Neal Bank, Atlanta, Ga., which suspended during the panic of 1907, have been notified that they will receive a dividend on November 20th. This dividend will be 3½ per cent and will represent approximately $70,000, which will be paid to depositors. The Central Bank and Trust Corporation are receivers.

The Subway Situation in Chicago

By W. J. SHANKS, Secretary Chicago Harbor and Subway Commission

The city council of the city of Chicago has authorized an advertisement for proposals to construct a comprehensive system of passenger subways, within the city limits, that will be operated independently of existing surface and elevated transportation lines, and that will be ultimately municipally owned, through the amortization of the construction debt out of earnings.

The ordinance authorizing these invitations to private capital, to enter into a subway construction partnership with the city of Chicago, specifies certain subway routes that approximate fifty-seven miles in extent, or approximately 135 miles of single track, for which the construction estimates approximate $96,000,000 for subway construction, and $34,000,000 for equipment, or an estimated total of $130,000,000.

The ordinance further specifies the form in which proposals for construction and equipment are to be made, the object being to secure competitive bids on the proportion of estimated gross receipts, from the operation of subways, that contracting parties may consider a necessary return for their investment.

The bids are also to specify: (1) What proportion of gross receipts shall be applied to a sinking fund to amortize the construction debt. (2) Rate of division between company and city of the remaining gross receipts, after providing for operating expenses, interest on investment, and sinking fund.

As the city's grant of operating privileges is limited, by statute, to twenty years, it follows that a liquidation of the construction debt will be based on the prospective subway earnings during the twenty-year operating period.

It is further implied, in the preliminary subway ordinance, above mentioned, that prospective bidders shall have free access to the general plans and specifications, for the proposed comprehensive system of passenger subways, now on file in the offices of the Chicago Harbor and Subway Commission, and it is taken for granted that the tables of prospective traffic on given subway routes, and other working data, as prepared by the Harbor and Subway Commission, will be analyzed and verified by prospective bidders.

It is provided that any proposal for the construction and equipment of a comprehensive system of passenger subways, in the city of Chicago, must be accompanied by a deposit with the city treasurer of $1,000,000 in cash or securities. Such deposit will be returned to any unsuccessful bidder, and will be retained by the city as liquidated damages if, after the awarding of a contract to a successful bidder, the latter fails to comply with the terms of the contract.

The city council has further directed, in the ordinance above mentioned, that on the receipt of proposals for the construction of a comprehensive system of subways, the same shall be canvassed, and if any proposal is deemed acceptable by the city council, it shall be incorporated in a second ordinance, containing, in substantial form, the detailed requirements of the first or preliminary ordinance; and that the said second ordinance, containing the name of the person, firm or corporation whose proposal has been accepted, shall be submitted to a referendum vote of the citizens of Chicago, at the municipal election on the first Tuesday in April, 1914.

At the latter election it is proposed to give the citizens of Chicago an opportunity to express their preference for one of three alternative plans, for beginning the construction of passenger subways in Chicago, as follows:

1. For a comprehensive system of through-route, high-speed passenger subways, extending approximately to the city limits on three sides, to be built by private capitalists, named in the ordinance, on such terms of partnership with the city will secure the gradual liquidation of the construction debt out of earnings, leaving the actual subways municipally owned, and providing for the future transfer of operating equipment to the city, or a new lessee, at the end of a twenty-year operating period.

2. For a limited system of passenger subways, in the downtown district, to be built by the municipality itself, out of present and future accumulations in the "traction fund," which city-owned subways are to be leased to the present owners of Chicago's elevated railroads, for the latter's exclusive use, as a downtown clearing house for the elevated railroad system.

3. For a limited system of passenger subways, in the downtown district, to be built by the municipality, out of the "traction fund," possibly supplemented by direct financial aid from the surface car companies, as suggested in the 1907 traction ordinances; the said downtown subways to be used exclusively for the routing of a proportion of surface car traffic.

It is expressly provided, in the first "comprehensive subway" ordinance, that the second "comprehensive subway" ordinance, when submitted to the voters at the April election, shall become a law only, (1) if it secures a majority of the votes cast thereon, (2) if it secures a greater number of votes than the votes cast in favor of the elevated road subway ordinance, and (3) if it secures a greater number of votes than the votes cast in favor of the surface car subway ordinance.

It will be noted that, in the last two mentioned plans for beginning subway construction in Chicago, there is no necessity for competitive proposals, and that the operating terms to be arranged, if either plan is chosen by the voters, are confined to the elevated railways in one case, and to the surface railways in the other case.

This leaves the first-mentioned alternative plan—that of a comprehensive, city-wide system of subways, as the only plan in which competitive proposals are invited; the said competitive proposals being essential before a definite ordinance can be submitted to the voters.

Further, it becomes necessary to emphasize the fact that such competitive proposals, for a comprehensive system of passenger subways, must be received by the Chicago city council in ample time to permit the canvassing of the same, and the drafting of a second ordinance for submission to the voters on the first Tuesday in April, 1914.

This leaves the margin of time very limited, and the city's formal advertisement for proposals will be prepared and published within the shortest time possible.

THE NEW RANDALL PARRISH TALE

This strongly historical story comes fresh from the pen of Randall Parrish, author of many of the country's finest stories. "The Maid of the Forest" is called his "best ever" and relates to the frontier times of 1791. British agents were stirring up revolts among the Indians and an American officer was called upon to go through the enemies' country to bring aid to settlers and the small fort which was threatened. There are desperate encounters, captures, escapes, recaptures and a great battle. Yes, the romance is quite as good as the adventure features, and Ensign Hayward René D'Auvray live happily ever afterwards. The style, the interest, the irresistible love theme all make it as one of the year's best books.

BUYS TRUST COMPANY

The First and Fourth National, Nashville, Tenn., has purchased the stock of the First Savings Bank and Trust Company. Each bank will continue in business at its present stand but will interchange, making one bank handle the trust and savings business and the other the regular banking business.

TO VERIFY BANK BALANCES

"Honest men are always anxious to be scrutinized," said Governor Ferris of Michigan, in reply to Banking Commissioner E. H. Doyle, who asked the opinion of the governor on the department's action in verifying depositors' balances in banks under the supervision of the department. "This bank meets my hearty approval. The best interests of banks and their depositors demand a most thorough and careful consideration. I speak as a banker." The next legislature probably will be asked to enact a law relative to verification of depositors' pass books and certificates of deposit. Complaints have been received by the department against the practice pursued by certain banks in charging illegal and exorbitant rates of interest by demanding a bonus or premium from the borrower in addition to the legal rate of interest. Prompt measures will be taken to stop the practice.

ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT KANSAS BANK

T. R. Paxton was elected vice-president of the German-American Bank, Topeka, Kan.; D. P. Paxton and T. R. Paxton, members of the firm of Paxton & Paxton, were added to the board of directors; T. C. Mueller was elected president to succeed F. P. Metzger, who recently sold his interests, and Edwin McKeever was retained as the bank's counsel at a meeting of the board of directors last week. The Paxtons and their associates now hold the controlling interest in the German-American Bank, having bought out the holdings of F. P. Metzger and Mrs. J. B. Betts.

FORM BANKERS CLUB

The bankers of Atchison met on Thursday of last week to organize a bankers' association for the purpose of promoting agriculture in that section. P. H. Ross, Leavenworth county's farm agent, and Albert Wulfekuhler, secretary of the Leavenworth Progressive Agricultural Club, were present.

George Voll, who has been connected with the Commercial National, Fremont, Neb., has moved to Winslow to become cashier of the Winslow State, succeeding W. E. Kaufman. Mr. Voll has bought Mr. Kaufman's interest.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

L. D. Puterbaugh, formerly judge of the circuit court of Peoria county, has been elected a vice-president of the Dime Savings and Trust Company of Peoria. He will become executive officer of the trust department, but there will be no change in the relations of C. W. Frazier, who will continue as a trust officer of the company. Mr. Puterbaugh has been considered by the officers of the bank for this position for some time and at a recent meeting of the directors was asked to join their staff, which he has done. John E. Keene and Frederick H. Smith are also vice-presidents.

"We are congratulating ourselves that we have been able to get the services of a man so well known both as to character and ability," said President George W. Curtiss. "We count his election quite an honor to the bank."

Merger of Large Utility Plants

The merger of the Illinois Traction System and the Western Railways and Light Company, a deal involving $18,000,000, has been announced by the directors of the former company. The stockholders of both utility corporations are practically the same. William B. McKinley of Champaign is president of both companies and H. E. Chubbuck of Peoria is vice-president and general manager. The proposed merger will be made by the purchase of the common stock of the Western Railways and Light Company and one share of Illinois Traction common will be issued for two shares of Western Railways common.

The Western Railways and Light Company operates street railways or other utilities in many Illinois cities, such as Galesburg, Quincy, Cairo, La Salle, Peru, Marseilles, Mound City and Abingdon, as well as the Chicago, Peoria and Ottawa interurban and the Northern Illinois Light and Traction Company and utilities in Atchison and Wichita, Kan., and Jefferson City, Mo. The Illinois Traction System operates not only the extensive interurban line bearing that name, but large public utilities in Peoria, Springfield, East St. Louis and adjacent cities Decatur, Bloomington, Champaign, Urbana, Danville and other smaller cities.

"The Guide"

Among the Illinois banks making a specialty of savings and thrift is the Charleston Trust and Savings Bank of Charleston. This institution publishes "now and then" an interesting little booklet called "The Guide." The booklet urges the gospel of thrift and makes a business-like appeal to the people of the community to investigate the savings department of the bank.

The deposits of the bank have increased from $28,470 in April, 1912, when the bank was organized, to $181,834 at the time of the last call, October 21st. Nine statements have been rendered to the state auditor and in each statement an increase was shown in deposits. The bank pays four per cent upon savings accounts and issues bond form coupon certificates of deposit. The directorate includes many of the best business and professional names in Charleston. Alex Briggs is the president; W. H. Shubert, vice-president, and Frank Popham, cashier. The officers of the bank are regular readers of THE CHICAGO BANKER. The National City Bank of Chicago is the correspondent.

Busey's Bank Incorporates

After forty-five years of successful private banking Busey's Bank of Urbana began business Monday morning, November 10th, as a state bank under the name of Busey's State Bank. This institution is the second oldest of over forty banks in Champaign county, the First National of Champaign alone being older.

Busey's Bank was established in 1868 by Simeon H. Busey and Samuel T. Busey under the name of Busey Bros'. Bank, but the name was afterwards changed to that of Busey's Bank. The name of the new state bank was accordingly made to read "Busey's State Bank," so as to conform to the venerable and well-known name as closely as possible.

Simeon H. Busey was one of the incorporators of the First National of Champaign and of the old Bankers National of Chicago, being a director in the latter institution at the time of his death, in June, 1901. He served in the legislature and was active in many enterprises. Colonel Samuel T. Busey, after an honorable war record as the leader of the Seventy-sixth Illinois Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War, became active in public affairs, was five times elected mayor of Urbana and in 1892 was elected to congress, defeating Joseph G. Cannon for the first and only time in the latter's forty years of congressional life until the election of 1912. Colonel Busey was drowned at his summer home at Mantrap Lake, in northern Minnesota, in August, 1909.

M. W. Busey, a son of Simeon H. Busey, entered the business in 1875 and in 1879 was admitted to a partnership. He has been bookkeeper, cashier, vice-president and president and in all has given thirty-eight years of active service to the institution bearing his name and has been for many years a dominant factor in the business life of Urbana and of Champaign county.

George W. Busey, a brother of M. W. Busey, was with the bank for eighteen years as an active officer and is now retired, although a heavy stockholder and president of the First

Sound 6% Investment

WE own and offer a new issue of First Mortgage bonds directly secured by the principal buildings and land of Ed. Schuster & Co., one of the oldest, largest and most successful Department Store Corporations of Milwaukee, Wis. The total issue is $400,000, and the value of the real estate securing the bonds, $815,000. The capital and surplus of the Company amount to nearly $1,000,000, and its net annual earnings last year were more than 6½ times the greatest annual interest charge. The bonds mature serially in annual installments from October 15, 1915, to October 15, 1923. We, therefore, are able to offer investors bonds maturing in two to ten years as they may select. We recommend these bonds as a safe and attractive investment. No investor has ever lost a dollar of principal or interest on any security purchased of us since this House was founded 31 years ago.

MORTGAGE AND BOND BANKERS

ESTABLISHED 1882
STRAUS BUILDING CHICAGO ONE WALL STREET NEW YORK

State Bank of Fisher, Champaign county. Garrett H. Baker, the present cashier, was formerly with the old Bankers National of Chicago and has many friends among the "boys" in Chicago banks to-day and especially among those in the Continental and Commercial National. Paul G. Busey, a son of M. W. Busey, is the vice-president.

The capital of the bank has been and will be $100,000. The bank occupies commodious quarters, which it has used since 1904, and within a half block of its old site, first occupied in 1868. The correspondents are the Continental and Commercial National of Chicago and A. T. Bowen & Company of New York. The Busey family have been stockholders in the Bankers, Commercial, and Continental and Commercial Nationals for many years.

M. W. Busey is well known to Illinois bankers, having aided in the organization of the Illinois Bankers Association, served many years as a member of the executive council and on the private bankers' and other committees. Garrett H. Baker has also served on the executive committee of the Illinois Bankers Association, his term having expired at the last meeting in September in Chicago. With a wealth of interesting family history, with a successful past and a prosperous future outlook, Busey's State Bank of Urbana occupies a prominent place in its community.

State Savings, Loan and Trust of Quincy

The many friends of S. B. Montgomery, president of the State Savings, Loan and Trust Company of Quincy, and president of the Illinois Bankers Association, will read with interest of the remarkable growth of the bank from 1892 to 1913. In 1892 the bank had capital and surplus of $328,000 as compared with $1,465,629 in 1913. The deposits have grown from $1,386,841 in 1892 to $5,650,113 in 1913, as shown by the last call of the state auditor, while the total resources in the twenty-one years under consideration have increased from $1,714,965 to $7,115,742.

The Quincy Herald, in a recent issue, devotes considerable space to the growth of this bank and says: "It is worthy to note that this city has in this institution the largest bank in capital, deposits and resources in Illinois outside of Chicago. The State Savings, Loan and Trust Company of Quincy has reached the high-water mark of deposits and resources. Never in the history of Quincy has any bank made a showing of actual deposits of $5,650,113 and actual resources of $7,115,742. That an institution with such a record can be depended upon and deserves the very excellent, substantial and growing patronage which it is receiving is but a natural consequence. The State Savings, Loan and Trust Company invites the closest examination of its statements and of its business methods, feeling assured that every patron will find them sure, safe and profitable."

Illinois Notes

A. Crane, superintending architect for the E. Jackson Casse Company of Chicago, has been in Havana for his company viewing the progress of the new Havana National. Mr. Crane also visited Charleston and looked after the new building of the First National of that city, which the company is erecting.

Burglars invaded the home of Fred Kohl, president of the First National of Granite

City, and secured $1,500 in jewelry and non-negotiable securities worth $40,000. The Kohl home is in Venice, adjacent to Granite City.

Millikin National of Decatur, one of the cornerstones of the banking business in Illinois, is now in its fifty-fourth year with increased business and patronage. It has capital, surplus and undivided profits of $600,000 and deposits of about five millions.

G. F. Carson, Illinois representative of the Pettyjohn investment banking house of Olathe, Kan., has removed his office in Peoria from the Jefferson building to the ground floor of the Hippodrome building, 207 South Jefferson Avenue.

The largest fee ever paid to the Illinois secretary of state was paid by Swift & Co., when a fee of $75,045 was received for the extension of the charter of the packing company. The fee was the same as if the house had just been organized. The new charter extends the business to January 1, 1984.

The Decatur and Macon County Hospital Association has raised a fund of $38,000, of which $1,000 was contributed by the Millikin National, $500 by the National Bank of Decatur, and $300 by the Citizens National of Decatur.

I. E. Merritt, president of the Hoopeston National and mayor of Hoopeston, is erecting a double-room business building in Rossville.

Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago has purchased $135,000 of filter plant bonds from the city of Decatur and also $100,000 of Decatur school bonds.

B. F. Harris, vice-president of the First National of Champaign, will be one of the guests at the annual Missouri farmers' week to be held by the state board of agriculture and the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., January 12th-16th.

Peoria has been selected as the headquarters of the Illinois state federation of commercial clubs, and Willis Evans, secretary of the Peoria Association of Commerce, has been named secretary-treasurer of the state organization. The president of the federation is F. C. Ferguson of Chicago, a member of the Ferguson-Goodnow law firm and chairman of the committee on down-state relations of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

NEWS LETTER BY CHALMER B. TRAVER

WISCONSIN

Twelve bulletins on subjects of especial interest to farmers are now in course of preparation by the agricultural committee of the Wisconsin Bankers Association. The bulletins will be distributed upon request to the banks of the state during months specified in the preliminary prospectus, the different bulletins to be issued at times when the subjects with which they deal are of paramount interest. The various bulletins planned by the committee, with the months of their issue, are as follows: November, "The Prevention and Control of Hog Cholera"; December, "Dollars in Dairying"; January, "Business Methods on the Farm"; February, "How to Run a Cow Testing Association"; March, "The Work Horse in Spring"; April, "Good Roads and How to Get Them"; May, "How to Get a Bumper Corn Crop"; June, "Planting Potatoes"; July, "Silos and Silage"; August, "Pork Production"; September, "Selection and Curing of Seed Corn"; October, "Milk and Money."

The bulletins are the work of authorities on the subjects dealt with, the first of the series for the present month on "Hog Cholera" being prepared by B. A. Beach, assistant veterinarian of Wisconsin College of Agriculture. At the bottom of each bulletin space is left for the imprint of the distributing bank.

To Form County Organizations

At a meeting of the executive council of the W. B. A. in the offices of Secretary George D. Bartlett Monday afternoon, preliminary steps toward the formation of county organizations in every county of the state were discussed. It is planned to accord to one bank of each county the responsibility of the local organization work, with the state association furnishing every aid in its power. The county organizations will be subdivisions of the sectional groups, which in turn are subsidiary to the state association. The only existing county organization in the state is that of the Sheboygan county bankers, organized this fall. It is the ambition of the executive committee to have a similar organization in each county of the state.

Alleged Swindler to be Brought Back

Sidney T. Kauders, wanted in Milwaukee on a charge of obtaining $2,863 from the local office of the American Express Company on forged checks, is under arrest in Seattle, Wash., according to a notification to the Milwaukee police, awaiting return for trial. The warrant charges Kauders with obtaining $1,538 on January 10th from the American Express Company on a check drawn upon the Kenwood Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, and which later proved worthless. The second charges the obtaining of $1,325 from the express company on the same day and in the same manner.

To Hear Arguments in Defunct Trust Company Case

Arguments of certificate and bond holders in the defunct Citizens Savings and Trust Company will be reopened before Judge

Eschweiler Saturday, November 22d, following failure of the plaintiffs to come to any agreement at the hearing last Saturday. Judge Eschweiler asked security holders whether they wanted a new trustee appointed and if so whether they wanted the bank commissioner or some other trust company appointed as trustee. Of the seven who signed five wanted the bank commissioner to act.

Complains Against Assessment

Claiming that a double assessment has been imposed upon them, the Marshall & Ilsley Bank has filed application for a writ asking that the board of review be compelled to review the proceedings of the matter in the circuit court. The petition declares that 5,000 shares of stock with a par value of $100 were assessed at $235 a share. It is further alleged that one lot was assessed at $18,000 and another for $144,000. It is claimed in the petition that the tax commissioners did not deduct from the total assessed value of stock the assessed value of land and buildings and that this should be done.

consin Trust Company was re-elected president of the Milwaukee Country Club at the last annual meeting of the club in the Hotel Pfister Monday noon.

Stephen Bull, Sr., well-known financier and manufacturer of Racine, has been accorded an honor bestowed on no other citizen of the place. The new $100,000 schoolhouse on the south side has been named the Stephen Bull school in his honor. Mr. Bull is one of the founders of the J. I. Case Company.

At a meeting of capitalists in LaCrosse Saturday night, following an inspection of the Hatfield, LaCrosse and Winona properties of the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power Company, President C. C. Smith of Milwaukee predicted that the disposal of the $1,200,000 bonds now held by the N. W. Halsey Company of Chicago will result in big improvements and the acquisition of other utilities. An effort is being made to interest LaCrosse capital.

Guy Bergen, for the past three years savings teller at the First National, Grand Rapids, Wis., has resigned his position to accept a responsible place in a bank at Menominee, Mich. His work at the First National will be taken by Geo. DeBruin, the former assistant bookkeeper, and Mr. Leo Larsen will take Mr. DeBruin's place.

SOL LEWINSOHN DISAPPEARS

Sol Lewinsohn, a professional bondsman of Chicago, made a hasty departure from the city this week when he was threatened with a sixty-day jail sentence for contempt of court. It is alleged that Lewinsohn was given an indemnity of $6,200 when he went on the bond of a Mrs. Tremmel.

Lewinsohn also conducted a private bank on the South Side. Application was made this week for a receiver to take charge of the financial affairs of the banking business by three creditors whose claims aggregate $6,510.

The liabilities, it is believed, will amount to $50,000. Cash amounting to $5.38 was found in the bank by the receiver.

BANK ROBBED

The private bank of E. A. Dunham & Company at Montour Falls, N. Y., was closed on Friday of last week because of the robbery of $2,000 during Thursday night. Yeggmen forced through four locks and got into the vault.

TOLEDO SCHOOL SAVINGS BANK

Nearly $300,000 has been placed in a savings bank at 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, by the school children of Toledo, O., since the school savings plan was started in 1900. Last year was the largest when the children put into the bank $26,163.06. The deposits are usually pennies and nickels and sometimes dimes and quarters. Each teacher takes the pupils' deposits once a week, keeping account of each deposit. The savings from each room are turned in to the principal. A collector from the bank gathers the money from the school each week and leaves stamps for the amount of the deposits. The teacher gives the pupil stamps representing the amount he has deposited. Each stamp represents one cent, and is stuck on a folder holding fifty. When a folder is filled the child may deposit it at the bank, which starts the interest going. The Commercial Savings Bank and Trust Company takes care of the school savings of Toledo.

NEW HEAD OF DIXON BANK

The directors of the City National, Dixon, Ill., held a meeting last week and elected W. C. Durkes, president, and John L. Davies, cashier. Mr. Durkes succeeds S. C. Eells, who was for many years president of the institution, and Mr. Davies takes the place which Mr. Durkes has held for about twelve years, since he resigned as cashier of the Franklin Grove Bank to take the same position with the City National. Mr. Durkes is the owner of large tracts of valuable lands in Iowa and Minnesota and is vice-president of the Franklin Grove Bank, a director of the First National of Erie, Ill., and has other financial interests. Mr. Davies entered the employ of the City National about twelve years ago as messenger and by his efforts has won his present position.

GEORGE WOODRUFF ON CURRENCY BILL

George Woodruff, president of the First National Bank of Joliet, Ill., in an address at the Chicago Engineers' Club on the currency bill, praised it, though he objected to the twelve required reserve banks with a federal board in control. Mr. Woodruff favored rather a central bank with twelve branches. "Although it doesn't make much difference," he added.

FARMERS PAY UP LOANS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—Of the $215,000 appropriated by the 1887, 1889, 1891 and 1907 legislatures for loans to farmers in western Minnesota for the purchase of seed grain, all except $1,206.44 has been repaid, according to the records of State Auditor Iverson. These seed grain loans were distributed by the boards of county commissioners in the counties where the money was needed and a tax authorized on the land of the farmer receiving the money. In some instances this tax has never been fully collected and this accounts for the small loss. The auditor says, however, that he expects that counties still owing ultimately will be able to settle.

The first loan act was passed in 1887, when $40,000 was appropriated to aid farmers in Marshall, Polk, Big Stone, Lac qui Parle, Smith, Norman, Chippewa, Becker and Wilkin counties who had lost their crops in 1886 because of hail and wind storms, to purchase seed for the ensuing season. In 1889 the appropriation was $100,000 and in 1891 it was $50,000. In all cases it was for the same purpose. In 1907, excessive wet weather in the Red River Valley flooded many farms and caused a large loss. This appropriation was for $25,000 and all has been paid except $742 of the sum loaned to Norman county.

NEW BUILDING FOR MICHIGAN BANK

Work is under way on the handsome new building of the Frankenmuth (Mich.) State. The exterior will be of paving brick construction with Bedford stone trimmings and with stone columns. The interior will have a mahogany finish with mahogany marble fixtures and tile floor and lobby. The Frankenmuth State was established in 1910 and has a capital of $50,000 with $10,000 surplus. Benton Hanchett is president; Otto Schupp and Paul Gugel, vice-presidents; Fred G. Nuechterlein, cashier.

CRISIS IN LONDON EXCHANGE AFFAIRS

Persistent rumors have been circulated this week to the effect that at the end of the financial year, next March, 500 registered members of the London Stock Exchange will resign.

A strenuous effort is being made to prevent the actual facts from becoming public, but it is said that conditions on Throgmorton Street have not been worse for a long time.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

St. Louis bank clearings during the past week have been large and show a gain of about 6 per cent over those of the corresponding period last year. The demand for money has been fair, while the rates ruled steady at and around 6 per cent on call and time loans. Commercial paper was discounted at 6 per cent.

Take Capitol Bonds to St. Louis Bank

State Treasurer E. P. Deal and State Auditor Gordon, members of the Missouri state board of fund commissioners, recently delivered half a million dollars of the capitol building refunding bonds to the Mercantile Trust. These bonds, under the contract the Mercantile Trust has with the state, were not due for delivery until January 1st, but the company has the option of calling for an instalment of half a million of them at any time it may want them and availed itself of this provision. This made a total of $1,250,000 of the bonds delivered, leaving about $1,700,000 of the issue to be delivered in half-million instalments at intervals of six months unless the trust company, as in this instance, should anticipate the date of delivery by calling for them.

Butler Bank Routs Sharks

The Industrial Loan Company, known as the "Poor Man's Bank," founded by Col. James Gay Butler to advance money to needy people at a reasonable rate of interest, has succeeded in driving out of business several St. Louis loan sharks, according to a statement by Arthur A. Blumeyer, manager of the bank. In the ten months of its existence the bank has loaned $345,000 to 3,694 persons, an average amount of about $92 to each person. No suits have been necessary to collect from the bank's patrons, Mr. Blumeyer says. Discussing the success of Col. Butler's undertaking, Mr. Blumeyer said one of its greatest accomplishments was to run out of business a loan shark, who preyed upon the employees of two institutions. The bank's business has become such that larger quarters are necessary, and it has been removed from 730 to 714 Chestnut Street. In the latter place the institution has 3,300 square feet of floor space while the old location afforded only 700.

Former Bank Clerk Charged With Embezzlement

A warrant charging embezzlement was issued in the United States District Court last week against Leonard W. Woods, formerly employed as a bookkeeper by the Mercantile National of St. Louis. The warrant was issued on complaint of Walter W. Smith, a national bank examiner, who examined Woods' books after he resigned from the Mercantile National, August 27th. In his report to District Attorney Houts, Smith said that Woods, while employed by the bank, opened savings accounts with the American Trust and the Mississippi Valley Trust and deposited to his credit checks drawn by a fictitious person on the bank by which he was employed. When the checks were returned to the Mercantile, the report asserts, Woods obtained possession of the checks and destroyed them. The report says four such checks were deposited between July 16, 1913, and August 7, 1913, amounting to $320. The bonding company which signed Woods' bond made good the loss to the bank, the report said, and it is said that Woods reimbursed the bonding company.

Meet at St. Louis

Groups Six, Seven and Eight, combined to form Group Five, met at St. Louis on Tuesday. The principal speakers were Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust, on "Currency Legislation," and Samuel Jordan of Sedalia on "Modern Developments in Scientific Agriculture." In the evening a banquet and entertainment were given at the Planters Hotel.

Meet at Springfield and Lamar

Group Eleven met at Springfield on Thursday and was largely attended. The group was reorganized as Group Seven. S. E. Trimble, cashier of the Union National, Springfield, addressed the morning session on agricultural development. The afternoon session was opened by an address by J. L. Johnston, cashier of the National Reserve Bank, Kansas City, and was followed by a discussion of practical banking subjects. The entertainment features were an automobile ride over the city at noon, followed by a luncheon at the Springfield Country Club, and a banquet at the Colonial Hotel at 6 o'clock followed by a theater party.

Group Ten, reorganized as Eight, met at Lamar yesterday (Friday). Addresses were made by John E. Swanger, of St. Louis, former state bank commissioner; D. H. Doane of Columbia, professor of farm management at the state agricultural college and Thornton Cooke, vice-president of the Fidelity Trust of Kansas City. The convention closed with a dinner at 6 o'clock at the Pickwick hotel, given by Lamar bankers.

Among the St. Louis bankers who secured a special Pullman for attending the series of group meetings were R. S. Hawes, vice-president of the Third National; Wm. McC. Martin, assistant trust officer Mississippi Valley Trust; E. B. Clare-Avery, Merchants-Laclede National; W. B. Taylor, Boatmens Bank; Irving L. Jones, Mercantile National, and representatives from National Bank of Commerce, Mechanics-American National, D. Arthur Bowman Co., A. G. Edwards & Son, Francis Brother & Company, F. W. Hixson.

the Holland Banking Company, Springfield, merged its business with the Merchants National and the State Savings in September, the stockholders of the Holland Banking Company met recently and increased the capital stock of the bank from $200,000 to $250,000. The amended articles of incorporation giving notice of the increase have been filed. All of the stock has been taken by the present holders of the bank's stock.

Group Elections.

The new officers elected by Group One, Missouri Bankers Association, which met on Friday of last week, are J. T. S. Hickman of Hannibal, chairman, and Charles A. Wardell of Macon, secretary. Resolutions endorsed the action of the Chicago conference and the American Bankers Association on the currency bill and stated that the bankers of the group had confidence in the work congress was doing, that it was attempting to frame the best law possible under the circumstances. Good-road activity was endorsed and agricultural movements taken up by the banks.

Organize Business Club at Pomona

A number of business men and prominent farmers met in the office of the Citizens Bank, Pomona, Mo., recently and organized a commercial club with twenty charter members. A. T. Lewis, cashier of the Citizens Bank, was elected president; R. P. Wheeler, vice-president; Roy Lilly, secretary, and Dr. J. B. Cunningham, treasurer.

Birch Tree Banks Consolidate

The assets, building and fixtures of the defunct Birch Tree (Mo.) State have been taken over by the Citizens State, contingent upon the payment of the deficit of former Cashier Pate. This amount is $11,218.95 and probably will be made good by his bondsmen. As soon as this is done the consolidation of the two institutions will take place.

Early Trial Promised

A speedy trial is promised J. B. Thomas, president of the Bank of Willow Springs; Frank B. Warner, formerly connected with the Daniels Commission Company; Claude Daniels, a member of the now defunct firm, and Marion W. Rose, a Frisco conductor, who were indicted by the federal grand jury at Springfield recently on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh of Kansas City has notified officials of the Springfield court that a special term would be held in Springfield beginning December 15th to dispose of the cases. The men are accused of having been implicated in an attempt to swindle eastern commission firms and banks out of large sums of money by means of forged bills of lading for shipments of produce. Warner is in jail at Ozark, but the rest are under bonds to appear when wanted.

Charges Against Bank Officers Dismissed

At the opening of the trial at Caruthersville, Mo., of the eleven cases against J. A. Cunningham, F. J. Cunningham and S. P. Reynolds on the charge of receiving deposits as officers and directors of the Pemiscot County Bank when that institution was insolvent, all the informations were dismissed. Clark Russell of the firm of Russell, Deal & Joslyn of Charleston, who had been employed to assist in the prosecution, told the court that after a full investigation of the charges against the defendants he found them without foundation and advised that they be dropped. The dismissal followed. It is said that since the discovery that Cashier A. C. Tindle of the bank was short nearly $300,000 the three men who were made defendants in these recent charges have done much to prevent financial loss to the depositors.

Missouri Notes

Walter Jones, who for the past few years has been engaged in the mercantile business at Washburn, has been elected cashier of the Washburn Bank. He will continue to conduct his mercantile business.

Remodeling of the German-American Bank building, St. Joseph, is nearly completed. The interior is one of the most beautiful in the state.

Resigns From Arkansas Trust

Major Clifton R. Breckenridge has resigned as president of the Arkansas Valley Trust, Fort Smith, Ark. Mr. Breckenridge has been associated with the institution since its organization.

New Cashier in Jonesboro

Allen W. Hall has resigned as cashier of the Jonesboro (Ark.) Trust to retire from active labor and will spend the winter in southern California. He has had the management of the institution for twelve years. E. J. Mason, a prominent business man, has been elected to succeed him.

Youngest Bank President

W. L. Moody, III, has been elected president of the American Bank and Trust Company, Galveston, Tex., by the board of directors. Mr. Moody is not yet twenty years old. The American Bank and Trust is a state guaranty fund bank and recently was organized with a capital stock of $50,000 with W. L. Moody, Jr., as president.

Temple Banks in Good Condition

The four banking institutions of Temple, Tex., representing two national and two state banks, showed combined deposits aggregating $2,225,440 at the close of business October 21st. Of this amount the sum of $276,534 is represented by time certificates of deposit on which the depositors receive 4 per cent interest. The combined resources of all four institutions are $3,363,500.

Deposits in Tulsa Banks

The combined deposits of the nine banks of Tulsa, Okla., amounted to $9,142,401.85 on October 21st, an increase of 15 per cent over the previous quarterly statement. They average over $260 per capita for the 35,000 residents of Tulsa.

Southwest Notes

August G. Andreas, founder and vice-president of the City National, El Paso, Tex., died recently. He was sixty-four years old.

The Lincoln County Bank, Star City, Ark., has elected the following board of directors: J. G. Atkinson, B. F. Tarver, H. D. Palmer and R. L. Fish of Star City and Dr. Z. Orto of Pine Bluff. A dividend of 20 per cent was declared.

The Texas state banking board has issued a certificate of authority to do business to the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Burleson. The capital stock is $10,000. J. F. Dunn, Burleson, is president and E. B. Chisemhall is cashier.

For a consideration of $70,000, of which $32,000 was in cash, the First National Bank building, Wichita Falls, Tex., has been sold to Messrs. King and Tibbetts of Gainesville. It is a three-story structure and one of the oldest business buildings in Wichita Falls. The First National has purchased a site and prepared plans for a new building which will be erected this year.

Charles A. Fisk, cashier of the Amarillo (Tex.) Bank and Trust Company, recently returned from New York and St. Louis, where he has been attending to personal business matters for the past month.

GROWTH OF POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM UNDER DIRECTOR WEED

Theodore L. Weed, who organized and was appointed director of the postal savings system under the Taft administration, attended the sessions of the Investment Bankers' Convention as a representative of the American Bank Note Company of New York, with which he has been associated since leaving the government.

The organization of the postal savings system was perfected only after months of the hardest kind of work and in speaking of its great success Mr. Weed referred appreciatively to the hearty co-operation he had received from bankers in working out its details.

Mr. Weed's experience in the services of the government was both unique and interesting. He started his career fourteen years ago as a stenographer in the war department and acted as official reporter of the United States Commission that arranged for the evacuation of Cuba by the Spaniards. He rose through the various departmental grades strictly on merit, and served as private secretary to Secretary of Commerce and Labor Oscar S. Straus, and Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock. He became chief clerk of the Department of Commerce and Labor and was transferred to the Postoffice Department in the same capacity, where he was responsible for many reforms that placed the department on the highest plane of efficiency it had ever enjoyed.

While serving as chief clerk of the Postoffice Department Mr. Weed was appointed secretary to the Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings System and placed in direct charge of the organization of that most important work.

His selection as the first director of the Postal Savings Bank indicates the esteem in which he was held by the President and Postmaster-General.

Under his administration the postal savings system was a signal success and had been extended to over 13,000 offices where the banks now flourish. He has strongly advocated a change in the law that will permit deposits to be made in larger amounts than at present, but with a restriction of the amount on which interest may be paid.

SALE OF BUILDING MAY GO BACK TO COURT

Effort was made last week through a motion for a new trial, filed by Barton Griffith and Smith W. Bennett, Columbus, Ohio, to bring the sale of the Columbus Savings and Trust Company building back into the courts. For more than a year and a half the building has been in the hands of the court. Several times, at the court's order, it was appraised. The last time its value was estimated at $950,000. The court ordered the building sold November 29th. The attorneys declared that the court's decision in the recent bidding was contrary to the weight of evidence and contrary to law; that it had no evidence to support the conclusions and findings of the master commissioner and the confirmation of his report, and that the court had no authority to make such decision, since the case was entitled to trial by jury.

BRUNING FOR BANK EXAMINER

It is rumored that Congressman Pepper of the Second Iowa district has recommended Alphonse Bruning of Davenport, Iowa, for the position of national bank examiner. He will succeed Examiner Bostwick of Iowa, who was removed last week. Mr. Bruning has been teller for the Davenport Savings.

Harrison Mathewson, cashier of the Kane County Bank and Trust of Elburn, Ill., and Miss Nina Cone, a popular Elburn young lady, were married recently.

Editorial Comment

STATE SUPERVISION PROFITABLE AND POPULAR

The long-time agitation for state supervision of all forms of banking in Illinois has begun to bring results. Not in the way of new legislation but in the way of recognition on the part of the private bankers that state supervision is not only popular with the people but is profitable to the bank. This has been shown in many cases where private banks have converted to state banks and the business has greatly increased and in some cases it has doubled. Now comes the testimony of the state auditor at Springfield, ex officio state banking commissioner. Twenty-nine Illinois private banks have readjusted their affairs and have come within the requirements for examination and publicity of the state banking law since February 1st. This great reclamation is ascribed chiefly to the fact that newspapers have taken up the fight that the recalcitrant legislators laid down. The auditor says: "Our record shows that there were forty-nine banks chartered under the state banking act since I assumed the office, February 1st. Of these seven were in Chicago and forty-two downstate. Of these forty-nine charters twenty-nine went to banks which formerly had been conducted as private concerns."

Men in touch with state financial affairs considered this record and suggested that the natural result will be a victory, comparatively easy to secure, for a private bank regulatory law at the next regular session of the general assembly. It may be that through mistaken notions of the superior claims of private gains over public good that the state-wide supervision movement shall fail once again, but in the end it will triumph just as it has in Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and others of the older states where private banking had been strongly entrenched. It never has been permitted in the newer states. Iowa and Illinois are the two conspicuous "wet states so far as supervision is concerned. Private banking is fortified behind certain tax advantages, advantages in the size of the loans it can make to individuals, advantages in financing the business enterprises of the owners and in the privilege of guaranteeing the farm mortgages. Safety and growth in reality belong on the opposite side and it is a hopeful sign when so many of Illinois' prosperous private bankers are coming to see the light.

HANDLING A BANK'S BUSINESS

A concise, well written, carefully edited hand book on handling a bank's business has been much in demand where new banks are being started or where better systems are being adopted in going institutions. From the far west has come just such a book written by George O. Bordwell of the First National Bank of San Francisco. He has entitled it

"Modern Banking Methods as Applied to the Tellers and Bookkeepers." In reality it is a hand book on handling the bank's internal affairs correctly, swiftly and profitably.

The large city banks are being requested constantly to send one of their young men to some out-of-the-way place to open up a bank and install a system "which will comply with your ideas of country banking and keep us safe and solvent." Mr. Bordwell's book has, to a very unusual degree, fulfilled this request for every starting bank and for a great number of those which have been floundering along with uncertain and out-of-date methods. The bank with which Mr. Bordwell is connected did two things in rapid succession before it arrived at a complete solution of its problems. First, all of the old style adding machines were thrown on the scrap pile and new ones installed; second, the Baker-Vawter loose leaf ledger system, found to be entirely inadequate, followed the dismantled adders. An interior proving department was attempted in several different ways and after trials and tribulations enough to discourage almost any human being there emerged a system which has been admired by bankers from all over the United States. The working principles of this system have been injected into Mr. Bordwell's little volume, which ought to be in the hands of every bank bookkeeper and teller, be the banks in which they are employed large or small, in the whole United States. All record sheets essential to the adoption of this system have been reproduced in half tone to explain the text of the book itself. Of course, the details of the system would vary with the size of the bank. The interior proving department would not be required in the smaller institutions. The duties of all the tellers of various kinds are fully stated and fully illustrated. The correlated work of the different departments are just as clearly and fully set forth.

They have in England a little volume of a similar kind called the "Hand Book of Banking," and one is sorry that Mr. Bordwell did not name his attractive American volume in a similarly descriptive way. Copies of the English work, it is said, are to be found on the desks and in the homes of every banker in England. It has been accepted as a guide until there is more uniformity of method in the banks of England than in those of any other country. The wide adoption of Mr. Bordwell's volume would have a similar effect in this country in the course of time. The volume is well printed and carefully bound. Published by the Hicks-Judd Company of San Francisco.

THE FLOOD WATER PROBLEM PRESSING

The great Assouan dam has been built sixteen feet higher and another million acres added to the productive lands of Egypt. English success at controlling the flood waters of the Nile has stirred up those in America who believe that our flood waters in all rivers should be stored up for use and safety from destruction of property to be used in time of drouth to increase the productiveness of the land. One of these enthusiasts is Engineer Albert H. Scherzer of this city, who has written and talked in every language the story of the effect of waterway improvements upon commerce and civilization. He sees a duty and an opportunity for President Wilson in calling the attention of congress to the whole broad subject.

Engineer Scherzer is quite eloquent and convincing with figures. He has used his powers to advantage in a recent article, showing how Egypt is forging ahead and how the United States can profit by her example. He shows that our form of government is favorable, the party platforms have endorsed it, and the necessity for constructive effort on the part of a would-be successful national power. He points out that Senator Newlands of Nevada has made a life study of the conservation of the water of this country and realizes that the reclamation projects in the West are but a beginning. The real work for this country lies in the control of the rivers. The civilization and safety of the people demand waterways, to avoid swamps and malaria, to keep water in definite channels, to avoid the disastrous floods which occur in the Mississippi valley, for the advancement of agriculture, electrical power for industries and commercial uses and to obtain nitrogen to double the fertility of our soil.

More than one hundred million horse power can be developed from our rivers. What is needed is co-operation between the various branches of the government who have control of the waterways, and this is provided for in the bill of Senator Newlands. It forms a board, of which the president is chief and including the secretary of war, the secretary of agriculture, the secretary of labor and the secretary of the interior. We have sufficient talent in Washington to plan for the adequate development of our waterways and our water power. What is required is systematic co-operative work.

It is hoped to get President Wilson to take up the whole waterway subject in an early message to congress.

"THE INSIDE OF THE CUP"

Wherever you go they are talking about Winston Churchill's new novel. Like the currency bill and the income tax law, opinion is neither placid nor unanimous. Each man seems to get something different out of it, which, perhaps, is its greatest tribute. Mostly, the reader praises it, but each for a varied reason. Its deep sincerity appeals to many, while others see in it a vast moving force toward a revolution in social and industrial forces. Nearly all of the modern problems shine forth in the romance in new forms, which advance the reader toward a serious consideration of what makes for the advancement of the promised religious era of socialized humanity and the grand democracy of the human race.

The romance which forms the background of ideas in "The Inside of the Cup" is unsurpassable as such. As a vehicle for the Churchill crusade against long worshipped discontent, it is a work of genius. It contains characters fascinating as that of the young American woman in "A Modern Chronicle." It is as true and fair and as captivating as "Mr. Crewe's Career." The humor is as keen as in "The Celebrity," while the dramatic cleverness rivals that of "Richard Carvel." It tops "The Crisis," "The Crossing" and "Conston," which is as commendable a statement as might be made. Read "The Inside of the Cup" and avoid the mistakes Banker Parr may have made, according to viewpoint. It is published by the Macmillans, who have produced all of Mr. Churchill's books.

INSTITUTE ADVANTAGES PLACED BEFORE BANK EMPLOYEES

The officers and employees of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York gathered in the directors' room of that company this week to have explained to them in brief talks the advantages to be derived from membership in the American Institute of Banking. The meeting was presided over by LeRoy A. Mershon, manager of the publicity and new business department of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company. Mr. Mershon, after stating the object of the meeting, then called on F. W. Ellsworth, publicity manager of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and also chairman of the publicity committee of New York Chapter. Mr. Ellsworth spoke about the institute in general, giving a brief history of the organization from its inception, and telling of the aim of the institute to educate the bank men of the country along banking lines so that they may know more about the business in which they are engaged, thus becoming better bankers and benefiting themselves and the institutions for whom they work. He closed his remarks with several illustrations of men whom he knew who had joined the institute and who, by reason of the knowledge gained therein, had been advanced to better positions and some of whom are now bank officers.

The second speaker was E. G. McWilliam, secretary of the Savings Bank section of the American Bankers Association, and a past president of New York Chapter, who spoke about that chapter. He told of the various classes that are being held five nights a week in the club rooms in Thirty-fifth Street, mentioning particularly the practical banking class which meets on Monday and Tuesday evenings. This class, he explained, covered the first year course for the institute certificate, and the attendance at the first two lectures was so large that it was found necessary to divide the class and hold its sessions twice a week.

H. S. Schultz, secretary of New York Chapter, followed Mr. McWilliam and spoke on the value of membership in New York Chapter. Mr. Schultz stated that, apart from the advantages to be derived from the educational classes, the friendships formed and acquaintances made and the opportunities it gave for meeting with the live, up-to-date men from other banks in the city and surrounding territory was of inestimable value; that the inspiration to be gained from contact with such men could not be measured in dollars and cents. In closing Mr. Schultz extended a hearty invitation to those present to join New York Chapter, and at the close of the meeting several men took advantage of this offer and others expressed their intention of doing so later.

This is but one of a series of meetings that is being held in the banks of New York City for the purpose of acquainting the bank men with New York Chapter and the inducements it holds out to them to better themselves. New York Chapter now has a membership of over 2,000, and it is confidently expected that the 2,500 mark, and perhaps the 3,000 mark, will be reached very shortly.

CHICAGO CHAPTER MEETS

Chicago Chapter held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in Assembly Hall, Northwestern University building, at which time C. W. Tobie of the Burns Detective Agency talked on crimes against banks and the banking fraternity. Several professional vaudeville numbers were given.

INDIANA SOCIETY DINNER

This year the annual dinner of the famous Indiana Society will be at the Congress, Chicago, on December 13th. The souvenir will be contributions by members to a very pretentious book. John C. Spooner, Joseph G. Cannon and a lot of Indiana top-liners will speak. The eats will be de Luxe at ten a plate. The "contributions" to the souvenir will not be read except in private.

HARRY L. CHAPMAN IN ALBERTA

From H. L. Chapman, formerly a well-known Illinois banker and a leading worker in the state association, we have received a report on conditions in Edmonton, Alberta, showing its growth and development. All claims are proven by statistics properly attested. In ten years the population has jumped from 2,626 to 67,243 with everything else advancing at a like pace. Mr. Chapman is located at 307 C. P. R. Block, Edmonton, and will reply to inquiries.

H. P. BENNETT KILLED BY FALL

Henry P. Bennett, vice-president and cashier of the Silver Bow (Mont.) National, while delirious, jumped from the third floor of the Murray hospital on Sunday last and was instantly killed. His skull was fractured and a hemorrhage of the brain resulted. When hospital attendants reached him they found that Mr. Bennett was dead. The burial was at Virginia City.

CHANGES IN OMAHA BANK

Henry W. Yates, president of the Nebraska National of Omaha, announces the election of F. W. Clark as a director and first vice-president of the bank, succeeding the Hon. Warren Switzler, whose resignation was accepted at his request. Mr. Switzler remains a member of the board and its counsel. At the meeting of the stockholders in January Charles F. Coffee of Chadron will be added to the board.

Cleveland

Central States News Letter

Cincinnati

The defeat of the constitutional amendment to exempt municipal bonds from taxation will cost Cleveland taxpayers an average of $60,000 a year, or $1,500,000 in the next twenty-five years, according to City Auditor Coughlin. The city has on hand $5,922,000 in unsold bonds authorized by ordinances passed since July, 1911. As a result of the failure of the amendment to carry, the bonds will bear from one-half of one per cent to one per cent more interest when they finally are sold. They have been withheld from the market pending the referendum on the constitutional amendment. A majority of the bonds will bear 4 1/4 per cent interest. "I am sure that ignorance was the real cause of the defeat of the amendment," said Mr. Coughlin. "I hope Governor Cox will submit the amendment to voters again next year."

Cleveland Banker Addresses Ad Club

Haste in putting into operation the income tax law and its vagueness and contradictory features are likely to cause much confusion and litigation, according to Edward E. Newman, assistant secretary of the Cleveland Trust. Mr. Newman spoke at the luncheon on Friday of last week of the industrial managers' division of the Cleveland Ad Club, at the Hollenden hotel. It is Mr. Newman's opinion that the law probably will have to be amended in many respects and that rulings from the treasury department from time to time likely would make the law more easily understood. That the government may find itself facing numerous suits, brought on the ground that the income tax is not constitutional, in that it enforces the collection of taxes without making any compensation therefor, was another element discussed by Mr. Newman. He also said operation of the law would entail heavy obligations upon banks and trust companies, and in many instances would force the organization of separate departments to care for the increased routine under the new law. Wm. R. Creer, president of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Company, presided at the luncheon.

Declares Extra Dividend

Directors of the New First National of Columbus last week declared the regular semiannual dividend of 5 per cent and an extra dividend of 5 per cent on the $500,000 capital stock of that institution. This makes a total of 20 per cent disbursed to the stockholders of the bank during the present year. Last year the bank paid a total of 20 per cent on its capital stock, including the regular 10 per cent dividend and two extra payments of 5 per cent each.

"Blue Sky" Inspector

State Bank Superintendent Emery Lattanner of Ohio has announced the appointment of Harry R. Young, of Marion, former assistant clerk of the house of representatives, as inspector in the "Blue Sky" department. Mr. Young's duties will be to prevent the sale of securities by unlicensed persons or firms and to collect evidence on which to base prosecutions. His salary will be $2,500.

Bank Building Sold

Negotiations for the sale of the Union National Bank building, together with the banking furniture and fixtures, to the National Bank of Commerce of Columbus, have been completed, the price being $260,000. The negotiations for the sale of the property were started by Receiver Munford immediately after taking charge of the defunct bank's affairs, succeeding R. W. Goodheart. The Bank of Commerce immediately will proceed with its plans for overhauling the banking room and making it ready for occupancy. The sale of the Union National Bank building will make possible another dividend to depositors in that institution, but the amount or the time of the payment has not been determined by Receiver Munford.

Bank Changes at Bucyrus

The board of directors of the First National of Bucyrus, Ohio, last week elected William H. Picking president and Chas. F. Picking, a director of the board to succeed the late J. B. Gormly. W. H. Picking has been advanced from the vice-presidency and has been connected with the bank for many years. Chas. F. Picking is one of the leading business men of Bucyrus and has been engaged in the hardware trade for many years.

Heads Massillon Bank

William F. Ricks, for many years cashier, was elected president of the Merchants National, Massillon, Ohio, to succeed the late S. A. Conrad; I. M. Taggart, long assistant cashier, was made cashier; Albert J. Waltz named successor to Mr. Taggart, and George Schultz and Charles F. Snyder elected to fill vacancies on the directorate, at a meeting of the directors last week. The present directorate includes W. F. Ricks, Arvine Wales, I. M. Taggart, Fred H. Snyder, John Silk, Henry Dielhenn, George Schultz, Charles F. Snyder and Albert J. Waltz.

Washington Bank Loses President

William V. Cox, president of the Second National, Washington, D. C., has resigned that he might have more time for other interests with which he is identified. In accepting his resignation the board of directors expressed its appreciation of the service rendered by Mr. Cox to the bank during the past ten years that he has been at its head, and also of the cordial feeling that had marked their relations. Mr. Cox will remain as a member of the board. Cuno H. Rudolph, former district commissioner, has been elected to the board and it is believed that he will be elected president of the institution at the next meeting.

Ruling Made on Petition from Defunct Bank

Through an order entered in the circuit court recently, authority was granted to State Banking Commissioner Thomas J. Smith of Kentucky and the defunct Commercial Bank and Trust Company, Louisville, to accept the sum of $17,000 for four notes, aggregating $28,000, which were executed to the bank October 31, 1912, less than three months before the failure of the institution, by V. J. Blow. The offer of $17,000 was made several weeks ago by a brother-in-law of Blow. In the petition seeking the advice of the court relative to the offer, it was stated by the banking commissioner that since executing the notes, Blow had been adjudged a bankrupt in the federal court, and that in the opinion of the commissioner the best interests of the depositors of the bank would be served by accepting the offer. Only a portion of the notes were past due, according to the petition, as $20,000 worth of these were to fall due in a few weeks.

Elect New Board of Directors

The Farmers State of Ossian, Ind., held an annual meeting last week and elected a new board of directors as follows: F. P. Hoover, L. H. Springer, E. W. Dyar, D. A. Roe, Abram Hoopegardner, J. C. Deam, A. A. Melching, W. W. Osborn, and J. B. Ady. The directors re-elected E. W. Dyar, president; L. M. Springer, vice-president; A. A. Melching, cashier, and Miss Ida Kreigh, assistant cashier.

Evansville Clearing House Elects

The annual meeting of the Evansville members of the clearing house association was held last week and officers were elected for the ensuing year. F. J. Reitz, president of the City National, was re-elected president, and Henry Reis, president of the Old State National, was re-elected vice-president. The American Trust and Savings Bank was selected as clearing house headquarters for the coming year. The Bankers National has held that position for the last two years.

New Quarters of Dime Savings of Detroit

On Monday of last week the handsome new quarters of the Dime Savings of Detroit, in the Dime building, were opened for inspection for the first time. The directors and officials were hosts of the bankers and newspaper men for a preliminary view of the building Saturday afternoon. President Wm. Livingstone and Vice-President Charles A. Warren making responses to toasts to the future success of the institution.

Changes at Grand Rapids

Martin Charles Huggett has been elected vice-president of the City Trust and Savings Bank, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Ira Blaine Dalrymple, cashier, to succeed Frank Walton. Mr. Huggett has tendered his resignation as secretary of the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce, but will continue as a member. He enters bank work for the first time, the position of vice-president being created for him. E. H. Hunt is the other vice-president of the City Trust and Savings. He also is manager of the Clearing House Association. Mr. Dalrymple formerly was a bank cashier in Washington. Recently he was elected assistant cashier of the Grand Rapids Savings.

Central States Notes

President Wilson has been invited by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce to address a mass meeting of bankers from the interior on the merits of the administration bill. If the invitation is accepted, the chamber will take steps to bring about a representative meeting of the business men and bankers from all parts of the Middle West.

Harry Benedict has been promoted to the position of assistant cashier of the Fourth National, Cincinnati. He has been connected with the bank for a number of years and for some time past has been the acting assistant cashier.

The Gouverneur (Ohio) Savings and Loan Association building is being remodeled and refitted. This is the fourth largest loan association in Ohio and has assets of more than $1,000,000. It has been in business for twenty years.

Bank clearings of Evansville, Ind., for the month of October exceeded those of October, 1912, by $658,681.45. The October clearings for 1913 were $11,780,321.97.

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

Deposits in Minnesota state banks increased $20,785,657 during the last year, the greatest increase for one year in the state's history. The statement of conditions of Minnesota institutions issued by the state banking department also shows that the net resources increased $22,520,495 during the period from October 3, 1912, to October 21, 1913. The total on the former date was $148,380,960 and on the latter, $170,901,455. Of the increase $16,262,942 is credited to loans and discounts and $4,858,374 due from other banks. Overdrafts have increased $71,631.33 despite the efforts of Superintendent Chase to keep this item down. Real estate holdings show a loss of $184,315, which Mr. Chase says is encouraging. He does not believe that banks should hold real estate other than that on which their buildings are located. The capital stock of state banks has increased during this period from $14,621,000 to $15,651,500, or $1,030,500. There were 760 banks reporting in 1912 and 808 this year, a gain of 48. Savings deposits show a gain of $2,919,116 and deposits subject to check, $7,127,283. Time certificates show a gain of $9,658,876.

"A summary of all our reports," said Mr. Chase, "shows an increase of more than $16,000,000 in loans and discounts, which, of course, is gratifying; highly so, for it represents business increase. The reduction in the item of real estate held by banks is commendable, as banks should not engage in the real estate business. Particularly gratifying is the great reduction in bills payable, more than 25 per cent of that class of paper being wiped out in one year. When one realizes that ten years ago the total deposits in state banks was only about $40,000,000, the new mark looks like a phenomenal record. In one year the deposits have increased one-half as much as the total deposits in the state ten years ago and the increase for the year is the greatest annual growth recorded in the history of this department."

Twin City Club Entertains Winnipeg Bankers

The Twin City Bankers' Club, composed of officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul banks, will be hosts to-day to a score of bankers from Winnipeg, as well as a number from towns in Minnesota. The visitors will be entertained at the Minikahda Club during the day and a dinner will be given for them this evening at the Minneapolis Club. F. A. Gross, president of the German-American Bank, will preside, and E. W. Decker of the Northwestern National will respond to the toast, "Winnipeg." G. H. Balfour, general manager of the Union Bank of Canada, will give the response. Rev. Marion D. Shutter and J. Adam Bede also will speak. Election of officers of the Bankers Club will be held after the dinner. The present officers are F. A. Gross, president; W. E. Briggs, cashier of the Stockyards National of St. Paul, vice-president, and George F. Orde of the First National of Minneapolis, secretary and treasurer.

Minneapolis Chapter Holds Meeting

H. V. Mercer and Lyman E. Wakefield were speakers at the second of the monthly dinners of the fall and winter season held by the Minneapolis Chapter, American Institute of Banking, Wednesday. Mr. Mercer talked on the workingmen's compensation act as it is in force in Minneapolis, and Mr. Wakefield spoke as a former member of the chapter, on its growth and future. Lester T. Banks is president of the chapter.

Money Bill Approved

C. Harold Richter, who was elected president of the Minnesota Progressive Republican League at a meeting of the governing board Monday night, said that the governing board had indorsed the administration currency bill. He declared the board passed resolutions at the meeting indorsing the spirit of the Owen-Glass bill, while recommending certain changes in it, and denouncing the Minnesota bankers who at Washington "failed to represent the thought of the people of this state" in what they said about the currency bill.

To Deliver Robert Street Bonds

Delivery of the first portion of the $525,000 worth of Robert Street (St. Paul) bonds sold by the city to the Merchants National, representing a syndicate of business men, will be made to-day. Since the original sale the issue has been transferred from the syndicate to C. O. Kalman & Co., and this firm will offer them to the public at the rate of $100.75 for each $100 bond. They bear 6 per cent interest, payable semiannually, and are to be issued in denominations of $100 and $500. The first delivery will amount to $90,000, and more will be delivered, as authorized by the city council, upon the recommendation of the sinking fund committee.

Big Increase in Freight Receipts

More carloads of freight were shipped into St. Paul in September, 1913, than in September, 1912, by 2,125 cars, according to the report of the Association of Commerce. The totals were 23,615 this year and 21,490 last year. Outgoing shipments have decreased, however, by 1,342 cars, from 15,422 to 14,080.

Auto Bandits Rob Bank

The safe in the State Bank at Waltham, Minn., six miles north of Austin, was blown by robbers some time during Friday night of last week and $3,936 in currency was taken, besides $70,000 in notes. Two blasts were fired, but no one in the little town heard them, and the robbery was not discovered until the bank opened Saturday. The bank had no night watchmen. The men are supposed to have entered the town in an automobile and to have escaped in the same manner.

Banquet for Touring Bankers

Fifty investment bankers, representing institutions throughout the Middle West, were guests in Winona on Friday night of last week at an elaborate banquet. They came on a special train from Hatfield, Wis., and were on a tour of inspection of the properties of the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power Company, recently reorganized. James A. Tawney, former congressman, spoke at the banquet.

County Bank Deposits Increase

The deposits of Blue Earth county banks have increased $565,000 in the last year and now total $7,298,500, according to a report recently issued. The total loans in the entire county amount to $5,981,000. Of these the total deposits in banks outside of Mankato are $2,200,000 and the loans are $2,075,000. On a basis of 30,000 population the per capita wealth has increased in the last year more than $22, being about $243 per capita.

Predicts Big Year

Albert Kaiser, cashier First National, Bagley, Minn., recently returned from St. Paul. He says the past season has been a most prosperous one for northern Minnesota, that the big crops raised and the fame attained by this section as a corn country has spread all over the central and eastern states and that a big immigration during the next few years is certain to result. This fall there has been a great inquiry for northern Minnesota lands and he believes that a new era of prosperity has dawned for this section by the influx of a large number of practical farmers who are settling on small farms, which will be developed properly.

Bank Sues Elevator Company

The First National of Oakes, N. D., has filed suit against the Independent Elevator Company of Glover, N. D. The bank alleges that, after honoring two drafts totaling $4,500 drawn on the Hoover Grain Company of Duluth by the Independent Elevator Company, they were refused payment by the grain company. Judgment for $4,500 and interest is demanded. An affidavit to support garnishment proceedings so was filed in order to tie up several thousand bushels of grain belonging to the company now in Duluth, pending trial of the case.

Conditions Satisfactory

Cashier H. E. Roberts of the Moorhead (Minn.) National last week returned from a business trip to McHenry and other points in Foster county, N. D. He says satisfactory conditions prevail there and there appears to be plenty of business activity in all lines. Much of the plowing and threshing have been completed. Grain growing predominates in that section and there is not as much diversification along farming lines as there ought to be, considering the advantages offered. This year's crop was a little bit spotted on account of the lack of moisture in the early spring. The Stanton (N. D.) State and the German State of Stanton will be consolidated December 1, reducing the financial institutions in Stanton to two. S. L. Olson will remain as cashier, while Henry Sagehorn will retire. By the merger of these banks the capital will be increased.

Northwest Notes

Bids for the $525,000 balance of the authorized $600,000 public library building bond issue will be received by the city comptroller of St. Paul November 26th. The bonds bear 4½ per cent interest.

In order to better finance the building of its portion of Judicial Ditch No. 3, a drainage project now in course of construction to the south and west of Floodwood, Minn., St. Louis county will sell $100,000 worth of its bonds. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the county board. The bonds will be sold over the counter and will bear 4½ per cent interest, payable semiannually.

Albert Rhoda, for many years cashier of the First National, Long Prairie, Minn., died on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Rhoda was one of Todd county's oldest and most honored citizens and, though advanced in years, having nearly reached the four score mark, had always enjoyed good health and was always to be found at his desk at the First National. He was a veteran of the Civil War, was prominent in all matters pertaining to the betterment of his home city and has served in many official capacities.

Rumors that were entirely unfounded led to a run on the Newark (S. D.) State and the bank was closed for a day or two last week. The state bank examiner, after examining into the condition of the bank, found it to be solvent and it was permitted to resume operations.

NORTHWEST CONDITIONS

The Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis in its November report declares that the condition of business in its territory shows practically no change. There is great activity in the industries connected with the moving and marketing of crops, and the retail, wholesale and manufacturing lines continue to do a satisfactory volume of business. Interest rates show no material change or immediate prospect thereof.

Although general cold has prevailed over the Northwest for some days, the weather is propitious for the rounding out of the farmers' cycle of operations. The crop reports of the year indicate a very satisfactory advance in scientific methods of farming, and in so far as their work has progressed the advocates of better farming and better conditions on the farm have every reason to congratulate themselves on the success of their efforts.

ORGANIZE AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

Snyder, Okla., Nov. 11.—To further the agricultural development of southwestern Oklahoma, thirty bankers and prominent citizens, in joint session here with officials of the development department of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, organized the Oklahoma Bankers' Development Committee. The purposes of the organization as outlined in resolutions adopted are as follows:

To co-operate with the farmers of the respective communities and the department of development of the Frisco Railroad and its agricultural representatives in bringing about the most advanced, improved and profitable methods of agriculture throughout southwestern Oklahoma.

To co-operate with the farmers of southwestern Oklahoma and the marketing bureau of the Frisco in every manner that will result in securing for the producers the maximum price for their products. D. S. Wolfinger, cashier of the Hobart City National Bank, was elected president of the association; Guy Robertson of Lawton, cashier of the First National of that city, vice-president, and Charles Fawks of Snyder, president of the First National, secretary.

CHANGE IN TOLEDO BANK

Herman A. Hill, for four years manager of the savings department of the First National, Toledo, on Monday became cashier of the Union Savings. Mr. Hill has been connected with Toledo financial institutions for seventeen years, beginning with the Toledo Savings and Trust, where he remained for five years. For the next eight years he was paying teller in the Dollar Savings Bank. When the First National opened a savings department, he was made manager. The other officers of the Union Savings are, president, Henry C. Truesdall; vice-president, C. Daudt; vice-president and secretary, Henry P. Shanks; assistant cashiers, J. T. Dempsey and Eugene Mettler.

BANKER GETS CHANGE OF VENUE

A change of venue to Haskell county, Okla., was granted Monday to E. L. Hickman, vice-president of the Choctaw Commercial Bank at Spiro, which failed last February. Hickman, charged in four counts with receiving funds when the bank was insolvent, was to have been tried in Poteau. A jury acquitted W. N. McCann, former president of the bank, on a similar charge Saturday. W. B. Fanning, another former president, took a change of venue some time ago. The trial of C. W. Yeager, former cashier, was reset for Thursday.

TO APPEAL BANK DECISIONS

Oklahoma City, Okla., November 10.—Assistant Attorney-General Hull announced today that he would appeal to the supreme court from the decision of District Judge Hatchett, at Durant, that the legislature did not intend nationalized state banks to be liable for deferred payments on the 5 per cent blanket assessment for the guaranty fund, which installments became due after the banks had merged. Judge Hatchett gave his decision in the case of the First National of Durant, which took over the deposits of a state bank, and was sued for $2,000, the balance of the 5 per cent assessment against the liquidated institution.

HOUSTON MEN FORM A. I. B. CHAPTER

A new chapter of the American Institute of Banking has been formed by the bank clerks of Houston. At the organization meeting there were more than a hundred employees of banks and trust companies present. H. B. Jewett was named temporary chairman; J. B. Still, secretary, and D. D. Krahll, treasurer. It is planned to hold meetings once a week, at which time the regularly outlined course of study will be followed.

WINNIPEG BANKERS TO COME

A representative delegation of Winnipeg bankers will be in Minneapolis to-day as guests of the Town City Bankers Club, according to F. A. Gross and George F. Orde, who are arranging for the visit.

J. Adam Bede, the Rev. Marion D. Shutter, E. W. Decker and G. H. Balfour, general manager of the Union Bank of Canada, will speak.

USE BANK GUARANTY FUND FOR FIRST TIME

Depositors in the Abilene (Kan.) State, which closed its doors three years ago as the result of the operations of Cashier John A. Flack, will be the first to benefit from the bank depositors' guaranty fund of the state of Kansas. A warrant for about $30,000, the exact amount has not been reported by the receiver, will be drawn this month on the state treasurer by Charles M. Sawyer, bank commissioner, to take up certificates issued when the bank failed.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the new Citizens Trust and Savings at Perry. The capital stock is $75,000. S. D. Dilenbeck is president; B. C. Dilenbeck, vice-president; P. E. Hambright, cashier; C. G. McCreery, assistant cashier.

Des Moines, November 13.—That a man could have his farm traded away on a forged deed and not learn about it for two years seems incredible, yet Percy W. Hall has been asked to get busy on a case of this kind, which, he says, is one of the most peculiar since he became secretary of the Iowa Bankers Association. The owner of the land, who lives in northeast Iowa, was in California for the winter two years ago. While he was gone a fellow giving the name of Charles P. Jones showed up at Mitchell, S. D., where the Iowan owned land, looked over the latter and announced that he was going to trade some Sioux City property for it. Later the deed showed up and Jones borrowed $2,500 on it from a Mitchell loan agent. Not until last week was it discovered that Jones was a fraud, that the deed was forged and that the Mitchell loan agent is out the $2,500. The original owner of the land was notified that a representative of Jones had been paying taxes on the place and that there was no necessity for the taxes to be paid twice. This was the first inkling that the Iowan had that his property had been traded off, mortgaged and $2,500 borrowed thereon. Mr. Hall is at a loss as to where to begin, as the transaction occurred so long ago that it is impossible to get a line on the miscreant.

Des Moines Bankers Club Meets

The Des Moines Bankers Club held an unusually interesting session at the Savery last week. It was the November session and H. S. Nollen, second vice-president of the Equitable Life of Iowa, read a paper on the new income tax law. The bankers were glad to hear the issue discussed from the standpoint of the insurance companies, which find they are employing many whose salaries are above the amount exempt under the law. Mr. Nollen gave some valuable information upon points involved in the act also as it interests bankers.

Seek to Identify Yegg

Secretary P. W. Hall and Detective Pate are still working on the identification of the yegg captured at LeMars a fortnight ago. It has been discovered that his real name is Joe Webster, although he has gone as Harry Bliss, James Parsell and other aliases. He has served time in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri and at one time broke out of the Anamosa reformatory. He was recaptured and served out his term. His companion is not known as yet to the Iowa authorities.

Des Moines Banker Resigns

Fred L. Walker, cashier of the Mechanics Savings, Des Moines, for the past five years resigned last week, same to take effect January 1st. Mr. Walker expects to remove with his family to Albany, Ore. He will engage in the fruit farming business. Mr. Walker is one of the best known of the younger bankers. He began fifteen years ago in the Des Moines Savings. He then went to the Central State bank, his health forced him to resign. He went to Oregon and returned five years ago to accept a responsible position with the Mechanics. He was soon promoted to cashier and has been very popular with patrons of the bank.

Banker Acquires Historic Clock

Gilger E. MacKinnon, president of the Mechanics Savings, is now in possession of the clock which his great grandfather sold in 1848 in order to get money with which to come to America from Scotland. The clock has been in possession of the postmistress at Kippen Scotland. Mr. MacKinnon learned of its whereabouts and tried to buy it. The postmistress refused to sell until some time ago she lost the postoffice. She then wrote the Des Moines banker offering to sell the ticker for 40 pounds. Mr. MacKinnon took her up and the clock is now ticking in the Mechanics Savings Bank.

Efforts to Catch Bank Robbers Unsuccessful

That the men who tried to rob the New Market State recently were not amateurs was apparent to those who tried to follow them with blood hounds. The dogs followed the bunch to the stock yards, thence to a pond near by where a mask was found. Then the hounds led the way back to the railroad track and towards a coal mine, where they stopped. Investigation showed that black pepper had been scattered around and an empty pepper box near by showed that the men had taken precautions against pursuit by the hounds.

Bank Offers Corn Prize

The Leavitt & Johnson National of Waterloo started something when it offered $1,000 to contestants in a corn growing contest to be conducted in Black Hawk county next year. Of this amount $200 is to go to the best acre tract. The rural schools decided to get busy with the result that the bank voted to add $300 more to its original offer. The interest in the outcome is intensely satisfactory.

Forger's Plans Thwarted

The First National at Dubuque was somewhat surprised the other day to get a telegram from Houston asking if a check for $30,000 which had been presented at the Commercial National in the southern city was good. The check was drawn on the Dubuque institution, supposedly signed by John T. Adams and endorsed by B. F. Blockinger, cashier at Dubuque. Mr. Adams and Mr. Blockinger were in ignorance of the check and the Houston bank was so notified. Evidently a forger had been busy.

Boston Trust Company Retains Control

The Old Colony Trust Company of Boston remains in control of the Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern as a result of the sale of the property by Special Master George F. Henry of Des Moines. The road was sold by order of Judge McPherson of the federal court following a receivership action of some months' standing. The property brought $3,900,000.

B. A. Bulletins

Secretary Hall is sending out two bulletins to members of the Iowa Bankers Association. One is a list of questions prepared by the executive council of the American Bankers Association asking the bankers of the state to reply to questions as to their standing on the administration currency bill. The questions are submitted without comment. The other bulletin informs the bankers that the I. B. A. is going to send them the new "Banker-Farmer Bulletin" which is to be published monthly under the direction of the agricultural commission of the A. B. A. Mr. Hall believes that this bulletin will prove of immense value to the bankers of the state, particularly along the line of awakening them to the importance of boosting agricultural betterment as a move for more wealth and prosperity.

School Children Thrifty

Reports of the Penny Provident Association of Des Moines show that the school children of Des Moines have deposited $100,679 through the efforts of the association since November 1901. There is now on deposit $33,941. The report shows that the girls have been much more frugal than the boys and that of the amount withdrawn more has been taken by boys than by girls. The association encourages pupils to save their pennies and the amount is deposited in a Des Moines bank.

Stimulating Interest in Good Roads

D. P. Hogan, well known banker at Massena, showed his active interest in road making last spring when he offered prizes totaling $120 for the club which would show the best work done on a certain stretch of road within nine miles of Massena. There were twelve clubs and each club took charge of six miles of road. Judges were chosen and last week the contest was declared ended and the prizes awarded. Mr. Hogan then wound up affairs with a banquet at which the members of the various clubs were guests. The banquet was held at the Methodist church and covers were laid for seventy. An interesting program of toasts was given. Roads were the chief topic of the evening and the entire contest was in every way successful.

Iowa Notes

The reports of the Des Moines Clearing House Association for the month of October show that the total for the month was $26,284,514 while for October last year the clearings totaled $23,563,545, a gain of $3,000,000.

Glenn Noble was taken into custody at Selma, Iowa, on a charge of safe blowing preferred against him in California. Sheriff Dingley of Modesta came after him. The sheriff stated that the youth had been mixed up in three safe blowing affairs although he is only 21 years old.

W. A. McNeill, aged 72, one of the best known capitalists in Iowa, died at his home in Oskaloosa of heart disease.

Mrs. Catherine Leddy of Fort Dodge tried to pass three worthless checks on Des Moines stores. When she was arrested she told the police that she was hypnotized by a woman at Fort Dodge, taken to Des Moines against her will, forced to pass the checks without being able to resist the pressure brought to bear on her.

G. S. Gilbertson, former treasurer of state, has been quite ill at his home in Des Moines following a stroke of paralysis.

Samuel Norman was elected cashier of the Waverly Savings to succeed John H. Meyer, who resigned to take charge of his farm.

Work has been started on the new Sartori hospital at Cedar Falls. The structure is the gift of the late Joseph Sartori, father of the well known banker at Los Angeles.

A. F. Dawson, well known Davenport banker, has been made president of the Greater Davenport Committee to succeed Woodworth Clum, who resigned recently.

Harry Blackburn, cashier of the Iowa National, Des Moines, celebrated last week the thirty-fourth anniversary of his entrance into the banking field. He entered the latter as general roustabout at $12 per month.

W. A. McHenry, president of the First National at Denison and owner of the famous herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle, has gone to Pasadena for the winter.

A card from E. J. Curtin of Decorah contains the news that he has been visiting his bank at Beach, N. D. Mr. Curtin is an ex-president of the I. B. A.

The new Clear Lake State is now doing business with a capital stock of $50,000 and the following officers: A. E. Phillips, president; R. S. Young, vice-president; Chris Axelson, cashier.

South Dakota Notes

The town of Chester is to have a new bank, capitalized at $10,000. A. L. Butler is president; H. C. Jensen, vice-president; M. Christensen, cashier.

Oliver Bray, employed by the State Bank and Trust of Sioux Falls, has been awarded a Carnegie medal. Bray formerly was a resident of LeMars and his act of bravery consisted of the rescue of a fourteen-year-old boy from drowning at LeMars in March, 1912.

The Citizens State is a new institution being organized at Aberdeen.

Herbert Stettner was arrested at Huron on the charge of defrauding the Bank of Philip. Stettner borrowed money and gave as security a mortgage on cattle which he did not own. Detectives employed by the bank located him.

Four prisoners, suspected of having attempted to rob the Mina State at Mina, were arrested at Aberdeen and locked up. The cashier of the bank identified a revolver which one of the men held as the same gun which was taken from the bank the night of the robbery. The men confessed to the attempt and told where they bought the dynamite with which they tried to blow up the vault. They stole an automobile from an Aberdeen lumberman and drove to the town. They were unable to get into the vault.

NEW BOOKS FROM BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

This is the season of the year when people of correct literary taste begin to look up the new Bobbs-Merrill Co. publications. Three fine volumes catering to popular taste have just been issued. "Ring for Nancy" is one of unusual interest by Ford Madox Hueffer and has been described as the modern "She Stoops to Conquer." It is sheer comedy from the very word go. A young man who boasts of being the youngest major in the British army on his return to England, after having spent four years in India, learns that the hard work which had procured for him his distinction had so impaired his eyesight that he is forever barred from active service.

He also learns that the young girl for whom he slaved has recently come into a title and money, so that he feels his work has been for naught. While in a rebellious mood as a result of these things he is "reformed" by an elderly, homely and jealous spinster, who announces her engagement to him. Then matters get badly tangled, but in the end the major and Miss Nancy get to an understanding which will please all readers.

"The Terrible Twins," by Edgar Jepsen, is a clever story, covering the escapades of a pair of wonderful youngsters. In these pages many a youthful town terror will review his own past. The average youngster would find it a book of decided inspiration toward doing first and thinking afterwards. There are a patient, adorable, widowed mother and a jolly, rollicking uncle who is in sympathy with the pair. He, in the end, commanded their admiration and obedience to the huge delight of everyone.

"The Thousandth Woman," by the author of Raffles, is the story of one woman in a thousand as every man believes his first love to be. In this case she is loyal, true and loving to the man of her choice even when all the evidence in the world seemed to condemn him utterly. The story will make you breathe hard at times, being tense, compact and strong in its situations. It is another great victory for the old fashioned tale where true love triumphs over all difficulties.

NEW YORK BANK INCREASES CAPITAL

The state banking department has approved an increase in the capital stock of the Public Bank of New York from $600,000 to $750,000.

The First State, Weimar, Tex., has declared a 15 per cent dividend and placed $5,000 as surplus, making a total surplus fund of $10,000.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

For the first ten months of 1913 Spokane building permits are more than $1,000,000 in excess of those for the entire year of 1912, and are only $27,000 less than the 1911 figures, which will be exceeded by a big margin at the close of the year. Up to November 1st this year permits for buildings to cost $3,287,000 were issued. In 1912 their value for the entire year was $2,251,792 and in 1911 $3,314,700. In October of this year seventy-eight permits for a total of $140,340 were issued. A large share of the work represented in this year's building totals remains to be performed. On the thirteen-story Davenport hotel and nine-story Welch building construction will be prosecuted all winter. The fact that a net gain of 800 electric meter services has been made this year by the Washington Water Power Company, largely in residences, also shows the better business tone.

In a thirty-six-day campaign just concluded in the Spokane country by Professor Perry G. Holden, the Iowa agricultural scientist, the message of more alfalfa, corn and live stock was carried direct to 50,436 people, mostly farmers, according to the records of each meeting compiled by the head of the party. With a special train of five coaches at his disposal continuously for thirty-six days, Professor Holden and a score of assisting experts and practical farmers traveled over four railroads in Washington, Oregon and Idaho for a distance of 2,700 miles. From each of 133 towns where the train stopped the Holden party radiated to neighboring community centers, covering in automobiles 6,000 miles. From fifteen to twenty-five meetings were held each day. "To my knowledge this is the most comprehensive campaign of its kind ever engaged in," states Professor Holden, who has conducted many such movements on a smaller scale in various parts of the country.

With the new income tax law in effect, Spokane bankers are determining their policy in the matter of handling interest coupons and remitting the one per cent tax to the government which the law demands. Considerable confusion exists regarding the particular phase of the law. To make their position in the matter clear, the banks, through the Spokane Clearing House Association, have passed a resolution that they will accept interest coupons for collection only until more explicit instructions have been issued by the department of internal revenue. This means that interest coupons on Chicago, New York, etc., will be held for collection and no credit given until the Spokane bank is advised from the originating source just what amount is due. To explain the workings of the law, the Union Trust and Savings has in preparation a booklet, written so as to be easily understood by all. According to Vice-President W. J. Kommers, it will be issued free of charge in about two weeks, being held up temporarily, pending the receipt of additional information from Washington.

Notices of the annual meeting of the executive committee of Group No. Two of the Washington Bankers Association will be sent out next week by O. M. Green, assistant to the president of the Exchange National Bank of Spokane, secretary of the group. The place and date of the meeting have not been determined as yet and the notices are to sound the sentiment of the members on the matter. Usually the meeting is held early in December. Members of the committee are F. J. Wilmer, cashier of the Whitman County National of Rosalia; E. L. Farnsworth, vice-president of the State Bank of Wilbur; E. W. Anderson, cashier of the Security State of Newport; E. V. Klein, assistant cashier of the Traders National of Spokane, and O. M. Green.

C. E. Cooper, formerly savings teller of the Fidelity National of Spokane, has resigned and has gone to Canada to engage in railroad work. His place is taken by John Rotchford, who is promoted from the collection department. Mr. Rotchford is succeeded by A. R. Charles. The resignation of Lamont Barnes, paying teller, to accept a position as manager of the bond department of the Great Falls Trust Company at Helena, Mont., has caused another vacancy, which has been filled by R. S. Brooke. Mr. Brooke is succeeded as receiving teller by John Robinson. E. S. Rowe, formerly in the bookkeeping department of the Traders National, has resigned and has accepted a position as assistant cashier of the Bonner County National at Sandpoint, Idaho. L. G. Green, also in the bookkeeping department of the Traders Bank, has been granted leave of absence and will go to Los Angeles for his health.

The Spokane and Eastern Trust Company has commenced action in the superior court to recover about $11,000, alleged excess paid the county for taxes on the bank's property for 1911 and 1912. The amount was paid under protest, part a year ago and the balance this spring, when the sheriff was on the ground to confiscate the property unless the bank made payment. The bank claims that for the two years its holdings were assessed on a basis of 60 per cent of their true value, which is admitted by the county assessor. The assessor this year lowered the bank assessments to the same basis as other property.

A fine specimen of a Flemish Beauty pear, grown on a thorn bush, is exhibited at the Old National Bank in Spokane by S. H. Pullen of Meadow Lake, Wash. Mr. Pullen grafted the twig of a pear tree on the thorn bush just two years ago. He states that the graft has produced a number of pears this year. The fruit is of good size and form. The grafting, he hopes, will provide a pear of a hardy nature, superior to those grown on the ordinary pear trees. The pear is larger than the average fruit of its variety.

Among out-of-town bankers in Spokane this week were P. J. Deck, president Valley State Bank, Post Falls, Idaho; William Dollar, president Exchange National, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; J. W. Blake, president Fidelity State, Orofino, Idaho; J. W. Maxwell, president National City Bank, Seattle, Wash.

October, 1913, was the busiest October in the history of the Western Union Life Insurance Company, according to President F. Lewis Rutter, the total net issued and paid for business of the month amounting to $408,000. Renewals for the month aggregated $37,000, constituting a record in that department. Total business in force at the end of the month was $16,434,000.

EDMONTON NEWS

Although the increment tax referred to in last week's issue has been in operation only a few days, the machinery in connection therewith is working smoothly, and there is no delay occasioned on account of the collection. For the purposes of facilitating the fixing of values one of the land office staff has been installed in the city assessor's office, with a telephone at his elbow, where he is being accorded every opportunity by Thomas Walker, assessor for Edmonton, to determine immediately the values of properties filed for registration.

During the first year until a large number of parcels of the speculative property in the city have been turned over, it will probably be necessary that the land office official be maintained in the city assessor's office. But once valuation has become fixed in the land registry office through the making of a transfer, future reference to the assessor's rolls is unnecessary, the subsequent increases, upon which the increment tax will be collected, being calculated from the value given in the last transfer.

So far, the collections upon account of increment tax have been small, running for the first four days not over $300, but as time goes on and the disparity between this year's assessment valuation and the sale price of property becomes greater, the collections will naturally increase largely. By some statistically-inclined authorities, it has been calculated that the total collections of the government throughout the province of Alberta on account of increment tax during the current year will be more than $1,000,000, of which, incidentally, every dollar will be taken from a profit in land values already harvested.

The total valuation for assessment purposes in Edmonton this year is $187,946,720 on land values only, against which there is a levy of 16 mills, which will give the city a revenue of about $2,000,000. The valuation last year was $123,512,590, with a tax levy of 12 mills. The valuation was $1,724,420 in 1902 and $673,690 in 1892. There is no tax upon buildings and improvement, stock, business, machinery, personal property or income; in fact, no indirect tax of any kind.

William MacAdams, editor of The Capital, the junior government newspaper in Edmonton, says in an editorial dealing with the new orders of things:

"While it is not to be expected that the increment tax as a fixed principle in the economics of the province of Alberta will not be accepted without protest from those, who, without having rendered any adequate service to the country, have profited by an increase in land values, it is, nevertheless, already apparent that the tax is going to be a popular one with the great bulk of the people of the province.

"Through the increment tax in Great Britain, Lloyd George has undertaken improvements upon such a gigantic scale as amounts practically to reconstruction of the public works of the British Isles, and the surprise that has been brought home to the Britishers is that through the improvements undertaken, such as the building of new roads and public buildings, a new increment is created, which, while it brings new sources of revenue to the government, also brings new profit to the individuals who protested most against the original levying of the tax.

"In Alberta, so it has already been estimated by some in a position to know whereof they speak, the collections from the increment tax may amount up to the magnificent sum of one million dollars in the first year and will, naturally, amount to much more than that in subsequent years.

"Should the Alberta government follow the example of the British government and decide to devote the revenue arising out of the increment tax to some comprehensive scheme of province-wide improvement, such as a $25,000,000 road-building program which would give every farmer in the province the advantage of genuinely good roads, the day will come when the taxing of the increment will be recognized as the proper function of government and the increase in the land value as the proper source from which should be taken the money necessary to make the province of Alberta the finest country in the world for the white man to live in."

BANK DIRECTORS HELD LIABLE

Utica, N. Y.—United States Judge Ray handed down an important decision in settling one of the legal entanglements resulting from the crash in affairs of the First National of New Berlin, N. Y. In substance he holds that bank directors are liable to stockholders and creditors when, through their negligence, the bank fails. The decision was made in determining whether or not Mrs. Ida F. Chapin, widow of Charles Chapin, one of the directors of the New Berlin bank, who died recently, could be made a defendant in the action which had been brought by the bank's receiver, R. L. Curtis, to recover approximately $400,000. In making his decision Judge Ray gives the following ruling:

"There is an implied contract on the part of directors to properly and faithfully perform their duties, and if by misconduct or negligence they fail to perform such duty and damage results to the bank creditors or stockholders, a cause of action arises which may be enforced by the receiver in behalf of the stockholders and creditors." The suit against directors of the bank to recover $400,000 will be brought to trial shortly.

BUSINESS GOOD IN DETROIT

Business in general in the city of Detroit continues to reflect prosperous conditions, says the November trade letter of the National Bank of Commerce. With the tariff bill made into law, business men now know how to trim their sails, and it is anticipated that trade will be good during the remainder of the year. The country is passing through a period of great political change and apparently without disturbance of any great moment up to the present time. The greatest concern about the new income tax seems to be difficulties in its application. Bankers, corporations, firms and individuals will find no little trouble in following out the provisions of this act in all its ramifications and complications. The best legal counsel will be necessary in many cases and lawyers at least will enjoy a considerable increase in business, both in the giving of counsel and in the conduct of the litigation which is bound to result. The cost to government of collecting this tax will probably be greater than the percentage of the collection of any other part of the national revenue. Under the law, a tremendous amount of money will be collected, but it remains to be seen how large a percentage of this amount will be consumed in its collection.

Currency legislation is now the all-absorbing topic at Washington and for that matter throughout the country. Numerous amendments have been made to the Glass bill which has passed the house and is now in the hands of the senate. Other amendments have been urged by associations of business men and bankers and some further changes will no doubt be made before the bill can pass the senate. It is the president's desire that the bill pass at this session. In case it is amended in three or four important particulars, it will probably receive the general support of both parties. Otherwise, it will pass, if at all, strictly as an administration measure. The plan will be amended after it is in operation, if not before, and it would seem vastly better to make the measure as perfect as possible before enacting it into law, even if that means holding it up until the regular session in December.

SAYS COUNTRY WOULD BE BENEFITED BY PASSAGE OF CURRENCY BILL

"If the currency bill as proposed by President Wilson passes the country generally will be benefited," said James J. Earley, president of the Bank of Valley City, Valley City, N. D.

"The bill is far from what it should be," continued Mr. Earley, "and some very important amendments are necessary to make it fairly satisfactory, but there is such an element of strength in it that I believe it would do more good than harm.

"If the bill passes in its present form I think a number of national banks in our part of the country might liquidate and take out state charters, but this is not certain. Say they do liquidate and take out state charters, who is hurt and how greatly is the situation changed?

"It is in my opinion that a bank is far better off operating under a state charter than under a national one. This, I think, is true because the state laws are passed to answer the needs of the people of that state, while the national laws put all banks in all states, regardless of conditions, on the same basis."

PLAN TO STOP ATTACKS ON SECURITY ISSUES

The Investment Bankers Association of America has under consideration the appointment of a committee whose duty will be to investigate into the record, business standing and responsibility to the public of all persons, firms or corporations making a practice of attacking the investment offerings from time to time made by reputable bond houses, individually, or by syndicates of bond houses which announce the subscription to large issues of securities by the public.

Many bond houses and syndicates have, it is said, been embarrassed or seriously handicapped periodically by literature distributed in various ways on the part of individuals or firms claiming to have information of great value to prospective investors. These attacks are usually made in a way that would cause the investor to refrain from buying certain bonds or other securities, which investment bankers or institutions of high standing and world-wide reputation had first carefully and exhaustively investigated, and at the risk of standing, reputation and responsibility, offered to the public as safe investments. The latest issue to be subject to attack was the recent offering of $30,000,000 Interborough Rapid Transit Company bonds announced by a syndicate of prominent investment banking houses.

For the benefit of the investor and prospective purchaser of securities offered by responsible investment banking houses, a resolution was adopted by the board of governors at the second annual convention of the association, which was concluded October 30th last, authorizing the appointment of a committee to thoroughly investigate the record of all persons who make it a practice, through the medium of misleading literature and public announcement, to discredit bonds offered as a sound investment. The committee will collect all facts relating to, determine the method and purpose of such attacks, and will publish and give the fullest possible publicity to the findings of the committee. It was the sense of the board of governors of the Investment Bankers Association of America that immediate action should be taken and that the committee be given full power to act and carry out the purpose of the resolution.

BANK CLERK HELD

Wanted in Cleveland, Ohio, on the charge of having forged checks amounting to $70 on the Cleveland Trust, where he formerly worked as clerk, nineteen-year-old Chauncey L. Springer was arrested last Friday at his lodgings in New York. With three other youths Springer left Cleveland for New York on October 16th, having decided to make a quick fortune there and invest in a large southern plantation. There had been an agreement among them that any of the four who lost his nerve and started back home should pay his companions $25 as a penalty. But after a week of Broadway, the other three slipped quietly away for Cleveland, without paying Springer anything and without even telling him they were going. The lad now is in the Tombs awaiting extradition papers.

SEES LOSS UNDER INCOME TAX LAW

Levy Mayer, Chicago attorney, says that unless the income tax law is changed the government will not receive enough to pay the printing bill incurred in an attempt to collect the tax. The Chicago attorney said:

"One week's experience among our clients under the pay at the source provision emphasizes the opinion that that part of the law is impracticable. The trouble and expense incurred far out-weighs the comparatively infinitesimal amount withheld by those making the deduction.

"Millions upon millions of the cumbersome forms prescribed by the internal revenue department will in the course of a few months find their way to Washington. The assortment and classification of these forms in the government offices at Washington will, in my opinion, be an impossible task.

"After all is said and done, the government will awaken to the fact that this detested paragraph in the law will bring in no net results.

"I have no doubt that in numberless cases the 1 per cent normal tax, withheld at the source of income, will, by reason of mistake, forgetfulness, confusion or worse, never reach the government. The objectionable feature to which I refer does not obviate the necessity of all persons whose incomes exceed $3,000 if unmarried or $4,000 if married from making their sworn returns, and there is therefore every reason for the speedy repeal of this useless, costly and troublesome provision of the law."

BANKERS SEE GOOD RESULTS FROM TARIFF

J. S. Bache & Co., New York bankers, in their weekly review say:

"Lower tariff conditions are already stimulating American invention to meet foreign competition by more effectual production here, and this applies to manufactures as well as mining. Results will be slowly worked out, but in very many instances it will be found in the end that American versatility, invention and energy will have won out."

L. A. GODDARD ON GENERAL CONDITIONS

L. A. Goddard, president of the State Bank of Chicago, in speaking this week of the general business situation, the income tax and the legislative outlook at Washington, said:

"Business seems to be running along in the ordinary way. The banks here have experienced no difficulty in meeting the fall demand and I think generally they are in pretty snug shape. It has been a good year for all of them in the way of profits—at least for all who have steered clear of any material losses. So far as our own institution is concerned we are having the best year in our history.

"The income tax has caused more or less complication but not any more annoyance than was expected. The banks here are getting pretty well organized to take care of it. It is true that a great deal has been imposed upon the banks in that respect—perhaps more than should have been, but if the government and the people favor that law we are willing to do our part and even more than our share in carrying it out.

"The situation at Washington has been a problem all along. The currency bill has been whipsawed around so much that none of us can predicate just what we shall have until it becomes a law. In its original form it would have been a very grave mistake, but if it is reconstructed and revised so that it will meet the situation properly and cure the evils that need to be cured the bankers will really feel relieved, assuming that enough time will be given to the national banks to shape conditions to meet the law's requirements."

A BILLION IN THREE YEARS

The sale of short-term notes by American corporations to meet permanent capital needs has been carried to such lengths that the burden of paying or renewing these obligations as they mature during the next three years will be extremely heavy. All told, the outstanding bond and note issues of leading railroad and industrial corporations of the United States which mature and must be paid or renewed before the end of 1916 amount to nearly a billion dollars—to be exact, $953,206,011.

WALL STREET FACING FAMINE

New York, November 20.—Scores of brokerage firms and small investment banking concerns doing business in Wall Street will go out of business the first of the year owing to the prolonged absence of speculators from the market. Many of those connected with the firms will retire from the brokerage business entirely, while others will enter some of the more firmly established concerns as either junior members or plain employees.

CLEW TO MISSING BANKER

It is said Marcus A. Barsky, formerly with Schiff & Co., 728 West 12th Street, has revealed his whereabouts and his family will make good his shortage of $8,000. Schiff & Co. are converting to a state bank.

Treasurer William H. High of the California Bankers Association is an assistant cashier of the Anglo and London-Paris National of San Francisco. Mr. High is a prominent figure at bankers' conventions and enjoys a wide acquaintance in financial circles.

The new vice president of the Wyoming Bankers Association is James M. Rumsey of Rawlins, president of the Stockgrowers National of that city and also of the First State of Baggs. Mr. Rumsey is one of the popular financiers of his state. His selection as an officer of the state bankers' organization is indicative of the high class men who have in charge the destinies of the association.

BANKERS CLUB CHANGES NAME

The South Side Bankers Club, an organization of sixty banks outside the loop, has decided to change the name of the organization to "The Cook County Bankers Club." This was done at the meeting held in the Hotel Sherman. The reason for the change lies in the dissatisfaction of North and West Side bankers, members of the organization, to the title showing a "South Side" organization.

BROKER NEEDS "BLUE SKY" LAW

A Chicago bond broker in the Harris Trust building thinks there should be a "Blue Sky" law to protect the dealer. He sold an "aviation widow"—Helen Struck is her name—$3,000 in perfectly good bonds and gave her $400 in "lawful money" for a perfectly bum draft for $3,400 on an Oklahoma bank. She has been arrested and is under bonds.

COL. McCULLOCH IN TOWN

Col. J. L. McCulloch, president Marion National, formerly president of the Indiana Bankers Association, was in the financial district this week.

VANDERLIP ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, stopped in Chicago Thursday on his way to California, where he will take an extended vacation. The banker has decided to let his participation in the pending currency legislation rest with his presentation of his plan for a government central bank. Mr. Vanderlip left for the West on a late train but would not say whether or not he had his famous yellow dress suit along.

B. F. HARRIS NOT A CANDIDATE

"I want you to know that I am not a candidate for governor or United States senator," Mr. Harris told Governor Dunne in Champaign last Saturday. "I am not seeking any political office. I intend to devote my entire time to my business and the new magazine we are going to publish in the interest of the farmer-bankers."

FOREMAN FOR COMPTROLLER

Oscar G. Foreman of the Foreman Bros. Banking Co. of Chicago was mentioned this week as a candidate for comptroller of the currency.

ROBERT N. PAYNE of the First National at Marietta, Ohio, is sending out the invitations to that institution's fiftieth anniversary. Capital is $150,000 but the surplus and undivided amount to $450,000, attesting growth and solidity.

THE bank was founded in November, 1863, and has kept open house through all gales and dry spells ever since.

THEY are to have a new banking law in India and the use of the word "Bank" will be restricted. NOW for Illinois.

THE annual meeting of the Ohio Private Bankers Association, held at Columbus, was the largest in the history of the association and great interest was manifested.

GOVERNOR COX spoke and so did Bank Commissioner Lattaner. The governor did not refer to how he had tried to put them clear out of business, but Lattaner explained about examinations and examination fees under the present new law.

N. W. HARRIS went down to Cincinnati last week to renew his acquaintances and to speak at the dedication of the new Union Central Life building. In the days of small beginnings he was secretary of the company.

JUSTUS J. WADE says that six months after the new currency bill becomes a law 90 per cent of the banks of the country will be in the regional system.

RICHMOND has gone to work to prepare for the 1914 A. B. A. convention. Col. John Purcell of the First National will be executive head.

OTHERS who will head subcommittees are John M. Williard, Jr., Julian H. Hill and Thomas B. McAdams, whose eloquent speech set W. G. Edens on fire at Boston, who spread the conflagration so that Richmond was affected.

McADAMS will be head of the hotel committee and in a position to pay off a few debts of gratitude. (Don't forget us, T. B.)

THIRTEEN years ago the A. B. A. had a fine time at Richmond. The city has grown and hotels have multiplied since then. The A. B. A. can use every available room at year. All is in readiness and as soon as dates are fixed reservations will be sent out.

being condemned. Under normal conditions he thinks it will work well.

HE cites the era of wild speculation which followed statehood in Oklahoma and three of the worst years of drouth and crop failures with which the new law had to contend.

FROM now on the commissioner is very optimistic about the success of the new law. He asks suspension of judgment until it is shown what the law will do in normal times.

LOS ANGELES is clearing for all near-by towns and cities and growing stronger every day. It's a good plan and southern California a good place to try it out.

J. E. FISHBURN is president of the clearing house and J. F. Sartori is vice-president. Clearings have grown 13 per cent in one year.

THE Bankers Encyclopaedia (the one in purple covers) has a clever stunt, in that it indexes the states in hard black leather tabs and the reserve cities in bright red. Saves time.

THIS directory is a boon to business firms doing a large collection business, in that it prints the rules plainly for the clearing houses.

COSTS but $10 per year (two issues) and is as up to date as a thing can be.

WE have to admit, after receiving about one hundred notices, that the arrested president of the Sutton, Neb., bank, Melchior L. Luebben, is a MAN and not a woman, as reported.

GLAD that pretty nearly everybody from president to office boy reads every line of THE CHICAGO BANKER.

AT least they read the paragraphs which commit the least error. We suspect that the Sutton, Neb., item was put up on us by some crusty who is "agin votes fer wimen."

WE have it from W. B. Harrison (official) that on his way to the Boston convention Asa Ramsay of Muskogee won the gold medal offered by the Grand Trunk "for any man who can snore all the way from Detroit to Montreal."

OVER the week end the Schiff & Co. Bank at Halsted and Twelfth streets, Chicago, incorporated and the Tonica Exchange Bank at Ottawa closed its doors. Thus the good work of evolution goes on.

OH, yes, the failure of the Traders Bank at Thirty-first and Michigan Avenue, Chicago, last week was not "total," as announced. The receiver found $5.38 in the vault with which to meet the $25,000 in depositors' claims.

THIS particular private bank appears to have "netted" its projector about one thousand dollars per week, which beats his former business as saloon keeper, for he had no license to pay and no go-between to "fix." The income was almost net.

THE banking law of Illinois permitted Sol Lewinsohn to do all that he did. His generosity alone is to be credited with $5.38. The state is the real derelict.

GOVERNMENT has gotten after certain New York banks which make "day loans" of any size and "overcertify" for stock exchange houses.

THIS form of banking began with the private banking firms but has become a fixed habit in many of the largest incorporated banks in that city.

"CHANGES" will be announced by some of the big ones to take effect at once. Others in time.

THE late Charles A. Chapin of this city tried, not so many years ago, to exchange a "forty" in the Iron Mountain region for a logging outfit, including horses. At his death the forty had paid him $6,000,000 in royalties alone and "Chapin Mine" still is in the family.

ANOTHER big iron man who has recently died was Timothy Nester. He put the sing in Munising and engraved the town's name on the map for keeps.

HE built railways also and had 84,000 acres of land at his death, outside of his big interests in the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company.

GREAT country, that Upper Peninsula of Michigan! That's where Louis G. Kaufman dug himself up. He's kept in pretty plain view ever since, even among the tall timber of Wall Street.

MANUFACTURERS of motor car accessories as a rule are working only half time on account of hold-up orders from automobile factories. In this industry 1914 is feeling its way.

SECRETARY KAUFMAN of the Washington Bankers Association has sent out his 1913 proceedings book in cleverly designed cover.

HE says, "You will find the splendid address of W. G. Edens of the Central Trust Co., Chicago, at page 131. J. A. S. Pollard's address on page 99. The proceedings of the committee on agricultural and vocational education will be found on pages 113 to 150 inclusive."

SECRETARY KAUFMAN had a showy program at Bellingham, a direction in which he has positive genius. That's what makes his book interesting.

"INVESTMENT BONDS" is the title of a neat pamphlet sent out by the First National of St. Paul. The text is the address by James J. Hill at the Investment Bankers Association convention in Chicago last month.

FIRST NATIONAL of Boston sees "marked evidences of general business recession throughout the United States."

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS had an interesting exhibit at the Land Show, including corn seed work, fertilizers, cost charts, husbandry and dairying.

"TRUST COMPANIES OF THE UNITED STATES" has been issued by the United States Mortgage and Trust Co. of New York. It shows amazing growth in this branch of banking.

IT gives proof of all claims made about the usefulness of trust companies to the public and their faithfulness to the requirements.

THE trust companies early had the word "Trust" protected just as the word "Bank" should be in every state. This has added to public confidence in the newer style banking in a convincing way.

IN four years trust company resources have gone up from $4,610,369,273.59 to $5,475,972,899.14, figures pretty hard to comprehend.

THE book gives the resources and liabilities by states and has a "Digest of State Regulations" in concise form. New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois lead in resources in the order named. Some of the eastern states are not very "strong" for trust company banking as yet.

ANORTH DAKOTA bank which was complimented by this column on using appropriate quotations from Carnegie, Hill and others on "Saving" as part of the bank literature has disclaimed the credit in part.

THE bank says the quotations which have been so effective in its case are a part of the "dope" sent out by Secretary E. G. McWilliam of the savings bank section.

McWILLIAM is a tireless, tactful secretary in the fullest sense of the term. His thrift and savings articles and his lecture courses have succeeded in a notable way.

LAST week in an editorial we congratulate Illinois on the conversion, since February of 29 private to 29 good state banks.

ONE of the proud 29 was the staunch Busey's Bank, at Urbana, depository of the University of Illinois funds and one of the oldest and cleanest in the state.

NOW if the good ones will all convert and the poor ones continue to fail the forty year conundrum will be solved.

WE hear from St. Louis that Frank T. Joyner has been down there riding the goat for one of the topnotcher Masonic degrees.

L. L. BACCHUS has been down state trailing a flock of mallards reported lost in the Morgan county marshes.

THE University of Illinois has taken the highest attainable rank under the presidency of Edmund J. James. For the year there have been registered 5,500 students.

IT is expected that the tax authorized by the last legislature for the university will yield not less than $4,500,000, which will justify the employment of many additional teachers.

DR. JAMES asks that interested persons come to Urbana and see what is being done with the funds. This is a fair business proposition.

MEMBER banks of the Illinois association pulled hard for the big Urbana school and bankers should go and judge whether or not their confidence in Dr. James was sound. The doctor invites you.

IF you cannot go in person you can have upon request, copies of the report issued by the comptroller and registrar for the two years ending June 30, 1913.

THE bankers in Champaign and Urbana, B. F. Harris, M. W. Busey and the rest, will be glad to escort banking friends about the grounds and buildings at the university.

EDWIN W. WOODCOCK of the Quad City Highway and Boulevard Association, Moline, headed a big delegation of good roads enthusiasts from Davenport, Rock Island, Moline and East Moline that attended the good roads mass meeting held at Sterling Wednesday afternoon and evening.

THE Traverse City (Mich.) State Bank is taking an active interest in agricultural and fruit growing development in its territory and recently conducted a successful apple exhibit at its banking rooms.

THE display of apples attracted favorable attention from the customers of this growing bank as well as from the public in general.

J. L. JOHNSTON, cashier of the National Reserve Bank, Kansas City, who presided over the joint meetings of Groups Three, Four and Nine at Kansas City November 4th, is a former Oklahoma banker. He made the rounds of the Missouri group meetings in a special car provided by Secretary Keyser.

MR. JOHNSTON, a ready debater and an easy and fluent speaker, is expected to attract favorable attention in Missouri group work the coming year.

G. N. HITCHCOCK and F. J. Paro, representing the National Bank of Commerce at the group meeting, made a strong pair for this big banking institution. Both enjoy a wide acquaintance among Missouri bankers.

THE Ottawa Banking and Trust Company has been appointed receiver for the defunct private bank at Tonica, Ill., known as the Tonica Exchange Bank.

THE annual dinner of the Chicago Association of Commerce will be held November 28th.

THE Examiner has published a list of failed private banks showing that one occurs in Illinois every sixty days.

AT that the compiler got only those using banking titles, leaving out such as "McCarty & Co., bankers," which would raise the average one hundred per cent or more.

JOHAN G. SAEDD has been elected a B. & O. director, representing the Field estate.

WE hear that Frank T. Joyner has been a drawing card for the Standard Trust.

LONG lost E. J. Curtin was in Chicago this week in reality on his way back to his home in Decorah, Iowa.

MR. CURTIN has a bunch of banks up northwest and he has been selling one of them. It was off his main line of travel from one bank to another was the only reason.

OPPORTUNITY came on the eve of the Boston convention and accounts for E. J.'s absence from that long-to-be-remembered event.

STERLING (N. D.) STATE was the institution sold. Col. C. B. Little of the First National at Bismarck and H. P. Goddard of the McKenzie (N. D.) State were the purchasers.

IT is understood that Col. Little will be the president and Mr. Goddard the cashier. It is a fine, growing country which gives the bank a bright outlook.

MR. AND MRS. CURTIN spent their first Sunday back in Iowa since October 1st with the Carpenters at Monticello. Henry made E. J. promise never to miss another A. B. A. national so long as they both stay in the banking business.

THAT Hollins failure in New York was pretty wild and woolly for Wall Street environment, don't you think? Liabilities four millions and assets fifty thousand.

AFTER reading the down-east pessimistic "recession of business" clatter it does one good to hear E. D. Hulbert say:

THERE is no cloud on the business horizon and general business is in a comfortable state. Progress with the currency bill is certain of success, and amendments to the original have strengthened it. There is amplification of funds to take care of every emergency and necessity, and money will work easier."

E. F. HARRIS STARTS A PAPER

It had to happen. The versatile and industrious B. F. Harris has out and in the mails the first issue of a paper—"nation-wide in scope"—and calls it "The Banker-Farmer." The field is the "reviewing of bankers' activities for a better agriculture and rural life," and it is "conducted by the agricultural commission of the American Bankers Association." Mr. Harris boldly announces himself as "editor" and figures in his other two capacities as president of the Permanent Conference of the state committees on agriculture and as chairman of the agricultural commission recently appointed at Boston. One could wish the word "Banker" in the title could have been avoided owing to the innumerable useless uses to which it already has been put. Also the word "Farmer" is on hundreds of trivial house organs. The subscription price is 50 cents and application has been made for second class mail privileges showing an intent to be permanently in the field.

The first copy is full of promise for Mr. Harris' new paper. It will in a sense be a bulletin of the organizations named on the editorial page. It will go to all the 25,000 banks in the United States and to not less than 250 publishers to stir up the interest in improved country life, better farming, marketing problems. In the introductory editorial Mr. Harris says:

"It is no mean task to undertake either the work or responsibility of this publication, through volunteer effort, under many limitations and with a nation-wide scope. It may offer another illustration of 'rushing in where angels' (and farmers) 'fear to tread'—but should. Under these conditions the reader's co-operation is all the more needed and appreciated—as well as his patience and indulgence."

MONEY TO MEXICO UNSAFE

Matters have reached such a point in Mexico that a premium of $1,000 was asked for insuring a shipment of $50,000 gold from New York to a point near Vera Cruz. This is equal to two per cent, and was so stiff that the bankers refused to purchase a policy on that basis. Mexican exchange is quoted at $2.80.

During the week, money in Chicago has been loaning at 5½ to 6 per cent on commercial paper. Collateral loans were a shade higher than paper over the counter.

Lower Interest Rates For the Farmers

The farmers of Europe are more highly organized to secure financial credit than are the farmers of the United States, and they get money at lower rates and for longer terms. The various governments have given cordial recognition to the farmers' organizations and in many ways have extended aid to the movement. As the co-operative credit associations have already spread over the continent and are now being organized in Ireland, we may safely accept the universal testimony that these organizations sprung from the necessity for a better system of rural credit than the commercial banks offered.

Farm credit differs essentially from commercial credit. The period between the loan and repayment must be longer. The farmer cannot make his turn-over as quickly as can the merchant. In rural credit that properly serves productive agriculture the repayment of a loan should not be demanded until the maturity of the crop in which the borrowed capital is invested.

The essential problem in establishing such a system is to be found in the replacing of the money which is lent for these considerable periods. Of course a banking association must necessarily accept deposits in order to secure funds. This is true of the co-operative loan associations of Europe, and ninety per cent of the money which they lend to their members is placed in their care by depositors. These deposits are accepted in the same way that similar transactions are conducted by American bankers. They can be withdrawn in the same manner that deposits can be withdrawn from American banks. When they lend this money to farmers they must have a way of replacing it if their depositors wish to withdraw. The European loan associations replace their capital by indorsing the farmers' notes and by rediscounting these notes to meet the demands of their depositors without compelling the repayment of loans made to their members. In this respect the banking laws of European countries differ from our banking laws. For example, the Bank of France has the legal right to issue bank notes based upon commercial paper which bears three indorsements. In order to meet this legal requirement the farmers organized the small associations composed of neighboring farmers. These small units were then grouped around a regional or central bank. The system was now complete because a chain was constructed to join the farm with the government bank. A farmer presents his promissory note to his association for discount. His neighbor acts as his security by indorsing this note. This is the first indorsement. The loan association then adds its indorsement and presents the note to the regional bank. This guarantee of the association is the second indorsement. It now only remains for the regional bank to add its indorsement and forward it to the Bank of France, which issues bank notes for it. The local loan association discounts the farmer's note, the regional bank rediscounts it, and the Bank of France rediscounts it again in the form of an issue of bank notes. The farmer gets his money at low rates for long periods and yet the ultimate lender, the Bank of France, takes little risk, being protected by an original borrower and two indorsements. In this way, also, the depositor in an association is enabled to receive his money from the association before the loan is repaid by the farmer. In substance, this element is embodied in every system of rural credit in Europe. It is evident that it is the privilege of rediscount rather than the co-operative organization which is the foundation stone of this credit system. Co-operation is the method by which the special provisions of law are being utilized for farm purposes.

As our banking laws have not permitted the issue of currency against farmers' notes, no matter how many times indorsed, there will have to be modifications if we are to organize effective systems of rural credits after European models. But if these changes are made our existing banks can utilize these rediscount privileges as effectively as can co-operative associations. There are as many chartered banks in the United States per thousand population as there are in Germany with its co-operative associations. At present neither chartered banks nor co-operative associations in the United States can lend deposited funds and meet the demands for the return of these funds from any other source than repayment by the borrower. It is useless to argue whether banks or co-operative organizations are best adapted to advance credit to farmers until it is made possible for such business to be transacted successfully. The first requisite, and it is one on which all persons can unite, is a change in our banking system which will permit rediscounting of solvent loans.

Long-Time Loans in Europe

A modern system of land mortgage credit is of greater importance to our nation than an improved system of personal credits. Our farmers are facing an era of extraordinary expenditures if they keep abreast of the times. The depleted fertility of our farms must be restored; better roads are to be constructed; the quality of our live stock is to be improved and their numbers greatly increased; better methods of tillage are to be adopted; higher standards of agricultural education are to be accepted, and, finally, the young man is to be encouraged to acquire ownership of the land he cultivates so as to avert the growing menace of landlordism. These expenditures in the aggregate will amount to a stupendous sum and their payment should be distributed over a long period of time. The rate of interest should be reduced to the level of other financial undertakings of like magnitude. In Europe money is available for such purposes at nearly as low rates as the governments can borrow for national purposes. This is as it should be. In the truest sense the rebuilding of agriculture along permanent lines is a national expenditure as vital to the future supremacy of our nation as is the maintenance of our army and navy.

European experience has conclusively demonstrated that land mortgage bonds can be sold in large volume at low rates of interest. The proceeds of these bonds can be lent to farmers on long-time payments at a low rate of interest, with a small payment on the principal, which ultimately will wipe out the debt. In France the annual charge for such money, including all principal, interest, and commission charges, is less than five per cent; perhaps this rate will be a fair average for the continent. The government lends money to farmers for special purposes at a lower rate, but I am speaking of the ordinary commercial rate for the repayment of a mortgage loan. I know that it is difficult for an American farmer to understand that a loan will be repaid in full by annual payments which are lower than our present interest charges alone, but it is a fact that can easily be demonstrated.

The usual method of negotiating these long-time mortgage credits is by fixing a rate of payment which cannot be changed during the life of the loan. This rate of payment includes an allowance for current interest due on the loan, an amount to be kept by the bank for administration, and a certain sum to be credited on the principal. In the language of the bank, these are called "interest, administration, and amortization."

The standard length of time in Europe for a long-time loan is 54 years. For such a loan at the present time the rate is 4.85 per cent, divided as follows: interest, 4 per cent, administration, .35 per cent, and amortization (payment on principal) .50 per cent. This rate will pay both principal and interest and repay all charges due to the bank in 54 years. As this will seem almost incredible to some students, I will give a concrete illustration of how it works. It does not depend upon compound interest, but upon the fact that though the rate of yearly payment remains the same, the charge for interest and administration is constantly decreasing, because they are computed on the principal sum which is constantly being repaid.

Therefore the proportion which is applied toward the repayment of the principal is always increasing.

The commission rule prevents these representatives of the farmers' elevator companies from being driven out of existence.

In future articles we shall discuss trading, hedging, etc., etc., but before closing this article we wish to call attention to the enormous advantage which every commission merchant, member of the chamber of commerce, has over those who are not members of the chamber of commerce or other recognized grain exchanges, and who are soliciting consignments of grain from country shippers.

The chamber of commerce gathers from all the other markets at great expense, through the Western Union Telegraph Co., complete information regarding market conditions. This information is, of course, for the use of members only.

Practically all the buying interests of any consequence are members of the recognized grain exchanges and make their purchases almost exclusively in the exchange rooms of these organizations for the reason that these purchases are made with a far greater degree of security than is the case if made outside of these organizations.

The sellers of grain in recognized grain exchanges are not only known to be financially responsible, but in addition must guarantee the title to the grain to the buyers, so that in case it should develop that the grain was mortgaged, or subject to threshers' liens, etc., the buyer would not suffer any loss thereby.

Grain is constantly being shipped to those not a member of the chamber of commerce and sold upon the floor of the chamber of commerce with full commissions deducted. No possible advantage can accrue to the shipper in shipping grain to non-members of recognized grain exchanges. This grain must necessarily be peddled around to a very limited number of buyers, who are therefore enabled to purchase the same at practically their own price, or else resold in the exchange room of one of the recognized grain exchanges, and double commissions exacted from the country shipper. Of course if the country shipper wishes to pay two commissions for the sale of his grain, that is his privilege.

If the farmers' elevator companies of the Northwest desire to sell their own grain in the exchange room of the chamber of commerce, there is nothing whatever to prevent their doing so. It would probably be necessary for a sufficient number of farmers' elevators to join together in the formation of a company, which would have sufficient capital to justify it in engaging in the grain business at the terminal market, and furnish assurances of sufficient business to justify the maintenance of an office at the terminal market. Such a selling agency, organized by real farmers, and officered by individuals of well-known integrity and honesty, and with reasonable financial stability, would have no difficulty in securing admission to the chamber of commerce of Minneapolis, and would enjoy all of the privileges and benefits of membership therein. At present the farmers' elevator companies have their grain sold through commission merchants, and there is no doubt whatever regarding the honesty or the efficiency of the service rendered by these commission merchants. No one could testify more strongly to this effect than the farmers' elevator companies themselves, but at the same time there is nothing to prevent the farmers' elevator companies from actually selling their own grain in the terminal market place if they so desire. Such a selling agency, properly organized, would be certain of admission and would be practically assured of success. The chamber of commerce as an organization is not engaged in any manner in the grain business. Its sole purpose is to operate a market place in the most efficient manner, and the qualifications for admission consist merely in a record for honesty and fair dealing and reasonable financial stability. The fact that a farmers' elevator company in North Dakota has been a member for years proves the falsity of the statement that farmers' elevator companies would have difficulty in securing admission.

ATTENDS GOOD ROADS GATHERING

W. G. Edens of the Central Trust visited De Kalb, Dixon, Grand Detour, Sterling and Rock Falls this week. At Sterling a big meeting of Lincoln highway enthusiasts was held in the opera house Wednesday afternoon and evening. The audience was composed largely of neighboring newspaper men, bankers and farmers. Mr. Edens spoke at both sessions. Before going to Sterling he visited Camp Hope where prisoners from Joliet are doing road work under the direction of Warden Allen of the state prison.

IMPORTANT INVESTIGATIONS

Investigations being made into pass abuses as between members of the Illinois legislature and the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission are important. Threats even of forcing a railway into receivership appear on official, state stationery. The same authority has developed the Frisco scandal to a point where prominent railway and banking officials are involved. The public is being well served so far as publicity is concerned. Restitution of money diverted from the railway treasury should result as early as possible. High finance as shown in Frisco is no different from that which has been going on in gas, water, power, mining, lumber and other utility companies. Insiders have robbed the legitimate stockholders by buying up small competing properties and loading them onto the company which they controlled at many times their real or prospective value. Restitution is the remedy.

ELECTED OFFICERS OF MICHIGAN SOCIETY

At the annual banquet of the Michigan Society held at the La Salle Hotel last Saturday evening Ralph Van Vechten and Frank O. Vetmore were elected vice-presidents. F. R. Fenton, secretary of the Investment Bankers Association of America, was elected a director.

HARRIS TRUST EMPLOYEES HAVE BANQUET

Employees of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, the number of 125 met at a banquet at the hotel LaSalle Tuesday evening. They were addressed by N. W. Harris, chairman of the executive board and by H. W. Fenton, a vice-president of the bank. A part of the program consisted in singing a parody relating to the income tax law.

JAMES M. HURST ON THE INCOME TAX LAW

James M. Hurst, assistant cashier, National Bank of the Republic, this city, does not believe that the income tax law is so complicated as it has been represented to be by some. He admits that certain intricate problems might arise, but says that such situations would be rare.

"I think the fundamental provisions of the law are very plain," said Mr. Hurst. "Most of those who have criticized the measure have picked out far-fetched illustrations to show how involved the law is. Even the feature which relates to 'collection at the source' is not so bad as some would have us believe."

Mr. Hurst recently addressed the Chicago Garment Manufacturers on the income tax law and at the close of his remarks, answered questions pertaining to the operation of the statute.

PATE DENIES INSOLVENCY

Watseka, Ill., November 17.—Alexander Pate to-day appeared in court under indictment on six charges of embezzlement in receiving deposits after his private bank in Wellington was insolvent. The bank failed July 17th with liabilities of $100,000. Pate, who is the father-in-law of Charles U. Gordon, former Chicago postmaster, claims he has assets to more than pay all claims.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS

Acting comptroller of the currency has issued a statement of condition of national banks as of October 21st.

"The banks in Chicago," the statement says, "report gains over August 9th, in loans of $1,098,612, cash of $1,215,508, and deposits of $13,327,895, and gains over corresponding call a year ago as follows: Loans, $17,521,159, cash $3,093,097, and deposits of $3,212,505."

"The St. Louis banks are showing gains over August 9th in deposits of $938,415, but decreases in loans of $2,029,405, and in cash of $2,789,137. Compared with a year ago decreases are shown in all items as follows: Loans, $3,819,763; cash $7,325,427, and deposits, $3,830,994."

"The other reserve city banks in that section while reporting gains over August 9th in loans of $9,096,416, and in deposits of $7,680,541, a decrease in cash of $2,418,534 is reported. Gains over a year ago are shown in all items as follows: Loans $17,965,526; cash, $2,978,483; deposits, $9,067,480."

"All of the banks in that section report gains over August 9th in loans of $20,642,067, in deposits of $19,395,192, with a decrease in cash of $1,568,912. Compared with corresponding call a year ago shows increases in loans of $68,824,549, in cash of $3,117,262, and in deposits of $51,152,895."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By R. A. ALBERTSEN

Relates to administrative and department matters interesting to our readers

Two drafts of a currency bill will be submitted to the senate to-day (Saturday) one by the administration members of the senatorial committee, and the other by the faction, consisting of Senator Hitchcock and the republican member. It had been planned to submit the drafts Thursday, but the administration forces were not ready. It is not expected now that real action on the banking and currency bill will be taken until January, and, with the debate which necessarily must ensue in the senate, it is possible that a currency law will not be placed upon the statute books before April 1st.

The overshadowing issue to be thrashed out in the senate will be whether there shall be bank ownership of the stock of the regional banks and semi-bank control of the system established or public ownership and governmental control. The bill to be presented by the Owen faction of the banking and currency committee will enunciate the former principle, while the bill to be presented by Senator Hitchcock in behalf of himself and the republicans will announce the latter principle.

The Hitchcock-Republican bill was made public in order that senators might have an opportunity of studying its provisions.

The bill calls for four regional banks instead of twelve as proposed by the other measure, holding the smaller number could more effectively concentrate the reserves of the country. In opposition to the administration idea of creating a "bank of banks" by compelling subscriptions by banks to the stock of the regional banks the republican bill provides that the reserve banks' capital shall be subscribed by the public, the banks taking whatever part is not subscribed.

In place of having the banks elect six of the nine directors of each regional bank, the republican bill would have five of each body of nine directors appointed by the government through the federal reserve board.

The Hitchcock measure reduces the reserve which national banks must hold against deposits to 15 per cent for city banks and 12 per cent for country banks.

The bill makes broader provisions for commercial paper eligible for rediscount and as a basis for currency, providing that a part of member banks' rediscounts may be made in paper maturing up to six months. This provision is of advantage to banks with small capital which have little so-called short time paper.

In place of giving regional bank directors discretion as to rediscounting for member banks without limit, the republican bill provides that each member be given the right to secure rediscounts up to the full amount of its capital, and under a tax to twice that amount. The measure also provides, in place of gold reserve to be held by the regional banks in their vaults and in the treasury against new circulation of 33 1/3 per cent, a reserve of 35 per cent, with a tax on reserves below that figure down to a minimum of 25 per cent.

The republican bill provides for redemption of the new notes on a straight gold basis. It also would allow country banks to loan one-third of their time deposits on five year farm mortgages, instead of one year mortgages.

The section of the administration bill for the refunding of the 2 per cent bonds was rewritten. The house provides for the retirement of 5 per cent of these bonds a year for twenty years. The republican bill will require the regional banks to purchase each year an amount equal to 50 per cent of its capital stock. The suggestion advanced by President Vanderlip of the National City Bank of New York that the regional reserve banks be allowed to exchange their 2 per cent bonds for 3 per cent one-year treasury notes accompanied by an agreement that these notes shall be renewed every year for twenty years if the government desires, was written into the bill.

It is the purpose of the administration to revise the national banking laws after the currency bill shall have been disposed of. It is expected that the revision will include many important questions originally contemplated as a part of the currency bill, but set aside until the next session of congress, when a general revision of the banking laws has been promised by the administration.

In connection with this proposed revision congress will take up the question of rural credits and the problem of providing cheaper money for the farmer. The rural credits commission, after an exhaustive investigation, including an examination of farm loan systems abroad, is at work on a report to congress.

Advocates of the bank law revision plan are seeking to place their projects ahead of the proposed antitrust legislation in the administration program.

The progressive antitrust program, the main feature of the third party's legislative plans for the next session, is outlined in three bills. They embody proposals to create an interstate trade commission, to prohibit unfair competition and to suppress monopolies.

Mr. Murdock of Kansas, author of the measures, said that his bills, which he called the "progressive trust triplets," would solve the whole trust problem, would wipe out monopoly and create a trade commission that would relieve the courts of administrative functions in business regulation.

The proposed commission would have seven members serving seven-year terms at $10,000 a year each. The commission's jurisdiction would be limited to corporations and business combinations having more than $3,000,000 gross annual receipts from business in the United States. It would have plenary power to get complete information, to criticize and make public overcapitalization, unfair competition, misrepresentation or oppressive use of credit, and to assist the courts in enforcing decrees of dissolution.

The Detroit Savings Bank has filed amended articles of incorporation in Lansing giving notice of the increase in the bank's capital stock from $400,000 to $750,000, which has been approved by the bank's stockholders.

TO GO WITH TOLEDO BANK

Rollin H. Scribner has resigned as treasurer of the Security Savings and Trust, Toledo, O., to accept the office of third vice-president of the Second National, a position that has been offered him by the directors of that institution. The change is effective on January 1st. Mr. Scribner started in the banking business with the First National of Toledo, twenty-six years ago. Three years later he went with what is now the National Bank of Commerce, remaining with that institution until January 1, 1905, when he resigned to accept the post of treasurer of the Security Savings and Trust.

Five masked men robbed the Union Bank of New Hazleton, B. C., on Tuesday night of last week, shot the cashier and fled with $10,000, after a rifle battle with citizens. Six men suspected of being implicated in the robbery were arrested between Hazleton and New Hazleton.

SAVINGS BANK MEETING

A meeting of the executive committee of the New York State Savings Bank Association, of which Eugene F. Barnes, president of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank, is the chairman, was held Tuesday afternoon at the New York Savings Bank. One of the most important questions at this meeting was the recent ruling on trust and joint accounts which pertains almost exclusively to savings institutions. In the recent examinations of the savings banks by the superintendent of bank, Van Tuyl, this ruling, which was based on an opinion of the attorney general of July a year ago, was put into force. Under this ruling no one person can act as a trustee for more than one account of $3,000 and those banks that were found to have more than one account of this kind were compelled to close them out. Joint accounts also were tabooed.

CHARTER BANK AT NEW SALEM

Springfield, Ill.—State Auditor Brady has issued a permit to S. L. Griggs, W. T. Crump, S. K. Strother, L. S. Moore and V. A. Dillon for the organization of the State Bank of Salem, to be located at New Salem, Pike County, with a capital stock of $25,000 and a charter duration of ninety-nine years.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

Reports from the corn fields in the central part of the state are that the crop is turning out much better than was expected during the hot, dry summer. In fact, the yield is better than the most optimistic believers in the soil of Illinois could have hoped for during June, July and August when the crop seemed to be withering in the heat of a merciless sun and drying up in a soil which was composed of almost solid dust. But in spite of the most adverse weather conditions probably ever experienced in the corn belt of Illinois, the crop will average possibly a third more than was anticipated. Of course, there will be exceptions to this statement in various localities. In many sections the crop will not yield, of course, as much as the crop of 1912, which was a bumper crop for the entire state, but considering the season the returns this year will be fairly satisfactory. Corn-huskers have been scarce and many farmers have paid as high as four cents a bushel and board for help. The labor problem is proving a most vexing one for farmers everywhere and the condition in the corn belt of Illinois is no exception to the rule. Land values and rents rule high, landlords can secure almost any rent they may ask and yet many tenants, in spite of socialistic stories to the contrary, have made good money. Almost every country bank in Illinois has many solid, substantial tenant farmers among their customers. Business has been generally good and banks have experienced a heavy amount of detail work this fall.

Business Conditions Good in "Egypt"

Notwithstanding a poor crop year business conditions in the territory around Mt. Vernon seem to be generally good. L. L. Emmerson, president of the Third National of Mt. Vernon, writes as follows: "Notwithstanding the light yield of both corn and hay in Jefferson and adjoining counties, the farmers as a whole seem to be in fairly good condition and the demand for money from them not above the usual. Banks in Mt. Vernon in their statements, at the time of the last call, October 21st, show the largest balances in their history and all of them have fairly good cash reserves. The manufacturing plants of the city are all running in good condition and the pay-rolls were never larger than at this time. New buildings are being erected in every part of the city and a material growth will be shown this year. The city has recently purchased a tract of land comprising forty-two acres of beautiful timber, lying at the edge of the city and has appointed a park commission which will give Mt. Vernon its first large park. A franchise for a street car system has been granted by the city council and work will be commenced within thirty days."

L. L. Emmerson, Grand High Priest

L. L. Emmerson, president of the Third National of Mt. Vernon, has been recently elected Most Excellent Grand High Priest of the Illinois Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons. A reception was given Mr. Emmerson by the Royal Arch Masons of Mt. Vernon which voiced the good wishes of the people of his home city. The reception was one of the largest held in Mt. Vernon this year. Mr. Emmerson has taken a prominent part in Illinois masonry for a number of years and his election was one which was merited and his friends know he will discharge the duties of the office in an able manner. Owing to the death of the deputy grand high priest the honor came to Mr. Emmerson a year before it was expected. Mr. Emmerson is grand warden of the grand commandery of Illinois Knights Templar. W. P. Wall, president of the bank of Wall & Company of Staunton and high priest of the chapter of Royal Arch Masons of that city, attended the reception.

Hold-up Man in Jail Attempts Suicide

"Jim Watson," the hold-up man who robbed

the Jefferson State Bank of Mt. Vernon of $1,400 November 4th, still refuses to do much talking or to reveal his identity. Photographs have been sent all over the country to detective agencies and police headquarters, but up to this time no one has been able to locate him. On Tuesday, November 12th, he attempted suicide by cutting his right arm with a razor, and was found a few minutes later in his cell unconscious. Prompt action by physicians saved his life. He claims to have been alone in the hold-up, but this is doubted by many people here. The local banks in Mt. Vernon, which have heretofore closed their front doors at four o'clock and allowed tardy customers to come in at the rear entrances and transact business as long as the employees were at work, have changed their methods and now close all entrances at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Banks in smaller towns which are open before and after the customary closing hours assume danger from hold-ups which may result in death or injury to bank officers and financial loss as well. Even if no serious loss is suffered there is much publicity matter about such an incident which is not enjoyed by bankers. The writer knows of one national bank which "to be accommodating" often opens its doors before six in the morning and closes about six in the evening while much of the book work is done in the evening. Such an institution is inviting an attack from yeggmen or from "green" hold-up men who are enticed by "easy" propositions. Bank officers and directors should exercise the greatest of caution in such matters, even if the public must do their banking business within shorter hours.

Farmers and Mechanics of Galesburg

The Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Galesburg was organized in 1869, having received a perpetual charter from the state legislature by special enactment. The bank was located for a number of years in the Union Hotel block but in 1903 it purchased the property of the Second National at the corner of Main and Cherry streets and moved into these quarters, which have since been occupied. L. A. Townsend is the president; G. D. Crocker, vice-president; S. V. Stucky, cashier, and Frank N. Gay and Axel Gabrielson, assistant cashiers. The correspondents are the American Exchange National of New York and the Continental and Commercial National of Chicago.

New Salem Will Have First Bank

New Salem, a village in Pike county, will have its first bank as a result of a permit being issued to S. L. Griggs, W. T. Crump, S. K. Strother, L. S. Moore and V. A. Dillon for the incorporation of the State Bank of New Salem with capital of $25,000. New Salem is on the Wabash Railroad between Jacksonville and Hannibal.

Competition Leads to Bitter Rivalry

A local situation which is in some respects amusing but which may become serious has arisen in Macoupin county. Two villages, Medora and Fidelity, and their respective banks are rivals and "war" is said to exist between them. The champions of one side or of the other are doing their best to outwit the other town and bank. Recently one village held a picnic, moved the new safe of the bank into position while "a general lambasting" of the other town furnished the chief amusement of the day. "One grand picnic" was held and the entire situation, while possibly amusing from a local standpoint, may lead to financial entanglements which are not always consistent with good banking. Such practices are frowned upon by conservative bankers. Competition for banking business is all right, of course, between rival towns and rival banks, but there are many cases where it may be carried so far that some embarrassing local situations may arise.

Assistant Treasurer Host to Party

Assistant State Treasurer Cass Clifford was host to a party of state officials at the Illinois-Purdue football game played Saturday afternoon, November 15th, in connection with the annual student-alumni "home-coming" at the University of Illinois. The party included Governor Dunne, State Treasurer Ryan, State Auditor Brady, Attorney-General Lucey, Secretary-to-the-Governor Sullivan, Adjutant-General Dickson and Captain Wendling of the governor's staff.

The governor and his party were given every mark of respect and entertainment. A luncheon was tendered them by Dr. David Kinley, vice-president of the University and director of the School of Commerce, and H. S. Capron, cashier of the First National of Champaign. A reception was also given them at the University Club and at various fraternity houses. As Mr. Clifford is a former student of the University and a former teller in the First National of Champaign the event was indeed a "home-coming" to him. This is the second University game for Governor Dunne this fall as he attended the Illinois-Indiana encounter at Indianapolis a few weeks ago when he was the guest of John H. Trevett, vice-president of the Trevett-Mattis Banking Company of Champaign and a trustee of the University of Illinois.

Bank at Tonica Fails

The Tonica Exchange Bank of Tonica failed to open its doors last Saturday morning, November 15th. The bank is a private institution and the president is J. E. Hartenbower of Chicago. Tonica is in the southern part of LaSalle county. As in the case of closed institutions the exact amount of the losses will not be known for some time. The Ottawa Banking and Trust Company of Ottawa has been appointed receiver. The petition in bankruptcy was signed by Wilson E. Kreider, Joseph J. Marten and Ira M. Bassett, depositors in the bank and is directed against John E. Hartenbower and George D. Hiltabrand, copartners in the bank. The latter was cashier of the bank.

Alexander Pate is Indicted

The Iroquois county court at Watseka has returned a bill of indictment against Alexander Pate, president of the private bank at Wellington, which failed July 17th. The indictment was returned Monday, November 17th. His cashier, Reed Fuller, was indicted a few weeks ago and both have been released on bond. Various schemes have been advanced to save the depositors in the bank and it has been said that Charles U. Gordon, formerly postmaster of Chicago and a son-in-law of Alexander Pate, whose paper Pate endorsed in large amounts, would make the claims good, but so far no money has been forthcoming to the depositors who may lose heavily.

Bank Yeggmen Face Sure Punishment

A report from Yorkville, the county seat of Kendall county, regarding the arrest of three yeggmen there a month ago is as follows:

"The end of a series of northern Illinois bank robberies was forecasted when John Klint, Charles Stuppy and Herbert Washburn were arraigned for the robbery of the Milbrook Bank last November, when $11,000 was secured. The trio, suspected of connection with other similar crimes, were arrested by Will county officials at Frankfort, near Joliet, a month ago, carrying tools which might have been used by yeggs. They were released after a preliminary hearing at Joliet, for lack of evidence, after Kendall county officials had given practical assurance that a conviction would be secured on the Milbrook charge.

"When arraigned to-day on true bills alleging burglary and larceny, the three were promised a speedy trial. Twenty persons were ready to identify them as having lounged around Milbrook at the time of the crime and then suddenly disappeared. Detectives declare they traced the men from Milbrook to Joliet, and that their connection with the robbery can be clearly shown.

Illinois Notes

The place of J. A. Corbett, president of the Citizens National of Decatur and president of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, at a "get-together" banquet of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, was filled by John D. Shoop, first assistant superintendent of the Chicago public schools and a representative of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mr. Corbett was unable to be present.

Decatur bankers and business men are rejoicing in their city's industrial activity and "Wabash Day" was recently celebrated when 2,000 business and professional men and citizens visited the new one-million-dollar locomotive plant of the Wabash Railroad and attended a banquet served at the Stanley Starch Works, recently removed from Baltimore to Decatur.

MILWAUKEE

NEWS LETTER BY CHALMER B. TRAVER

WISCONSIN

A strong plea for a branch federal reserve bank in Wisconsin under the currency bill was made by Andrew J. Frame of Waukesha before the meeting of Milwaukee Chapter, American Institute of Bankers, last week.

"There is approximately $100,000,000 in deposits in the Milwaukee banks," said Mr. Frame. "Ten per cent of the capital would call for $1,620,000. The percentage called for on deposits would be $8,400,000. The total called for from the banks of Milwaukee would be $10,000,000. That $10,000,000 would be taken from Milwaukee, withdrawn from where it is loaned to merchants, manufacturers and business men of Milwaukee.

"I have hopes that if the house of representatives gives us a bill that is thoroughly objectionable, the senate will not be stampeded but will give us a bill we can freely accept as a relief measure and not as a monopolistic enterprise."

E. A. Wadhams states his views on the currency question in the following "plain business man" communication to the Sentinel:

"It seems to me that the present currency bill is drifting rapidly toward the asset currency theory. As I understand it, the idea of the present currency bill is to enable the banks to obtain currency in time of stress; in fact to make it more liquid in time of scarcity; that the so-called regional banks will rediscount short term paper of the banks that are members where the paper is satisfactory, charging such rate of interest as will practically compel the retirement within the time for which the loan is made.

"It is a question in my mind if the first effect of the bill will not be contraction, owing to the requirements of a subscription to the regional banks. In the event of a scarcity in currency the regional banks will rediscount short-term paper of the banks that are members of the association—this currency being issued by the government. What is the idea of such cumbersome and expensive machinery? Why not appoint three men, who, after passing on the paper offered, may, with the consent of the secretary of the treasury, cause to be issued by the government 50 per cent in currency on deposits of such commercial paper, endorsed by the bank wishing the loan, the clearing house in the city in which the bank seeking the loan is established to certify that in their opinion the makers of the paper are solvent?

"This may be asset currency; it undoubtedly is; so also will be the currency issued under the proposed plan; only in one case the machinery necessary to make the loans is done away with and the incidental and enormous expenses entailed for carrying out the proposed legislation is eliminated. By making the rate of interest charged by the government for the accommodation high enough and time short enough—say a maximum of four months—the rediscounted paper would undoubtedly be taken care of at maturity, and if conditions were such that the money could be loaned by the banks for regular commercial transactions at the rate charged the banks by the government, and financial conditions were such that it were thought best by the commissioners and secretary of the treasury, other paper could be used in place of that maturing.

"I do not offer this as a solution of the 'liquid currency' matter. At the same time a bill on these lines would perform practically all the functions of the cumbersome bill now before congress."

Milwaukee Chapter Men Honored

H. J. Dreher, assistant cashier of the Marshall & Ilsley Bank, and J. H. Daggett of the same institution have been honored by being made the first associates of the American Institute of Banking, the only two so honored in the entire membership throughout the country, as the result of the recent banking thesis contest. Alexander Wall of the First National received honorable mention. About a year ago the post-graduate course was established to provide advanced work for those members who had completed the courses in banking and commercial law and who desired to do original work in the history and theory of finance. The two written by the young Milwaukee bankers were selected for first places from the twelve submitted.

Insurance Company Not to Open Till January 1st

Not until January 1, 1914, or possibly later will the new Bank Deposit Limited Mutual Insurance Company of the W. B. A. be in a position to claim its license and begin business, is latest news from the office of the secretary, George D. Bartlett. In the meantime an active publicity campaign is to be carried on throughout the state, the present plan being to send a representative of the association on a tour to address groups of bankers in different sections. About one-third of the necessary 200 policy holders have signed.

Good Iron and Steel Business

An optimistic view of the country's business situation is taken by Theodore Vilter, head of the Vilter Manufacturing Company.

"We cannot agree with the expressions of shortage of work in the iron and steel industry, as have recently appeared in print," says Mr. Vilter. "Instead of slacking up, as it is reported some concerns are doing, we are employing new men and are operating night and day to keep up with our orders. We closed contracts amounting to $150,000 in October and have received the same proportion of orders so far this month."

Bankers Connected With Civic Organization

Albert C. Elser of the Second Ward Savings and Fred Vogel, Jr., of the First National are prominently identified with the new Citizens Bureau recently organized in Milwaukee to secure greater efficiency in city government and greater economy in municipal expenditures. The membership includes representative business men and manufacturers.

Banker's Daughter Married

Miss Lytie Katherine Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clyde Fuller, was married last Saturday afternoon to William Bradford Fryker, Trenton, N. J. The ceremony was held in St. Paul's Episcopal church and followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents, 585 Marshall street. Mr. and Mrs. Fryker will be at home at Trenton, N. J., after January 1st.

Racine Banker Dies

Stephen Bull, pioneer manufacturer and banker of Racine, died at his home in that city Saturday morning, aged 91. The passing of one whom Racine has long claimed as its "grand old man" and named a school after in violation of all precedent closes a long and busy life.

Mr. Bull was born on a farm in New York state, later teaching school and clerking in a store in New York City. He came to Racine in 1845, but for ten years subsequent operated a general store at Spring Prairie, Racine county. In 1857 he returned to Racine and entered the employ of his brother-in-law, Jerome I. Case, who owned a small threshing machine factory, and six years later was one of the incorporators of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company, following its reorganization. He served as vice-president of the company for many years, succeeding J. I. Case as president upon the death of the latter. He retired ten years ago, and his son, Frank K. Bull, took charge.

At one time Mr. Bull was the heaviest stockholder and president of the International Harvester company. He was one of the founders of the Manufacturers' National Bank of Racine and the First National of Burlington as well as stockholder and promoter of many smaller business enterprises.

Owing to advanced age and failing health Mr. Bull retired from active business ten years ago. His eyes failed him and during the last seven years of his life he was blind. His only public office was that of alderman of Racine. He was urged to run for mayor, the state legislature, congress and governor of the state but consistently declined. He was widely known for his charity and was a liberal donor to numerous religious, philanthropic and social movements of his adopted city. With his former partner, J. I. Case, he was interested in race horses and trained Phil Sheridan, well known on the American track fifteen years ago. He was prominent in city and state Masonic circles, a member of Racine lodge, F. and A. M.; R. A. M. of Racine Commandery; Wisconsin Consistory, Scottish Rite, class of 1868; and of Tripoli Temple, Mystic Shrine.

Wisconsin Notes

Wanted in Winnipeg, Canada, to answer charges of forging and passing twelve checks, John Victor, alias John Care, is being held by the Milwaukee police on information from the Winnipeg police.

The Farmers' State Bank of Ridgland was authorized this week. Capital $10,000. Lloyd B. Thompson, cashier.

The Stratford State has increased its capital from $10,000 to $25,000.

The fingerprint system of identification has been adopted by the West Allis State. It is reported to be rather smudgy on the depositors but the men behind the windows are enthusiastic.

Charles Schriber, aged 74, one of the oldest active bankers in the state, visited Milwaukee last week to sit in at a meeting of the Wisconsin National's directors. He is president of the Old National of Oshkosh.

WISCONSIN LIGHT AND POWER BONDS

Wisconsin light and power 5 per cent bonds are being offered in Chicago market on a 6 per cent basis. Wisconsin bankers of prominence such as Oliver C. Fuller, Fred Vogel, J. W. Lombard and Frank O. Wetmore of Chicago are on the board of directors of the company. The interest will be paid free of income tax deductions.

NEW BANKS FOR SUTTON

A charter for a state bank at Sutton, Neb., has been issued to W. H. Wallace, W. T. Wallace and H. M. Link. Its capital stock will be $30,000. This bank will take the place of the First National of Sutton, which closed its doors recently. President M. L. Luebben of the defunct bank is under $5,500 bond on a charge of embezzlement of $20,000 of the bank's funds. It also is charged that he took deposits within an hour of the time he was forced to close the doors.

Frank W. Sloan, a Geneva banker, recently was granted a charter for a state bank to be known as the Sutton State, capitalized at $25,000. Mr. Sloan is president.

BANK ASSESSMENTS STAND

The state board of equalization of Tennessee has decided not to increase the assessments for state and county made for the Memphis banks. Recently all the banks received notices from the board, asking them to show cause why their assessments, as made out for the state and county, should not be raised. The banks replied that they believed their assessments were reasonable and as high as they should be required to pay.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

St. Louis clearings for the week ending November 15th were slightly smaller than those of the corresponding week last year. The inflow of money from the country is about normal for this time of the year, but is not increasing to any marked degree. The demand for money was fair, while the rates were unchanged at and around 6 per cent.

J. W. Anderson Sued On Note

James W. Anderson, vice-president of the J. M. Anderson Grocer Company, has been named defendant in a suit for $20,728.04 filed in circuit court by the Merchants-American National of St. Louis. The bank alleges Anderson borrowed $1,273.47 on July 1, 1910, and gave his note payable on demand. On December 30, 1910, Anderson executed another demand note to the bank for $454.57. The petition alleges that Anderson and the Mississippi Valley Commission Company, of which he formerly was president, on February 20, 1906, guaranteed the payment of a demand note of $125,000, signed by the firm of Gettys & Gilbert of St. Louis, Smith, Rouse & Webster of Bel Air, Md., and C. S. Crary of Hoopeston, Ill. The note was made payable to the bank. The petition says $19,000 still is due on this note and that no further recovery is possible from the other indorsers. Anderson declined to discuss the suit.

Charge Usurious Interest

The loan shark industry in St. Louis suffered a serious blow last week, when claims, filed against two postoffice employees, were returned with the announcement that they could not be considered because the amount of interest charged made the transaction usurious. A St. Louis loan shark has made a specialty of loaning to postoffice employees for several years. The salary of a government employee is not subject to a garnishee, and for that reason a judgment obtained in court is of no value. The procedure of the sharks, when a debtor is delinquent, is to present the claim to the postmaster. Post-office employees are required to pay their debts, failure to do so being marked against their records. When two claims were presented against employees Postmaster Selph investigated. His inquiry showed that one employee was paying 50 per cent on a loan and the other was paying 140 per cent. In each case the shark had received more than the original loan in interest. For that reason the charges were not forwarded to Washington, and the only action taken was to warn the men to avoid similar complications in the future.

New Group Officers

O. E. Emery, cashier of the Bank of Winston, Winston, Mo., was elected chairman of Group Two of the Missouri Bankers Association at its meeting in Chillicothe. Mr. Emery had been secretary the past year. Oscar W. Arularius of Washington was elected chairman of Group Five at its meeting in St. Louis last week. Wm McC. Martin was chosen secretary.

Ex-Banker Sent to Prison

Preston T. Aker, formerly cashier of the Farmers Bank of Smithville, Mo., pleaded guilty in the circuit court Monday to forgery in the third degree, on three counts, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years on each count. He probably will be paroled.

Tell Truth About Ozarks

Bankers in the Ozark country, who recently formed an organization for the purpose of inducing a larger volume of immigration southern Missouri and northern Arkansas have adopted "truth" as their slogan. No extravagant pictures of the advantages and sources to be found in the Ozark country are to be painted, and homeseekers who come to the counties in which the bankers are interested in developing will not be lured by false hopes. The bankers are co-operating with the developing departments of the railroads that traverse this territory. All letters received by the railroads are to be turned over to the bankers. When an inquiry concerning certain localities is received, the letter is to be turned over to some banker in that section. The banker will write to the prospective settler, giving him the desired information. There are hundreds of thousands of acres of vacant lands in the Ozark country which only need the coming of a thrifty lot of immigrants to be made as productive as any of the improved farms.

Group Three Names Officers

H. W. Montgomery of Skidmore, Mo., was elected chairman of Group Three to succeed J. W. Broadus, St. Joseph, at the recent meeting at St. Joseph. Mr. Montgomery served secretary last year and is succeeded by E. Raines of Tarkio in that office. Bankers throughout the country were commended for their stand on the currency question and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was commended for his work to solve the currency problem. Another subject discussed at some length was the income tax question. Resolutions were adopted indorsing Thornton Cook as treasurer of the state bankers' association.

Death of Hamilton Banker

Gillooly, assistant cashier of the Charleston (Mo.) Bank, is secretary.

Defunct Bank Cashier Fined

Pleading guilty to a charge of accepting deposits when he knew the bank was insolvent, C. W. Yeager, former cashier of the Choctaw Commercial Bank, which failed at Spiro, Okla., February 4th last, was fined $500 and costs in the district court at Poteau, Okla., last week. Three similar charges were dismissed. Wynne McCann, president of the bank, was acquitted on a similar charge the week before but three additional charges are pending against him. E. L. Hickman, vice-president, and E. H. Fannin, former president, are to be tried on similar charges at Stigler, Okla.

Directors of Defunct Bank Under Arrest

C. Sticklin, vice-president; W. S. Grove, Adolph Kahn and Tom Cotton, members of the board of directors of the defunct Valley Savings Bank of Argenta, Ark., recently were indicted by the grand jury for receiving deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent. C. Sticklin was released on a bond of $4,000 and W. S. Grove, Adolph Kahn and Tom Cotton on bonds of $1,000 each. Sticklin is charged in one indictment with receiving a deposit of $541 from Oscar W. Wiehlman on June 18th and with receiving $256.62 from Louis Kiehl; W. S. Grove is charged with receiving $422 from J. C. Hadden June 17th. Adolph Kahn is charged with receiving $20 from Mrs. A. J. Chrisman April 9th and Tom Cotton with receiving $256.62 from Louis Kiehl.

Banks Will Aid City

The Bank of Pine Bluff and the Citizens Bank, Pine Bluff, Ark., together with a committee of local insurance agents, have agreed to handle enough city scrip to help the city maintain its fire department and aid other functions of the city government. The Bank of Pine Bluff will take $450 worth of scrip a month and the Citizens will take $250 worth. Other banks of the city will be called on to aid. This temporary relief of the city's financial embarrassment was obtained at a joint meeting of the city council and the Pine Bluff Clearing House Association.

Banking Board Has Paper

The Oklahoma state banking department now holds notes of I. M. Putnam, former real estate dealer in Oklahoma City, in the aggregate sum of more than $386,000, according to a statement of State Bank Commissioner J. D. Langford. The assertion was made before Lon Owen, deputy county clerk, who is taking depositions in connection with a civil suit of C. F. Elerick against the Mechanics State at Parsons, Kan. The suit is for $10,000 and was brought in Kansas. Elerick is engaged in the banking and investment business at the present time, but for many years was president of the First State of Oklahoma City, which was taken over by the banking department on March 10, 1913. The First State held notes of Putnam at the time it was taken over and in testifying to the condition of that institution Langford also told of the Putnam paper in other banks which were closed by the department. "When the board took over the bank," he said, "the board issued $191,193.13 of banking board warrants, which warrants are usually issued for the purpose of paying off the depositors of failed banks. We found $88,608 in cash and sight exchange in the First State, $39,880 cash and $48,728 sight exchange.

The loss to the department amounted to between $75,000 and $100,000.

Lose Bank Assessment Case

Hillsboro, Tex., banks recently won a sweeping victory in a suit against the court of county commissioners when the supreme court denied the writ of error applied for by H. B. Porter in the case of H. B. Porter against E. L. Langley. The suit originated some years ago when the local banks, complaining they were being assessed full value for their stock when land and other properties were assessed at only 30 and 40 per cent, entered suit to compel the commissioners' court to lower their assessments and to restrain the court from in future assessing bank property at a rate out of proportion with other property in the county. E. L. Langley, in the suit, was complainant for the banks, he being a stockholder in one of the Hillsboro institutions. When the case was tried before a jury in Hill county, they found in favor of the banks. The action of the supreme court is tantamount to affirmation of their verdict.

Southwest Notes

Col. F. M. Collier, formerly president of one of Paragould's leading banking institutions, but now residing in El Paso, Tex., to which city he moved a few years ago for the benefit of his health, is reported to be in a critical condition from the effects of an operation.

The Farmers and Merchants Bank, recently organized at Malvern, Ark., of which T. N. Atchison of Perla is president and J. W. Lee of Malvern vice-president, will soon commence work on the bank building.

The Texarkana (Ark.) Trust Company, a private banking institution, closed its doors and asked for the appointment of a receiver last week. The assets are given at $150,000 and the liabilities at $100,000.

J. S. Knox, formerly of the Pine Bluff Bottling Company, has accepted a position in the insurance department of the Cotton Belt Savings and Trust of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The Citizens Bank of Van Buren, Ark., the principal stockholder of the Bank of Mulberry, disposed of its holdings recently to M. C. and J. C. Alexander, two young business men of Mulberry, thus making this bank a strictly Mulberry institution. M. C. Alexander was elected cashier.

Ben F. Davis, a prominent land dealer of Oklahoma City, has brought suit against Colin Campbell, cashier of the First State, for $5,777, alleged to be due the plaintiff from sale of securities given with a note upon which $5,000 was borrowed.

The Texas department of insurance and banking has approved the following banks as reserve agents for state banks: Lumbermans National of Houston for the Farmers Guaranty State of North Gulch; Union National of Houston, Texas Bank and Trust of Galveston and National Bank of New York for the Columbia State of Columbia; Commercial Trust of Kansas City, Mo., for the American Bank and Trust of Galveston; Seaboard National of New York for the Farmers State of Chisholm; City National of Temple for the Temple State of Temple; First National of McKinney for the First State of Westminster; Interstate National of Kansas City and the First State of Amarillo for the American State of McLean; Union National of Houston for the Guaranty State of Robstown; State Bank and Trust of San Antonio for the Farmers Guaranty State of Jacksonville; Alamo National of San Antonio for the First State of Bandera; Temple State of Temple for the Rogers State of Rogers; First State of Terrell for the Farmers State of Chisholm.

BY THE NATIONAL PUBLICITY COMMITTEE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF BANKING

After all the pass-books have been balanced on the evening of October 31st and the old page has been torn from all our calendars and November comes into view, we at once see standing out in bold type, Thursday, November 27th.

Some how or other all bankers see the holidays first of all, and after that the next day in importance is pay day, but this year the 27th of November should come in for more than passing importance, for when all are asked to lay aside all work and give thanks for the many blessings bestowed upon us during the past year we should not forget for a moment the great blessings we as members of the American Institute of Banking have been receiving all year.

Without any exception the past year has bestowed blessing after blessing on the great educational college, and at this season of the year we should all just spend a few moments in thought and be thankful that we have been spared to see the great work of this institute prosper.

Some Few Things for Us to be Thankful For 858 new members during the year, making total of 13,587.

New chapters organized at Wheeling, Oklahoma City, Utica, Pittsfield and Houston.

Enrolled in correspondence work, 713, an increase of over 100 per cent.

Receiving certificates during the year, 340.

Post-graduate work. Forum established in all chapters for advanced study.

Over 1,000 Members Have Been Promoted to Official Positions

A. I. B. members all over the country addressing such bodies as state bankers' conventions, credit men's associations, publicity clubs, business clubs and boards of trade.

Chapters debating before the state bankers' conventions.

Chapters being asked to join state bankers' associations.

Chapters asked to join the American Bankers Association.

Everywhere the greatest respect being shown the A. I. B., all on account of the great work being accomplished by the several institutes, and because of the great position the American Institute of Banking is attaining.

Remember the A. I. B. on Thanksgiving.

DEFENDS RESERVE REQUIREMENTS OF BILL

E. D. Hulbert, vice-president of the Merchants Loan and Trust, whose counsel was sought in amending the administration currency bill, does not subscribe to the criticisms directed at the reserve features of the measure. In some quarters the complaint is made that the 18 per cent reserve demanded of city banks as against only 12 per cent from the country banks is too great.

Mr. Hulbert's views follow:

"The allowance to the country banks to leave four of the twelve per cent with the reserve city correspondents is of course temporary," he said, "and after three years all must be in vault or with the regional bank. But that does not mean the country banks will not continue to carry extensive accounts with city correspondents, for they will whether it counts as reserve or not.

"Perhaps it is not generally understood that the eighteen per cent applies only to demand deposits. Only five per cent must be held against time deposits.

"I don't think there is any general objection to the eighteen per cent minimum. On the contrary, I think most of the city banks would carry that amount anyway. I don't think it at all onerous."

BUSEY AND LEWINSOHN EXAMPLES

Two conspicuous examples of right and wrong finishes to a private banking career have been furnished in Illinois within the week. Matthew W. Busey, an honest, competent banker at Urbana, trusted in high places and rejoicing in the esteem and confidence of every one in a well educated and refined environment, has converted his private bank to a state institution under supervision and inspection. We believe that he read the signs of the times correctly. His fine bank will increase its prestige and influence and become a much more stable property under state supervision than was possible under private management.

There hasn't been a time in ten years when Mr. Busey might not have converted but he chose a time when public sentiment had ripened in favor of state controlled institutions. His bank is the chosen custodian of the funds of the great University of Illinois and his family for fifty years have been owners of stocks in Chicago's strongest banks.

On the other hand a discredited ex-saloon and professional bondsman for habitués of the lower world saw an opening for easy money in the unguarded banking field known as private banking. He was amazed that no license was required, he said, nor any known capital demanded. He just opened up and ran about seven months, in which time he acquired about $25,000 in deposits. His side line of show bonds ran afoul of a U. S. judge and the "banker" skipped out with all but $5.38 in real money. This was the other example. In speaking of the affair the Daily News says that it "merely adds one more to a long list of examples of evil results coming from the state's disgraceful failure to require official supervision of all private banks. Prior to the recent session of the general assembly of Illinois, when legislation was sought to place all private banks under state supervision, many instances were brought to light showing the imperative need of state supervision. The legislature failed to pass the desired measure, just as previous legislatures had failed to pass measures aimed at unsafe banks. It listened to the arguments of private bankers who wish to be free to carry on banking in any way they please and ignored the interests of bank depositors.

"Thus Illinois continues to be disgraced by rotten institutions like the Lewinsohn bank, which kept open its doors and took in money from depositors as long as it could manage to keep a little handful of cash in its safe or until its proprietor was ready to run away."

All the good private bankers should emulate Matthew W. Busey's example and sooner or later all the bad ones will have followed that of Mr. Lewinsohn. The state legislature cannot disgrace itself again for two years by refusing to pass a new banking bill.

LARGER PAID CIRCULATION IN THE MIDDLE WEST THAN ANY THREE OF ITS COMPETITORS COMBINED

AN ENTIRE ESTATE SQUANDERED

The published bulletin of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. gives official evidence of the total failure of a private trusteeship in an important instance. John L. Davis a retired lake captain, left one-half of his $100,000 estate to charity and the other one-half to a favorite nephew, who was made the executor of the estate without bond. Three important and deserving charities were to receive $17,500 each. They were the Y. M. C. A., Divinity House at Chicago University and the Home for Destitute and Crippled Children. Had the ship captain named any of the well-known trust companies of this city, the three deserving charities would have benefited over fifty thousand dollars. Further, the favorite nephew might have been living and in enjoyment of the income from a like fifty thousand left to him. Not one dollar was paid to any of the three charities. The nephew, finding himself in command of $100,000 in money, decided to "double it" and dived into the grain market and dived wrong. He lost it all and was so chagrined that he promptly committed suicide. Thus the savings of a life-time of good old Captain Davis were dissipated and a life sacrificed because he appointed an inexperienced young man without bond to administer his estate.

A corporate trustee would have carried out the captain's smallest wish with fidelity and care. The charities would have each received the $17,500 provided in the captain's legacy and the income on the remaining fifty thousand would have been insured to the foolish and inexperienced nephew. He would not have disgraced his family name nor have been compelled to sacrifice his life to atone for his mistakes. No stronger evidence of the advantages of trust companies or administrators for estates has come to public notice in the middle west than the case of Captain Davis and his favorite nephew.

THE HONOR SYSTEM

Not very long ago announcement was made through the press that a number of convicts from the penitentiary at Joliet were to be employed in actual road work under the honor system. That class of skeptics which constitutes a portion of the society of every community was of the opinion that such a scheme could meet with nothing but failure, arguing that "once a criminal always a criminal." I was believed that the opportunities for escape would be so great that some of the convicts, at least, would be unable to resist the temptation. It need hardly be said that experience has proven the reverse of this position to be true. The results obtained have been highly satisfactory. We have heard of no escapes or even attempted escapes. At the same time, a humanitarian purpose has been accomplished and the unfortunate members of society have had impressed upon their minds the fact that there still is a chance for them and they have been allowed to go out into the open air and build up their bodies and develop their minds. What man in his right senses and realizing the utter futility of an attempt to escape would be willing to run the risk of losing the chance to work out in the open and preparing himself to resume his place in society after his term of servitude shall have expired?

The convict system of labor has been adopted in a number of states and without exception it has proven to be all that its advocates claimed for it.

"VAN CLEVE," BY MARY S. WATTS

The author of "The Legacy" and of "Nathan Burke" has added another character which will live in fiction as "Letty Breen" and "Nathan Burke" have done. He is Van Cleve Kendrick, and if we guess aright he will be Mrs. Watts' most pleasing and convincing creation. If you haven't had the prior Watts books they will repay a hundred fold the careful reading. One of the most accomplished critics says that while we "can give most novels an individuality and place them somewhere in the novel world, 'Van Cleve' is one of the very best novels of the season. 'Van Cleve' is a real piece of literature. The discriminating readers who will take the time to read this leisurely novel will be thoroughly rewarded. 'Van Cleve' is well worked out and stands clear in one's mind until the end. Van Cleve, the man, is almost an average American business man of the period, with a sound core and a stern, gruff exterior, which, like the shell of a sweet nut, repels until it is broken. Although he is the hero of a love story, incidentally brought into the plot, he has not any poetic sentiment. His is a practical sentiment, expressed in practical ways, not by fine speeches, not by roses and music, or even by theater tickets, but by little ministrings to the comfort of the Gilbert family on account of his sentiment for Lorrie Gilbert, to whom he clings for ten years before she decides his character and his love are worth more than those of other men she has known and who have failed her—although they had more of the ways of a lover of poetic sentiment."

All of the quoted words are true, as any reader may determine for himself. "Van Cleve" is one of the best books of the year. Published by The Macmillan Company, New York, at $1.35 net.

LAYMAN'S VIEW OF CURRENCY LAW

To the Editor:

The present financial system of this country is probably the worst that could be conceived of. It in effect puts all the reserve funds of the United States in the control of a few banks in New York, and they are under the ownership of several groups of so-called financiers headed by Morgan and Rockefeller. These men use the money in a way to obtain for themselves the control of all the railroads, traction systems, gas companies and other utilities as well as the production of the necessities of life, such as steel, coal, sugar, leather and lumber.

They also have a voice in the larger banks of the West and South and dominate the policies of newspapers and magazines that influence public opinion. They have a hold directly or indirectly on every business man in the country.

When anything happens to bring about a panic these reserve banks in New York suspend payments (as in 1907) and the banks in the West and South, being unable to get their reserve funds from New York, are compelled also to refuse to pay depositors. The result is a loss of hundreds of millions of dollars in values of farm produce and manufactured commodities.

President Wilson is now engaged in an effort to create fifteen regional banks to be located at business centers in the various sections which will hold the reserves of the banks, each in its particular section, for the use of the business of their respective tributaries. In this way the money of the country, instead of being used in stock speculations on Wall Street, could be at the disposal of the business men for legitimate transactions.

The New York banks, aided by such of the interior banks as they control and their newspaper allies, are trying to force such amendments as would perpetuate the control of the funds by New York.

The one vital thing they are after is to limit the regional banks to three, to be located in New York, Chicago and St. Louis, with the management in the hands of "bankers," which means themselves. This would afford no relief to the farmers and business men of the West and South, who would be forced, as at present, to depend upon New York for their credits.

It is the desire of the president that these regional banks be under the control of the government as the national treasury is now, with the power to issue additional currency in the event of any emergency requiring temporary help to be extended to the banks of deposit in the cities and towns.

Under this arrangement no panic would be likely to occur, or, if started, would be quickly suppressed, for there would be no time that notes or drafts representing the movement of any commodity would fail to secure immediate cash.

Under the Morgan and Rockefeller domination there are times when a depositor with money in his bank cannot draw it out. Under the proposed plan that would never happen, for at no time would the orderly movement of commercial transactions be interrupted for the want of currency, and no depositor in any bank would need to draw his balance and put it in the safety deposit vault for fear of a suspension or failure.

The currency bill is the one opportunity extended to the people to free themselves from the long existing monopolies, and every motive of self-interest should prompt the constituents of congressmen to urge a support of the president in his efforts for their relief.

RESIGNATION OF CHICAGO BANKER REGRETTED

Malcolm McDowell, who was connected with the Central Trust Company of Illinois from the time the vacant quarters were rented at Monroe and Dearborn streets where this important Chicago institution was organized now more than ten years ago, recently resigned his position as assistant secretary and has gone to Baltimore, Md., to be director of publicity for the Southern Settlement and Development Organization with offices in the Continental building.

Mr. McDowell took a prominent part in the building up of the business of the Central Trust, particularly in the preparation of their advertising matter when they were a new bank and in the direction of attracting a suitable savings bank clientele. Later when the trust department grew to important large proportions he established relations with that branch of the business. To Chicagoans he was better known as a newspaper man and "friend of the hobo." In the old days he was city editor of the Chicago Record and was its political and legislative representative at Springfield. He also was war correspondent for this paper during the war with Spain. Mr. McDowell enjoyed a personal acquaintance with Col. Roosevelt of the Rough Riders and had many opportunities for inside stories of the Cuban campaign.

When Chicago business men several years ago found it necessary to provide coffee and rolls for the down and outers, Mr. McDowell was given charge of the expenditure of the funds. Thousands of unfortunates were nightly furnished with rolls and coffee and Mr. McDowell picked up many interesting stories of how these men came to be in the bread line. It has been stated that Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust, who was instrumental in financing this sort of relief, intends to build a hotel on the West Side where lodging may be obtained at a nominal sum.

Mr. McDowell has been actively engaged in civic welfare work and was prominently identified with the Chicago Association of Commerce. Baltimore and southern bankers will find him well informed in banking matters and a man of broad general information who can assist materially in the plans they have for settlement and development of their southern city and the territory tributary to it. THE CHICAGO BANKER regrets to see Mr. McDowell leave the Chicago banking field and extends its best wishes for his success in his new line of endeavor.

FOR ADVANCED AGRICULTURE

At a meeting at the First National, Joliet, Ill., a committee of seven was named, headed by Hugh Mitchell, to take charge of the general campaign that is being waged in Will county in the interest of advanced agriculture. The committee, in addition to Mr. Mitchell is composed of A. E. Dinert, E. L. Wilson, C. E. Wilson, Geo. Woodruff, Fred M. Muhlig and Frank C. Grannis. The committee will be entrusted with the delicate task of bringing together the farming, business and political interests necessary in working out the plans of the organization. It will work through the banks, business men's association, grange, farmers' institute and the various organizations of the district. The object is to bring general support for the efforts made here to increase the yield in the farming districts, and is based on the well-known fact that the prosperity of the farmer is the basis of all progress and all wealth. The final working out of the general scheme will mean that the association will eventually have its headquarters in the county building, and, being of a semi-public character, its research work will be supported by the federal, state and county governments, along with that of the individual farmers.

TAKE UP POSTGRADUATE COURSE

The postgraduate course of the New Orleans Chapter of the American Institute of Banking was organized recently. R. S. Hecht, trust officer of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, who will conduct the courses of study during the winter, has given an outline of the program for the class. Eighteen graduates of the study courses of the institute are members of the class and several bank officials of the city who are associate members also will participate in the post graduate study.

Cleveland

Central States News Letter

Cincinnati

The First Trust and Savings Company, the newest addition to Cleveland's banks, formally was opened to the public on Tuesday. The institution has been doing business for several months, but now it has moved from the upper floor in the First National Bank building to its spacious new home in the basement. A winding marble stairway leads down from the First National entrance to a marble hall, horseshoe in shape and finished in sturdy Egyptian columns. Pillars, walls, floor and ceiling are white marble. John Sherwin is president of the First Trust and Savings, Thomas H. Wilson and F. J. Woodworth are vice-presidents, George N. Sherwin is secretary and Robert S. Crawford treasurer. A reception to depositors and friends of the trust company was held all day Tuesday.

Union National Insures Employees

The Union National of Cleveland has insured its entire staff of employees under the group insurance plan. The bank has taken out a policy on the lives of its sixty-eight men and women, each to be insured to the extent of one year's salary, based on the present year's amount. "It is in line with the spirit of the times," said George A. Coulton, a vice-president of the Union National. "This new method of insurance gives an opportunity to corporations to show appreciation of the loyalty of their employees. The directors of the Union National are glad to be among the first thus to show regard for the welfare of employees." George H. Worthington is president of the bank; E. R. Fancher and Mr. Coulton are vice-presidents; W. E. Ward, cashier, and W. C. Saunders and E. E. Cresswell, assistant cashiers. The Union is the first national in Cleveland thus to insure its people and the fifth big Cleveland establishment to do so.

Will Sell Bonds

City Auditor Coughlin of Cleveland has announced that bonds to complete municipal projects now under way will be offered for sale at once at 4¼ per cent interest. Marketing of $5,992,000 worth of city bonds had been held up pending the vote on the constitutional amendment removing the tax on bonds. None of the money from these bond issues can be used to help out city funds, and a retrenchment policy has been started with a deficit facing nearly every department. Receipts did not reach the estimate made when the semiannual appropriation was made, and funds are running short.

Wants Bank Laws Made More Strict

Elimination of the overdraft, prohibition of interlocking boards of directors, greater responsibility on the part of the directors for criminal transactions and rectification of the state banking laws are among the radical changes recommended for legislative action by State Banking Superintendent Emery Lattanner of Ohio in his annual report. Superintendent Lattanner would make it a felony for any one to give a check knowing that he has not adequate funds to meet it. "In my opinion the evil that has resulted and the opportunity that is afforded by the system of interlocking directors outweigh the advantage of any such system sufficiently to make advisable a law forbidding this practice," said the superintendent. He discusses private banks and suggests that every institution that accepts money from the public for deposit be made subject to the bank superintendent and made to stand investigation. Since the amendment to the constitution was adopted putting all institutions that use the words "bank," "banker" or "banking" under the superintendent, a considerable number of companies have started that are banks but do not use these words. They are deposit companies. He recommends that state and private banks be prohibited from loaning money to their officers or directors, except where the state superintendent of banks approves the security offered by the officers or directors, and that all private banks be compelled to have a capital stock paid in. He suggests that banking laws be recodified by the banking superintendent, the attorney-general and two bankers of recognized standing. He desires authorization also to refuse charters to banks when the conditions of the community do not augur well for stability, and recommends the creation of the position of deputy state superintendent. Ohio state banks had resources of $587,846,-858.49 under the returns for the call of October 21st. That was a gain of $2,800,000 over the statement of September 4th.

New Trust Company

Corporation papers have been filed at Columbus for a new banking and trust company which will be known as the Union Savings Bank and Trust Company, to be established at Steubenville with a paid-in capital of $150,000. The new company will take over the business of the Union Deposit Bank, which has been in existence since 1854. A modern new building will be erected.

Ohio Nationals Show Increase

The abstract of the condition of the national banks of Ohio, exclusive of reserve cities, at the close of business on October 21st, as reported to the comptroller of the currency, show the average reserve held at 16.68 per cent, as compared with 16.11 per cent on August 9th; loans and discounts decrease from $188,920,849 to $188,597,385; individual deposits decrease from $220,637,592 to $214,519,749.

File Exceptions to Ruling

C. C. Lyon and H. E. Burns, representing the depositors' committee of the Columbus (Ohio) Savings and Trust Company, filed an exception to the ruling of Judge Kinkead in common pleas court on Wednesday of last week in regard to the sale of the bank building. The petition declares that it would work a hardship on the depositors if they were compelled to deposit $5,000 in cash with their bid and this rule, if enforced, would virtually be a discrimination on the part of the court. They cite the fact that the depositors are ready to bid for the building but that they have no ready cash, and that they would be compelled to borrow the same if the cash forfeit clause is enforced. They ask for the right to bid on the building without putting up any cash forfeit. Judge Kinkead on Tuesday announced that the building will go at public auction December 15th for not less than two-thirds of the appraised value of $950,000, and that all bidders will be required to give a cash surety of $5,000 before bidding.

Ohio Notes

The Miners and Mechanics Savings Bank and Trust Company, Steubenville, has been incorporated for $100,000 by the present board of directors. This bank soon will occupy a new building.

R. B. Barrett of Cincinnati, assistant cashier of the United States subtreasury, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Dayton Chapter, American Institute of Banking, held last week. His subject was "Money—Its Making and the Secrecy Behind the Process."

Officials of the Citizens National, Xenia, are considering plans for the erection of a building to be used for their institution.

The stockholders of the Farmers State Savings, Continental, have elected the following directors: H. W. Troyer, C. H. Donaldson, W. H. Kelly, O. F. Owens, Benton Hall, C. E. Wight, A. J. Mullett and D. H. Groff. The ninth director will be elected at a meeting to be held soon.

Changes in Baltimore Bank

Directors of the Drovers and Mechanics National of Baltimore, Md., have made the following changes in officers: Herbert H. Owens, formerly assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants National, was made assistant to the president; Edwin P. Hayden, formerly assistant cashier of the Drovers and Mechanics, was made cashier; Lester Wallace, formerly discount clerk, and E. W. Talbott, formerly paying teller, both of the Drovers and Mechanics, were promoted to assistant cashiers. This fills the position of cashier, made vacant by the death of Charles S. Miller, and gives the bank three assistant cashiers, Eugene L. Renner being first assistant. The position which Mr. Owens will fill is a new one with the bank. He is one of the best known of the younger banking men in the city and has been with the Farmers and Merchants for years, having started his business career there when a youth.

New Bank for Frederick

Frederick, Md., soon is to have its eighth bank and the second new one within a year. The Peoples State is the name of the newest bank and application has been made to the state banking commissioner. The incorporators are Casper E. Cline, J. J. Bielfield and R. S. J. Dutrow of Frederick; George T. Dudlerer of Urbana and George S. Crum of Jefferson. The directorate includes the incorporators and Spencer Stup of Charlesville, Marion S. Michael of Doubs and Bradley H. Dutlow of Hyattstown. More directors will be elected. The new bank will open for business on August 1, 1914.

Withholding Funds

The question of whether the banks and trust companies of Hamilton county shall divulge the names of their depositors and the amount of money they had on deposit the first of last March was raised before Judge Vestal at Noblesville, Ind., this week by Prosecutor Osborn when Earl Baker, cashier of the Citizens State, refused to answer such questions before the grand jury. Prosecutor Osborn explained that the records showed there was something like $1,500,000 more money on deposit in the financial institutions of the county last spring, according to the official statements of banks and trust companies, than was listed by the assessors, and he said he desired to find the discrepancies if possible. In other words, he said he wanted to see if any taxpayers had withheld from the assessors the sums of money they had on deposit that spring. Judge Vestal will take up the matter in a complete form. This is a new question in Indiana and the ruling of the court will be watched with much interest.

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

W. E. Briggs of the Stock Yards National of St. Paul was elected president of the Twin Cities Bankers Club at the business meeting in Minneapolis on Saturday of last week. Other officers are G. F. Orde of the First National, Minneapolis, vice-president; Henry Von Der Weyer of the Merchants National, St. Paul, secretary and treasurer, and E. H. Bailey, First National, St. Paul, and Theodore Wold, Scandinavian-American National, Minneapolis, executive committeeman. A dinner at the Minneapolis club was the closing event of a day's entertainment of twenty-five Canadian visitors. There were more than one hundred and twenty-five present. Formal addresses were made by Marion D. Shutter, D. D., and J. Adam Bede. Other speakers were G. H. Balfour, D. S. Culver, Allan D. Albert and W. Sanford Evans. Sir William Whyte of Winnipeg and J. A. Rowley, also of Canada. F. A. Gross of Minneapolis, retiring president of the bankers' club, presided. G. H. Balfour of Winnipeg proposed a toast to "The President," and D. S. Culver to "The King." Both were responded to with the singing of "America" and "God Save the King." "When we Anglo-Saxons shake hands, war will cease," said Sir William Whyte, the man who built the Canadian Pacific road. "Money spent on warships is a travesty on civilization. I feel the sympathy between the United States and Canada growing stronger each day." The Canadian bankers who were present were Robert Campbell, general manager Northern Crown Bank; G. H. Balfour, general manager Union Bank of Canada; F. L. Patton, superintendent Dominion Bank; C. W. Rowley, manager Canadian Bank of Commerce;

W. J. Finucan, manager Merchants Bank of Canada; H. B. Shaw, assistant manager Union Bank of Canada; D. M. Neeve, manager Union Bank of Canada; J. McEachern, superintendent and G. A. C. Weir, manager Bank of British North America; D. C. Rea, manager Royal Bank of Canada; J. R. Lamb, manager Bank of Toronto; J. B. Persse, director and W. A. Machaffie, manager Home Bank of Canada; Blair Robertson, manager Bank of Nova Scotia; J. S. Turner, manager Standard Bank of Canada; George Munro, superintendent, Merchants Bank of Canada; A. M. Naton, director Dominion Bank; George Allen, director Canadian Bank of Commerce; W. Sanford Evans, president Winnipeg Stock Exchange.

Bank Must Repeat Payment

The Capital National of St. Paul will have to make restitution of $2,500 to the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Minnesota, according to a decision handed down by District Judge Fesler last week. The case grows out of one of several speculations of the defunct Hartman-O'Donnell agency, whose operations have been the subject of legal investigations in other suits recently heard by the courts. The court finds that on July 1, 1911, the Ancient Order of United Workmen drew a check for $2,500 on the St. Paul bank in favor of Emma M. Anschutz, which was delivered to C. J. O'Donnell, who represented that his company had authority to handle the business affairs of Mrs. Anschutz. O'Donnell, holds the court, forged the name of Mrs. Anschutz to the check, and had it cashed through a local bank. Not until some time afterward did the officers of the order discover that the payee's signature had been forged, and that O'Donnell had obtained the money by fraudulent representations. Then demand was made on the St. Paul institution for return of the money, but payment was refused.

W. B. Geery Married

W. B. Geery, vice-president of the Capital National, St. Paul, was married on Wednesday afternoon to Miss Mabel E. Lanpher.

Bank President's Daughter Hurt

Miss Lois Van Slyke, daughter of President V. H. Van Slyke of the Metropolitan National, Minneapolis, was badly injured in an automobile accident last Sunday. Accompanied by four young women friends she was making an automobile drive from Mayville to Hillsboro. About two miles out of Hillsboro one of the wheels broke and the machine, traveling at about twenty-five miles an hour, was hurled into a ditch. Miss Van Slyke and the other occupants were thrown across the road. All were injured and were removed to the Anderson hospital, where it was found that the injuries of Miss Van Slyke were serious. She was thrown forty feet and sustained bruises about the head and body, and a sprained wrist. The attending physicians are hopeful of her recovery.

Becoming Investing Centers

Minneapolis and St. Paul rapidly are moving into a prominent place as investment centers. From a comparatively unimportant factor a few years ago, the Twin Cities are to-day recognized as among the most important cities in the West in the matter of furnishing funds for investments, and it is estimated that within the last three years, the two cities have contributed upwards of \$50,000,000 a year to this purpose. "For many years past a majority of the most attractive investment bonds issued in the United States have been sold to eastern investors and institutions," said Edwin White of White, Grubbs & Co., St. Paul. "This condition of affairs has been natural as it is only recently that western cities of the size and class of St. Paul or Minneapolis have begun to accumulate any large amount of funds for investment. It is estimated, however, that in the past three years an average of upwards of \$50,000,000 per annum has been invested in bonds by individuals, banks and institutions in the Twin Cities and that the amount of money available for investment is constantly increasing. Investment bonds are selling at prices almost as low as those which prevailed during the panic in 1907. A gradual slow-down of general business is being experienced throughout the country and funds for investment are accumulating. At the present time with so many important political and financial questions hanging over the situation, these funds are timid, but they will be released eventually. The market for municipal bonds is now experiencing a sharp up-turn. For instance, bonds of the city of St. Paul which were unsalable a few months ago on a $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent basis have recently been sold on a $4\frac{1}{4}$ per cent basis. This represents on a thirty year bond, a rise of over 4 per cent or \$40 per \$1,000 bond. The above condition is no doubt due partly to the fact that municipal bonds are exempt from taxation under the new income tax. Investors do not realize that approximately 85 per cent of the public utility bonds in this country are also exempt from this tax, owing to the fact that most of the issuing companies agree to pay the interest and principal of their bonds without deduction of any federal tax that will be levied."

Brown County Prospers

Brown (Minn.) county banks have prospered during the past year, according to reports which show an increase of $795,432.90 in deposits, or a per capita increase of $39.46, using the 1910 census figures as a population basis. The total deposits in New Ulm and Brown county are $5,516,394.26. With a per capita deposit of $273.94, Brown county is placed as one of the wealthiest counties in Minnesota.

Court Raps Method of Bank's Purchase

A new trial of the case brought by the First State of Storden to recover on a note given by Jens B. Pederson of Cottonwood county to the Sioux Falls Medical Institute, was ordered by the supreme court. The opinion by Homer C. Dibel, commissioner, scores the practices of the institute and says it has no sympathy for the banking methods which resulted in the purchase of such papers as the note in question, and that it only was on account of serious errors by the lower court that a new trial was ordered. A representative of the Sioux Falls Medical Institute, according to the record, bought out Pederson on his farm and telling him his wife had tuberculosis, asked permission to treat her and said he had a treatment not known to other physicians. He was induced to sign a note. The note was sold to the bank on a basis which would give it 30 per cent return on its investment. The opinion says that the evidence justifies a finding that the note was procured by fraud, and that the plaintiff was not an innocent purchaser, but the errors by the court necessitate a new trial.

New North Dakota Institution

With a capitalization of $100,000, practically all of which is subscribed, the Midwest Loan and Trust within a short time will open its doors for business in Valley City. The charter for the new company was granted at a special meeting of the state banking board. Former Governor Frank White heads the new company and T. Melvin Lee, former assistant cashier of the Bank of Kathryn, is the secretary. The directors named are E. A. Mikkleson, C. F. Budgett, J. E. Jones, Herman Winterer, Lee Cowell, Ludwig Lee and Sam Mason, all of Valley City.

Finances Good

The banks of Bottineau (N. D.) county in their official statement made in October show that there is over three million dollars on deposit in the banks of the county. The three banks in the city of Bottineau have a total of $787,615.97 and the other city banks in the county have over two million dollars on deposit. The total resources of all the banks in the county amount to over four million dollars.

State In Charge of Bank

The state banking department of South Dakota on Friday of last week took charge of the Security State of Faulkton, S. D. The bank had a 30 per cent reserve on hand. The cause of the suspension is due to the fact that practically all the stock of the bank was held by the Morse estate, and that no administrator has been appointed since the death of A. W. Morse, president of the bank. Banking irregularities were discovered, it is alleged, and while the bank had a reserve larger than normal, it was turned over to the department for the protection of all interests concerned.

Buys Bank

E. S. Johnson of Yankton, S. D., former democratic candidate for governor of the state, has closed a deal whereby he becomes owner of the Valley State at Lake Andes, S. D., formerly the property of W. B. Gilreath, who was president of the institution. The other officers of the bank under the old organization were J. T. Payne, vice-president, and C. D. Gilreath, cashier. Charles T. Kite of Sioux City, who has been in the employ of the Johnson Brothers Land Company for twenty-two years, will go to Lake Andes and take charge of the bank as cashier. Mr. Johnson will continue to make his home in Yankton. He will take possession of the Valley State the first of the year.

Sioux Falls Banker Stricken

H. R. Dennis, for years president of the Sioux Falls Savings and widely known in banking and business circles in South Dakota, was stricken with paralysis Saturday night, and is in a critical condition. Mr. Dennis served a term as president of the Sioux Falls Commercial Club. He formerly resided at Des Moines.

Will Start Bank in Montana

Victor S. Himsl, St. Cloud, Minn., has announced that he has completed arrangements for the organization and operation of a new bank in the town of Plevna, Mont., for John Borgerding. The new bank will be known as the Borgerding State Bank of Plevna and will be capitalized at $20,000. John Borgerding will be president and Mr. Himsl, cashier. The latter was formerly connected with the State Bank of Royalton, Minn., the Avon (Minn.) State, which he organized, and the Farmers State of Holdingford, Minn.

Montana Banks Merge

The two banks of Saco, Mont., the First National and the bank of C. W. Neslon and Co., recently were purchased by the Ross-Davidson people and will be consolidated and run as the First National. The new owners are interested heavily in banks in North Dakota. Several Saco parties will own stock in the bank, but the new owners will have control.

Northwest Notes

The sinking fund committee, St. Paul, will receive bids November 24th for \$525,000 of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent library bonds to be delivered in installments of \$100,000 every two months beginning May 1, 1914. The bonds will run for thirty years.

The Farmers State of St. Leo, Minn., has been organized, and will open for business December 1st. H. J. Tillemans is president, A. J.

Kile, vice-president; D. H. Ruliffson, cashier. The directors are H. J. Tillemans, A. J. Kile, S. B. Erickson, John Tillemans and D. H. Ruliffson.

The new home of the Scandia State of Fergus Falls, Minn., has been completed and is now occupied by the bank. It is a two story structure and presents a very imposing appearance. Dr. O. T. Sherping is president, G. H. Woodhouse, vice-president; A. G. Anderson, cashier and B. M. Lein, assistant cashier.

The State Bank of Mizpah, Minn., has been licensed to do business by K. S. Chase, state superintendent of banks. J. G. Gebhard of St. Paul is president; Arthur E. Foster, vice-president and E. J. F. Kohlhasse, cashier. The capital is $10,000.

The Farmers State at Mantador, N. D., is building a new brick home on the new town site.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Farmers State, Chester, S. D., with a capital of $10,000. A. L. Butler is president; H. C. Jensen, vice-president, and M. Christensen, cashier.

Bank clearings of $555,875.03 were reported by the Aberdeen (S. D.) clearing house association at the close of the week November 15th. This is about $5,000 less than the corresponding week last year.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the South Dakota state banking department for the Grover (S. D.) State, showing a capital of $10,000. The incorporators are H. P. Anderson, Clearfield, Minn.; O. G. Frink, George K. Burt, H. A. Franke and W. A. Current of South Shore.

State Bank Examiner H. S. Magraw of Montana, has licensed the Farmers Bank of Wolf Point, capital $20,000, of which G. B. Kirk, Jr., is president and W. J. H. Montgomery, cashier, and the Fromberg State of Fromberg, capitalized at $20,000 of which Ed. Lester is president and C. H. Patterson, cashier.

The Commercial State, Miles City, Mont., has been awarded the $100,000 issue of refunding bonds to take up outstanding road and bridge warrants of the county, at 5 per cent interest, and $1,700 premium.

VIOLATE "BLUE SKY" LAW

L. R. Kaylor and A. D. Baker, brokers of Portland, Ore., were arrested on Wednesday of last week on charges of violating the provisions of the Oregon "Blue Sky" law. The men were released on $1,000 bail. Following these arrests will come the first criminal prosecutions under the new act. The men are charged with offering stocks for sale contrary to the word of the act, which provides that it is unlawful to deal in stocks or securities of any company unless a permit is first secured from the state corporation department.

MISSISSIPPI BANK CLOSES DOORS

The Bank of Gloster, Gloster, Miss., closed its doors last week. Inability to realize on investments is given as the cause of the failure. The liabilities are $78,000 and assets said to be $149,000. G. H. Barney is president, W. D. Johns, vice-president, and N. B. McLain, cashier. Mr. Barney has been sick for a couple of months and Mr. McLain also has been sick for some time. C. H. Bates and B. S. Johns were appointed receivers. It is believed that the depositors will be paid in full.

PRIVATE BANK TAKEN OVER

The Knapp Bank of Minooka, Ill., a private institution, has been absorbed by the Farmers National of that place.

Accounts of Iowa banks invited. Reserve agents for national banks

Sioux City and Des Moines banks are going to take advantage of Uncle Sam's kindness in offering money with which to move the Iowa crops. Strictly speaking, Iowa does not need the money for crop moving but the farmers are demanding funds with which to purchase stock for fattening purposes while the prices are down. It was thought that Des Moines would not accept any of the money but after Sioux City banks had decided to take a slice, the Des Moines financiers likewise got busy. Judge M. J. Wade of Iowa City, representing the treasury had notified Washington that Des Moines banks did not care for the loan. Then he learned of the change of attitude on the part of the bankers and so notified the government. The $500,000 allotted to Des Moines will be apportioned among the Des Moines National, Citizens National and Valley National. The money will be forthcoming at once, Judge Wade has been told.

Condition of Iowa National Banks

The abstract of the condition of the national banks of Iowa exclusive of reserve cities, following the recent national bank call, is announced by the comptroller of the currency as follows: Average reserve held at 15.75 as against 15.60 August 9th. Loans and discounts increased from $112,564,330 to $116,915,098, gold coin from $2,527,467 to $2,626,160 and individual deposits from $112,322,430 to $115,812,655.

Change in Bank Examiners

An interesting change in national bank examiners is announced for the first of December. H. M. Bostwick, who has been in the service for many years and is well known in the state, "got in bad" with the comptroller of the currency and was officially decapitated. It is understood that Alphonse Bruning, teller in the Davenport Savings at Davenport, will succeed him. Mr. Bruning was examined by Acting Comptroller Kane and satisfactorily passed. It is asserted that Mr. Bostwick examined more than one bank in a day. He was scolded for it, whereupon he wrote a "sassy" letter to the comptroller. His removal followed, but he was told that his term of service would not terminate until December 1st.

Indictments Against Bankers Quashed

Indictments returned in the federal court at Fort Dodge charging John C. Preston of Crystal Lake, Minn., and H. M. Martinson of Lake Mills with making false entries, were dismissed this week. C. A. Isaacs of Forest City and L. G. Larson of Crystal Lake were indicted at the same time. Isaacs was convicted and sentenced but was pardoned by President Wilson. Larson was acquitted in the U. S. courts. The dismissal of the cases against Preston and Martinson winds up the entire affair and bondsmen have been released.

Sues for Alleged Misrepresentation

Arthur Reynolds, president of the Des Moines National and recently elected president of the American Bankers Association, declares he will persist in his suit for damages of $40,000 against Mrs. C. E. Rawson, formerly vice-president of the Des Moines Life Insurance Company, her son-in-law, Wilmot Harbach, secretary, and President Johnson of the National Life of Chicago. Mr. Reynolds bases his suit upon the fact that he was induced to sell fifty shares in the Des Moines Life for $200 per share at the time the company was taken over by the Chicago concern. Later he found that the stock was worth $1,000 per share and this latter figure was paid Mrs. Rawson. Last week Mr. Reynolds was the principal witness in a suit brought by Charles Beidenkopf of New York to have the sale of the company set aside on the grounds that misrepresentation was secured in buying up the minority stock. Mr. Reynolds testified that Mrs. Rawson led him to believe that she was forced to sell and that it would be a great favor to her as a life-long friend if he would permit her to purchase his holdings. He consented, he said, not knowing that she was withholding facts from him as to the amount she had been offered for her own stock. Judge Brennan, before whom the case was tried, held against Beidenkopf and in favor of the defendant. In his opinion the court referred to Mr. Reynolds but said he was unable to see where the bank was imposed upon. The court said that the stock which Mrs. Rawson sold was her own and she was privileged to sell it at any price she could get. She was not bound to tell Mr. Reynolds how much she expected to get for it, the court held. Mr. Reynolds said that his case will be tried by a jury and that the ruling in the Beidenkopf case does not in any way weaken his case.

Find Two Finger Prints Alike

John Arogoley, Waterloo, has lost his faith in the thumb print as a means of certain identification. Some time ago John deposited his savings in a Waterloo bank. He could not read, and for identification purposes his thumb print was recorded. A few days ago he went to the bank to withdraw his money only to learn that his money had been withdrawn some days ago. Arogoley protested until the clerk produced the thumb print required when the money was withdrawn. The comparison showed that the print was the same as that of Arogoley, at least it was not possible to distinguish the difference. The last heard of John he was consulting an attorney preparing to compel the bank to dig up the $135 which he had deposited in the institution.

The directors of the Peoples State of Bessemer, Mich., have decided to erect a modern two-story structure on the site now occupied by the Puritan hotel, to cost about $35,000.

SOUTH AMERICAN BANKING AND CREDITS

Washington, November 18.—E. N. Hurley of Chicago, vice-president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, who was in Washington to-day, announced his acceptance of the special commissionership to investigate the trade conditions in South America and report on a system of banking and credits that will aid manufacturers of the United States in extending their business throughout the adjoining continent.

Mr. Hurley, who will sail from New York February 7th with a large delegation from the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, will remain in South America for three months, a month longer than the manufacturers' party will stay, and will make as thorough a study of conditions as is possible.

The party, numbering 120 members of the association, many accompanied by their wives, will leave Chicago February 6th and will sail from New York the day following on the Vaubon. The party first will touch at Barbados and from there will proceed to Pernambuco, Bahia, Rio de Janeiro, Santos and Montevideo. Arriving at Buenos Aires, a stay of some length will be made. Thence the party will travel by railroad to Santiago and Valparaiso, Chile, returning to Buenos Aires to take ship for the return. The trip will require sixty-four days.

John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, after conferring with Mr. Hurley to-day, accepted an invitation to attend the annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association at Chicago, December 3rd, cancelling a previous engagement to address the rivers and harbors congress here.

PHILADELPHIA CHAPTERGRAM

First regular meeting of Philadelphia Chapter, A. I. B., was held Friday evening, November 14th. Charles S. Calwell, president of the Corn Exchange National, spoke on "The Federal Reserve Act from a Practical Standpoint," and Albert Sidney Bolles, Ph. D., LL. D., lecturer on commercial law and banking at Haverford college, talked on constructive banking and currency legislation.

The educational committee has organized classes for this season in the following branches:

Commercial Law: Under the leadership of Paxson Deeter, Esq., of the Philadelphia bar. The class meets on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, in the class room, Mercantile Library building, Tenth Street above Chestnut. A large and enthusiastic class has enrolled and a successful year in this work is assured.

Banking: Under the leadership of Dr. E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University. This class meets on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 in the chapter rooms, 514 Crozer building, 1420 Chestnut Street. At the present writing, one lecture of this class has been held, but the enrollment is still open.

Room 514, Crozer building, No. 1420 Chestnut Street, has been rented and fitted up as chapter headquarters. This building is open evenings, current banking periodicals are on file for use in the chapter room, and the library has been properly catalogued and provision made for withdrawal of books.

B. S. COLBURN RESIGNS

Burnham S. Colburn, vice-president of the Peoples State, Detroit, has resigned owing to ill health, and with his wife is on his way to Europe. Mr. Colburn retains his membership on the board of directors.

Philip B. Wachtel, who with his father organized the City Bank, now the First National, of Petoskey, Mich., died recently.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

Preaching the gospel of scientific diversified farming as the only sure foundation for the permanent prosperity of Spokane and the Inland Empire, James J. Hill emphasized the need of getting people on the land adjacent to Spokane in an address before 150 bankers and representative business men at a banquet given in his honor by the Spokane Clearing House Association November 12th.

In the Hill party were L. W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern; J. M. Hannaford, president of the Northern Pacific; George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank, New York City; George B. Harris, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad; R. A. Jackson, vice-president of the Great Northern; Granville Kane, president of the First National, Duluth; Pierce Butler, an attorney of St. Paul, and F. A. Chamberlain, president of the Security National, Minneapolis.

In his address James J. Hill said if he had to choose a single crop his choice would be alfalfa, adding: "It beats corn and will produce more pounds of beef to the acre than corn will. Alfalfa will double, even treble, the value per acre of your land."

"The Great Northern never mourned crossing the mountains, and you people have no kick coming for having settled in Spokane. You ought to have 150,000 people here to-day. If you people will devote the next eighteen or twenty-four months to getting farmers on your rich Spokane country lands you will soon have that number in your city. Your city can't help going ahead when you get your big bonanza farms cut up and have a man on every 160 acres."

R. Lewis Rutter, president of the clearing house, presided at the banquet, and Mayor William J. Hindley gave the address of welcome to the Hill party.

Banker Injured in Accident

Henry M. Richards, chairman of the board of directors of the Washington Water Power Company and vice-president of the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company, is suffering from concussion of the brain as the result of being run over by a wagon in a runaway accident north of Spokane Sunday. He regained consciousness Wednesday morning and asked for water. The condition of Mr. Richards is still regarded as precarious, and he will not be removed to Spokane from the hospital at Springdale, Wash., for several days. He is a brother of J. P. M. Richards, president of the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company, and is well known in banking circles throughout the country.

Spokane Chapter Meets

At the monthly open night of the Spokane Chapter of the American Institute of Banking this week F. B. Robinson of the Fidelity National was elected treasurer to succeed L. G. Green of the Traders National, who has resigned. George C. Gage, president, announced the following appointments to committees: W. E. Tollenaar of the Old National succeeds Earl Rowe of the Traders National, resigned as chairman of the club room committee. F. B. Peach of the Exchange National was made librarian, a newly created position. He succeeds Mr. Tollenaar on the club room committee. J. E. Bottomley of the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company was named on the educational committee and Albert Kaye of the same bank was made chairman, succeeding Charles Ham, resigned. During the evening Mr. Gage made his report on the national convention at Richmond, Va., M. H. Wasson spoke on "Bank Advertising," and Otto Allgaier played a number of piano selections.

To Retire Improvement Bonds

Notice of his intention to retire improvement bonds amounting to $69,000, with interest, and city warrants amounting with interest to $82,000, has been given by City Treasurer H. F. Tabb. The improvement bond call is made payable December 1st, when interest will cease. Eighty-five improvement districts, the largest number in one call during the year, are included in the list, which covers a principal of $52,000 and $17,000 interest. The chief district is the Keystone regrade, in which a payment of $7,000 will be made. About $42,000 of this sum will be paid to Spokane banks and investors. The warrant call is returnable November 21st and covers $66,000 of water improvement warrants, $10,000 of crematory warrants and $6,000 of redemption and judgment fund warrants. Of these sums $74,000 is principal and $8,000 interest. The majority of these warrants are held by the general city sinking fund.

Indorse Farmers' Creed

Members of the agricultural and vocational educational committee of the Washington Bankers Association, which met recently in Spokane, indorsed the farmers' creed, adopted by the same committee of the Illinois Bankers Association, and are urging its adoption by the farmers of Washington. W. D. Vincent of the Old National, a member of the committee, and also of the agricultural committee of the national association, is advocating the creed, which is as follows: "I believe in red clover; I believe in cow peas; I believe in soy beans, and, above all, I believe in alfalfa, the queen of forage plants. I believe in permanent agriculture, a soil that shall grow richer rather than poorer year by year. I believe in 100-bushel corn and 50-bushel wheat, and I shall not be satisfied with anything less. I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed, and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience. I believe in the farm boy and the farm girl—the farmer's best crops and the future's best hope; I believe in the farm woman and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier. I believe in a country school that prepares for a country life, and a country church that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably. I believe in community spirit, a pride in home and neighbors, and I will do my part to make my community the best in the state. I believe in better roads. I will use the road drag conscientiously, whenever opportunity offers, and I will not 'soldier' when working out my road tax. I believe in happiness; I believe in the power of a smile, and I will use mine on every possible occasion. I believe in the farmer; I believe in farm life; I believe in the inspiration of the open country. I am proud to be a farmer, and I will try earnestly to be worthy of the name."

EDMONTON NEWS.

Official announcement is made by Mayor William Short that the firm of Kleinwort Sons Co. of London, England, has made the final payment of the $2,000,000, due on December 1st, of the issue of debentures amounting to $9,800,000. Two million dollars' worth of debentures, included in the original agreement, will be placed on the market in 1914 in addition to the regular debentures to be sold to provide money for the extension and improvement of public utilities. The city has received a total of $9,135,000 to date. A portion of the last payment was used to retire treasury notes, amounting to $1,250,000, issued in 1912 and previously. The city's public work is financed until the end of this year. The city has debentures amounting to $538,253 in the Imperial Bank of Canada, which remain unsold because of an agreement with the Kleinworts that no debentures be sold while they undertake to supply money on the big issue.

Guy Cathcart Pelton of the firm of Pelton & Pelton has written a letter to the press of Edmonton, saying that the local savings are sufficient to found a community bank. He places the accounts in savings banks at about $100 per capita of a population of 70,000, which would make a larger paid-up capital than is reported by some of the prominent banks in Canada.

Willard Kitchen of Fredericton, N. B., who represents large interests in the maritime provinces was in Edmonton last week accompanied by Mrs. Kitchen. He is interested in a number of pulp mills in New Brunswick, and is taking the western trip for the purpose of investing in property for himself and his associates.

W. D. Bradley, secretary-treasurer of the school board of Edmonton, reports receiving $1,035,000 as the proceeds of 40-year debentures, issued last spring. The purchaser was a syndicate, composed of Spencer, Trask & Co., Equitable Trust Co., W. C. Langley & Co., and W. M. Coler & Co., of New York. These firms took over the interests of Henry Spencer & Co., of Toledo. The original issue was for $1,250,000, but small parcels of the bonds were sold from time to time.

James Carruthers, head of James Carruthers, Ltd., of Montreal, who was in Edmonton recently on a trip of western Canada, reports that money is easier, adding: "I look for a turn in the tide of financial matters with the new year." Mr. Carruthers is a large investor in Edmonton properties.

fields recently reported to have been discovered in northern and central Alberta. While in Edmonton Mr. Britt expressed himself as being confident of being able to secure the rights to some good properties.

A. N. Mouat has been promoted from the position of city auditor to that of comptroller of Edmonton at a salary of $5,000 a year. He was recommended for the berth by Mayor Horth, who also recommended that the firm of McIntosh & Hyde of Montreal, which is making an independent audit of the city's books, be awarded the contract on a basis of $7,500 a year.

J. M. Scott and W. R. Skey of Portland, Ore., who control a ranch of 30,000 acres up the Paddle river country, 80 miles northwest of Edmonton, are inspecting their property with a view to making big improvements in 1914.

John McEachern, superintendent of general branches of the Bank of British North America, who is making a tour of western Canada, said that despite the fact that this year's crop was one of the greatest in the history of the country, it would be far from sufficient to place the country on a sound and substantial financial footing. He added:

"I consider three such crops will be necessary before the depression is fully relieved. This crop is practically the first good one garnered in the last three years and with the outstanding debts of the farmers and others returns from one year's harvest will not do more than pay a portion of these accumulated liabilities."

J. J. Galloway of Edmonton, for seven years western inspector of the Merchants Bank of Canada, has been appointed to the position of superintendent of the bank's branches in Alberta and British Columbia. Associated with him will be C. E. Barthe and W. S. Bragg. The territory over which Mr. Galloway will have supervision comprises forty-six branches in Alberta and eight in British Columbia.

ALLEGES MISREPRESENTATION IN SALE OF STOCK

Alleging that his stock in the insolvent institution had been purchased only four days before the doors of the bank were closed, and through the fraudulent representations of a director, W. F. Stinson of Mercer County, West Virginia, has been allowed an appeal to the supreme court of appeals in a suit in which C. L. Williams, receiver, was plaintiff and the stockholders of the Fidelity Banking and Trust Company of Bluefield, W. Va., were the defendants. After the Bluefield bank had been closed Receiver Williams brought suit against the stockholders under the double liability statute, but Stinson in his appeal to the higher court declares that the receiver was not sufficiently familiar with the details of the bank to state in his petition that the double liability was necessary for the payment of the creditors of the banking company. Stinson bought twenty shares of the stock in the bank on September 11, 1911, and four days later the bank closed.

WILL PAY DEPOSITORS

The Bank of Montrose, Montrose, Miss., has closed its doors, but, according to President J. W. Sharborough, arrangements have been made to pay depositors in full. The Bank of Montrose has been losing money for some time and was somewhat embarrassed in the loss of $5,000 as a result of the failure of the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Newton a year ago. The stockholders will be paid in part, but it is not known now how much can be realized on the property.

NEW ARIZONA BANK

The new Bank of Metcalf, Metcalf, Ariz., has opened its doors for business with C. C. Sellars as cashier. The bank is organized with $15,000 capital and the officers are T. B. Scotland, president; I. Cascarelli, vice-president, and C. C. Sellars, cashier.

CHANGES AT JACKSON

Following the resignation of W. A. Montgomery, cashier of the Merchants Bank and Trust Company, Jackson, Miss., announcement has been made that Mr. Montgomery will be succeeded by R. F. Young, long time cashier of the First National. Mr. Young also was elected active vice-president, the offices of vice-president and cashier having been combined by the directors. Mr. Montgomery resigned the cashiership to engage in the life insurance business, but will retain his active connection with the institution and also his membership on the board of directors.

HIGH CLEARINGS FOR PORTLAND

Portland, Ore.—In the matter of bank clearings Portland attained a new high-water mark in October. Clearances for the month aggregated $63,727,569, which is over $4,500,000 more than the figures for March this year, which held the previous high record. It is more than $5,500,000 in excess of October, 1912, which reflected the biggest business done in the city up to that time.

The notable upward trend of business as indicated by the bank figures is emphasized further by returns of other industries. Postal receipts again showed a remarkable increase, lumber shipments advanced, and receipts at the stockyards continued to gain in volume.

SEATTLE BANK INSURES EMPLOYEES

Officers of the Scandinavian-American Bank, Seattle, Wash., have taken out group life insurance for the sixty-two officers and employees of the bank, the amount of insurance running from $1,000 to $2,000, according to the length of service of the employees. A total of $80,000 in insurance was provided for the employees, the bank paying all premiums and obligating itself to keep up the premium payments in the future.

Richmond Convention

Richmond, Nov. 25.—Plans for the big 1914 convention of the American Bankers Association are going rapidly forward. A conference has been held by the four committees named by local bankers, with Frederick E. Farnsworth of New York, general secretary of the American Bankers Association. The Jefferson hotel was selected as convention headquarters, Mr. Farnsworth saying that, outside of one or two resorts, he had never visited a hotel so well adapted to convention purposes or one with so much public space. All of the other hotels were visited and arrangements made as to accommodations. Because of the large number of expected visitors, taxing the hotel capacity to its utmost, it was agreed that all reservations would be made through a local committee, to avoid duplication, and make all as comfortable as possible.

Exact Date Not Yet Fixed

The exact date for the convention has not been fixed, but it will probably be held early in November, 1914, and will be in session for five days. Mr. Farnsworth suggested that the local committee select a date when the weather would probably be good, and, at the same time, as far as possible when the hotels would not be unduly taxed by other gatherings or by special demands, such as the state fair. The first day will be given over to committee meetings, the second to separate meetings of the four sections and the association as a body.

All Want to Come to Richmond

"I believe that the attendance here will be unusually large," said Mr. Farnsworth. "Everyone has heard of Richmond and wants to come here. I know of no city that offers so much of both early and recent historical interest. We had a most successful meeting in Boston, where there were 4,235 registered delegates, this number including the wives who accompanied their husbands. There are 14,300 banks which have membership in the association, scattered in every state in the union, making a body of more than 100,000 directors and bank officers who are eligible to sit in the convention. I estimate probable attendance at the Richmond convention of from 3,000 to 3,500. We did not come to a conclusion as to a meeting place for the convention proper. The Jefferson Auditorium will serve for sectional meetings, but for general meetings we will want a hall seating from 1,500 to 1,800 people, with good acoustics. Even if the attendance is much larger I do not think all of the members would desire to be in the hall at any one time or that a larger hall would be necessary."

Met Here in 1900

Mr. Farnsworth recalled that the American Bankers Association had a successful session in Richmond in 1900, and that the former Jefferson hotel, then quite a new building, was headquarters. The chairmen of the four local committees of bankers, in conference with Mr. Farnsworth, were Colonel John B. Purcell, executive committee; John M. Miller, Jr., finance committee; Thomas B. McAdams, hotel committee, and Julien H. Hill, entertainment committee.

NATHAN ADAMS
DALLAS, TEXAS

George A. Holderness, president of the Farmers Banking and Trust Company of Tarboro, N. C., is the new president of the state association and Nathan Adams, cashier American Exchange National, Dallas, Texas, will head the bankers of his state the coming year.

Both of these gentlemen are admirably equipped to discharge the duties of their new positions and are certain of the complete co-operation of the members of their respective associations.

COUNTRY BANKS OFFERING MONEY

Country banks are offering in this market a considerable amount of money at an average rate of $5\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. This is taken as an indication of easy conditions in the territory contiguous to Chicago. The local banks are adhering rather closely to a minimum of 6 per cent.

CHICAGO VISITORS

Among the out-of-town bankers seen in the city this week were J. H. Ingwersen of Clinton, Iowa; George and F. W. Woodruff of Joliet; B. M. Mead of Peoria and W. J. Riley of East Chicago.

James B. Forgan, president of the First National, returned this week from New York. He said the financial district there is experiencing the dulllest period in its history.

REORGANIZATION PLAN POSTPONED

A dispatch from Pittsburgh states that the meeting of stockholders of the First-Second National, at which the reorganization plan was to have been voted upon, has been postponed for two weeks.

GLASS SPEAKS HERE

Congressman Carter Glass defended the principles of the Owen-Glass currency bill last night at the LaSalle hotel. He addressed members of the Chicago Association of Commerce at their ninth annual dinner.

SAYS WEATHER INTERFERED WITH BUSINESS

Edwin L. Wagner, president of the National Produce Bank, said business was interfered with by unseasonable weather prior to Sunday. "The higher temperatures," he added, "interfered with the movement of dressed poultry, and the shipments of live birds were checked by the lack of shipping facilities, which interfered materially with a seasonable character of business in this section of the city."

DO NOT FAVOR BORAH PLAN

Chicago bankers do not look with favor upon Senator Borah's proposed amendment to the currency bill providing that the federal reserve notes shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private. It is believed that to make the notes legal tender and also to make them available for reserves in banks would result in pure inflation to the amount of the notes issued.

WORD comes from Des Moines that the Iowa Loan and Trust new building will be ready for occupancy about January 1st and that the new offices will be the finest in the state.

THE new building is a twelve-story office structure and the fitting up is nearly completed. T. B. Hippee is president, D. H. McKee is vice-president, Simon Casady is treasurer and Edwin Hult secretary.

THE Iowa Loan is the oldest in the state, having been incorporated in 1872. The capital and surplus now are $1,200,000. Pays 4 per cent on time deposits.

W. J. KOMMERS of the Union Trust and Savings, Spokane, is sending out a booklet—"Income Tax Law Made Plain."

COL. J. S. AISTHORPE of Cairo is rejoicing on being in possession of the splendid new home for the First Bank and Trust Company. It is at Eighth and Washington, and one of the finest in the state.

THE First State started as the City Bank in 1864. In '65 it became the City National and in 1907 took its present title.

MANY letters and telegrams congratulating Col. Aisthorpe reached him from banker friends all over the state. He is vice-president of the Illinois Bankers Association.

THE rapid incorporation of private banks in Illinois is beginning to attract attention from firms outside of the state which deal in bank stocks. They have heard that there are to be "quite a few" others.

STUART H. PATTERSON, expert employed by the trust companies' committee on income tax matters, says every private banker and banking institution must apply to the government for a license.

THE Guaranty Trust Company, New York, will send you, if you ask for it, a pamphlet containing Mr. Patterson's papers on the subject.

IRVING NATIONAL, New York, has adopted a coupon collection envelope, on the face of which the certificate is printed. Great scheme.

WE'RE sorry that the U. S. Trust had to be absorbed by another bank so soon after Lawrence O. Murray accepted the presidency. He was such a fine comptroller of the currency that he deserved a better fate.

IOWA bankers should send an occasional note of encouragement to their president, D. L. Heinsheimer, at the Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago.

HE has sent for all copies of THE CHICAGO BANKER which he had missed so that he could read the Iowa letter and keep up to date.

HE is getting on nicely and the doctors are favorable in their opinions about a cure being effected. Send your best wishes to the best of men.

Commercial Paper and Investments

Established 1904 60 Wall St., New York Member A. B. A.

ATLANTA is to be comforted. Col. Robert J. Lowry has announced that the Georgia bankers' convention will meet there in 1914. Even if the A. B. A. did pass them the mitten.

CHARLES MORGAN WHITNEY, founder and director of the Whitney-Central National at New Orleans, died last week in New York.

B. F. HARRIS' new paper, "The Banker-Farmer," created a fine impression. He seems to have solved the problem of country-wide circulation before it started.

THE state associations are to furnish one-half the bulk subscription price and the A. B. A. agricultural commission to do the rest.

THIS not only will send it "free" to all member banks of both state and national associations but to all banks, so it is understood.

SOME few states, like Missouri, may have other publicity plans, but Mr. Harris' plan will be a revelation to many states.

IN Illinois the committees on administration, federal legislation, good roads and agriculture held important meetings in Chicago on Friday and Saturday of last week.

WHAT to do about the Farmer-Banker subscription for the 1,600 banks of the state was one of the mooted questions up for decision.

ROUTINE business only was up for real decision. The chief topics will go over to the mid-year meeting of the council.

FIRST NATIONAL of Cleveland has opened a First Trust and Savings, "down stairs," following the profitable style set a few years ago by Jas. B. Forgan.

"CAPTAIN" SAMUEL INSULL says he would welcome a low rate of income allowed to public utility companies if it could be fixed and then let alone. He says what raises Cain with business is constant regulation and interference.

SUPT. LATTANNER of Ohio says he wants the law further amended, making all losses from excessive loan "by permission of the board of directors," as at present, charged to the directors individually.

HE thinks if held liable personally they wouldn't often vote the making of excess loans, and it sounds like good reasoning.

IT is in the criminal side of the banking laws that Mr. Lattanner finds most glaring defects. It has become almost impossible, he says, to punish under the law those who misuse positions of trust and responsibility, and the need for change in some phases of the statutes is so pressing that it is likely some of these matters will be taken up at the special session of the legislature.

ATACKING as in the main an evil Mr. Lattanner asks for the elimination of the system of "interlocking boards of directors," by which is commonly designated the tenure of official or directory positions in several banks by the same individual or individuals.

THAT the private bank contest which stirred up no little trouble in the recent legislative session must be gone through again is indicated from the position of the state department. It has found the Kennedy act in many respects inadequate.

Commercial, Savings and Bond Departments

CHIEF among its imperfections, says Mr. Lattanner, is that it does not require banks to have capital stock. There is no excuse for the private banker refusing to put up some of his own money when he asks the general public for deposits. The capital requirement was one that the private bankers succeeded in keeping out of the law.

UPON a demonstration that some institutions of the state are attempting to evade the provisions of the Kennedy act, by eliminating from their establishments the use of the terms "bank, banker or banking," Mr. Lattanner recommends that the general assembly shall define "banking" and bring under state regulation all firms that receive deposits, whether they use the word "banking" or not.

A RECOMMENDATION of great importance to the banks in many of the large urban and industrial centers is that commercial and savings accounts and assets shall be entirely segregated as a legal requirement. While it is anticipated that there will be strong opposition to this suggestion it is urged in the light of experience with defunct banks.

MOST of the commercial accounts can be withdrawn when trouble for a bank is in sight because the commercial community scents the impending danger, but the small savings depositors find it out after it is too late. They often get only a small dividend. Under the plan suggested each department would have its own assets and investments.

SUPT. LATTANNER, following New York's example, wants a commission to form the new law and to deal with all obsolete banking laws with which the state is afflicted.

A RECOMMENDATION that has often been made, but as often rejected, would give the state bank superintendent broader powers in refusing to issue charters for establishment of new banks when the conditions and needs of the community do not augur well for the stability and strength of the institution.

WHERE the conditions are such that the proposed bank, if started, would be unsuccessful he believes he should have power to prevent its establishment. He would have an appeal to a board composed of state officers.

IT is urged that the Willis tax law be amended so as to relieve defunct banks from the necessity of paying the tax on capital stock.

SUPT. LATTANNER has many other plans for improvement and it is said he has been educating the leading members of the legislature up to the point of insuring support of his measures.

OHIO seems to have made a big find in its active superintendent of banking.

NINETEEN states now require that an examination in agriculture be passed before a teacher's certificate will be issued.

THE state banking board in Oklahoma is suing 112 national banks for guaranty fees. The nationals sued either converted from state banks without paying accrued fees or absorbed state banks which were in default on fees.

THE question is did they become liable for the 5 per cent guaranty fee automatically? The state contends they did.

THE California banking law is a model. Among other advanced ideas it permits the banking board to refuse permits to organize new banks for a variety of causes.

ONE of these provisions forbids banking corporations being organized by other corporations which own the stock in such banks.

Lending for Productive Purposes

Dr. J. J. Kennedy, vice-president Bank of Collins, Ga., tells of objects for which banks should be run

The objects for which country banks (and I might perhaps correctly say all banks) should be run, might, I think, be boiled down to three in number. When I say this, I, of course, mean to speak in broad and general terms, for there are certainly many minor objects to be obtained and many minor benefits to be derived which we might speak of as subdivisions of the three greater divisions. These latter I would classify as follows:

The first I conceive to be at least a fair and reasonable return or profit to the stockholders on the money invested by them. To place this as the first object to be attained is somewhat embarrassing because of its selfish features which stand out too conspicuously to be concealed. But owing to the innate selfishness of the average human heart, frankness and candor compel me to do so. However, I hope that the general knowledge of this fact, which but few if any would deny to be a fact, will be a sufficient apology for my doing so. But in our efforts to attain this first object, if we adhere strictly to perfectly honorable and legitimate methods, as we should do, and which no bank could well afford not to do, its selfish features will thereby become very much shadowed, and placed to a great extent in the background. In fact, I believe the attainment of the first object can, in the long run, best be accomplished by our efforts to attain the second nobler object, which is to promote in every reasonable way the general welfare and uplift of every individual customer, especially those who are permanently located in our territory; for a bank's service to a transient customer could not well be anything more than a transient service.

It certainly is not difficult to see that the prosperity of a bank is just as dependent upon the prosperity of the customers as would be the prosperity of a physician or other professional man upon the prosperity of his clients. As the physician, by his superior knowledge, should be the guardian of his clients' physical welfare, in the same way, if not to the same extent, should a bank, through its superior knowledge of, and better judgment in, matters of finance, be the guardian of its customers' financial welfare.

Just in this connection I think it cannot be too emphatically said that a bank can often render a customer a much greater service by refusing an application for a loan than by granting it, especially when it comes in the bank's knowledge how the money is expected to be used. And whenever the mutual confidence and cordial relations which should exist between bank and customer have been established and whenever the public has become convinced that its welfare and that of the bank are interdependent, one upon the other, and that the bank desires to be, and can be, the public's benefactor, then the customer will not only be willing to state to what use he desires to put the bank's money, but he will be glad to do so and to secure the benefit of the bank's judgment in the matter. Could this state of affairs be generally attained, it is easy to see that it would redound much to interest of both borrower and lender, to say nothing of investors who are often the bank's best customers and whose financial interests the bank is certainly under obligation to safeguard to the best of its ability.

Of course I would not be understood to mean that the suggestion here given should be applied to every loan made by a bank to its customer, because I am glad to say that almost every bank has some customers, even among the farming class, whose ability to handle money to advantage, and whose judgment in financial matters, and especially matters of their own, is as good as that of the average banker. But unfortunately this is the exception and not the general rule. Therefore I am convinced that in many cases the banker should know to what use his money is desired to be put, and that his judgment as to whether or not a given loan would produce profitable result to the borrower should enter as an important factor in making up his decision as to whether or not he will make the loan.

However, as one particular, definite or concrete example would probably illustrate my meaning better than pages of generalization, I will offer one or two.

For instance a certain farmer needs a pair of good farm mules and a wagon. A loan of $500 on bankable paper with which to buy these would undoubtedly, under the circumstances, be a good, wise and profitable transaction from every standpoint to both borrower and lender, but the same loan to the same man, upon the same paper, would probably turn out to be a bad transaction for both parties if the borrowed money were to be invested in an automobile. Likewise we might wisely and profitably loan money to a good farmer with which to clear up land and buy fencing; or to a good merchant with which to discount his bills, when the same loan to the same party on the same paper, for the purpose of buying stock in some foreign corporation, would, in the great majority of cases, be a bad transaction for all parties concerned, the stock seller excepted, of course.

What I conceive to be the third great object of a bank is similar to the second but wider and more general in its scope, to-wit: To lend a helping hand in the establishment of all commercial and industrial enterprises when the dictates of reason and common sense teach us that their existence would redound to the public good, and that they would produce such returns as to make them self-sustaining or enable them to grow upon such returns. Also to aid in the extension, enlargement or development of enterprises already established, which, though they may not be profitable at present, yet would surely be so with the necessary means at hand to enable them to make needed enlargement or improvement. I would not be understood as advocating the output of money by any bank for purely experimental purposes; but on the contrary I hold that a bank should be so well assured that any given enterprise was to be placed in the hands of a good and competent management, and that good results under such management should be so apparent that there could be not more than the remotest possibility of any failure.

The second and third divisions of my subject are so closely allied to each other, and any further remarks I might be able to make under the third head would be so similar to those under the second I deem that any further discussion would be only a useless consumption of time and space.

THE PASSING OF THE "PASS-BOOK" WHY BANKS ARE ADOPTING THE "STATEMENT SYSTEM"

By W. W. Cooley of the Burroughs
Adding Machine Co.

Hundreds of banks have stopped balancing "pass-books." They now send out the customers' statements instead. This new way costs the bank very much less. It affords the customer much better protection. The statement system of handling customers' accounts has numerous good points not possessed by the old or "pass-book" method. It is more efficient whether judged from the point of view of the bank or the depositor.

(a) It provides greater convenience to customers, making it unnecessary to bother with a pass-book every time a deposit is made.

(b) It provides greater accuracy.

(c) It requires less time.

(d) It affords better distribution of the work throughout the month.

Following are fourteen reasons why banks are rendering statements instead of balancing pass-books.

Rendering a customer a periodical statement of his account obviates the necessity of his surrendering his pass-book, his only receipt of deposit made for balance, as statements may be rendered on the last day of each month without reference to pass-books.

Comparing monthly statements, made from checks and deposit slips, with ledger, precludes the possibility of errors remaining undiscovered indefinitely, due to customers' failure to present pass-books to be balanced.

The making of statements can be systematically planned in connection with other work. This gets around the difficulty of anticipating the number of pass-books which will be presented for balance on certain days.

Statements being made from original checks and deposit slips, errors in pass-book entries do not affect balancing accounts on statements.

Rendering monthly statements informs all depositors of the status of their accounts at regular intervals and lessens the likelihood of careless customers overdrawing their accounts through neglect to present pass-books frequently for balance.

The statement system provides for a statement clerk or bank auditor to compare statement balances with ledger balances, verifying accuracy of both. With the pass-book method where an account fails to balance at first trial it necessitates comparing all cancelled checks with adding machine lists as well as pass-book entries against ledger entries and deposit slips.

Rendering machine-written statements of the status of his account provides the customer with a very legible and attractive periodical balance sheet. As compared with balancing pass-books writing these statements on a Burroughs statement machine is safer, more systematic and much more economical for any bank.

By rendering statements and returning cancelled vouchers to customers monthly a congestion of check file is avoided and quick detection or irregularities made possible. Danger lies in the inactive accounts carrying a good balance.

Cancelled voucher files become clogged through failure of customers to present pass-books for balance frequently and irregularities are likely to remain undetected indefinitely while cancelled vouchers remain in the file.

As a statement of an account and ledger postings are both made from the same check and deposit slip, one verifies the other, preventing the issuing of incorrect statements and catching postings to wrong accounts. Two or more errors offsetting each other, made in balancing pass-books, is dangerous, as the first notice of a mistake may come through a discovery that an outsider had taken advantage of it.

Work of making statements can be so planned as to make night work at the end of the month, when regular routing work is heaviest, unnecessary. Night work detracts from a clerk's efficiency during regular working hours.

As statements are made from checks and deposit slips, there is no occasion for a statement clerk referring to the ledger until statements are completed—then only to make the comparison to verify both his own and the bookkeeper's work.

The fact that all deposits collected may not have been entered in pass-books does not affect making an accurate statement of an account from cash and deposit slips, while to balance a pass-book necessitates comparing with both ledger and deposit slips.

Rendering monthly statements provides the customer with a balance of his account as often as he will require the information and prevents the bookkeeper being interrupted to balance pass-books at an inopportune time. The statement posted to daily can be closed and balanced at short notice.

committee. Already several hundred applications for hotel reservations have been made, either direct or through the local banks, from those who fear that the accommodations here may not prove adequate.

Mr. Farnsworth indicated that he would be in Richmond from time to time to consult the local committees as to details in order that every arrangement may be made for the great gathering of bankers. The local committee suggested several forms of entertainment, and, while the matter was not definitely determined, Mr. Farnsworth was of the opinion that a trip on James river would be most greatly enjoyed by the visitors. People from all sections of the United States, he said, desired to visit Jamestown island and to see the historic spots that line the river.

The committee of the bankers is co-operating with a committee of the chamber of commerce and the committee of the city council, with a view of making the entertainment and reception features of the bankers' convention the most complete of any convention that has assembled in Richmond. A big Chicago-Richmond special de luxe will be organized by the transportation committee composed of Chicago bankers as heretofore.

FARRELL SEES NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

J. Fletcher Farrell, vice-president of the For Dearborn National of this city, is optimistic concerning the general business outlook for the country.

"I have enough confidence in this great nation of ours, and the people who have helped to make it prosperous," said Mr. Farrell, "to cause me to believe that everything is going to work out all right. Conditions at the present time of course, are a little bit unusual. We have had a change in administration at Washington and there is being enacted legislation vitally affecting the business interests, which consequently is productive of an element of more or less uncertainty. It is but natural to expect a recession in business during the existence of the conditions mentioned. I am of the opinion however, that this recession will not grow to any alarming proportions and that the ultimate effect of the present legislative activities will not be disappointing.

"The currency bill is of great importance to the bankers. I was opposed to the measure in its original form, but think that the disposition which has been shown to amend it in such a way as to provide a practical, sensible law is encouraging. I believe the administration is honestly endeavoring to provide a statute which will be adequate. The bill contains some excellent features and if amended in the right way ought to be acceptable to the bankers."

The plaintiff alleges a fraudulent sale of stock, setting up that she bought more than $10,000 in stocks of the National Machine Recorder Co. at 1701 North Clark Street on the representation of the broker that the firm was doing a daily business of $8,000. The defendant denies the charge claiming that before she invested her money Mrs. Arnold made an investigation.

BUFFALO BANKS PLAN MERGER

The Marine National of Buffalo, N. Y., is rapidly completing arrangements preparatory to taking over the business of the Columbia National Bank of that city. Already the shareholders of the Marine National have voted to increase their capital stock to $5,000,000, permitting the present shareholders of the Columbia National to subscribe for same.

Next Monday the shareholders of the Columbia National vote upon the proposition to put that institution into voluntary liquidation, and it is now expected that the actual merging of the banks will take place on Saturday, December 6th.

At a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Marine National, held Monday, the 24th, in perfecting the organization of the Marine National, the following officers were elected: S. H. Knox, chairman of the board; George F. Rand, president; L. H. Gethoefer, vice-president; Emil Diffine, assistant cashier; Joseph G. Fischer, assistant cashier. The official staff of the bank now stands as follows: S. H. Knox, chairman of the board; George F. Rand, president; J. H. Lascelles, vice-president; L. H. Gethoefer, vice-president; Henry J. Auer, vice-president; Norman P. Clement, cashier; Emil Diffine, assistant cashier; Merle H. Denison, assistant cashier; Percy W. Darby, assistant cashier, and Joseph G. Fischer, assistant cashier.

At the merging of the banks the Marine National's capital and surplus will be $10,000,000, undivided profits about $750,000, total resources over $60,000,000, the dividend rate to stockholders being 16 per cent per annum.

SIMPLE METHOD OF COLLECTION OF COUPONS

A simplified method of collecting coupons under the income tax law has been adopted by the Irving National, New York. W. D. Morgan, cashier of the Aetna National, Hartford, Connecticut, devised and perfected the plan, which in brief is a combination coupon envelope and certificate. Officials of the Irving express the opinion that hereafter coupons will be handled with much less labor than was occasioned by those due the first of November, and this week mailed to each of the bank's correspondents a sample envelope and certificate with an explanatory folder covering the different points necessary for the proper execution of the required certificates.

A. I. B. MAN PROMOTED

Members of the American Institute of Banking are rapidly developing into bank officers, the latest one to receive this distinction being Byron W. Moser of the St. Louis Union Trust Company. Mr. Moser, who was national president of the American Institute of Banking last year, has been made assistant secretary of his institution.

Mr. Moser is a native of Missouri, born in 1884 in Ironton. At the age of twelve he became a resident of St. Louis, attended the public schools of that city and was graduated from the Central High School in 1903. After graduation he wasted no time in getting to work, for after taking but one day's vacation he started in as a messenger for the institution of which he is now assistant secretary.

Mr. Moser, prior to his election as national president, was for two years president of the St. Louis Chapter. He therefore brings to his new position broad experience gained through worth-while executive positions in the institute.

RUMELY COMPANY PLANS TO EXTEND NOTES

The M. Rumely Company will extend its $10,000,000 5 per cent two-year gold note issue, falling due March 1, 1915, for three years from that date. The notes were issued March 1st of this year.

A letter has been sent to the note holders to ascertain how many of them will consent to such a proposition. It is pointed out that this is being done so to strengthen the financial position of the company as to make it possible to get bank loans to carry on the company's ordinary business operations from month to month.

FIRST BANK AND TRUST OF CAIRO OPENS NEW HOME

The new home of the First Bank and Trust Company, Cairo, Ill., was opened on November 17th. The new building is a three-story structure, fireproof in construction, built of steel, concrete, granite, brick and terra cotta. The facing of the edifice is of white enamel brick ornately trimmed with white terra cotta and massive Corinthian columns at the various entrances. Visitors thronged the bank from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Favors were distributed to all, the ladies being presented with American Beauty roses and the men with cigars. Every courtesy and facility was extended to every one who visited the institution and it is estimated that fully four thousand persons visited the bank and were shown through the establishment.

FAVORS EXTENSION OF EMERGENCY LAW

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National, is of the opinion that the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency bill should be extended for another year. "In view of the fact that it will take some time for the actual operation of the currency measure, even if it should be passed by the present session," said Mr. Reynolds, "and the banks will not all have readjusted themselves, or have come into the system, I am decidedly of the belief that the Aldrich-Vreeland law should remain operative for at least another year. The law will expire by limitation, unless revived, next June, and I feel that it would be wrong to permit it to do so, whether a currency bill is obtained or not."

RUMELY OFFICES IN CHICAGO

Beginning Monday the general offices of M. Rumely & Co. will be located in Chicago in the Continental and Commercial National Bank building. Announcement to this effect was made by Clarence S. Funk, president of the company. The change will bring 100 office employees from La Porte.

BANKERS ON PYTHIAN COMMITTEE

Grand Chancellor William K. Whitfield of Decatur, Knights of Pythias, in compliance with a resolution adopted by the grand lodge meeting recently in his city, has named a committee for the purpose of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the order in Chicago this fall. W. G. Edens of the Central Trust, Henry D. Bowers of the Old Colony Trust and Irving Shuman, United States subtreasurer at Chicago, are vice-chairman, treasurer and chairman of the finance committee, respectively.

Grand Chancellor Whitfield is a director of the Farmers and Merchants State at Decatur. Millard F. Dunlap of Jacksonville is the money keeper of the organization, being grand master of the exchequer.

WHITNEY BANK TO RATIFY MERGER

Only a formal ratification of the action by the stockholders at a meeting called for December 23d is necessary to complete the transaction by which the Whitney-Central Trust and Savings Bank, New Orleans, is to take over the Third District Savings, Banking and Trust Company. The latter institution is to be operated under the same staff of officials as a branch of the Whitney-Central. The transaction has been approved by the directors of the Third District Bank and the approval of the stockholders is considered certain. Sol Wexler, vice-president of the Whitney-Central National, states that the price paid for the stock in the Third District Bank is to be $20.30 a share with the privilege of taking stock in the Whitney-Central National at its market value. The Third District Savings was organized several years ago with Henry L. Frantz president.

BOSTON MAY HAVE NEW TRUST COMPANY

If present plans are successful, Boston will have a new trust company within a few months. John R. McVey, Judge Edward L. Logan and John Lally, president of the United States Column Company, have bought from the Federal Trust Company the charter of the Mechanics Trust Company, which has not been used since the consolidation of the Mechanics and Federal banks in October, 1909. The new owners of the charter propose to make it active early next year by opening banking rooms in the down-town district. They will petition the bank commissioner, seeking a change in the name from Mechanics.

SPEAK AT KANSAS GROUP MEETINGS

Four group meetings of Kansas bankers were held last week at which the bankers talked about agriculture and how they could aid the farmers. The bank meetings were Tuesday at Coffeyville, Wednesday at Burlington, Thursday at Liberal and Friday at Larned. T. A. Borman, editor of the Kansas Farmer; J. H. Miller, director of extension work at the State Agricultural College, and Charles N. Sawyer, state bank commissioner, were the chief speakers at the meetings.

CHICAGO A LEATHER CENTER

Chicago has the distinction of being the largest hide market in the world. With one exception it is the largest leather market in this country, being exceeded only by Boston. Chicago, therefore, holds an important position in the hide and leather industry—an industry which is one of the oldest, dating back to the very beginning of civilization.

BANK WINS SUIT FOR LARGE SUM

The American National of Louisville, Ky., recently won its contention with the Kentucky Institution for the Education of the Blind, and the court of appeals held that the remaining warrant due the institution from the $17,000 appropriation of 1910 should be paid to the bank. Also that the institution should pay the bank $3,780 due it on an old debt. The court held, however, that Logan Murray, treasurer for the old board of trustees, should not have kept from the new board the warrant for one-fourth of $17,000, but should have paid it to the board. Mr. Murray kept out the warrant because he claimed that the new treasurer had not given bond as required by statute, and because he had information that the new board would not pay over to the bank the money due it. The court held, however, that the contracts and debts of the old board must be paid by the new one, and that the money furnished the institution by the bank to meet its debts quarterly must be paid by the new board as it had been paid by the old board.

WILL TEST BANK LAW

Action to test the constitutionality of the new Ohio banking law which provides for assessments of a minimum of $35 and one seventy-fifth of 1 per cent on aggregate resources over $100,000 is to be instituted by the Garfield Savings and Trust of Cleveland on the ground that it is discriminatory. Notice of the contemplated suit was given the state banking department by the institution when it paid its assessment of $708.05 under protest. The fees are paid for the administration of the state banking department.

FARMERS' ELEVATOR COMPANIES COVERED BY "BLUE SKY" LAW

Complaint has been made to E. W. Reed of the "Blue Sky" department of the railway commission, Nebraska, that co-operative elevator companies organized since the "Blue Sky" law went into effect may not be able to sell stock if the stock is issued in shares of less than $100. Mr. Reed said that until this particular feature of the law is declared void by the courts or repealed by subsequent legislation it will have to be complied with, the "Blue Sky" department being powerless to change a mandatory provision of the law. "There are a number of such corporations in this state," said Mr. Reed, "which have been organized since the law became effective and which will be subject to a heavy fine if they sell their stock without obtaining a permit. These companies are usually formed by a large number of farmers and the shares fixed at $10 or $25. The 'Blue Sky' law requires such companies organized since July 17, 1913, to take out a permit if they desire to sell any of their capital stock and at the same time makes it impossible for such companies to obtain a permit because their stock has a par value of less than $100 per share."

BANDIT ROBS BANK OF $2,000

Unobserved except by his victim a robber entered the Bank of Heidelberg at Heidelberg, Miss., shortly before noon on Friday of last week, held up W. L. Elkins, the cashier, with a pistol, got about $2,000, locked Mr. Elkins in a vault and escaped on a freight train that was passing. Mr. Elkins was liberated within half an hour and gave the alarm.

NEW GEORGIA BANK

Valdosta, Ga., is to have another bank to be known as the Southern Bank and Trust Company, giving the city six banks and three trust companies. The new institution has been organized with a capital of $100,000 and will begin business February 1st. The stockholders include many of the leading business men of Valdosta and no one was allowed to take more than $5,000 of the stock. Among the promoters are J. T. Blalock, for twenty years connected with the Merchants Bank; George W. Varn, F. Whittington, A. H. Dukes, M. J. Chaunty, Wilbur McKey, D. C. Stricklin and others. J. T. Blalock will be president.

COUNTY BANKERS MEET

The Wilson County Bankers Association recently was entertained by the banks of Neodesha, Kan., at the second meeting held this year. The visitors were given a banquet prepared by the domestic science class of the high school, following which they went into informal business session and adopted a constitution and by-laws modeled after those of the Labette county organization. Harry Woodring of Neodesha read a paper on the recent trip of the Missouri and Kansas bankers to the national convention at Boston. C. N. Converse of Altoona made a short talk and discussed the necessity of getting in touch with the agricultural population of the section and suggesting a means of reaching the most valuable portion of the county's people. The association voted to hold a week of meetings during the first six days in December, the gatherings to be held in every town in the county and perhaps in some of the more populous school districts, when competent men will talk on matters pertinent to the improvement and betterment of agricultural interests and attempt to aid the farmers of Wilson county in the effort to gain in farm productiveness. The next meeting of the association will be held in Altoona. E. J. Williams of Neodesha is president; B. H. Hill, Neodesha, vice-president, and Jay Pritchard of Fredonia, secretary-treasurer. Meetings are held four times a year.

SUCCEEDS FATHER AS CASHIER

Frank A. Moses has been elected cashier of the Citizens National, Great Bend, Kan., to succeed his father, R. H. Moses, who died recently. Ed Opie and Hylas Butler were made assistant cashiers. Mr. Moses has been with the bank since its organization and has worked in every department.

BUYS ROSEVILLE BANK

Announcement has been made that Alden Anderson, a banker of Sacramento, Cal., and several other towns in the Sacramento valley, had purchased a controlling interest in the Roseville (Cal.) Bank and Trust.

ATLANTA BANKER HONORED

Stewart McGinty, assistant cashier of the Fourth National, Atlanta, Ga., has been appointed a member of the publicity committee of the American Institute of Banking.

BANK'S CORN CONTEST

George W. Glos, cashier of the Elgin City Banking Company, has announced that the judge of the corn contest, conducted under the auspices of the banking company and the First National of Elgin, will be there December 15th to judge the corn and award the prizes. Eight prizes will be awarded, two in each four districts. Each prize is a short course in the University of Illinois, held usually during the last two weeks in January. The course consists of regular classroom work in corn judging, stock judging of all kinds, milk testing, butter making, feeding of all kinds of live stock, work in farm mechanism, lectures on crop production, soil fertility, cement construction and other questions. It includes popular lectures on live issues of the day by prominent speakers of Illinois and other states.

UNITE AGAINST TRUST BILL

New Orleans bank presidents have united in a plea to the constitutional convention in Baton Rouge, the purpose of which is to dissuade that body from drafting into the new constitution the Parkerson anti-trust ordinance now pending before the convention. This ordinance, drawn primarily to throw wide the door to state and individual action against the sugar trust, is considered by the bankers to be in such terms that its enactment into basic law would make the way open to such general attacks on large aggregations of capital as would impede the flow of investment into Louisiana and perhaps jeopardize the flotation of Louisiana's bonds. The bankers urge that the convention restrict its action to consideration of the problems presented by the refunding of the state debt and the changes suggested to the sewerage and water board act.

BANK TO INCREASE CAPITAL

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Fugazi Banca Popolare Operaia Italiana of San Francisco has been called for January 17, 1914, to vote on a proposition to increase the capital from its present amount of $500,000 to $1,000,000 and to increase the number of directors from seven to nine.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

One of the substantial banks of northern Illinois is the Third National of Rockford, which has capital and surplus of $451,547. G. C. Spafford is the president; David Hunter, vice-president; B. J. Chaney, cashier, and M. A. Kjellgren, assistant cashier. Mr. Kjellgren is treasurer of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce, one of the efficient commercial organizations in Illinois. Among the directors are W. J. Slater, president of the Cherry Valley State Bank of Cherry Valley, and Charles H. Wilbur of the banking firm of Wilbur, Brown & Co., of Stillman Valley, both of these towns being in the vicinity of Rockford; Charles E. Sheldon, manager western department American Insurance Company; H. H. Robinson of the farm mortgage firm of H. H. and N. S. Robinson and a number of other names prominent in the business and commercial life of Rockford and vicinity.

First of Peoria Reviews Its History

The First National of Peoria, established November 23, 1863, was fifty years old Sunday, November 23, 1913, and the bank officers reviewed the history of the bank in the Peoria papers of that date. The names and residence, with number of shares held, of the original stockholders were given in full, and those acquainted with the local history of Peoria and vicinity during war-time will find much of interest in the names of the men who took stock in the new national bank. Many of the names are represented in the present-day business life of Peoria. Henry Truitt, formerly of the old private bank of Truitt, Matthews & Co., of Chillicothe; Tobias S. Bradley, the founder of the Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria; Nathaniel B. Curtiss, Jacob Littleton, Richard Gregg, James H. McCall of Canton and a number of old-time financiers in Peoria and vicinity, were interested in the formation of the bank. The original organization certificate was dated November 23d and the bank opened for business November 25, 1863. As a connecting link with national history we observe that the battle of Chattanooga was fought November 23, 24 and 25, 1863, so that stirring events in the Civil War were occurring while the bank was being established.

Every man whose name is appended to the list of the original stockholders of the First National Bank of Peoria has passed away, but the bank is still doing business with largely increased capital, large surplus, sixty stockholders, ten directors and twenty-two employees. "We believe that the record of this institution is one of which Peoria as well as ourselves may be proud," say the present officers, and bankers who have visited the magnificent banking room of the First National of Peoria and of its allied institution, the Savings Bank of Peoria, believe that they are fully justified in their statement. With a record in the past of honor and credit, with one of the most completely and elegantly furnished banking rooms in the entire nation and with an exceptionally high class of official personnel, the institutions face the next fifty years with every hope of increased business and satisfied patrons.

Officers of the First National are C. R. Wheeler, president; William E. Stone, vice-president and cashier, and George M. Bush and H. C. Bigham, assistant cashiers. Officers of the Savings Bank of Peoria are H. Hedrich, president; E. H. Walker, vice-president, and F. B. Weber, assistant cashier.

Permits for New State Banks

The Tonica State Bank of Tonica, LaSalle county, will be organized by W. E. Kreider, B. T. Hiltabrand and J. J. Matern with capital of $25,000. Tonica drew a large amount of newspaper space lately with her private bank failure and, as was the case at Palmyra, the failure of the private bank was followed by the incorporation of a state bank.

The Bank of Scottville, a private bank, will be succeeded by the State Bank of Scottville, permit having been issued to A. M. Bull, W. Bull and Harmon L. Catlett. The capital will be $25,000.

As noted in THE CHICAGO BANKER last week the private bank of Schiff & Co., Halsted and Twelfth streets, Chicago, has been incorporated into a state bank to be known as the Schiff & Co. State Bank. The capital, required in Chicago, will be $200,000. The permit was issued to Benjamin Schiff, L. Schiff and Samuel Shuster. Two more permits have been issued by State Auditor Brady for the incorporation of Illinois private banks into state institutions. Monday, November 24th the auditor approved the permit of the State Bank of Kempton, succeeding the Bank of Kempton, and gave the permit to Susan M. Kinney, William Goodman and Alice Goodman. He also gave a permit to William Latham, C. C. Dixon, D. W. Wise, A. G. Veatch and Robert Burnside to incorporate the State Bank of Keyesport, succeeding the Bank of Keyesport. The first bank is in Ford county and will have capital of $30,000, and the latter institution is in Clinton county and will have capital of $25,000.

All five of these permits for state banks will open incorporated banks in the place of private banks.

the successor of the old Second National of that city. The Peoples Trust was organized in the banking rooms of the Second National in 1900, and in 1903, upon the expiration of the charter of the Second National, the directors decided to close the business and to continue as a state bank under the name of the Peoples Trust and Savings Bank. The loans of the Second National were transferred to the Peoples Trust and practically all of the depositors continued their business with the new bank and hundreds of new ones have been added. Savings accounts have always been a feature of this bank. When the Peoples Trust first began business with the Second National only savings accounts were handled. Now all branches of commercial and trust business are handled.

In 1903 the Galesburg Trust and Savings was organized and the directors of this company and of the Peoples Trust decided to combine their interests and to make one large strong bank. This was done, the capital of the Peoples Trust was increased from $100,000 to $250,000 and the Peoples Trust and Savings of Galesburg is now one of the strong and progressive banks of northwestern Illinois. M. O. Williamson is the president; W. H. Pankey, vice-president; W. A. Armstrong, cashier, and H. E. Hanlon and J. E. Taylor, assistant cashiers. The correspondents are the Coal and Iron National of New York, Central Trust of Chicago and Illinois National of Peoria.

Illinois Notes

Ferd Luthy, president of the Merchants National of Peoria, states that his bank does not expect to erect a new building next year. A report that the bank was to build was circulated in the press of Peoria, but such is not the case.

The Peoria postal savings bank is flourishing with 882 depositors and $10,000 on deposits. Many of these patrons have reached the limit and can make no additions to their accounts until they take out bonds.

The common stock of the Illinois Traction system has been increased $5,000,000 to provide for the purchase of the Western Railways and Light Company. The holders of Western Railways will receive one share of Illinois Traction for each two shares formerly held.

J. S. McCollough, state auditor of Illinois from 1896 to 1912, who has been in very poor health this fall, is improving. Mr. McCollough resides in Urbana. He has many friends among state bankers especially as he was for sixteen years in charge of the auditor's office.

Jacksonville has just experienced an epidemic of worthless checks. One check was discovered raised from $5 to $500 and a number of forgeries and other irregularities have been detected. Springfield recently has suffered much from a wholesale quantity of counterfeit silver dollars "of a very superior character."

Louis J. Gurnee, former secretary of the Lake County Title and Trust Company of Waukegan, died at his home in that city Monday, November 24th, aged sixty years.

Frank L. Smith, president of the First National of Dwight, and Mrs. Smith have returned from a trip around the world.

The "Alton Way," a proposed hard road from Springfield to Alton and St. Louis, is attracting much attention from bankers and business men in that part of the state.

J. E. McDavid, cashier of the First National of Raymond, near Litchfield, is mourning the death of his father, Rev. Thomas W. McDavid, aged eighty years. The elder Mr. McDavid had lived in Montgomery county all of his life and his entire fourscore years were spent in one locality.

A block of dressed granite, said to have been the largest ever shipped into Illinois, was recently transported from Barre, Vermont, to Decatur. The block was carried in two specially built railway cars and was designed for the mausoleum of the late D. S. Shellabarger, formerly president of the National Bank of Decatur and for many years prominent in the grain and milling trade in this state. The stone measured twelve by fourteen and a half feet and shipment was delayed until these two cars, specially designed for such transportation, could be assembled in Vermont and the stone loaded.

The Raritan Union Bank, located in Raritan, near Monmouth, has recently declared a fifteen per cent dividend on the capital stock. J. Milligan is the president and J. K. Barry is the cashier.

Springfield banks report a wholesale counterfeiting of silver dollars "of an extremely superior character." The coins detected range in dates from 1880 to 1904. United States marshals are working on the case. It is not known whether the coins are being made in Springfield or are being sent there for distribution. Small stores throughout the city have been receiving the coins and have been passing them into the banks.

Henry J. Rodgers, vice-president of the Jacksonville National, is chairman of the chamber of commerce committee of that city which is engaged in an exhaustive study of the local electric lighting situation.

Rock Island county farmers are very anxious to secure a county soil expert, and a meeting was recently held at Rock Island to discuss plans for securing such a man.

RESIGNS FROM HUBBELL BANK

Announcement has been made of the resignation of S. B. Crary, for the past four years cashier of the Hubbell National, Hubbell, Mich. The resignation will become effective April 1st, when Mr. Crary will take the district agency of the Detroit Life Insurance Company. Mr. Crary will make his new headquarters in Calumet. His successor at Hubbell has not yet been named.

A POWERFUL SOCIOLOGICAL NOVEL

What aptly has been described as "a powerful novel of the new social order" by Rose Cullen Bryant has been issued by the J. B. Lippincott Company of Philadelphia. On the surface of things it would appear to be only an entrancing love story, but to those who look deeper, a sociological study disclosing a purposeful romance in which a young woman makes a serious effort to "find herself" is apparent. She is determined to taste of and know what love means before venturing upon the dangerous sea of matrimony. She tries being a trained nurse and changes an evil resort into a sociological center, obtaining a double experience of real affection. Finally the true love comes and Ruth Anne is obliged to declare it herself, but in turn is not rebuffed by the hero of the story.

WISCONSIN

That banks will experience less difficulty collecting the federal income tax in cashing bond coupons on December 1st than on November 1st, when the new federal ruling went into effect, is the opinion of J. W. P. Lombard, president of the National Exchange Bank and the Milwaukee Clearing House Association.

"Less interest is payable December 1st than November 1st," said Mr. Lombard. "January 1st and July 1st are the days on which most of the coupons are due, and the New York and Chicago banks will be swamped after January. Since November 1st the banks have acquired additional information in regard to bonds the interest of which is paid by the corporations issuing them, and there will be less difficulty in this respect. As on November 1st in cases where the issuing corporation does not agree to pay the income tax and the bond holder claims exemption, coupons will be taken for collection only. The certificate bearing the name of the coupon holder, which must be sent with coupons taken for collection, will be a permanent feature."

To Remain in Charge of Affairs of Defunct Trust Company

That Banking Commissioner A. E. Kuolt will remain in full charge of the affairs of the defunct Citizens Savings and Trust Company, including the administration of the participating certificates issued, was the order of Circuit Judge F. C. Eschweiler at the close of the final hearing in the case this week. The decision is an important one, bearing directly on the future jurisdiction of the banking commissioner in such cases. In sustaining the objections interposed against the complaint of one security holder who sought the removal of the commissioner and the trust company as the trustees and asked that the First Savings and Trust Company take over the trusteeship, Judge Eschweiler said:

"The beneficiaries have no right to protest against the ruling of a bank commissioner on a claim. The time has not yet been reached for these complaints to be entertained. The interests of the holders of the certificates are being protected by the commissioner, and when he rejects a claim it will then be time to call on the circuit court for redress."

Attorneys for the holders of the certificates argued that the commissioner had no jurisdiction to wind up the affairs of a bank and that his interests as bank examiner would antagonize his interests as trustee, and that therefore he should be removed. Only a minority of the certificate holders reported in favor of removal of the commissioner as trustee.

Bank Employees Enjoy Holiday

The annual playday of the employees of the First National was staged at the Calumet Club last Saturday afternoon—the last Saturday before Thanksgiving day, according to traditional custom. They were all there—cashiers, department managers, tellers, clerks, and bookkeepers—and the thump of the deftly aimed wooden ball as it hit the alley and the tink of silver and glass supplanted the rattle of coin and the rustling of currency. Henry Rissler, teller, carried off high honors with the day's record of 220 points. Turkey winners were E. G. Noerenberg, John Clarke, Joseph Auchter, Carl Laabs, Otto Weiland, Oscar Kaster, George Patmythes, George Amson, Herman Pecoroni, and Edward Fischer. Rumors that drifted through banking circles Monday morning gave it out that Cashier Henry Kloe died game in support of a losing team; that Assistant Cashier Edgar Hughes early forsook bowling as a means toward winning a turkey, and resorted to the raffle, by which foresight he won two; that W. C. Haas, manager of the foreign and savings department, generated the foreigners to victory and that all was in such confusion at the close of the finals that Auditor G. G. Fischer was called in to audit the scores. The afternoon's entertainment was arranged by E. G. Noerenberg.

Adopts Finger Print System

The Marshall & Ilsley Bank is the latest banking institution in Milwaukee to adopt the finger print system of identification, introducing it in both its main office and south side branch. There are now ten banks in the city using the system invented by P. A. Flak of New York, including First National, Wisconsin National, Germania National, German-American and its two branches, Mitchell Street Bank, and West Allis Bank.

¶ This Bank, being at the logical center of Wisconsin banking activity, and having an exceptional list of State and Foreign correspondents, offers its services to conservative Banks with the assurance that such a connection will be of mutual advantage.

Nels Stalheim, cashier of the First National Bank of Rice Lake, is dangerously ill, suffering from a tumor on the brain.

Recent reports from Rock county place it in the front rank of corn growing counties of the United States. One farmer, A. A. Austin, has obtained 716 bushels of seed corn from a seven acre plot, an average of a little more than 102 bushels an acre. A Milwaukee seed house took 416 bushels of this corn for $765 and the remainder of the crop will be sold for enough to bring the total for the seven acres up to $1,972.

HONOR BANKER AT DINNER

A dinner at the Hammond (Ind.) Country Club was given on Wednesday night of last week by A. Murray Turner, president of the First National of Hammond, in honor of John Brown of Crown Point, the dean of the Lake county banking fraternity and president of the First National of Crown Point, the county's first and oldest financial institution. Sixty bankers were present and every bank in Lake county was represented by presidents, directors or other officials. They subscribed to one of the most beautiful silver loving cups ever given as a testimonial of their affection for Mr. Brown. Preceding the dinner an informal reception was held, during which an orchestra played. At the speakers' table were seated A. Murray Turner, John Brown, W. Barringer Brown, Neil D. Brown, A. A. Sauerman, August Blum of the First National of Chicago, Daniel Norman of the Continental and Commercial National, Chicago; John B. Peterson, John E. Luther, Judge E. C. Field, who presented the loving cup; Dr. H. E. Sharrer and P. A. Parry. The other guests were A. L. Reiner, W. G. Paxton, H. G. Hay, Jr., Warren W. Smith, John E. Fitzgerald, Fred J. Smith, J. E. Bailey, Walter J. Riley, J. K. Reppa, J. H. Lehman, S. J. Watson, W. D. Hunter, W. H. Gardner, J. G. Allen, G. J. Bader, F. Richard Schaaf, J. N. Beckman, W. F. Mashino, C. O. Holmes, J. B. Green, H. George B. Baly, Frank H. Davis, Adam R. Ebert, Albert Foster and W. C. Belman. At the conclusion of the banquet Mr. Turner, the toastmaster, paid his tribute to the guest of honor. Among those who spoke were August Blum, Judge E. C. Field, John B. Peterson and Daniel Norman.

GIVE USE OF BANK TO HOSPITAL CAUSE

Directors of the Cleveland (Ohio) Trust have voted unanimously to turn over the main bank building to the committee in charge of the jubilee campaign to raise $250,000 for Charity Hospital. They have promised the hospital workers the use of the semi-facade at the northwest corner of the building to be used as the location of the huge hourglass which will record daily the success of the committee in its effort to raise the $250,000 in the six-day period taken by the campaign, which formally opens with a banquet in the Hollenden.

REFUSES BANK CERTIFICATE

The California banking department has refused an application from the Union Trust Company of San Diego for a certificate authorizing that company to operate a trust banking business in San Diego on the ground that the state bank law adopted by the last legislature forbids banking corporations being formed by other corporations owning the stock in such banks. The action of W. R. Williams, superintendent of banks, has been sustained by the appellate court.

PAYS FIFTH DIVIDEND

The fifth dividend on the assets of the Neal Bank, Atlanta, Ga., which failed in Atlanta several years ago, was mailed last week by the Central Bank and Trust Corporation to the depositors, numbering nearly 9,000, in the defunct institution. The dividend cancels 3½ per cent more of the bank's indebtedness to its depositors, making a total of 68½ per cent paid to date. The amount of this latest dividend is approximately $70,000.

CLEVELAND CHAPTER MEETS

Cleveland Chapter, American Institute of Banking, held a meeting on Tuesday evening at which Carl H. Fast, publicity man, talked on "Modern Wealth as a Social Product." A general discussion on "Factors in Bookkeeping Efficiency" followed.

INCOME TAX INSTRUCTIONS

Washington—The following instructions concerning the collection of the income tax have been issued:

Coupons (or orders for registered interest) payable in the United States, representing the interest on bonds owned by non-resident aliens must be accompanied by the prescribed certificate form 1004 as per treasury regulations of October 25, 1913; but this certificate may be signed either by the owner himself (herself or themselves) or in behalf of the owner by a reputable bank or bankers' or other responsible collecting agency, certifying to the ownership of the bonds and giving the name and address of the bona fide non-resident and alien owners, and when such certificate is thus attached, the normal tax of 1 per cent on such coupons or interest orders need not be withheld at the source by the debtor or collecting agency.

NEW TENNESSEE BANK ELECTS OFFICERS

The directors of the First National of Pikeville, Tenn., recently organized with a capital of $30,000, elected the following officers: President, Solon L. Robinson; vice-president, Dr. D. A. Greer; cashier, S. H. Blackburn, and assistant cashier, S. L. Deakins. The First National has purchased the Citizens Bank and will take charge of it January 10th. This is a thriving institution, having annual deposits of nearly a half million dollars.

MOBILE BANK INSTALLS REST ROOM

A modern rest room, with a maid in attendance and all the conveniences necessary to feminine comfort, will be one of the assets of the new building now about completed by the City Bank and Trust Company of Mobile, Ala. The room is located on the third floor and all the Mobile women will be welcome to make their headquarters there when down town shopping.

TO ERECT NEW HOME

The newly organized Detroit Avenue Savings and Banking Company, Detroit, Mich., is preparing to begin work at once on its building at Detroit Avenue and W. 65th Street. It has been announced that a building costing about $30,000, which will include some space to rent, will be ready for occupancy before spring. The new institution is incorporated for $50,000 and soon will increase its capital to $100,000.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

St. Louis banks, according to the summarization of the treasury department at the close of business October 21st, show gains over August 9th in deposits of \$938,415, but decreases in loans of \$2,029,405 and in cash of \$2,789,137. Compared with a year ago decreases are shown in all items as follows: Loans, \$3,819,763; cash, \$7,325,427; deposits, \$3,830,994. St. Louis bank clearings during the past week made a good record and business at the financial institutions was quite active. The demand for money was fair, while rates were unchanged and ranged at and around 6 per cent on call and time loans. Commercial paper was discounted at $5\frac{3}{4}$ to 6 per cent.

Union Trust Elects New Officers

At a meeting of the board of directors of the St. Louis Union Trust on Thursday of last week the following new officers were elected: Assistant secretary, B. W. Moser; assistant secretary, W. J. D. McCarter; assistant treasurer, G. M. Willing, and manager savings department, A. H. L. Kuhn.

B. F. Yoakum Quits Bank

The resignation of W. K. Bixby from the board of directors of the St. Louis and San Francisco (Frisco) Railroad and the withdrawal of B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the board of the Frisco, from the chairmanship of the Union Trust's board, became known on Tuesday. Mr. Yoakum ordered a local broker to sell his ninety shares of St. Louis Union Trust Company stock and the sale automatically removed him from the directorate. The St. Louis Union Trust acted as local banker for the Frisco system. The sale of Mr. Yoakum's stock was made on the day when the interstate commerce commission closed its hearing on the Frisco receivership in St. Louis.

F. O. Watts Addresses St. Louis Chapter

F. O. Watts, president of the Third National, St. Louis, addressed the St. Louis Chapter, American Institute of Banking, on Wednesday night of last week on "Currency Legislation and Its Effect on Central Reserve Cities." The lecture was the first of a monthly series to be delivered before the chapter by prominent bankers and business men. Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust, and Breckinridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust, also were present. Mr. Watts outlined what he considered the essentials of any successful currency bill and said the pending measure as it stood embodied each of these essentials.

Any successful currency legislation, Mr. Watts said, must have six general essential provisions: Centralization of reserves; an elastic issue of bank notes based on commercial assets; the use of United States deposits in the channels of trade; the establishment of rediscounting agencies and a discount market; authority to the larger banks to establish foreign agencies or branches; readjustment of United States bond contracts, and ultimate retiring of bond-secured currency. The proposed measure embodies all these essentials, he said.

"I do not attempt to say," he continued, "that every one of these essentials has been met in a perfect way. It seems to me the position of the bankers has been misunderstood. The press too often has referred to the bankers and alleged money trusts as opposing the bill. The bankers, generally, have never opposed the measure. They have called attention to many ways in which they considered certain parts of it could be improved. For my part, if the banking bill were passed to-day as it now stands, I should adopt it. I believe it would be to the benefit of the country and would prove such a bill as we could change to meet the requirements of future needs as they developed."

Regarding the direct effect of the adoption of the proposed bill on St. Louis banks, Mr. Watts said he believed there would be a natural contraction of $18,000,000 of gross deposits, though without any contraction of commercial credit. In the case of the Third National, he said, there would be a contraction of about $8,000,000 of gross deposits. To offset this, reserves released and funds in transit, with other special provisions, would provide a fund of practically $8,000,000, so that there would be in reality no contraction of credit whatsoever.

Aker Denied Parole

Preston T. Aker, former cashier of the Farmers Bank of Smithville, Mo., who was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary last week, has been denied parole by Judge Divilbliss of the circuit court. Aker had pleaded guilty of forgery on six counts and then applied for the parole. Instead of letting the sentence stand, Judge Divilbliss changed it to two years.

Joplin Bank Closes

The Joplin Trust, Joplin, Mo., organized in 1909, closed its doors on Thursday of last week. A notice on the door stated that continued withdrawal of deposits compelled them to place the affairs of the bank in the hands of the state banking board for adjustment. Officers of the institution say that all liabilities will be met in full.

Bank Cashier Indicted

The federal grand jury has returned nine indictments against Fain G. Gillock, formerly cashier of the First National at Canadian,

No matter what may be the effect of Currency legislation upon the banking business of the Country, it is certain that the growing and marketing of live stock will continue as in the past.

If your customers are engaged in the industry and ship to this market you cannot realize the full value of their business except through an account with

The National Stock Yards National Bank
St. Louis National Stock Yards, Illinois

Okla. Three indictments charge false entries in the bank's books; three charge misappropriation of funds and three charge false reports to the comptroller of the currency. The evidence before the grand jury, it is claimed by federal officials, indicates that Gillock's alleged defalcations will amount to $60,000. The bank was forced to liquidate and C. E. Million of McAlester now is in charge of the institution as liquidating agent.

Fines Imposed on Texas Banks

Carrying out his policy and determination announced a short time since, Commissioner of Insurance and Banking Collier of Texas declares he has imposed a fine of $10 on one and of $40 on another state bank for failure to promptly file a report of their financial condition. The law gives him that authority, but heretofore he has accepted the excuses usually made for such delays. When the call was issued on October 21st for such a report, the commissioner then announced that any of the state banks that have failed to report within ten days of the date of the call he would enforce the fine. Under this law the fine when collected is to be deposited to the credit of the school fund of the state.

Heads Continental Trust

At a meeting of the directors of the Continental Trust, Houston, Tex., the resignation of John Hunter Thompson was accepted and Jonathan Lane chosen president. Mr. Thompson has served as president since the organization of the company. For several months his health has not been good and this fact is considered as the sole reason for his determination to retire.

Bank's Assets Taken Over

The Texas department of insurance and banking has announced the voluntary liquidation of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank and Trust Company of Sweetwater. It also was announced that the liabilities and assets of this bank had been taken over by the Continental State of Sweetwater. The latter is headed by J. G. Wilson of Fort Worth and associates and only recently was organized and placed in operation. It has a capital stock of $50,000. The Farmers and Merchants was organized in 1906 and was capitalized at $50,000.

Temple Banker Enters Race for Governor

James E. Ferguson, president of the Temple (Tex.) State, has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor. There are now eight men in the field for nomination. Mr. Ferguson has practiced law, been engaged in mercantile business, owns a number of farms, and is a close student of political and economic questions.

Panhandle Banker in Corpus Christi

John W. Baker, president of the First National of Lubbock, Tex., one of the strongest financial institutions of the lower plains country, who was in Corpus Christi recently, said: "Crop conditions on the cap-rock are good. We had a good yield of cotton, farmers are diversifying and there is always plenty of stock water and grass. In short, the lower plains country is in good financial shape and looks forward to the future with supreme confidence."

Houston Banks Buy City Bonds

The $1,200,000 street and bridge bond issue of the city of Houston was sold recently to the six national banks of Houston. The money for the bonds is in the various banks at the disposal of the city. They were purchased at par and accrued interest dating from November 1st.

Missouri Notes

W. E. Tate, formerly with the Columbia Savings Bank, has accepted the cashiership of the newly organized Farmers and Merchants Bank of La Plata, Mo., to be opened for business about December 1st.

The Citizens Bank of Gerald was organized recently with a capital of $10,000. This is the second bank to be established in Gerald.

T. G. Haden, cashier of the Bank of Cairo, Cairo, recently was married to Miss Mary Cave of Huntsville.

TELLS REASONS FOR FAVORING CURRENCY BILL

Samuel Untermeyer on Wednesday of last week gave to members of the City Club of St. Louis eight reasons for favoring the pending currency measure. Summarized, these are:

1. It is the first step in a program of legislation intended to loosen the strangle hold of the "money trust" on business.

2. It will keep the reserves from being sent to Wall Street to be concentrated and used as the basis of stock gambling, and will leave $700,000,000 of national bank reserves for the commercial needs of the localities where they belong.

3. It will mobilize and furnish 12 reservoirs of money, available for common use, which can, when needed, be diverted into a common channel.

4. It will make commercial paper almost as active and "liquid" as money.

5. It will insure an elastic currency.

6. It will create an open discount market and do away with paying of tribute to other countries on foreign business.

7. It will open a market for acceptances of commercial paper.

8. The reserve banks will act as clearing houses for banks and for each other.

Festus J. Wade disagreed with the attorney in some respects. He said there was no power on earth that could destroy the supremacy of New York in finance. He challenged Untermeyer's statement that the collection charges of banks are excessive, and said that banks are entitled to reimbursement for this service. He defended the action of the bankers in relation to the bill, saying they merely had exercised their rights as citizens. Untermeyer interrupted him, saying the bankers had sought to have "private representation" on the federal reserve board, and Wade denied this. The two also discussed the functions of securities in relation to banking. Untermeyer said banks were not established to float financial enterprises, and Wade said bonds and stocks were necessary for national development.

PROFESSOR SCOTT ON MONEY

Professor William A. Scott of the University of Wisconsin has put every banker and student of finance under lasting obligations. He has had published by A. C. McClurg & Co. of this city a little pocket or pigeon-hole volume entitled "Money." The "theory" is cut out and the practical put in, so that after now any further loose talk at bankers' conventions about money and prices will be inexcusable. It costs but 50 cents and is a complete education on a vital topic in a nutshell.

BIG AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Samuel A. Miles, manager of the Chicago automobile show which will take place the last week in January at the Coliseum and the First Regiment armory, is in the city conferring with his staff relative to the preliminary plans for the big exposition. Many bankers have business in Chicago about that time usually.

HEAD OF "UNIVERSITY" HELD

C. L. Watson, head of the Fort Dearborn University, which has offices in the Peoples Gas building, has been bound over to the grand jury on a charge of operating a confidence game.

SEES NEED OF CLEARING BANK FOR CANAL ZONE

The need of a large clearing bank in the Panama Canal Zone is indicated by Dr. Clarence J. Owens, manager director of the Southern Commercial Congress, who has returned to Washington from the Canal Zone, where he has been to seek commercial information to be of service prior to the time when the canal shall be opened.

Dr. Owens said he was impressed with the strategic position of Panama as a location for a great clearing house bank. Such a bank, he declared, would be necessary to take care of the coming business between Latin-American countries and cities and states of the United States.

Dr. Owens declared that much of the food-stuffs that are being imported by Panama, including those bought by the United States commissary department for the use of the canal workers, were purchased in Europe.

"Take rice, for instance," he said. "We have in this country thousands of acres devoted to rice culture, yet Panama imported last year $500,000 worth of rice, of which about $30,000 worth came from the United States."

The principal necessity, he declared, was ships to carry rice and other commodities from the southeastern ports to Latin-American countries.

PITTSBURGH CHAPTER ELECTION

Pittsburgh Chapter, American Institute of Banking, held its annual banquet on Monday night of last week. Dr. William Mehard Davidson, superintendent-elect of the Pittsburgh schools, made the principal address. The officers elected for the ensuing year are, president, J. P. McKelvey; vice-president, C. W. Orwig; treasurer, Evan O. Thomas; recording secretary, Bert A. Herrod; corresponding secretary, E. A. Owens; directors, T. J. Ellwood, W. O. Phillips, B. O. Hill, H. W. Loos, George Seifert, John M. Gwin; trustees, George M. Paden and Robert Wardrop.

BANKERS TO HEAR OF ROADS

A conference in the interest of extension of the good roads work in Maryland was held in Baltimore last week by Governor Goldsborough, State Roads Chairman O. E. Weller and Harry J. Hopkins, president of the Farmers National of Annapolis, and one of the vice-presidents of the Maryland Bankers Association. The purpose of the conference was to lay the foundation for support by the bankers of the state of additional appropriations by the next legislature to carry to completion the state system now under way. A conference on the matter of a special committee of the bankers' association probably will be held at an early date.

DEPOSITORS TO GET THIRD PAYMENT

Making a total of 75 per cent paid out in ten months, the liquidators of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company on Saturday disbursed a dividend of 16⅔ per cent on deposits. This payment was based on an agreed order between the attorneys representing the Jefferson Realty Company and Saunders P. Jones, owners of the Paul Jones building, and the representatives of the bank, entered before Judge Quarles in the chancery court. It was the third dividend since the bank was closed January 22d. The first was 33 1-3 per cent and the second for 25 per cent. The payment had been held up because of injunction proceedings against the bank by owners of the property in regard to the rent of the building occupied by the bank, but being satisfied that the owners of the property would not suffer by another payment, their representatives continued the proceedings.

Editorial Comment

CONFIDENCE EXPRESSED IN THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION

The democratic party has been in control of the national government now for about eight months, a period of sufficient duration to convey an impression as to what reasonably may be expected of the party during its regime. During this time we have seen a sincerity of purpose and an aggressiveness on the part of the chief executive which is little short of phenomenal.

The country as a whole is very well satisfied with the efforts of President Wilson and his colleagues to adjust conditions so as to make the principles upon which this government was founded an actuality instead of a fiction. The president has been referred to by some enthusiastic admirers as "the best president the country ever has had." All along he has shown a wonderful conception of the difficult problems presented and a remarkable control of the situation. He has succeeded in keeping congress in session all summer and has made it convincingly plain that he will be satisfied with nothing less than strict adherence to the expressed wishes of the Baltimore convention as shown in the platform upon which he was elected.

An encouraging feature of the complimentary things which have been said about the president is that a large portion of the praise has come from men outside of the party. Mr. Wilson has indicated plainly that he intends to keep faith with the people who placed him in office and to make good on his ante-election pledges; and the best thing about it is that he started in to make good upon assuming the position.

It is a little bit early, of course, to speak of presidential possibilities in 1916, but there are many who feel that if the president maintains through the balance of his administration the high record of efficiency which he has set during the first eight months of his term he will in all justice be entitled to serve the people four years more. There has been an auspicious beginning and all good citizens are hoping that the good work will be kept up.

THE "DRYS" GREAT COURT VICTORY

Out in Iowa, notably in Des Moines, there are to be hundreds of saloons put out of business as a result of the supreme court's decision upholding the law which a lower court condemned. Over in Ohio thousands of saloons, notably in Cincinnati, have gone dry owing to a similar court decision. In each case the supreme judges voted unanimously. The lower courts had erred in favor of the whisky interests. These victories for the dry forces are quite unusual. They generally win their victories by the direct vote and seldom in the courts. Times have changed. The United States is about two-thirds dry now and conditions are ripe for a constitutional amendment putting the manufacturer of intoxicating liquors forever out of business. Then there can be no importation or use of it by the people. Public sentiment has so changed that drinking men are being displaced in all branches of employment. As an economic factor the manufacture and use of liquors has been a mistake. Just as other nations have abolished the use of opiums and other noxious drugs so must the United States abolish the use of whisky and other intoxicants. In the South the greatest advances have been made. The North is fast following suit. Vote dry as a duty to your fellow man and your country.

DEALING UNFAIRLY WITH BANKERS

Bankers many times are dealt with unfairly by the press. Their shortcomings are magnified and a breakdown in the trolley service is likely to start a run on the nearest bank. This very thing happened in a western city where the bank was located on a transfer corner. Over in Michigan a learned judge yielded to the gallery fever but the other day in sentencing Bank Wrecker Jossman. The judge openly intimated that he did not expect him to remain very long in prison. Of course a bank wrecker should be punished severely and he should be kept in the penitentiary for the whole of his term. Otherwise the law will lose its terror for the financial derelict. While this all is true it yet remains that what the judge said in his official capacity, while reflecting directly upon the convicted banker, did reflect indirectly also upon all bankers. This able judge said:

"There is not a prison in Michigan that will long hold an embezzling banker who has wealthy and influential friends.

"Three well-known releases of state-wide notoriety within a few years prove the statement. If a banker in a village near yours can wreck two banks, cripple a third one, embezzle the funds of his village as its treasurer, add forgery to his offenses and secure an early release as a Christmas present, you need not despair."

The reflection is not that a banker has not just as much right to want out, nor to do all in his power to get out, as any other convicted felon. The reflection is that the bankers of the state having purged their ranks of a crook do not use their organized power to keep him locked up. The Michigan Bankers Association has suffered many easy escapes from justice to go unresisted until now an honest judge admitted in sentencing a convicted banker that he cannot hope to have that sentence made effective. This should be the last time occasion should arise for the making of such a charge.

If opposed unitedly by the bankers of the state no future convicted member of the craft ever will be pardoned. There is work to do so that law breakers, though bankers, meet their just award of punishment.

OUR THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving day first was a custom of the English church but the first one in America was proclaimed by the Popham colonists at Monhegan. The first Thanksgiving in this country was not set apart as a day of religious observance but for recreation. On December 11, 1621, Edward Winslow wrote home to England the following very quaint account of the week's program: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men out fowling so we might in a special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruits of our labors. The four killed so much fowl that with a little help served the company about a week."

The fame of this event spread to other colonies which adopted it along with the wild turkey as the center piece. In 1628 the second Thanksgiving day was ordered and observed by the Pilgrim fathers. Early Thanksgivings were not always celebrated in November nor upon Thursday, and it was not until 1677 that we find the first printed Thanksgiving proclamation, now owned by the Massachusetts Historical Society. It is interesting to note that since 1862 the president of the United States has set the last Thursday in November to be observed as a day of Thanksgiving.

VAN HORNE AND HILL

The sudden illness of Sir William Van Horne, former president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, calls attention to a form of reciprocity between the United States and Canada which neither boundary lines nor political blunders have been able to check.

Van Horne, one of the foremost railway magnates of Canada, is an American. He was born in Will county, Ill., in 1843, and got all his training on American railroads before going to Canada. James J. Hill, best loved and most philosophical of American railway chiefs, is a Canadian, born in Ontario in 1838, but coming to the United States while still a boy.

The Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific are parallel and competing lines in the truest sense of that term. At one time a Canadian was chief of the American road and an American was head of the Canadian system. It was a noble exchange for all concerned; and if perchance the United States got a bit the better bargain, let it be remembered that we also gave the better opportunity.

CHICAGO CHAPTER TO GIVE SHOW

Members of Chicago Chapter, A. I. B., will present December 5th and 6th at the Globe theater a play entitled "Sophie Should Worry." The book is by Henry B. House and the music by George F. Bainbridge.

her ears, to say nothing of her eyes, were violently opened by an up-to-date cabaret while she was "up to the city" visiting, the future policy of the Grand Palace was formed. The natives of Cummingtown should have a cabaret and be regaled nightly by a sight or two of the gay city's most daring exponents of the dance nouveau in the intricacies of the "Kangaroo Hop" and the "Turtle Waddle Waltz." By the time Miss Sophie returned home her plans were all formulated and she started her advertising crusade. The success of her adventure seemed assured; the town went wild over her metropolitan scheme—at least the masculine part of it did—but they didn't count for much in Cummingtown, not since the wave of feminism in politics had swamped the town, and, to say the least, it was some inundation. The spring mayoralty campaign was nearly finished when Miss Sophie's cabaret plan dawned upon the horizon.

Mrs. Mary Uppan Cumming, wife of the town's present mayor—Esau M. Cumming—was opposing his re-election, coveting the job for herself. When the noise of the cabaret plan reached her ears, she called her fellow blue stockings together and then the edict went forth that it should be tabooed in Cummingtown, and its inauguration should be made an issue of the campaign. We said a while ago that the masculine portion of Cummingtown didn't count for much. It didn't, in the eyes of the Woman's Equality League. But the hardworked "hen-pecks" counted for more in the election than their wives thought for. What did you say? Who was elected? Did Cummingtown have its cabaret? Should Sophie worry?

All queries will be answered at the Globe theater Friday and Saturday nights December 5th and 6th.

"BANKING AND CURRENCY IN THE UNITED STATES"

The timely appearance of this series of valuable papers devoted to the non-partisan discussion of the Owen-Glass bill is certain to arouse widespread interest. This is the most important subject before the country to-day. The volume just published serves as a basis for comprehensive and thoughtful criticism of the proposed plan and well deserves the attention and careful study of all those interested in the broader aspects of the currency problem.

Among the subjects treated are The Rediscount Functions of the Regional Banks; The Business Man and the Note-Issue Provision; Foreign and Domestic Exchange Functions of the Regional Banks; Centralization of Banking and Mobilization of Reserves; The Economists and the Owen-Glass Bill, and other subjects of like interest. Among the contributors are such well-known authorities as Hon. Robert L. Owen, Carter Glass, Arthur Reynolds, Edward L. Howe, Nelson W. Aldrich, Frank A. Vanderlip, Irving T. Bush, Fred I. Kent, Joseph T. Talbert. Two hundred and thirty-eight pages, paper covers, $1.50. Academy of Political Science, Kent Hall, Columbia University, New York.

ningtown very long, though. The whole town knew about it as quickly as the Woman's Equality League got busy by word of mouth and over the telephones one eventful morning. Sure! there are telephones in Cummingtown. It's a progressive enough village to have them, but it had no cabaret. That's what started the whole trouble. Trouble? You know it! Everybody was up in arms about it. How dared Miss Sophie Spottswood inaugurate such an iniquitous institution in that staid and puritanical village where blue stockings prevailed? To be sure some of the Equality League wore half hose in order to mutilate their male relations in the haberdashery line, and even went so far as Hart, Schaffner & Marx and Stetsons, but the majority wore blue stockings for all time.

You see it was like this: Business had been falling off in big chunks at Miss Sophie's hotel,yclept the Grand Palace. The townspeople had given her American plan dining room the go-by for the giddy whirl of night life at Perkins Junction two miles away. But Miss Sophie was a resourceful person, so when Progress in liquidating the business of the Columbus Savings and Trust Company by the Ohio state banking department, as reported to Governor Cox, shows that $564,296.87 has been collected and $551,147.33 disbursed since the department took over the institution February 26, 1912. At the time the bank was closed it had cash on hand of $16,264.48, which would make the total receipts of the liquidation $580,561.35, and leave a balance on hand November 15th of $29,414.02. Depositors have been paid 17½ cents of their claims or an aggregate of $249,054.05. The mortgage against the real estate held by the bank, amounting to $250,000, together with $10,000 interest, has been paid by the liquidating authorities. The expense of the liquidation so far has amounted to $22,104.21 and taxes have cost $12,300.05. It is notable in the statement of the liquidation that of the large deposits held by the bank nearly all of the commercial accounts were withdrawn before the institution closed. The 60-day notice of withdrawal required by the bank prevented the withdrawal of the savings accounts. As a result the commercial or check deposits under liquidation aggregate $94,961.69, against savings deposits amounting to $1,141,990.39. The building will be offered for sale December 15th. The remaining assets of the bank largely are slow notes, judgments, electric railway securities, a few mortgages, mining stocks and doubtful claims, which are being disposed of as rapidly as possible.

Bank Will Enlarge Property

One of the most important of the early spring improvements in Columbus will be the remodeling and enlargement of the Market Exchange Bank at Fourth and Main streets. The bank just has exercised the option which it has held for some time to take over the storeroom directly west of its present quarters and now occupied by a drygoods store. This will increase the Main Street frontage from thirty to sixty feet. The room acquired is fifty feet deep. The lobby will be rearranged, as will the tellers' cages, which will be increased to eight in number and placed in a horseshoe shape. The Market Exchange Bank has grown steadily since the day of its founding, December 1, 1896. Its deposits now exceed $1,500,000. The institution is capitalized at $100,000, fully paid in, and has a surplus and undivided profits exceeding $100,000. Dr S. B. Hartman has been the president of the bank since its organization and Oscar A. Schenck the cashier. W. R. Gault is the vice-president and Raymond Zirkel the assistant cashier.

Cincinnati Bankers on Income Tax

President Charles A. Hinsch of the Fifth-Third National not only does not believe that the income tax law is unpopular, but favors the taxing of all incomes above $1,000. He believes a tax of one-half of one per cent on incomes above $1,000 would not be objected to by those included in that list. The income tax question came up in Cincinnati last week following an alleged statement of S. W. Straus of Chicago that the new measure providing for collections at the source is a failure. A. Clifford Shinkle of the Central Trust and Safe Deposit Company does not believe that the collection at the source causes any great expense to the banks or trust companies although it may mean a little extra work. "No one objects to the income tax law," declared Vice-President G. W. Williams of the Fourth National, "although fault may be found with the method of collection. Things might be a little easier if the government would take it for granted that all men were honest. I do not believe it would find many who would be willing to swear falsely regarding their incomes in order to save a dollar or two tax."

Group One Meets

Group One of the Ohio Bankers Association held its annual meeting in Cincinnati on Tuesday. Congressman S. D. Fess of Ohio and Judge Baggott of Dayton, Ohio, were the principal speakers.

Sandusky Banker Dead

Charles C. Westerhold, assistant cashier of the Commercial National, Sandusky, died recently of typhoid fever. He had been ill but a few days.

Open Foreign Branch

Preparations are under way for the early opening of a new department of the Dayton (Ohio) Trust and Savings Company's business for the especial convenience of the foreign population of the city and environs. Alexander C. Warady of New York, who has had many years experience in this branch of the banking business, will be in charge. Besides providing for savings and commercial accounts, the foreign branch will sell drafts on all parts of Europe and sell steamship tickets, making all arrangements for the safeguarding of the passage of relatives sought to be brought from Europe by resident foreigners as well as of those desiring to return to their native land for visits.

Ohio Notes

Chauncey Springer, who pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery, was given an indeterminate sentence to the reformatory and paroled. Springer forged two checks on the Cleveland Trust Company's east end branch, using the name of James Mehaffy. After cashing them he went to New York where he was caught.

Members of the Christmas club of the Garfield Savings, Cleveland, have a total of $75,000 to their credit.

At the twenty-fifth semiannual meeting of the City National, Marion, the regular dividend of three per cent was declared and the surplus increased from $45,000 to $50,000. The bank has been in business twelve and a half years and now stands with a capital stock of $100,000, a surplus of $50,000 and undivided profits of $5,275.75.

Stockholders of the First National, Bucyrus, have elected Charles F. Picking to succeed the late J. B. Gornley. W. H. Picking has been chosen president of the institution.

The stockholders of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Sharpsburg will vote on January 13th on the proposition of increasing the capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000.

Move Bank to Beckley

The Winding Gulf Bank will be moved from Hotcoal to Beckley, W. Va., and will take possession of its new home on December 1st. It is understood that as soon as the bank is located in Beckley the capital stock of $25,000 will be increased and a number of new stockholders added to its present list. L. N. Frantz is cashier and F. A. Hummel assistant cashier. Mr. Frantz is identified in the same capacity with the Bank of Mullens.

Increases Capital

Waller C. Hardy & Co., Charleston, W.

Va., has filed records with the secretary of state increasing the capital stock from $100,000 to $250,000 and at the same time changing the name from the Waller C. Hardy & Co. to the Central Trust Company. The company was organized last May for a general trust and first mortgage business and has become one of the substantial financial centers of the state. The officers are, president, John L. Dickinson; vice-president, Charles K. Payne; secretary, Waller C. Hardy; assistant secretary-treasurer, Edward M. Burdette.

New Indiana Bank

The stockholders in the new bank at Odon, Ind., to be known as the Farmers Bank of Odon, formally have organized and prepared for business. The directors selected are J. H. Garten, J. A. McCoy, Wm. Meeriemeer, Reasco Bennett and Lowery Cooper. The directors have elected J. H. Garten, president; Lowery Cooper, vice-president and J. A. McCoy, cashier. Work is being pushed rapidly on the completion of the building and the bank will be ready for business as soon as the fixtures and safe arrive and are installed.

Indiana Bank Figures

The comptroller of currency has given out a statement setting forth the condition of the national banks of Indiana, October 21st, the date of the last call. It shows loans and discounts, $110,296,656.04; individual deposits, $119,338,827.99; total resources, $187,639,058.64; percentage of reserve to deposits, 17.3. The report of the Indiana national banks, November 26, 1912, approximately one year ago follows: Loans and discounts, $107,770,768.71; individual deposits, $121,987,133.93; total resources, $186,410,444.96; percentage of reserve to deposits, 16.71.

Central States Notes

M. D. Swartz, cashier of the First National Dushore, Pa., died last week after a long illness. At the organization of the First National about twenty-five years ago, Mr. Swartz was elected cashier and had continued in that capacity until his death.

John C. Clark has been elected secretary and treasurer of the Lock Haven (Pa.) Trust and Safe Deposit Company to succeed the late Hogan Furst.

Peter L. Glase, a director of the Reading (Pa.) National, is dead.

The Seaboard National, Norfolk, Va., soon will enlarge its present floor space and occupy in addition to its present quarters the room now occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company.

W. P. Kincheloe of Central City, Ky., has been appointed national bank examiner for the western district of Kentucky.

J. D. Wilson, who for twelve years had been president and cashier of the Peoples Bank at Greensburg, Ky., is dead.

The present quarters of the Paducah (Ky.) Banking Company are undergoing renovation and general improvement and handsome new fixtures are being installed to add to the attractiveness of the bank interior.

A guaranty company recently paid the Cadillac (Mich.) State $10,000, the amount of the bonds of former Cashier C. J. McHugh, of the Cadillac State, who defaulted to the extent of about $40,000, according to the latest reports. George G. Brown of Cheboygan will become cashier December 1st.

Northwest Letter

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

E. W. Decker, president of the Northwestern National, Minneapolis, has returned from the East where, he says, Minnesota stands high financially and is admittedly the most prosperous part of the country at this time. "I never," said Mr. Decker, "was treated with such entirely cordial enthusiasm in the East. Perhaps I was imagining, but it seemed to me that when I showed up, a look of relief passed over the countenances of those in financial circles. Somehow I seemed to constitute a bright spot. Where I was known, the smile broke through immediately. Where I had to be introduced, the words 'Minneapolis, Minnesota,' were the sunshine producers. The reason, therefore, is apparent. Minnesota never had a finer year. In the Southwest there was another crop failure. Many states suffered partial crop losses. Minnesota never did better with her crops. It is not so much that the rest of the country was bad as that Minnesota was exceptionally good and stands out in front of the front rank. Other states of the Northwest are in good shape, but none like this state of ours. The secretary of the treasury offered to send millions to Minnesota to aid in the crop movement. Now, it is no reflection on any state to accept loans for crop movements, but Minnesota did not even get excited over this liberal offer. It didn't need the money and took none of it. Nor have the Minnesota country banks been sending down East for any extensive loans. They do not need the money. I visited Philadelphia, New York and Boston and everywhere they looked upon me as the man from the greenest spot in the nation. I swelled up with pride for Minnesota." Mr. Decker believes a little more confidence is being shown in the East and that it will continue to strengthen. He does not look for a currency bill until spring.

Farmers to Hear Bankers

George H. Richards, secretary of the Minnesota Bankers Association, has been notified by E. C. Higbee of Morris, who is arranging for the corn and alfalfa show of the West Central Minnesota Development Association, at Morris, that for "Bankers' Day," Friday, December 12th, J. H. Erickson, cashier of the First National of Clinton, has been added to the program. S. G. Eliason of the Eliason State Bank of Montevideo will speak, also W. H. Gold, president State Bank of Redwood Falls. Mr. Gold will give instances of effective farm accounting and financing, while Mr. Eliason will talk on cattle breeding. Joseph Chapman of the Northwestern National, Minneapolis, will discuss the relation of the banker to the general plan for improving agricultural conditions in Minnesota.

St. Paul Bank Installs Counting Machine

The Merchants National of St. Paul has installed a marvelous money counting machine which counts coins from pennies up to $20 gold pieces, and does away with the hard labor of the tellers even to the wrapping and packing of money. The machine is about the size of an alarm clock. A hand is set for the kind of coin that is to be counted and the amount. When the amount is reached, the machine automatically stops.

Plan a Success

The plan of co-operation between farmers and local banks to bring blooded stock into this country, as advocated at the agricultural conference summoned by Governor A. O. Eberhart, worked well in Becker county, which was the first to report on results. In other counties much stock has been introduced through the means proposed at the conference and which were adopted from a system which had been tried in Traverse and neighboring counties with fair success. In Becker county the Merchants National at Detroit determined to assist in the state-wide movement of diversifying the agricultural industry in the state and sent for two carloads of pure-bred Holstein dairy cattle which were taken up so rapidly that the bank had to keep peace in the neighborhood, had to send for more stock. J. E. Bakke, vice-president of the bank, in a personal letter to Governor Eberhart, said: "We expected that there would be no difficulty in disposing of the stock but were not prepared to find as active a demand as there is for thoroughbred cattle in this territory. All the stock we had was bought instantly on arrival and the farmers are asking every day for more. We probably will make another shipment before long. The stock we did bring in has been well distributed in all parts of our territory and we are very well pleased with our venture."

New Bank Opens

The New Farmers State of Holt, capitalized at $10,000 and with a surplus fund of $2,000, has been opened for business. Lars Backe of Thief River Falls is president of the Institution. Charles Latta of Holt, vice-president and S. Kolden and Bertil Backe, cashier. The board of directors are Lars Backe, Arnold Bjerkhoel, Charles Latta, Bertil Backe and S. Kolden.

Bank at Elk Point Chartered

The Farmers State of Elk Point, S. D., has been incorporated with a capital stock of $20,000, the president being John V. Gill of Elk Point; vice-president, W. M. Verisom of Elk Point, and the cashier, who holds most of the stock in the bank, being Lawrence Authier of Elk Point.

County in Good Condition

Although Lyman county, S. D., for several years has not raised abundant crops, because of lack of sufficient rainfall at critical periods of the growing season, the people of the county remain in excellent financial condition, according to the statements which have just been made by the various banks of the county. These show that at the present time the people of Lyman county have in the banks of the county aggregate deposits of nearly $1,000,000. Many of the homesteaders now are turning a part of their attention to cattle and hog raising, and find these branches of farming very profitable.

Celebrates Sixteenth Birthday

The Summit (S. D.) Bank recently celebrated its sixteenth birthday. Though Summit was founded in 1892, it was not until 1897 that C. H. Lien, then a general merchant, established a private bank in the town, the first financial institution in Summit. The deposits at the end of the first year of the bank's existence amounted to but $7,000. Later deposits increased and the bank prospered and was transformed into a state bank which now has deposits amounting to $150,000. Mr. Lien still is with the bank as cashier and O. P. Brustuen is president.

Montana Bankers in Conference

The executive committee of the Montana Bankers Association held its fall meeting recently in Great Falls. In the evening Secretary Mark Skinner of the association and cashier of the Commercial Trust and Savings, Great Falls, invited the other members of the committee to enjoy his hospitality at a dinner given at Hotel Rainbow and the guests included C. W. Butler, president of the State Bank of Miles City; C. C. Swinborne, cashier of the Daly Bank and Trust Company of Butte; Austin W. Warr, cashier of the Bank of Fergus County of Lewistown; H. V. Alward, cashier of the First National of Kalispell and D. R. Peeler, president of the Bank of Commerce of Kalispell and president of the association. At its business session subsequent to the dinner, the committee took up the question of taxation of banks and a general discussion followed. There was also discussion of business topics of interest to bankers and the meeting was declared to be a very profitable one. Mr. Skinner was the first secretary of the organization about three years ago and he did his service so well that, though he was allowed to drop out of that office last year, he was again placed in the position at the last meeting and bankers declare that his interest and energy has been a great force in the upbuilding of the state association.

Number of Banks in Montana on Increase

The number of state and private banks in Montana has jumped above the 200 mark since the last call was issued by State Bank Examiner H. S. Magraw, and as a result the resources of the financial institutions coming under the control of that official have increased 3,058,082.64. These figures are shown in the October call, which was issued last week by Mr. Magraw. The statement shows that the number of state and private banks in Montana is 202, an increase of 16 since August 9th. The call is a splendid indication of the financial stability of the banks of the state and of business in general and shows a big increase in both the checking and savings deposits. Total resources in state and private banks have jumped to $59,886,978.22, as compared with $56,574,089.92. There was during the three months a decrease in bills payable and other liabilities amounting to $254,805.66. The capital stock of all banks subject to control by the state is $8,519,000, while there is due from banks $10,794,466.06. Checking deposits total $31,347,963.16, while the savings deposits have climbed to $13,206,577.33. This is an increase of $2,347,423.15 in checking deposits in three months and of $334,873.26 in savings accounts. In the same time there has been an increase in capital stock amounting to $335,000, representing the money required to put the 16 additional banks on their feet.

Northwest Notes

J. A. Valentine, vice-president of the First National of Breckenridge, Minn., has been honored by appointment as a member of a state committee to investigate the farm credit problem.

The First National of Montevideo, Minn., will build a new two-story brick building this fall.

The Farmers National of Lidgerwood, N. D., will install an electrical tubular chime clock on the front of its building.

The secretary of state of South Dakota has chartered a new bank at Chester capitalized at $10,000. The incorporators are H. C. Jensen, vice-president; A. L. Butler, president; M. Christenson, cashier, and E. J. Rudd and E. W. Brown.

Jordan, Mont., is to have a bank to be known as the First National of Jordan. Those interested are E. F. Meyerhoff, J. P. McCuiston, H. D. Huff, J. A. Kelly and others.

Articles of incorporation were filed in Helena, Mont., recently of the Farmers Bank of Wolf Point. The incorporators are George D. Kirk, Jr., H. B. Nason, W. J. H. Montgomery of Wolf Point; David Kirk and Ernest Kirk of Niagara, N. D. The capital is $20,000, fully subscribed.

BANK CHANGES

Henry de Wyl has been elected secretary of the Central Missouri Trust Company of Jefferson City.

Walter Jones has been elected cashier of the Bank of Washburn, Mo.

F. W. Clarke has been elected first vice-president and a director of the Nebraska Central Bank of Omaha.

Rollin H. Scribner has been elected third vice-president of the Second National of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Scribner comes from the Security Savings Bank and Trust Co., where he was treasurer. Mr. Scribner started in the banking business with the First National Bank twenty-six years ago. Three years later he went with what is now the National Bank of Commerce, remaining with that institution until January 1, 1905, when he resigned to accept the post of treasurer of the Security Savings Bank and Trust Co. He is one of the best known and most popular men in northwestern Ohio.

TO BECOME A NATIONAL BANK

Washington.—Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane has received an application to convert the Bank of Forrest City, Forrest City, Ark., into the "First National Bank of Forrest City," capital $50,000.

ACCUSED OF CONNECTION WITH BANK FAILURE

Clyde R. Morrison of Detroit, and a former employee of the defunct Clarkston (Mich.) bank was arrested at Pontiac last week after the defaulting cashier, Ralph E. Jossman, had received a sentence of from seven to twenty years. The charge against Morrison is that he made false entries in the books of the bank in complicity with Jossman's defalcations. His examination was set for November 29th and his bond was placed at $5,000 signed by Harry Hulbert and Mark Mitchell, both of Highland Park. It is alleged that Morrison had an overdrawn account of $7,400 when the bank failed. The specific charge on which he was arraigned was entering a deposit of Charles and Isabell Knox of $530.60 as $30.60.

CHATTERBOX FOR CHRISTMAS MORNING

Millions of people in all parts of the world have read Chatterbox, the most famous of all juvenile publications. Their children in turn welcome it no less eagerly to-day, while they themselves still continue to read it with interest and affection. Chatterbox is the best value for money ever offered. The proprietors of this wonderfully popular volume have consistently made it their sole aim to give the public most exceptional value, and to keep it abreast of the times. The eight beautiful colored plates alone caused considerable outlay, apart from upwards of 250 original black and white illustrations. The contents of each $1.25 volume of Chatterbox are more than equal to those of three ordinary $1.50 books. Chatterbox is good all through, and its exceptional contents have given it an entrance to all parts of the world. It stands on its merits. Let any fairy godmother, parent, uncle, aunt, or schoolmaster, seeking to give a prize or present, take a peep inside a volume of Chatterbox.

CHANGE IN CORPORATE ASSESSMENT

The income tax law makes an important change in the process of assessing corporations, joint companies, and associations and insurance companies. These concerns no longer will be required to file a schedule of their profits for the calendar year. They will be permitted to designate the last day of any month as the close of their fiscal year and file returns to the government for that period.

They will be required to notify the collector of the designation not less than thirty days thereafter and to file their schedules within sixty days after the close of their fiscal year. Corporations which prefer to continue to account for their incomes by the calendar year will file returns not later than March 1st.

The requirement of the corporation tax law that profits should be accounted for by the calendar year was the cause of much protest and friction with the treasury department.

Officials of corporations keeping accounts by the fiscal year complained that they were put to great expense and inconvenience in compiling a separate report for the government by the calendar year. Business frequently was interrupted for days to permit the taking of inventory.

Congress recognized the justice of these complaints by the change incorporated in the new law. Under the new provision the government will be receiving returns and taxes from corporations throughout the year, although the great majority will file schedules for the fiscal year ending June 30th. The law requires that the taxes of corporations employing a fiscal year shall be paid within 120 days after the filing of schedules.

Des Moines, November 21.—The Iowa Bankers Association, which has been conducting an admirable campaign for agricultural improvement in Iowa, has decided to engage more actively in the cause. Secretary Hall has posted $25 with the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers Association for the best bundle of alfalfa shown at the annual show the first of the year. Prior to this time a prize of $5 was offered for the best alfalfa produced at the tri-county fair at Eddyville. Next year it is possible that there may be still more money posted by the association so as to show the people of Iowa that it is in earnest in its desire to have more alfalfa produced in the state. The agricultural committee of the I. B. A. is planning a more active campaign for next year than ever before. Alfalfa is to be one of the main points in the crusade.

Suspect Identified by Detective

After much effort Detective Gust Patek, Iowa representative of the Burns agency, has identified Frank Kelly, alias Fred Carson, the pal of Joe Webster, recently arrested at LeMars. Kelly is the same fellow who engaged in a revolver duel with Detective Muir of the Rock Island railroad in Des Moines seven or eight years ago. Kelly had been sought for stealing from box cars and when the detective tried to catch him he opened fire. He was apprehended and did time. Since then it is thought that he and Webster have been traveling together. After their arrest at LeMars, the pair tried to break jail and all but succeeded. A few bricks was all that stood between them and liberty.

Bank Refuses Large Deposit

The Iowa Trust and Savings of Des Moines put a new problem up to Secretary of State Allen when it refused to handle a sum equal to almost $1,000,000, the money received for automobile licenses. That any bank would refuse to accept $1,000,000 looked incredible to the secretary, until he began an investigation. He was then shown that the recent legislature enacted a law which compels settlements by all departments of the state with the treasurer every third day. Under this rule a bank would no more get the money and get it counted until it would need to be shifted to another account. In other words, the bank would simply be bookkeeper. It would get no benefit whatever from the handling of the funds. The automobile license fund in Iowa is a big one, and is constantly increasing, so that the business of taking care of the money is going to become more arduous. Under the circumstances the bank felt justified in declining to furnish its services to the state without any compensation.

Alley, it is charged, threatened to kill the banker if the latter did not deposit a specified sum in a certain place. Mr. Elliott failed to get frightened. He turned the letter over to the postoffice department and Alley was arrested after inspectors had made an investigation.

Bankers Plead Not Guilty

Adam and E. K. Kiefer and William Smith charged with fraudulent banking, entered plea of not guilty when arraigned in district court at Independence last week. The case grew out of troubles with a private bank at Hazelton some months ago. At the time there was some little excitement in the case. It is doubtful whether the case will get to trial this fall.

D. L. Heinsheimer of Glenwood, president of the Iowa Bankers Association, is recovering nicely at a hospital in Chicago. Mr. Heinsheimer was operated upon some days ago, and he was able this week to write letters to some of his many Iowa friends.

to rob the bank at New Market some nights ago, and likewise the lone bandit who robbed a Burlington train near Council Bluffs some time ago. Lee has been identified by men at New Market as the same fellow who worked as a sign painter in that town the day before the attempt was made on the bank. One fellow who was caught on the street and forced to go into a box car in which he was locked while the attempt was made on the bank asserts that the fellow who pointed the gun at him is the same man whose picture was shown him by officials. It was a picture of Lee. This man Lee is a bad actor. He was sent up from Marion as one of the gang which tried to rob the Alburnett Savings and which later attempted to break jail.

Banker Married Sixty Years

One of the most interesting social events in many months at Davenport was the celebration of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Claus Stoltenburg. Mr. Stoltenburg is president of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings of Davenport. He became prominent in the financial circles of Davenport twenty years ago, and prior to that time was prominent as a farmer in Scott county. In honor of the sixtieth wedding anniversary friends of the couple to the number of 150 gathered for dinner at the Hotel Davenport. Many of the guests were from out of the city. The table was beautifully decorated and the dinner was followed by appropriate toasts and responses. Dancing was the closing feature of the evening.

Alleged Swindler Apprehended

Harry Lowenthal was arrested in Des Moines last week and held to the grand jury on charges of flimflamming the Valley National out of $70. However, $65 which he had in his possession was attached by the bank so that the loss was practically made up. Lowenthal, it is alleged, discovered that his roommate had the money in the bank. Accordingly he passed himself off as the roommate and secured the money. He deceived a friend into identifying him and the latter later caused his arrest. In the meantime Secretary Hall and Detective Patek were busy. They traced a man who they thought was Lowenthal into Missouri only to find that the man they were after had been in the city jail at Des Moines during the entire procedure.

Bank Now in New Home

The First National at Woodbine is now installed in its new building, one of the finest bank buildings in western Iowa. This institution was organized in 1884 as a private bank. Josiah Coe was president and H. M. Bostwick cashier. In 1892 it was reorganized as the First National. Mr. Coe remains as president but H. Bostwick became a national bank examiner in 1905. The Peoples Savings was organized in 1895 with F. J. Porter president. The two institutions are associated and Mr. Porter remains president of the savings bank. The new building is two stories high, built of pressed brick and thoroughly modern in every way. The officers of the First National are Josiah Coe, president; H. B. Kling, vice-president; George W. Coe, cashier; O. H. Perrin, assistant cashier; D. E. Brainard, assistant cashier. Officers of the savings bank are F. J. Porter, president; H. B. Kling, vice-president; M. A. Reed, cashier, and George W. Coe, assistant cashier.

Iowa Notes

A Des Moines bank which recently shipped $5,000 in gold to Chicago was notified that the package was short $46 as shown by the weight. The shrinkage was due to the wear on the coins.

A. F. Dawson, president of the First National at Davenport, spoke on the currency question to the Men's Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church at Muscatine Nov. 19th.

The Third National at St. Louis has been made reserve agent for the First National of Ottumwa.

The Bank of Barnum has changed from a private institution to the Barnum Savings.

The Bank of Cresco, private, has been incorporated as the Cresco State, a state institution.

N. J. Schrup, well-known Dubuque insurance man, is reported to be organizing a new bank at Dubuque. He will be president of the institution.

S. E. Wainwright is president and R. M. Tuttle cashier of the new bank at Lenox.

The Iowa Loan and Investment Co. at Atlantic is a new organization with a capital stock of $200,000. W. L. Overman is president and J. F. Wissler is secretary.

George Gallarno of the municipal accounting department of the state auditor's office is the latest to be mentioned for state auditor in Iowa as successor to Auditor Bleakly.

F. S. Needham has been elected president of the Farmers Savings at Sac City and L. E. Irwin, vice-president.

T. A. Stevenson has succeeded Grant M. Bigelow as president of the Shannon City Savings at Shannon City. Grant Bigelow succeeds A. E. Bigelow as vice-president and Joseph Bates succeeds S. L. Beall as cashier.

Roger Graham is the new assistant cashier for the Citizens National at Spencer.

Louis Wokoun, cashier of the American Trust and Savings at Cedar Rapids, is organizing a new bank at Solon. The capital stock will be $20,000. This will give Solon, a town of 400, its second bank.

James Burns, who admitted the theft of a $6,000 certificate of deposit from Frank Driesbach, an invalid farmer at Marshalltown, was given his liberty after he had returned the certificate and Driesbach refused to prosecute.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Reynolds, who were formerly at Pasadena have returned to Iowa and will make their home at Cedar Rapids. Mr. Reynolds was with the Des Moines National before he went West.

South Dakota Notes

The state banking department has taken possession of the Security State at Faulkton. President Morse died not long ago, but his estate has never been settled and the state department took charge of the institution to protect the interests concerned.

H. R. Dennis, former president of the Sioux Falls Savings and a well-known capitalist, has been critically ill of paralysis following a nervous break down. It is probable that he will recover, but at this writing his condition is very serious. He came to Sioux Falls from Des Moines a dozen years ago.

Clarence Johnson of Aberdeen has been held under bonds for suspected complicity in the bank robbery at Mina last month. Frank Hayes and Jack Schaffner, self-confessed participants in the affair, have implicated Johnson, who is under arrest in Ipswich.

The Farmers State has been organized at Chester with a capital of $10,000. A. L. Butler is president, H. C. Jensen, vice-president, and M. Christianson, cashier.

The Clare City is the name of a new institution at Clare.

The Peoples State has filed articles and will be established at New Effington.

The Grover State is the name of a new institution launched at Grover. The capital stock is $10,000. H. P. Andrieson is president; P. G. Fink, vice-president; H. A. Fromke, cashier.

Reports from Yankton state that robbers burglarized the Volin State and one or two stores at Volin one night last week. Bloodhounds had failed to uncover the criminals at last reports.

Reports show that the deposits in the banks of Lyman county aggregate over $1,000,000. This is regarded as evidence of the prosperity of the residents of that county and of the homesteaders who are getting active in the production of cattle and hogs.

DEBT OF WORLD'S COUNTRIES INCREASING

Washington—The national debts of the world, according to figures compiled by the department of commerce now aggregate $42,000,000,000, having increased 20 per cent in the last decade and doubled in the last forty years. The interest and other annual charges amounted in 1912 to $1,732,000,000, or an average of slightly more than 4 per cent, though in many cases, especially those of the stronger nations, the interest rates are materially below that figure.

The largest national debt is that of France, $6,284,000,000, the next largest being Russia, $4,553,000,000; the United Kingdom $3,486,000,000; Italy, $2,707,000,000; Spain, $1,815,000,000; British India, $1,475,000,000; Japan, $1,242,000,000; and the United States, $1,028,000,000. The debt of the German Empire is stated at $1,178,000,000, and of the German States, $3,736,000,000; that of Austria-Hungary, $1,051,000,000; that of Austria, $1,434,000,000, and of Hungary, $1,268,000,000.

The aggregate of national indebtedness, including all countries for which data can be had, was, in 1800, $2,500,000,000; 1850, $8,500,000,000; 1900, $31,250,000,000, and 1912, $42,000,000,000.

Interest rates, as above indicated, vary greatly, the stronger nations obtaining lower rates for their securities; the average annual rate upon the indebtedness of the United States ranging from 2 to 4 per cent, in the case of the United Kingdom, $2\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{3}{4}$ per cent; Russia from 3 to 6 per cent; Japan, from 4 to 5 per cent; the German Empire, 3 to 4 per cent; China, 4 to 5 per cent; Nicaragua, 6 per cent; Panama, 7 per cent; Ecuador, 4 to 10 per cent, and Honduras, 5 to 10 per cent. These figures if interest rates do not, however, fully indicate the actual rates paid, since in a large proportion of cases the securities in question were sold by their respective governments at less than par, the United States being one of the few nations which have declined to sell their securities at less than their face value.

The statement of annual revenues and expenditures of the seventy-odd countries included in the list shows total expenditures of $12,308,000,000 and total revenues of $12,179,000,000, the figures relating in all cases to the latest available year, chiefly 1912 or the fiscal year 1913. Their expenditures in 1902 aggregated $7,985,000,000 and their revenues $7,901,000,000, national expenditures having thus increased over 50 per cent during the ten-year period, while national indebtedness increased about 20 per cent during the same period.

The state banking commission of Michigan has approved the consolidation of the State Bank of Standish, Mich., and the Commercial State Bank, to be known as the State Bank of Standish. The capital stock has been increased from $20,000 to $30,000.

The First State of Guelph, N. D., has been purchased by the First National at Oakes.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 21.—Conditions throughout the Spokane country this fall have been unusually favorable for heavy crops next year, the early rains having started the fall wheat nicely. The summer fallowed land was in excellent condition for seeding immediately after harvest, and most of the farmers took advantage of the situation by beginning operations at once. The result is that the grain has a good start and is in good shape to go through the winter.

Former Governor M. E. Hay recently went through the Big Bend wheat districts west of Spokane. He reports an unusually large acreage of fall-sown grain, and says it is now in condition to withstand cold weather without danger of injury. Mr. Hay is president of a company which owns many farms in the Big Bend country, and he is furnishing seed and helping to pay the expense of planting an acre or two of alfalfa on each farm.

Plan to Increase Capital

To increase the capital stock of the Washington Water Power Company from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 notices have been sent to stockholders of the company calling a special meeting for 2 P. M., December 2d. At present the company has 150,000 shares of stock and the increase will give it 200,000. The company furnishes electric service, street cars and power to Spokane and tributary territory. Should the action already sanctioned by a majority of the board of trustees be approved, and the purpose of the notice carried out, the company will offer to the present stockholders, about January 11th, the right to subscribe, at par, for stock amounting to 10 per cent of the stock they hold on December 2d. The company now has $14,081,900 worth of stock issued.

Notice to stockholders states that funds to be obtained from the issuance of the new stock are to be used for construction work at Long Lake, where the company is expending $8,000,000 in constructing a power dam, and for other extensions of the business. It is approved by the finance committee, composed of W. A. White, Benjamin B. Lawrence, Frank Lyman, Francis S. Bangs, Theodore S. Hicks, Harold T. White and Philip Cabot of New York and Boston.

Banker Hurt in Accident Dies

Henry M. Richards, chairman of the board of directors of the Washington Water Power Company and vice-president of the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company, who was hurt in a runaway accident Sunday, November 9th, near Springdale, Wash., died at the Springdale hospital. As a tribute to the deceased financier's memory, and as a recognition of the place he occupied for more than twenty years in Spokane's financial life, every bank in the city suspended business from 2 until 2:30 o'clock the day of the funeral. In 1893 Mr. Richards and his brother, J. P. M. Richards, came to Spokane and organized the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company, of which the late Mr. Richards was vice-president until his death. Soon after he became president of the Washington Water Power Company, which position he resigned in 1910, to become chairman of the board of trustees of the same company. The phenomenal success of that company is attributed to the efforts of Mr. Richards, who interested eastern capital in the troublesome times following the panic of 1893.

Plan for Council Meeting

F. J. Wilmer, cashier of the Whitman County National of Rosalia, Wash., and president of Group Two of the Washington Bankers Association, was in Spokane recently conferring with O. M. Green, assistant to the president of the Exchange National, secretary of the group, regarding the call for the annual meeting of the executive council in Spokane Thursday, December 4th. "The December meeting will be chiefly preliminary," states Mr. Green. "We will look over the situation to learn what questions the various banks want discussed at the annual convention in the spring. So many questions affecting the banking business are now pending that it is hard to select subjects that will be timely next spring. A second meeting will have to be held to choose the exact subjects and the speakers."

Better Farming Organization Effected

Permanent form to the recently completed Holden alfalfa tour of the Spokane country was effected by the gathering of representatives from many towns of the surrounding territory and the formation of a general organization known as the Holden improvement committee. This committee represents the counties in the territory covered on the tour, each of which will be entitled to appoint two members of this committee. One representative will come from such organizations as the farmers' co-operative and educational unions of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, the state granges, the bankers' associations, commercial bodies, the state agricultural colleges, state normal schools, also the state superintendent, the country agricultural agents and school teachers and the government representative from the bureau of farm management. The members of the executive committee are R. R. Rogers, Spokane, chairman; E. E. Faville, publisher of the Western Farmer, Spokane; C. B. Kegley, master of the state grange; L. C. Crow, president of the Washington and Idaho Farmers Union; A. C. Dallach, former mayor of Wenatchee and representative of the commercial club; E. D. Gilson of the Ritzville Commercial Club, and Fred N. Shepard, president of the Lewiston (Idaho) Commercial Club. This committee already has started its task of following up the Holden campaign to keep alive the movement for more alfalfa, corn, live stock and diversified farming in the Spokane country.

EDMONTON NEWS

E. J. McIver, manager of the Canadian Division of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, whose territory extends from St. John, N. B., to Edmonton and Calgary, is in the West on business.

A. Graham Sparks of London, who represents prominent British capitalists and who was a speaker at a meeting of the Edmonton

Ad Club on November 13th, said in the course of his address that while large demands have been made on the money markets of Great Britain from every part of the world, and the increasing demands for capital at home left little proportionately for investment here, there was always plenty for the carrying on of large national undertakings. Canada still retains the confidence of London financiers.

Advices received in Edmonton from Europe indicate that large amounts of money will be available in the near future for investment purposes in the prairie provinces. Millions have already been forwarded for loaning purposes from Great Britain and Continental Europe and the letters to hand from Europe would seem to indicate that those who furnished these funds are well satisfied with developments.

Surprise has at times been expressed that the total amount furnished, especially from the continent of Europe to western Canada, has not been larger. It is stated now that this will be remedied in the future and that the capital furnished to western Canada from these sources will increase at a very rapid rate. They will furnish money especially for building purposes in the large cities, and it is prophesied that this will be resumed and grow in volume in the future.

Many enterprises which have been suspended for lack of money will be prosecuted and brought to completion. Representatives of French, German and Dutch companies especially report favorable intelligence from Europe regarding money to be furnished in the future.

W. E. Rundle of Toronto, general manager of the National Trust Company, who was in Edmonton a few days ago in company with Molson, manager of the Montreal branch, says that financial conditions in the west will improve after January 1st. He reports that business is increasing and that the security offered in the west is of the best and drawing good interest.

Canadian-American Club of Edmonton has been organized with 100 charter members and these executive officers: President, J. Brown; vice-president, George M. Hall; treasurer, H. A. Roth; secretary, W. A. Riggs. The objects of the club are for the social and intellectual betterment of its members; for the study of American history; for the discussion of American events and for the entertainment of American visitors to the capital city of Alberta, and for the encouragement of the existing friendship between British and American citizens.

ERECT HANDSOME BANK BUILDING

The twelfth branch office of the Detroit (Mich.) Savings is erecting a handsome two-story building which follows the Italian renaissance not only in exterior design but in interior detail as well. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy January 1st.

NEW DETROIT BANK

Charles T. Hird, a real estate man, recently was made president of the Detroit Avenue Savings and Banking Company, Detroit, Mich., which will build at Detroit Avenue and V 65th Street and will open April 1st. The officers besides Mr. Hird are Dr. W. K. Mock, L. Ehrbar, Charles U. Davis, vice-president, U. W. Hird, secretary, and Joseph H. Werneman, treasurer.

CHARTERS NEW YORK BANK

The Citizens Bank of South Dayton, N. Y. has been granted a charter to do business under state banking laws. The capital stock is $250,000. Frank Peek will be the president and A. Hale vice-president. The cashier has not yet been named.

WHEN THE JAY BANKER COMES TO TOWN

By W. W. Kingsbury

We're a bunch of jays, except what's Rubes,
And we don't know much of inner tubes,
Outer casings, pneumatic tires,
Left-side drivers or lightning flyers.

But when the jay banker comes to town,
To gawk around, view the sights,
Dodge street cars and girls in tights,
Go to the bank where the account is kept,
Walk on floors that with pumps are swept,
Hear them say, "You take him, Bill.
I had him last: I'll pay if you will,"
Eat your dinners from a French menu,
Smoke a cigar and the gold band too,
Take a ride over town in a big red car,
Send post cards home that give folks a jar,
Meet the second vice, and the president,
And the first cashier, where "das geld" is lent,
You had better watch out; don't get too gay,
For that jay banker might come to stay.

Might come to stay? Well, laugh if you will,
But such has happened and can happen still.
There's Dr. Johnson, some preacher, too,
But he takes the money just the same as you,
And Dr. Woods, of Rochepot fame,
Who taught all the boys the points of the game,
And Mr. Watt Webb, with his eight per cent,
On a second mortgage in the country lent,
George B. Harrison of Glasgow town,
With E. F. Swinney, from close around.
Emil Moore, of Bunceton place,
With rotund body and smiling face,
Who crossed the line from a Kansas bog,
And paid forty-eight dollars for a dead bulldog,
And Burkhardt, too! say, land sakes,
This old town's full o' country jakes.
There's Cochrane and Cooke, from the Kansas sod,
Bradley and Buechle, whose name is spelled odd,
With Perry and Neal, of the National Southwest,
Which is counted the biggest and one of the best;
McCluskey and Gipson, Smith, Downing and Moore,
Who into the city from the country did pour,
With dozens of others, of equal renown,
But they were all jay bankers when they first hit town.

You should have seen them before they came
And had nails filed off by a barber shop dame.
They chewed long straws, wore high-topped boots,
Smoked cob pipes and Virginia cheroots,
Vented to the city 'bout once a year,
And while their hosts drank wine, they called for beer,
Just like the rest of us country galoots.

But my! just look at 'em now! gold spittoons, marble floors;
Electric lights in the daytime and new-fangled doors;
Assistants and clerks, some women, some men,
and affinities too, they say, now and then.
Diamond sparklers, silk socks, mahogany chairs,
Clean shaven faces and heads without hairs.

But they used to open with the rising sun
And never locked up 'till the sunset gun.

Do you wonder, then, that the banker jay,
With the mud on his boots, wants to change his way,
And to go to the city, where the bright lights burn,

And money comes easy at every turn?
It sounds like a joke, but it's happened before,
As shown by the names I've listed galore.
Who the next one will be, time only can tell,
But you can take this from me, that he'll work like ———

Well, anyway, some of you fellows will have to step down

WILL LEVINGTON COMFORT'S NEW BOOK

It is safe to say that any story by Will Levington Comfort would find an army of readers in waiting. In his latest there is no disappointment and "Down Among Men" even surpasses "Routledge Rider Among Men" and "Fate Knocks at the Door." In this story he shows that the age of reality has superseded the age of romance. Love is still his theme, but the ancient chivalry is missing. His hero and his heroine are persons of the latter part of 1913, whose lives are projected into the conditions that will prevail from now on until the longest henceforth allotted by the psalmist. They see the future in the instant, being sure of their present ground. It is always people not sure of the present who look tremblingly into the future. Not so with Mr. Comfort's latest pair of present futurists. Each of the twain has a definite view of that future and each is willing to act in the living present to the end that each may do two things at the same time: love one another, but keep that love from hindering the great destiny each believes to be in store for each. For a foundation for this love and this destiny the author gives a picture of everything that constitutes the life of to-day as this has passed under his observation. Here he is not a futurist, but a new thing in social philosophy, a presentist. Mr. Comfort is a complete master of the art of writing. The volume is published by George H. Doran Co., New York, at $1.25 net.

CABINET OFFICER GIVES VIEWS ON RURAL CREDITS

David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, gave his views on rural credits in the address which he delivered before the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry recently. He said in part:

"It is absolutely clear that before the problems of rural credit and of marketing the individual farmer, acting alone, is helpless. Nothing less than concerted action will suffice. Co-operation is absolutely essential. The same business sense and the same organizing genius which have placed this nation in the front rank in industry must be invoked for agriculture.

"I am not advocating an organization which shall attempt to establish a closed market and to fix prices. I am advocating simply an economic arrangement which will facilitate production and enable the producer to find the readiest and best market for his product and the consumer to receive his supplies at the lowest cost. Nor am I thinking of concerted effort which shall proceed from above downward. It must associate itself with some particular product which is more or less capable of being standardized and the object must be to overcome some specific difficulty. It goes without saying that the members of the co-operative society must be those who are bona fide producers and that every approach of the exploiter must be aggressively repelled. The object must be specifically economic and not remotely political."

CRITICISES PRESENT BANKING LAWS

Congressman Carter Glass, joint author of the Owen-Glass currency bill, in a recent address characterized the present banking and currency system as "bond ridden currency upon a national indebtedness."

"This defect with the inexpansive character of the currency which has a tendency to drift into New York, where it is used to gamble in the stock market, are points which the proposed system is trying to reform," said Mr. Glass. He declared that the bankers will never have any representation on the proposed federal reserve board of control, and added that their exclusion was proper "because the board will be a government board, and that bankers can cite no instance where a government board contains representatives of private interests."

Mr. Glass criticised the contention of Mr. Vanderlip, the New York banker, as to the notes provided for by the new plan as "fiat money" to be "absurd, because the issue is more solidly backed than the present notes."

THE HILLS O' HAMPSHIRE

On November 15th there was printed for private circulation by Dana Estes & Co., Boston, "The Hills o' Hampshire" by James Clarence Harvey and William H. Cressy, names which call to mind the days of Denman Thompson in "The Old Homestead." This story is of the simple life in a village. It relates to the story of a good, kind, lovable man, a type in the passing. The sex problem doesn't even cast a shadow in such a place as that in which the story is laid. One might say that all mankind would be the better for reading "Hampshire Hills" and that a strong appeal is made to judges and lawyers to be just and merciful in their official acts.

KEYSER PRESENTED WITH TRUNK

"Buck" Taylor, assistant cashier Boatmens Bank, representing bankers who made the Missouri group meetings in the private car Holstein, and also New York, Chicago and Kansas City bankers who were along, was authorized with the assistance of "Dick" Hawes of the Third National to select some suitable token to be presented to Secretary Keyser in appreciation of the splendid manner in which he looked after the comfort of the travelers during this trip. The committee selected a modern wardrobe trunk.

PAYS FOUR PER CENT DIVIDEND

At a meeting of the directors of the Habersham Bank, Clarksville, Ga., a semiannual dividend of 4 per cent was declared. This institution is in a flourishing condition and has kept up its deposits better during the past summer than ever before. The county has not felt the depression in the money market during the past year or more, and with the abundant crops made this year indications are that conditions will be the very best for the next several months.

RUSHING IMPROVEMENT

Work on the completion of the interior of the remodeled First National Bank building, Youngstown, Ohio, is progressing rapidly and it is expected that the handsome structure will be ready for opening soon after the first of the year. The new bank quarters will be among the most up to date and artistic of any in the larger towns of the country and will be a credit to the village as well as the institution.

HENRY S. HENSCHEN HOPEFUL

Henry S. Henschen, cashier of the State Bank of Chicago, says that while there has been a slight business recession, it has not had any bad effect. He said:

"There is an undoubted slowing down in the steel and iron business, due partially to the stiff conditions, where the new law has not been thoroughly tried out, and partly to the uncertainty with reference to the currency question. How far the trouble will go I cannot say, but I feel assured that the money situation is growing better, in that the stringency is not now so marked, and I am hopeful that after the first of the year there will be a resumption in general activity."

MINNESOTA PROSPEROUS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—Business conditions in Minnesota are more prosperous than in other parts of the country, according to D. C. Culver, president of the Merchants National Bank, who returned yesterday from the East.

No doubt President Wilson's message will give business a boost, as people have found that he is a little more conservative than they imagined," he said. "For some time the East has fallen behind this district in business prosperity."

SENATOR DEFENDS BANK CONTROL

Senator Reed this week defended the proposal that the regional banks proposed to be created under the pending currency bill should be controlled by the member banks, declaring that the banks would not enter a system in which they were not given control of their own resources and capital.

BANKER ELECTED HEAD OF CIVIC ORGANIZATION

Joseph E. Otis, a vice-president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, was elected president of the Civic Federation of Chicago at the annual meeting of that body held Thursday W. T. Abbott, also a vice-president of the same bank, is a member of the advisory board.

CONSIDER RURAL CREDITS LEGISLATION

Consideration of rural credits legislation was given by a sub-committee of the House banking and currency committee. Representative [Name] said the American people never would accept the German "Landschaft" system.

NEW BANKING ROOMS ALMOST READY

L. L. Bacchus, vice-president of the La Salle Trust and Savings, says that they expect to occupy their new quarters some time in the first of the year. He says that the business of the bank is running along in a satisfactory way.

Money Keepers of Bankers' Organizations

G. R. BRACKIN
MONTPELIER, IND.

J. H. GIFFORD
SALEM, MASS.

G. R. Brackin, cashier of the Farmers Deposit Bank of Montpelier, Ind., and J. H. Gifford, cashier of the Merchants National of Salem, Mass., have been chosen treasurer of the bankers' associations of their respective states for the ensuing year. The honor conferred upon these gentlemen is the reward for things worth while accomplished by them.

MOULTON SEES QUIET TIMES.

D. A. Moulton, vice-president of the Corn Exchange, says:

"A good many country banks seem to be borrowers. In the larger cities the banks are carrying their legal reserves. It looks as though 1914 would be a rather quiet year in most lines of business. There has been a noticeable slowing down in business the last two months owing to the action of the democratic congress in trying to force a currency bill through to which the public objects and which in my opinion would be injurious to the business interests of the country."

WOULD AMEND SHERMAN LAW

At the luncheon of the Chicago Real Estate Board yesterday, Attorney John S. Miller urged the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law and praised the United States Supreme Court on its attitude toward the law as reflected by its various decisions, and declared that "whenever you hear any one saying that the court is frittering away the rights of the people, don't believe it."

STRAUS IN EASTERN DEAL

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering $1,500,000 first mortgage 6 per cent bonds of the Kaufman Department Store of Pittsburgh. The purpose of the issue is to complete the financing of the company's new building, a ten and twelve story fireproof steel structure which will cover an entire block. The company has a large and steadily growing earning power, and the net income in the last calendar year, prior to the issue of bonds, was $816,061, which is nine times in excess of the interest charges and more than three times greater than the combined principal and interest requirements.

NEW BANK AT BUSHNELL

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—Auditor of Public Accounts Brady today issued a permit to organize the Farmers & Merchants State Bank at Bushnell, McDonough county, to B. H. Alexander, James H. Spiker, L. E. Brewbacker, A. L. Flory and G. W. Brewbacker. The capital stock is $50,000. The Brewbackers and others have been private bankers here.

SECRETARY KAUFFMAN has devised a set of rules for the guidance of the protective committee and for the information of members. The "Rules" have been printed on a great card and are for continuous reference.

LIKE the A. B. A., the Washington association will not undertake a case except upon immediate notice and guaranty of prosecution of offender if caught.

OUR old friend, George W. Rogers of Little Rock doesn't do all of his "kickin' aroun'" at the A. B. A. conventions. Some of it he does at home.

STORY started down east to the effect that the state of Arkansas was obliged to finance solely through the country banks. Now G. W. just loves the country banker, as witnessed by his grand oratory at the Copley-Plaza meeting.

YET he doesn't want the country to believe the Little Rock bankers less patriotic than their country brethren.

CONSEQUENTLY Mr. Rogers sent in a bid for $250,000 8 per cent state warrants on a per cent basis. Now it's the country banker's time to do as well or better.

GROUP 4, Kansas, met at Concordia this year. Attendance was record breaking in enthusiasm and numbers.

SECRETARY W. W. BOWMAN has the program art down fine. That's what rigs the crowd.

THE registration was 400, which is as large as half the state conventions ever get to. F. J. Atwood was the presiding officer.

CONCORDIA is Secretary Bowman's old home town and they were glad to see him. Bowman's county organization work has been a marvel to behold.

SOME counties bring out 200 bankers and farmers, the county work being very strong in better farming.

W. GOEBEL, president of the biggest bank in the state, the Commercial National at Kansas City, was present.

R. GOEBEL was born in Nassau, Germany, but carried no money or other troubles when he landed in Kansas.

had the stuff in him, for at 23 he was cashier of a bank at Louisburg. He is an ex-president of the State Association and a member of the Big Council of the A. B. A.

E. NEWHALL of the First and George A. Jackson of the Continental and Commercial represented Chicago at Concordia.

PRESIDENT JOS. R. NOEL of the Northwest State and Jens C. Hansen of the Seaside banks are treasurer and auditor, respectively, of the Northwest Side Commercial Association.

BANKERS' day was Saturday. B. F. Harris, Gifford Pinchot, Forrest Crissey and G. F. Warren were the headliners. It was a most ambitious attempt and was faultlessly carried out.

THREE sessions per day for three days is going some and the attendance was remarkable. President Caldwell has discovered something new and is to be congratulated.

MICHIGAN has five new state banks open or in process of organization at Clarkston, Potterville, Rhodes, Spring Lake and Springwells. Those at Springwells and Clarkston are open for business.

THE new Dime Savings Bank building at Detroit is twenty-four stories in height. They built it so the Commodore can go up on top and view the work on Livingstone Channel twenty miles away.

HARPER'S isn't the only "feminist" in the journalistic field. The Joliet Banker has joined the ranks. "Teddy" is suspected.

FIRST NATIONAL, Joliet, will hold its corn show Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

CINCINNATI group of Ohio bankers had 200 at their meeting this week.

PRESIDENT GEORGE E. VINCENT of the University of Minnesota will be the speaker de luxe at the Detroit Bankers Club banquet this (Saturday) evening. Prof. W. L. Phelps of Yale university also will speak.

JOHN W. STALEY landed him after many failing attempts. Mr. Staley has induced the First Presbyterian Church choir to give the musical program, which is a second big hit.

GEORGE E. LAWSON has been president of the club and Richard P. Joy, vice-president, will succeed him.

W. W. WATTS, formerly a banker at Lowell, now in the life insurance business at Detroit, is one of Michigan's big apple growers. His London shipments this year netted him $6 per barrel.

SELDEN P. CRARY of Hubbell is another Michigan banker to desert the ranks for the insurance field.

THE Ottawa Free Press says that there will be a government bill at the coming session of parliament to restrict the capitalization of stock companies.

IT is not intended to draw the bill, the Free Press declares, so as "to draw off any of the water" in companies now operating, but "it will be designed to reduce the percentage of financial moisture in enterprises launched hereafter."

THIS is only the Canadian idea of a national "Blue Sky" law which may start something among nations like the Dolley act in Kansas did among the states.

THE government has snuffed out a Florida fruit lands company at Kansas City. It had sold for $2,000,000 about thirty cents' worth of Florida Everglade swamps. About $700,000 has been paid in by 12,000 boobies.

ATLANTA had no part in the questioning of Richmond's ability to care for the A. B. A. convention in 1914. She's too good a sport for that and killed the movement to reopen the question.

RICHMOND, as shown in last week's Chicago Banker, showed her class again as a hustler by organizing at once for 1914 entertainment of the delegates.

TRULY Richmond showed a wonderful burst of speed, at Boston, in taking the award away from Atlanta at a time when it practically was conceded first place in the race. She's continuing to make good.

NATURALLY Congressman Glass got back to and at Mr. Vanderlip in his speech at the Chicago Association of Commerce banquet. For Mr. Vanderlip made a capital mistake when he attempted to dispose of the Glass-Owen currency bill as a fiat money bill.

THIS was pointed out in our own feeble way at the time. Even the busy diners shook their heads ominously as Mr. Vanderlip continued on his mistaken course.

HE has grown so careless by much talking to a subsidized press and to audiences with minds made up, that he was illy equipped for broad-minded hearers who fight only fairly.

FIAT money, as Congressman Glass said, is irredeemable paper currency that depends for its value simply upon the edict of the nation that issues it.

BY Mr. Vanderlip the term was employed loosely, as it has been where there was an element of low and uncertain value in addition to the edict, but no such backing is contemplated in the bill, and the result was that he was not taken seriously.

HE has hurt his own cause by his too eager use of a catchword for bringing the bill into disrepute.

THE more the opposition resorts to this kind of fighting the weaker it will become. If its experts are guilty of errors of judgment, ignorance of the facts or insincerity, they cease to appear as experts.

THAT is not the proper way to take part in the passing of constructive legislation, but it may bring to the support of the measure many persons who are attracted by its general purpose.

LITTLE JAMIE FORGAN learned banking at St. Andrews, near the famous golf course, years and years ago.

IT was the Royal Bank of Scotland and young Forgan is well remembered there. The secretary of the Royal visited the big First National plant a few days ago.

HE was a whole day in looking it over. Then he gave it a clean bill of health and said he guessed the former apprentice was getting on fine.

IF Mexico were a bank and G. M. Reynolds the president, he'd annex it, and start it in working overtime for prosperity.

OUTLYING banks, depositories for Chicago city funds, have purchased $80,000 city bonds at City Comptroller Traeger's "counter sale." In all a quarter of a million have been disposed of at par.

IF the ladies keep up their fight on the egg embalmers until the banks begin to call egg loans the battle is won. This is a tip.

WE have a banker friend who gleefully bought Goodrich "to help out on auto expense." He feels much like Colonel Frame, who unloaded his government two's in too great haste.

NEW YORK Stock Exchange has appointed a committee to procure legislation "to protect investors." Whether the protection be in the form of a closed season or pat inside "blue sky" law is to be decided.

TRUST companies magazine has published a booklet on the income tax, written the expert employed by the trust companies New York, which sells at 50 cents and is worth twice that many dollars. In fact it is a complete hand-book on the difficult subject.

THE Christmas number of Lippincott Magazine will bring the good cheer of season to every reader, old or young. A complete novel—feature of this, as of every number—is a story of unusual charm, entitled "Betty's Virginia Christmas," by Molly E. Seawell, who surely needs no introduction to the discriminating reading public.

DECEMBER Lippincott has the opening of a series of articles by Edward Sherwood Mead on "Currency Reform Under President Wilson," which every loyal banker should read.

THORNTON COOK, of Kansas City, contributed an article on "Four Years More of Deposit Guaranty to the November Journal of Economics published by Harvard University.

F. W. TAUSIG and J. F. Curtis, in the same number, cover phases of the 1913 tax act.

WE predict that within another conventional year A. B. A. member banks will agree to disregard all non-code telegrams directing payment of money.

BANKERS Trust, New York, has organized a club for the employees. There are charter members.

VAN TUYL commission writing the new New York state banking law inclines to lessen reserve requirements in New York City from 25 to 18 per cent. It will be 15 per cent for Brooklyn and 12 for the rest of the state.

RESERVE account may only be held by banks in New York City having $1,000,000 capital. In Brooklyn $750,000 capital and a half million for the rest of the state.

MAIN work up to date has been the elimination of obsolete laws. Rapid progress is being made.

THOMAS S. GATES is president and J. McAlister chairman of the executive committee for Group 1 Pennsylvania, which group includes Philadelphia.

HOW to comply with the income tax law (see Trust Companies), is like the recipe of note for rabbit soup. "First, y'er ketch y' rabbit" (income).

ONLY one bank hereabouts that hasn't sent out something on the famous tax—it's the hands of a receiver.

HAS anybody here seen Chapman; C-H-A-M-A-N; Chapman, with the brand new plan? Nobody has. He's workin'.

ONE-BY-ONE the eastern financial papers are "agreeing with Owen," or writing indulgently of Glass. Vanderlip didn't go west soon enough. Not near soon enough to let them get nicely in under cover.

SO far as we know that "girl with the artificially or naturally red, rosy cheeks" hasn't escaped from the custody of the Missouri bankers. She's in the right pew.

UNCLE JOHN D. PHILLIPS, of Green Valley, was in Chicago this week. He says whereas his town usually ships 400,000 bushels of corn, this year it will have but 100,000 to send away.

REMINDS him of last year because of the great difference. "The country bank will again have to stand behind their chief supporter, the farmer," concluded the popular ex-president of the Illinois Bankers.

AS we read the report, B. F. Harris, in concluding his talk before the Progressive Club, told the Bull Mooses "the government could practically be issuing fiat money."

SORRY to see a brother editor get in bad this way. How can Vanderlip atone for the wrong he has done?

PRESIDENT WILSON in his message openly asked the Senate to "stick" until the currency bill becomes a law. Urged rural loans but not "special favors" to farmers.

AMONG other things the president "wished on" congress are a stable government for Mexico; an end of private monopoly; no alterations in the Sherman anti-trust law, presidential primaries; freedom for the Philippines; government railroad in Alaska; conservation; employers liability law and a better financial support for the bureau of mines.

QUITE a formidable array, but President Wilson doesn't look at the size of the job—only its desirability.

WITH the publication of the message the "bears" stampeded, and stocks rushed up the quotation ladder. The brokers evidently expected a declaration of war on Mexico.

MAY be a bit dark and gloomy in Chicago, but it's great weather down state for conversions of private banks into proud and trusted state institutions.

YOU mustn't be surprised for the thing is epidemic and widely contagious. "Gee, we ain't mad at nobody."

BEFORE congress completes the proposed currency legislation it may find it necessary to amend the national banking act, especially if the house and the president agree to the senate committee's proposal to guarantee bank deposits.

WERE afraid Andrew J. Frame never will consent to it. Might get around "guaranty" by calling it insurance, however?

IS the guaranty feature which isn't recognized in the present act.

IF the good mayor will open all the closed streets and close all the open "joints" Arthur Burrage Farwell will agree to suspend "open" letters to his Honor over the Yuletide.

WHEN if he could establish a sort of twilight zone between the tango dancers, another reel would be on the way to the high bridge.

W. F. VAN BUSKIRK'S "Little Talk on Business" in the Daily News, is what the glib advertising copy writer calls "a little thing to look for but a big thing to find."

HE promotion of Byron W. Moser to a staff job by the Union Trust, St. Louis, is more feather for the richly decorated A. I. Beap.

IT seems the people on the coast are "in with" what was started by James K. Lynch's banker friends at the Boston convention. They want to know how he would do at Richmond.

SEEING that the Tribune has put all the regular clairvoyants out of business, a well known amateur has "read the future" for this department.

CONVERTED INTO STATE BANK

The well known bank of S. F. Greene & Company in Kane, Ill., is to be converted into a state bank. This bank was organized by Singleton F. Greene over thirty years ago. The new institution was organized by Robert W. Greene, Dr. A. W. Foreman, Jacob Pope, Sam Wehrley, Fred Dressell, Mrs. Mattie Richards, George Allen, George W. Witt, Sam Gardiner, Ira White, Tina Culver, J. P. Valentine, Emma Williams and many others. The directors are Jacob Pope, George W. Witt, A. W. Foreman, R. W. Greene and W. B. Greene. Jacob Pope was elected president; George W. Witt, vice-president; R. W. Greene, cashier, and Samuel McKabney, assistant cashier. It is organized at $25,000 and will be known as the Kane State and Savings Bank.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITS INCREASE

Washington, Dec. 2.—Postmaster General Burleson reported to Congress today that during the year ended June 30, postal savings deposits increased from $20,237,084 to $33,818,870, and the number of depositors from 243,801 to 331,006. The average deposit increased to $102.

The House committee on postoffices today favorably reported a bill to raise from $100 to $1,000 the maximum amount which an individual may deposit in a postal savings bank in one month. The excess over $100 would not bear interest.

Sees Danger If Banks Withdraw From System

John McHugh, of Sioux City, Ia., believes it would be unwise for national banks to relinquish their charters in the event currency bill passes

The prospects are that we shall have a new banking and currency law within the next few months, and the prospects also are that it will be such an one as will meet with the hearty and unanimous approval of the bankers of the country. There is hope, however, that it will not be so bad nor so difficult to work under as many have anticipated, and that realization eventually will prove that there is not full war for the present character of anticipation.

It will be remembered that during the time of organization of Postal Savings Banks was under consideration, the bankers of the country were disposed to view the then prospective Postal Savings Bank with alarm. Some of us were retained, and gave expression to the opinion that they would prove a benefit rather than be detrimental. The result now speaks for itself. Bankers formerly opposed to their establishment cannot find that they seriously interfere with their business.

Many bankers operating under national charters are giving serious thought to surrendering these charters, if pending legislation, to them not satisfactory in its character, be enacted. Beyond this, so far as results are concerned, it would seem that they do not venture to a conclusion.

To retire from the National system, the first step is to arrange to retire outstanding circulation. To do this the bank must deposit in Washington an amount in money equal to its outstanding notes, and the only way the amount thus deposited can be released is by presentation of those notes, which it readily can be seen necessarily will be a long-drawn-out process. While each bank desirous of withdrawing from the system will act independently, just as each did in 1907 in an effort to secure currency, the effect of this effort to withdraw, if there be any considerable number of banks resort to it, is most likely to prove serious.

Suppose, for instance, that banks having in the aggregate outstanding circulation to the amount of only 25 per cent of the total of approximately $700,000,000 of national bank circulation of the country, conclude to retire from the system, and that each, acting independently, of course, endeavors to retire its circulation by depositing the necessary cash in Washington to do so. The aggregate will be upwards of 200 millions of dollars in cash. To remove that amount from the circulation of the country would, it readily can be seen, prove serious, and it would seem that this prospective phase of the situation is liable to lead to more disastrous results than the much contemplated shifting of the reserves made necessary by the proposed new law, and coupling the conditions together, one is disposed to turn one's eyes and turn from the view in prospect.

Would it not be wiser for the bankers of the country to cultivate and assume a different disposition towards whatever law may be the result of the deliberations of Congress?

For many years we have felt the pressing need of remedial legislation, which would provide a means for the conversion of good bank notes into debt paying media—currency or credit, or both—in times of stress. This relief is contemplated by those in charge of legislation now pending. Would it not, therefore, be better for the bankers of the country to hesitate in their disposition to retire from the National system on account of the prospect of taking away from them some of the privileges which they now enjoy, at least until they have given full consideration to what the effect of their actions, in the aggregate, will be upon the business of the country?

I am personally as much opposed to some of the provisions of the pending bill as any banker, and I have taken occasion so to express myself in correspondence and orally to Mr. Owen, the chairman of the Senate banking and currency committee, but if the pending bill becomes a law, I do not believe it proper for me further to aggravate the situation, such as I believe will then probably exist, by contracting our loans to the business element of our community, in order to enable us to retire from a system which does not meet in every particular with our personal approval.

Such action certainly would be a case of adding fuel to the fire and the conflagration in prospect would be of some proportion.

Going a step further, do we not find a splendid opportunity to blame the bankers for the conditions that will prevail, if there be great contraction of credits, attributable in part at least to their efforts to retire circulation preparatory to withdrawing from the National system? Would there not be a disposition on the part of those promoting such legislation as may be enacted, as well as on the part of business men affected, to lay the blame at the doors of the bankers?

The bankers have been doing good work and should continue to do all possible to secure the passage of as good a bill as can be had. In this they are rendering commendable service, but I am disposed to the opinion that they would be doing an equally good service to the country, and it is in the general prosperity of the country that we find our individual prosperity, by doing the very best they can to make whatever plan be finally evolved a success, rather than contribute to the end that it be a failure.

If it be found "unworkable" and the bankers of the country have industriously but unsuccessfully striven to handle credits of the country under it, it ought not to be difficult at an opportune time in the future to amend the law, rid it of the objectionable features and round out the then system into a thoroughly practicable plan.

See Early Vote on Currency Bill

According to information received here and which is considered good, influential members of the senate believe the currency bill will be voted upon by that body before the end of the current month. This is the opinion held by members of both wings of the currency committee of the senate. The divergence between the two factions is such that the members believe the differences can be compromised and the bill carried through.

Meanwhile, there is a disturbance in general business occasioned by uncertainty as to what the attitude of the banks will be upon the adoption of the bill. This sentiment among business interests is erroneous to the extent that it figures upon a disturbance between the relations of borrowers and the banks.

The measure, as it now stands, has been greatly modified since the first arguments were made against its principal features. Reserve requirements have been reduced, ability of the banks to borrow at the regional banks has been made acceptable, the provision for refunding the 2 per cent bonds has been modified to an almost satisfactory state and, taken as a whole, the bill now promises inflation rather than contraction in credits.

The member banks in the federal system will not only have available for lending all their present available resources, but also will be enabled to render liquid a volume of bills receivable now rigid. With a few changes, not of a vital character, the measure will meet varying conditions in trade and give to the country's credits a measure of elasticity never before enjoyed.

Under these conditions, there should be no hesitancy to believe that the provisions of the bill will prove helpful.

TO DELAY DECISION ON INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—Attorney General McReynolds will await word from counsel for the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago before deciding whether the Department of Justice will intervene in defending the constitutionality of the income tax law, which was assailed in a suit brought on behalf of Miss Elsie DeWolfe, former actress, in Chicago yesterday. No request for a conference on such intervention was received today from Levy Mayer, counsel for the bank.

Miss De Wolfe must pay the income tax, but if she wins before the Supreme Court, if her suit is brought there, the money paid will be refunded. This is the policy of the treasury, and all persons starting suits will be warned that the ruling applies to them.

BANKERS TO BANQUET

Group Eight, Pennsylvania Bankers' Association, will hold its annual banquet in the Schenley hotel, Pittsburgh, February 22. Contrary to the custom of several years past, the banquet will be a stag affair. Group Eight has the largest membership of the association and includes thirteen western counties of the state.

The new Citizens Bank, Charlottesville, Ind., has been opened. James T. McClarnon is president; Luther V. Symons, vice-president; Clarence Haskett, cashier; H. T. White, C. T. Binford, J. N. Addison and Frank Craft, directors.

Charles C. Westerhold, assistant cashier of the Commercial National, Sandusky, O., is dead.

BUFFALO BANK CHANGES NAME

On Monday the name of the Buffalo Loan, Trust and Safe Deposit Company was changed to that of the Buffalo Trust Company, the step being taken for the sake of brevity and convenience and at the urgent request of many customers who had found the old name cumbersome. A foreign department has been opened, which will prove of great advantage to many patrons. To better care for its rapidly advancing business, the Buffalo Trust is remodeling and enlarging its banking quarters. Alfred A. Berrick is president; Charles E. Clark and L. Franklin Messer, vice-presidents, and Myron S. Hall, secretary.

NEW NATIONAL BANK EXAMINER

Washington.—Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane has announced that with the approval of the secretary of the treasury he has appointed W. H. Kinchloe, of Central City, Ky., a national bank examiner, to be assigned to a vacancy in Kentucky. Mr. Kinchloe was formerly cashier of the First National, Central City, Ky.

BANK ASSESSMENT

Secretary Royse of the state banking board of Nebraska is sending blanks to state banks upon which a report will be made of the average daily deposits for six months ending November 30. On these reports the next assessment under the guaranty of deposits law will be based. The assessment against banks for the benefit of the guaranty fund will be levied January 1. It will be an assessment of one twentieth of one per cent of the average daily deposits for the previous six months. The guaranty law provides that when the guaranty fund equals one and one-half per cent of the deposits it shall cease.

NEW STATE BANK INCORPORATED

Certificates of incorporation of the State Bank of Ontario, Ontario, N. Y., has been filed. The bank will commence business on January 1st, 1914, with $30,000 capital, divided into 100 shares. The directors are James Colwell, Charles C. Young, David P. Craven, William A. Tummonds, Martin F. Maher, Arthur S. Pratt and Johnson S. Albright.

MORRIS BANK ASSURED

Articles of incorporation for the Morris Bank, Nashville, Tenn., have been filed. The Morris plan is not a co-operative society, but an industrial bank that capitalizes the earning capacity of workers by lending on their personal endorsements, and is able to extend credit to thousands among the industrial classes who heretofore have been untouched by any except usurious capital. This bank will loan to worthy laborers for a period of twelve months at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, allowing them to pay weekly and monthly. It will save embarrassment and demoralization in many large plants by freeing the operators from debt and garnishment through loans of this bank, which will be applied to their collective debts, and will enable the merchants to collect many slow accounts by referring debtors to the Morris Bank, where loans can be made and checks issued direct to the merchants in payment of their accounts. There are fourteen banks now operating under the Morris plan.

Two new Kansas banks were given permission to do business by the state charter board. They are the Hollis State Bank of Hollis, capital, $12,000, and the Security State of Mulberry, capitalized at $20,000.

The New Banking and Currency Bill

The new banking and currency bill known as the Federal Reserve Act, now under consideration in Congress, is of vital interest to every banker.

It is necessarily technical in its nature and therefore hard to understand.

We have prepared a Digest of the bill, concise, compact, and so arranged as to enable the busy man to grasp its essential features in a few minutes. A copy of this Digest will be sent to anyone on request.

DISSATISFIED WITH BANK MERGER

Washington, Dec. 3.—Local banking interests, dissatisfied with the merger conditions of the Munsey Trust and the United States Trust Companies, sought today to get a Congressional investigation. It is charged that the treasury department showed favoritism in the pending aid to the Munsey Trust and the banks behind this trust company, both through approval of the merger terms of the Munsey Company and the loan of $1,000,000 to put through the deal.

CURRENCY BILL TO PREVENT PANICS

Secretary McAdoo in his first report to Congress says that the currency bill if enacted will prevent panics in this country. He referred to the $50,000,000 offered by the government to assist the banks in financing the movement and to his announcement in June that the government was ready to issue $50,000,000 of emergency currency under the Vreeland act to prevent restriction of credits and to ease any uncomfortable situation which might develop.

The new tariff, says the secretary, has not been in operation a sufficient length of time to make an accurate estimate as to its ultimate revenue producing powers.

POSSIBILITY OF EASIER MONEY

Byron L. Smith, president of the Northern Trust, sees a possibility of easier money in the future. He said:

"Money is tight for the moment, but I think we can perceive a loosening up, and I believe this will continue. I would put it in this way: I never have seen a time when business picked up without there was a slackening in the demand for money, and if there is a falling off in business within the next few months it would follow naturally that the money rates would be lessened, the pressure of demand would have been released."

LOCATION OF THE REGIONALS

The general belief is that regional banks, as decided for in the pending currency measure, are certain to be located in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

GET INCOME TAX RULING

Investment Bankers Association of America, through the efforts of its special committee on income tax, has obtained from the treasury department a special ruling relative to the collection of coupons.

This ruling makes provision to the effect that the original certificate of ownership accompanying coupons may be forwarded by any responsible agent first receiving coupons for collection, the agent making duplicate certificate with all particulars contained in the original certificate, but omitting the name and address of owner, to follow the coupon through the various channels of collection.

This is a distinct advantage to bond owners and leaves them in practically the same position as they were before the income tax went into effect; provided, of course, that they see fit to take advantage of this new ruling.

The special committee on income tax which represented the association in Washington was appointed recently by President Caldwell, and, together with the chairman of the committee on legislation for the association and its general counsel, conferred with the Treasury Department during the last few days.

The stockholders of the Detroit (Mich.) United Bank, in a special meeting, gave approval to recommendations of the board of directors that the bank's capital stock be increased from $250,000 to $500,000 and the name of the institution be changed to The United Savings Bank of Detroit. Both changes are made effective December 31. In connection with the decision to increase the capital stock, payment of a stock dividend of 50 per cent out of surplus and undivided profits was authorized. The remaining $125,000 par value of new stock will be offered to the bank's stockholders, in proportion to their present holdings at $150 a share.

Bank Fairs Created in Michigan

The Traverse City State Bank is one of the pioneers in the back-to-the-farm movement and has made specially effective its annual bank fair. It has had fixtures built to display the soil products of the region. Placing the evidences of wealth and prosperity before the people in such a way that they cannot fail to recognize and appreciate the opportunities that are knocking at their doors, is the work that has been undertaken by the bank and carried out with the most flattering success. For several years this bank exhibited specimens of fruit and vegetables as they were brought in by the fruit growers and farmers, but it has only been within the last two years that they have had a sufficient number of specimens on display to give it the name of a bank fair. This institution has not confined the work to any one particular crop, but has collected the finest agricultural products of the region at the season when the crops were properly matured and placed them upon exhibition in the most attractive manner possible. Beginning with these shows on a large scale the past summer, their first attempt was in the way of a grain and grass exhibit, which was as complete in its line as any collection ever shown at the larger fairs. Following this came the vegetable show, where were exhibited the choicest specimens of the gardener's art. In order to bring the series to a proper climax the present apple show was developed and put into effect, which rivaled in quantity and number of varieties exhibited, the largest exhibition ever staged at the Chicago shows.

To get at the gist of the subject it can be stated briefly that there is an object that the bank management has in view in putting on this series of exhibits. A bank primarily deals with the business propositions and these shows are strictly a matter of business, not only for the bank but for every farmer and fruit grower in the region. A bank is a community necessity, and being such in turn owes something to the community in which it is located. The people patronize the banks in proportion to their material prosperity and the State bank officials realize that the more money the people of the Grand Traverse region have the more they will deposit in this bank. It is then up to the bank to do all that is possible to bring about a greater amount of prosperity in order to secure their proper share of the business of the community. The Grand Traverse region contains a gold mine upon every forty, which if properly developed will within the next decade increase the total wealth at least twenty fold. In order to get the gold out of the soil the people must be shown what it looks like, and how the land must be worked to secure the maximum results.

By conducting these shows the public is given an actual demonstration of what can be produced upon these farms by applying modern methods of agriculture and horticulture. By seeing such a vast amount of perfect fruit the farmers are inspired to go home and produce a crop of equal excellence. Not only is it instructive to the farmers, but it gives the strangers visiting the city—of whom there have been hundreds from all parts of the country that have seen these exhibits—an entirely different idea of the resources of the region than when they came. Example is the best instructor, and the bank realizing this fact spares neither trouble or expense to produce the examples in the way of farm inspiration.

The Traverse City State Bank was the first financial institution in the United States to conduct a product show, but so popular did the movement prove that the example is being adopted in different parts of the country. This institution is particularly favored for holding these shows, on account of having as large a lobby as is possessed by the largest city banks, and as the management is progressive the two conditions dovetailed into each other and developed the idea of the series of farm product shows.

So confident of the success of the movement that the directors of the bank that they have established a department of publicity with Leon J. Baker in charge, which has produced phenomenal results during the past year. As the region grows the bank will grow, and it is in the spirit of community patriotism that is strengthening the institution with the rural population. The public likes the business house that is willing to take a chance with them, and when this principle is applied by a bank it is able to generate a kindly feeling in the community that means future business on a large scale. Any bank that is willing to take the business into its confidence and help them to better their condition without any cost to them cannot help proving a winner when the final reckoning is made.

At first this plan was but an experiment, but it has resulted in pointing out to the banking community the proper method of getting in touch with the farmers, and not only securing their business, but in commanding their utmost confidence. The bank of the future must not only be a conservative institution, but it must be helpful to the community as well, and the Traverse City State Bank has blazed a new trail in this direction for other banks in the state to follow.

PHILADELPHIA BANKER DEAD

George B. Stevenson, member of the bank-firm of Sailer & Stevenson, Philadelphia, died last week. Mr. Stevenson was forty-four years old. Since boyhood he was associated with the firm of Sailer & Stevenson, which was founded in 1866 by his father and John Sailer, who died during the summer. The partners of the firm turned the business over to their sons three years ago.

INDICT BANK CASHIER

Edney A. Hunt, Jr., cashier of the First National of Lafayette, Ga., has been indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of misappropriating $7,750 of the bank's money and forging two checks for $1,500 each. Hunt was rendered and gave bond in $5,000. The bank closed July 19 last, when it was announced the shortage was $30,000.

DRESSES BIRMINGHAM CHAPTER

H. Smith, manager of Suffern & Son, Birmingham, Ala., addressed the Birmingham

Chapter of the American Institute of Banking on the subject of bank accounting recently. C. E. Holcombe, manager of the collection department of the First National of Birmingham, delivered an address on the work of the collection department, and its meaning to the bank.

BANK WILL INCREASE CAPITAL

It has been reported that the Southern Banking and Investment Company, Natchez, Miss., founded in 1909, shortly will increase its capital from $15,000 to $50,000. Edwin H. Henderson is president.

COLLECTION OF TAX FACILITATED

Chicago banks report that the income tax collection this month will be greatly facilitated, as the clerical forces have the departments running more smoothly after a few weeks of experience. The local banks will pay interest on about $200,000,000 bonds in December, but the government will not receive much, as the bulk of it is distributed among small investors claiming exemption.

BANKS BID FOR CITY FUNDS

Ninety-three Chicago banks bid this week for a share of the moneys which the city deposits in local institutions each year, the bids ranging from 2¼ to 2¾ per cent. The highest bidder was the Austin National. Most of the large down-town banks bid 2¼ per cent. The bids will be sent to the council Monday night.

BANK CASHIER ARRESTED

W. H. Boyleston, cashier of the Bank of Oil City, Oil City, La., and B. B. Terry, an oil operator in the Caddo oil fields, recently were arrested at the instance of State Bank Examiner W. L. Young, who alleges a shortage of between $20,000 and $30,000 through the operations of the two men.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

Business conditions throughout the state have been generally quiet for the past ten days owing largely to the unfavorable weather conditions. Seldom have "the oldest citizens" ever seen a November so mild and so damp as the present month has been. Accordingly, many merchants, especially those dealing in winter goods ordinarily seasonable during November, have had an unsatisfactory business. There also has been a noticeable decrease in general business conditions and colder weather is needed to make trade brisk. Banks have been busy this fall, especially during October, and the demand for money continues to be heavy. The wet weather has caused the roads to be unfit for much travel and automobile traffic has been practically suspended during the past fortnight in the country and in towns without pavements. This condition is in sharp contrast to the excellent roads which Illinois enjoyed last fall, the roads then being as solid as a pavement until after New Year's Day, with the result that travel was much better and consequently trade conditions were better than has been the case this year. With the approaching Christmas season, trade conditions naturally will improve.

There has been much anxiety about the injury to new corn stored in cribs and some reports of spoiled corn, due to the warm, damp weather, have been reported in various localities. Husking operations have dragged or have been suspended. Farmers are therefore delayed in marketing their new corn and funds for country banks have been correspondingly slow in coming. Feeding conditions, due to good pastures, have been easy this fall and stock-feeders have done well.

The Urbana Banking Company

One of the leading banks in Champaign county, a county with more banks than any other in the state excepting Cook, is the Urbana Banking Company of Urbana. This bank was organized in 1903 as a private bank. Its stockholders, whose substantial fortunes of Champaign county and other real estate are pledged to the solvency of the bank, include some of the best business names in the community. The bank has always operated as a joint-stock partnership private bank and the depositors are well pleased with the substantial character of the men and fortunes back of the institution. The officers and directors are highly satisfied with their ten years work.

In the fall of 1907 the bank was removed to a new room especially fitted for it in white marble and with the best of vault and safe equipment. The banking room and vaults are among the most beautiful and substantial in central Illinois. John H. Savage is the president; John W. Shuck and T. A. Burt, vice-presidents; John H. Thornburn, cashier; Minnie Jaques, assistant cashier, and J. Wesley Huss, Edwin E. Rea and Ralph N. Savage, assistants. The directors are J. H. Savage, J. W. Shuck, T. A. Burt, J. H. Thornburn, W. I. Saffell, V. W. Shuck, L. E. Ford, D. C. Busey, F. H. Boggs, F. M. Marriott and H. D. Oldham. Mr. Thornburn, cashier and director, is secretary-treasurer of the Champaign County Bankers' Association. The CHICAGO BANKER is a regular visitor at this bank. The correspondents are the Chase National of New York, and the Merchants Loan and Trust of Chicago.

One Soil Expert's Work

A number of counties in Illinois have employed county soil experts to aid the farmers in better farming and in promoting better rural life. E. T. Robbins, the Tazewell county soil adviser, reports that he has driven 6,000 miles in the county and has visited 246 farms. About 400 tons of phosphate have been purchased by the farmers of the county and about 400 tons of limestone. Alfalfa culture has been urged and many fields of that excellent feeding plant are now to be found in the county. About one hundred new silos have been erected upon which a net profit of $10 each is figured after paying for the silo. The soil expert has spoken at forty-four meetings and has addressed over 7,000 people. He is now interested in organizing clubs of farmers and their families for social times.

To even the most skeptical the above program would certainly be convincing evidence that county soil experts are well earning the money. It is true, of course, that without an expert, some silos might have been erected and some alfalfa grown, but the fact remains that a "live wire" in the guise of a county soil adviser can work wonders by rallying the farmers and land-owners to a greater consciousness of their latent possibilities.

New Bank Building in Quincy

Among the new bank buildings now being planned in this state is the new structure of the Illinois State Bank of Quincy. The officers have been busy this fall with their plans which have now been placed in the hands of an architect. The Illinois State is one of the new banks of Quincy, having been established in 1909, but the business of the new institution is rapidly increasing. J. H. Best is the president; W. J. Singleton, vice-president, and William Rupp, Jr., cashier.

Building at Monmouth Nearly Completed.

The new building of the Second National of Monmouth is nearly completed and the officers and directors are highly pleased with the new quarters which they are soon to occupy. The Second National of Monmouth is one of the substantial banks in that part of Illinois and in the new building the business naturally will be greatly expanded. E. C. Hardin is cashier. The correspondents are the National Bank of Commerce of New York, the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago and the Illinois National of Peoria.

B. House Known Down-State

Henry B. House, author of the two-act play "The House of the Rising Sun" which was chosen by the Chicago Chapter of the American Institute of Banking for the annual play this year, is a former resident of Springfield and was at one time with the Springfield Marine Bank. The play is entitled "The House Should Worry." Mr. House has many friends in Springfield who were pleased to note the success which has come to him in Chicago.

County Corn Show

The officers of the First National of Joliet will conduct the annual Will County Corn Show, December 11th, 12th and 13th. The exhibition will be open to the farmers of the county and all of the corn shown must have been grown in Will county. The corn will be exhibited in the lobby of the bank, but the contest will be under the executive committee of the Will County Farmers' Banquet. The prize will be selected by this committee and the judging of the corn will be December 12th. Therefore, the Corn Show of the First National of Joliet will be one of the interesting events of the year for the farmers and landowners of Will county.

Bankers Taken by Death

W. H. Watterson, formerly president of the Farmers National of Geneseo, died at his home in that city. Mr. Watterson was prominent in the business affairs of Henry county for many years and also was prominent in Illinois Democratic circles.

F. Lane, a cashier of the Bank of Shumland near Effingham, died November 26th, at Effingham, after undergoing an operation for stomach trouble.

W. H. Firke, "The Goose-King"

W. H. Firke, president of the State Bank of Mansfield, who received wide mention in Illinois papers last winter because of his extensive operations in feeding and fattening geese for the city market, now has over 7,000 geese on hand, which he will place on the New York market for the Christmas season. He expects to increase the number of his geese, as more are to be shipped to him from Tennessee. The birds are bought in Kentucky and Tennessee and fattened at Mansfield for the New York market. Many people go for a number of miles to see the geese and one spectator described the situation as "one continuous quack." The geese fatten easily, but Mr. Firke says that the uninitiated have "no idea of the normal appetite of a healthy goose." It was said last Christmas that the Mansfield banker placed more geese on the New York market than any one feeder. Mr. Firke is a large general farmer as well and has large feeding lots in which to take care of the geese.

Illinois Notes

School teachers of Jefferson county received instruction in banking at their recent institute in Mt. Vernon when an address was delivered to them upon the subject, "Points Teachers Should Know About Banking and Business."

Bankers interested in the question of better roads in Illinois will read with interest of the work of the University of Illinois in road engineering and construction. As a beginning in this direction the University will conduct a short course in road work for county highway superintendents January 19-31, 1914.

Mattoon banks, the Central Illinois Trust and Savings, the State National and the National Bank of Mattoon, are urging the thrift educational movement with good newspaper publicity and with the school savings system as well.

THIRD OF MT. VERNON REMODELS

The Third National of Mt. Vernon, Ill., recently has remodeled its interior and now has one of the most beautiful and best equipped banking rooms in southern Illinois. The bank counters and wainscoting are of skyros marble and the railing is of government bronze. The vaults are also new and offer the best of protection from fire and burglars. The entire general arrangement of the interior of the bank is greatly improved and the new quarters of the Third National of Mt. Vernon rank with the best bank buildings of the state.

At the time of its last statement, October 21st, the bank carried deposits of $680,023 and loans and discounts of $525,980. The capital and surplus are $187,932. The president is L. L. Emmerson, one of the best known bankers in southern Illinois, who is grand high priest of Illinois Royal Arch Masons and secretary of the board of commissioners of the southern Illinois penitentiary located near Chester. I. G. Gee and C. E. McAtee are vice-presidents, F. E. Patton is cashier and Rufus Grant and C. E. Powleson are assistant cashiers. The correspondents are the Hanover National of New York, Fort Dearborn National of Chicago and the Mechanics-American National of St. Louis.

BURGESS BANK CHANGE

F. W. Bloomer, who has been assistant cashier of the Farmers Bank, Burgess, Ill., since last September when Fred McLaughlin, formerly assistant cashier, went to Aledo to attend William and Vashti college, soon will leave for his home in Joy, and Mr. McLaughlin will return to Burgess to take up his former position.

Richard Hilgard, cashier of the Belleville (Ill.) Savings, and Loiselle Merker, a young society woman of Belleville, were married on Saturday, November 8th, at the home of the bride's uncle in Belleville.

NEWS LETTER BY CHALMER B. TRAVER

WISCONSIN

Reasons for thankfulness given by Milwaukee bankers on the eve of Thanksgiving festivities last week were reported as follows by the Milwaukee Sentinel:

J. W. P. Lombard, president of the National Exchange Bank and the Milwaukee Clearing House Association: "I am thankful for the national administration in the last four years."

Gardner P. Stickney, vice-president of the Wisconsin Trust: "Thankful that Thursday is not a day for the collection of interest coupons on bonds."

John Campbell, vice-president of the Marshall & Ilsley Bank: "We are thankful for our new building and for increased business."

Charles C. Schmidt, vice-president of the Second Ward Savings: "Our business has greatly increased, for which we are thankful."

L. M. Alexander, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers Bank: "I am thankful that I am alive and in good health, for our new building and a large increase in business."

Mortgage Mutual Savings Bank Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation of the First Mortgage Mutual Savings Bank of Milwaukee have been approved by Banking Commissioner A. E. Kuolt. The incorporators are: Allen R. Calhoun, William B. Calhoun, Patrick W. Dean, Arthur G. Kneisler, Harry F. Krueger, Charles F. Coughlin, W. H. Kinney, Joseph G. Reilly, Huntington M. Leonard, Egmont B. Arnold, Benjamin Aston, Charles C. Conohan, W. J. Armstrong, Percy H. Gordon, Robert Wagner, Frank J. Phelan, John W. Burckhardt, George F. McBride, Henry McCabe, and Charles W. Miller, all of Milwaukee.

Convicted of Forgery.

Carl Schoenstadt was convicted in municipal court this week of forging checks for small amounts and was sentenced to one year in the house of correction. Saloon and storekeepers testified against him.

Milwaukee Road to Issue Bonds

The Milwaukee road, officially known as the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, has secured from the Wisconsin and Minnesota public service commissions a permit to issue $470,000,000 refunding bonds. The issue is to cover all stock issues, franchises, and equipment of the 10,000 miles of the system, and to take up its entire indebtedness.

Swindler Sentenced.

The brief but meteoric business career of D. Watson Crombarger in Milwaukee came to an end last week when he was sentenced to three years in the house of correction for forging bank certificates on which he secured loans from Milwaukee banks and individuals amounting to more than $15,000. A partial list of the institutions and individuals which Crombarger thus defrauded is as follows: First National, $4,500; William Stewart, real estate, $3,000; Henry Trinz, theater lessee, $8,000; Union Bank, $4,300; A. A. Kern, saloonkeeper, $1,000. It developed from the testimony that Crombarger had six separate shares of the Merchants and Manufacturers Bank at $100 each. These shares he raised to $6,000 each, securing the amounts above stated upon their security.

Wisconsin Notes.

Reuben Peck of Ashland attempted to hold up Cashier A. J. Marble of the Farmers Bank of Omro on Tuesday. He is believed to be suffering from a fit of insanity.

"I own the bank, the railroads, and other transportation lines, and I need all the money you've got on hand," Peck is reported to have said as he pointed a heavy revolver at the cashier's head. Suspecting insanity Mr. Marble engaged Peck in an argument while one of his assistants turned in an alarm. The would-be robber was seized, disarmed and brought to the county jail at Oshkosh.

The last will of Stephen Bull, who died in Racine a week ago, has been filed in probate court. While the exact valuation of the estate is not known it is estimated at about $10,000,000. The bulk of the property goes to three daughters and a son, with smaller legacies to grandchildren. F. K. Bull, the son, is named as executor.

The Salem State Bank has been authorized. Capital is $12,000. F. F. Smith is president and E. J. Zaun cashier.

Farmers Savings and Trust Company of Marinette has been incorporated with capital of $50,000. G. G. Robertson is president and D. C. Robertson cashier.

¶ This Bank, being at the logical center of Wisconsin banking activity, and having an exceptional list of State and Foreign correspondents, offers its services to conservative Banks with the assurance that such a connection will be of mutual advantage.

George Woodruff on the Fall of Nations

Address delivered before the Minnesota Academy of Social Sciences at Minneapolis
this week

Minneapolis, Dec. 5.—That student-banker, George Woodruff of Illinois, electrified his hearers at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Academy of Social Science here tonight. He spoke on "The Fall of Nations" and viewed the subject from the standpoint of banking, training and economics. He said:

History is made up of the story of a succession of nations each of which has been born, gradually grown strong, has attained maturity, has caught a disease, and has died; and may seem strange to those who have not carefully studied the fall of nations to learn that nearly all of them have died of the same cause. Practically every great dominant nation has in its youth been an agricultural state which has derived its hardihood from the land. However, with the arrival of wealth, power and prosperity came the building up of great cities and the over-development of urban civilization. All activities commenced to revolve about the city; the country began to be neglected; the germs of the great disease found lodgment in the body politic; the best brains of the best brawn sought the centers; corruption commenced to creep in; the race began to weaken; the products of the soil decreased; the consumption of the cities increased; the cost of living rose; stronger, harder agricultural races pressed in upon the frontier; the cities were finally beleaguered; the people died of starvation; and the great state perished. The disease it died of was Rural Decay.

In America today, the germs of the great disease of nations are beginning to find their way into our national life. The cause for this is the over-development of our urban civilization and the consequent decay of our rural civilization. The remedy is not in the destruction of our urban civilization as is unadvisedly advocated by so many people today. Many features of our urban civilization should be regulated and supervised, but the enterprises and triumphs of our city life should not be destroyed merely because every man unconsciously feels that a disease is threatening American institutions and that in some way the enterprises of the city are to blame. It is better that we understand clearly what the disease really is, what the cause consists of, and then apply the true and logical remedy—the building up of an equalizing rural civilization. The destruction of some of the greatest features of our urban civilization might cure the disease, but it would stunt the growth of the country. The construction of a rural civilization will not only cure the disease but will also further hasten the growth of the nation. Constructive measures are always preferable to destructive measures.

"The methods by which the remedy can be applied are perhaps best grouped under the three divisions that have been worked out by the rural workers in Ireland—Better Business, Better Farming and Better Living. The cause, the remedy and the methods of bringing about the remedy are as follows:

"Better Business is the first great subdivision to demand attention in discussing the methods of bringing about the remedy for present rural conditions, for the rural problem can not be solved until farm life is organized, and the best basis on which to organize the farmer is that of business, which involves the incentive of personal gain. In each rural community there should be established a co-operative rural credit association owned and managed by the farmers themselves. This association need not be a competitor of existing banks, but should in most cases be financed by them. The credit of the community should be dealt out through this association, and in order to obtain the best rates of interest, to stimulate the most active participation in the management, and to bring all of the members of the community together in a close and effective union, the unlimited liability feature should be adopted. Unlimited liability turns jealous neighbors into co-operating friends, for a farmer cannot afford to injure his neighbor when it costs him money to do so. A co-operative rural credit association teaches the proper principles and basis of credit and consequently leads to better farm accounting on the part of the members, prompts the elimination of farm waste and the adoption of farm efficiency and lays the foundation for the general introduction of long term amortization mortgage credit.

"Distribution of farm products should be by the farmers themselves through co-operative distribution societies. Middlemen should be largely eliminated and the farmer should sell his products at higher prices and the consumer should be able to buy at lower prices. In connection with co-operative distribution, the farmers might engage in some forms of co-operative agricultural manufacture as for instance the establishment of cheese factories, dairies, and even small packing plants.

"The purchase of farm supplies should be by farmers' co-operative buying societies. Through co-operative purchase, farm supplies could be obtained in large quantities at wholesale prices and the profits of the middleman saved to the farmer.

"Rural credits, co-operative distribution and co-operative purchase would bring the farmers together in business organizations, with a common purpose, with opportunities for discussion, with profit to everybody, and this close association for business purposes in a form approaching some of the ideals of socialism, but eliminating the objectionable socialistic feature of community ownership of property, will unite and hold together the rural community better than can any other form of organization and out of this will develop a demand for Better Farming and a desire for Better Living.

"Better Farming involves first of all scientific soil conservation, a matter which is already attracting wide attention in America.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

The new month started out well at the St. Louis financial institutions, as the bank clearings this week have been larger than those of last week and of the corresponding period last year. The demand for money was fair and the rates were firm at 6 per cent. New York exchange was in fair offerings and light demand and the discount rate was about unchanged.

Eastern Illinois Bank Pays Extra Dividend

The board of directors of the Southern Illinois National of East St. Louis has ordered that a total dividend of $18,000 be paid to stockholders. A "Christmas present" dividend of $2 a share was ordered paid December 20 and the regular semi-annual dividend of $5 on January 1.

Declare Dividends

The State National of St. Louis has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, and, in addition, an annual dividend of 2 per cent, completing a 10 per cent dividend for the year.

The International Bank of St. Louis on Monday increased its capital stock from $200,000 to $500,000. The stockholders were presented with stock having a par value of $200,000. For each share he owns, the holder was given a share free and was expected to buy half a share. To acquire the $500,000 capital, the $200,000 received from the sale of stock and $100,000 borrowed from the reserve were added to the former capital of $200,000. The reserve is now about $300,000. Since the capital increase the quotation of the stock on the exchange has climbed from $365 a share to $400.

The directors of the Franklin Bank have declared an extra dividend of 3 per cent in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, making the total amount to be distributed to the stockholders $36,000. The total dividend for the year will be 15 per cent.

Fiancee Gets Bank Stock

Two hundred shares of National Bank of Commerce stock, worth, at current market quotations, $25,500, have been transferred on the bank's books to Miss Grace Rundell, on the order of Miss Mattie Johnston, sister and executrix of the estate of George S. Johnston, president of the Johnston Tin Foil and Metal Company, which represents an informal bequest made in the late manufacturer's will to Miss Rundell, who was his fiancee.

Doubles Capital

The Goodnow Realty and Investment Company has increased its capital stock from $40,000 to $80,000. The firm practically is a new one in the St. Louis realty field, having been in business about seven months. R. F. Goodnow is president; H. S. Merrell, Jr., vice-president; R. F. Scharlach, secretary and sales manager; G. W. Jones, treasurer; W. Lyman Case, assistant secretary; F. W. Curl, office manager; E. L. Wehmyer, vice-president and manager construction department; F. W. Lovett, cashier.

State Bank Inspection Begun

The annual general inspection of the banks and trust companies of Missouri under the auspices of the state bank examiner was begun Monday by nine deputies. The investigators are: A. R. Bradley of Kansas City;

John S. Wood, New London; T. H. Gran Jefferson City; Hal. Woodside, West Plains; C. A. Eaton, Charleston; H. R. Dooley, Washington; G. M. Hargett, Versailles; J. L. Wallace, St. Joseph, and F. C. Mitchell of Columbia. It will require about six weeks to finish the examination in St. Louis banks, according to Mr. Mitchell.

Manchester to Have New Bank

Articles of incorporation of the Bank of Manchester have been filed at Clayton. The bank is to be located in Manchester and is capitalized at $25,000.

Missouri Notes

R. L. Wilson has resigned as cashier of the First National, Windsor, Mo., and has been succeeded by Ed N. Snell. Mr. Wilson is to head a new bank at Monroe City.

At the recent meeting of Group Twelve Missouri Bankers Association, held at Kennett, Reece B. Gillooly, assistant cashier of the Charleston Bank, was elected chairman. C. A. Kiesler, assistant cashier of the Perry County Bank at Perryville, was elected secretary. Group Twelve is now known as Group Six.

Miss Lucia Sloan of St. Louis was married on Thursday to Henry Harold Hopkins, assistant treasurer of the American Trust, St. Louis.

Says Banks Want State Warrants

The Little Rock, Ark., banks take exception to the statement given out at the capital recently relative to the agreement of the banks in coming to the rescue of the general revenue fund of the state treasury in handling state warrants until the fund is replenished by the various county collectors of the state next year. A communication relative to the matter was sent to the Little Rock papers by George W. Rogers, cashier of the Bank of Commerce of Little Rock, giving a detailed statement of all the negotiations since Governor Hays first made his appeal for funds, and stating that the Little Rock banks, or even his own bank or himself personally, would take the whole of the amount of state warrants on which it is necessary to realize funds if they were offered. Mr. Rogers further states that Little Rock banks would handle the warrants at as low rate of interest as seven per cent, were they given the opportunity.

Sustains Validity of "Blue Sky" Law

The Arkansas supreme court, with Chief Justice McCulloch and Associate Justice Smith dissenting, has sustained the validity of the "blue sky" act passed by the last legislature and holds that the law applies to building and loan associations, banks and insurance corporations. The court also holds that the act does not confer legislative powers on the insurance commissioner, but that under police power of the state, he has the right to enforce the sections of the bill in regard to building and loan associations, banking and insurance institutions.

Fls to Get Tax Assessment Cut

The First National of Fort Smith, Ark., lost an appeal in the circuit court for a reduction of $32,500 on its tax assessment. Two years ago the assessor listed the bank at $300,000. County Judge Harp reduced it to $32,500. When Ezra Hester became county judge, he ignored the original figures and the bank sued. The state charged that Judge Harp made the reduction in his private law office and did not go to court for the transaction.

Paying Off Bank Debt

An additional six per cent dividend payment is being made by the Acting Receiver, H. Selser of Guthrie, Okla., to the depositors in the Capital National of Guthrie, which failed in 1904 for almost a million dollars. This makes a total payment to depositors of eighty per cent and leaves but nineteen per cent to pay. The hospital for the insane plant at Guthrie is an asset of the defunct bank and the money paid to the depositors in dividends is earned by that institution. It is reported that as soon as the remaining nineteen per cent is paid to depositors, the plan of the government is to pay interest on the deposits covering the nine years since the bank failed before the bank's stockholders are paid anything.

Exadite Bank Robber

J. J. Starling, accused of being connected with the robbery of banks at Dardanelle and Dardanelle, Ark., lost his fight in Oklahoma, Monday and will have to go back to Arkansas to stand trial.

Boston Chapter Formed

More than one hundred representatives of every bank and trust company in Houston gathered in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night of last week to perfect the organization of the local branch of the American Institute of Banking. I. B. Stitt, Lubermans National, was elected president; J. H. Hall, First National, vice-president; D. C. Wilson, South Texas Commercial National, secretary, and D. D. Krahle, Houston National Exchange, treasurer.

Investment Notes

The William R. Compton Bond and Mortgage Company of St. Louis has purchased the issue of the Jefferson County Free School District of Jefferson county, Ark., aggregating $700,000. The bonds were purchased at 105, bearing 5 per cent interest.

J. B. Head, temporary receiver for the defunct Bank and Trust Company of Texarkana, Ark., has filed a report showing the assets at $172,000 and liabilities at $112,000.

A certificate of decrease of the capital stock of the bank of Eureka Springs, Ark., has been issued. The decrease is from $25,000 to $10,000. G. Gillock, formerly cashier of the First National, Canadian, Okla., has been indicted on nine counts by the federal grand jury.

M. L. Woods, for twenty years active vice-president of the State National, Fort Worth, Tex., last week pleaded guilty to misappropriating $165,000 of the institution's funds. Sentence was not passed, and pending the beginning of his term he will be allowed to visit his daughter.

The First National of Lockhart, Tex., recently moved into its new building.

The Texas state banking board has authorized the Guaranty State Bank and Trust Company of Gatesville, Tex., capital stock $50,000, to do business. The guaranty fund plan was adopted.

The Texas department of insurance and banking has approved the following banks as reserve agents for state banks: Guaranty State Bank and Trust Company, Dallas, for Lockney State; First National, Shreveport, La., for Guaranty State of Jefferson; Union National, Houston, for Farmers State of Rogers; First National of Houston for the Waller County State of Brookshire; National Bank of Commerce of Houston, for the T. A. Hill State Bank of Weimar; First National of Benjamin, First National of Fort Worth and Hanover National of New York for the First State of Vera; Seaboard National of New York, National Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Mercantile National of Pueblo, Colo., and American National of Austin for the First State of Stratford; First National of Shreveport, La., for the First State of Willis Point; Hico National of Hico for the First State of Lingleville.

NATIONAL CITY'S FINANCIAL LETTER

National City Bank of Chicago in its monthly financial letter reports a slight business recession; not of such proportions, however, as to cause any serious apprehension. The letter says in part:

"Within a few days the banks of the large cities will be actively engaged in financing the payments which always have to be made in the closing month of the year. There is every prospect that the account will be adjusted with much greater ease than appeared probable a few weeks ago, when complications in the money market were rather pronounced. Most of these difficulties have been straightened out, and, judging by the figures of previous years, bank reserves are reasonably comfortable for this season.

"There is not at the moment the broad inquiry from mercantile borrowers that was seen a few weeks ago. One reason for this is the lessened demand from manufacturers, who in the last few weeks have laid off a large number of men because of a slackening in trade. This recession has not gone far, and in certain industries it does not appear to be much of a factor. But the country as a whole is not handling today the volume of business that it transacted a few weeks ago before the reduced tariff duties went into effect. The buying power of this immediate section is almost as great as it was earlier in the year, but the business in the broad territory served by Chicago is not as active either in respect to orders actually in hand or as regards preparations for future undertakings, as is generally the case at the opening of December.

"The process of adjusting business to the new tariff law is still going on. Besides that, the country has a troublesome situation in Mexico to deal with, and while the differences may be adjusted without resort to armed intervention, the excitement caused each day by the publication of newspaper articles with sensational headlines has undoubtedly a sentimental effect. The extent of this disturbance is difficult to estimate, but it is certainly true that a successful conclusion of the negotiations looking toward the establishment of a stable government in Mexico would be an immense relief to the people of the United States."

THE TRAIL TO YESTERDAY.

The Outing Publishing Co. has published a new, attractive story by Charles Alden Seltzer, a story of an eastern girl's adventures and experiences "way out west." The story starts rather abruptly with the forced marriage between the girl, Sheila, and a ranchman, Dakota, whom she has never before seen. The coming west of the girl's father, her rescue from imminent death while attempting to cross a quicksand stream, by Dakota, his accusation, as a murderer, his vindication and the unraveling of mysteries, which point to Sheila's father as the evil genius, and the latent love which springs up in the girl's heart for the man who proves himself a hero, are the happenings which make this story. The forced marriage in the beginning proves a blessing in the end and Sheila decides that the trail which led her to Dakota's little shanty was the right trail after all.

Mr. Sitzer, the author, has won distinction as a writer of western tales, one of his most ambitious being "The Coming of the Law." Another good one was "The Two Gun Man." "The Trail to Yesterday" will add to his reputation and greatly please his followers. Price, $1.35 net.

KANSAS EXECUTIVE COUNCIL TO MEET

The executive council of the Kansas Bankers Association will meet in Wichita, December 10 to make arrangements for the annual convention of the association in Wichita next May. The visitors will be the guests of the Wichita bankers at the Wichita Club for luncheon and dinner.

PLAN BANK FOR MAGNOLIA, ILL.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—Auditor of Public Accounts Brady today issued a permit to Dr. W. A. Simmons, V. E. Haws and John G. Clemens to organize the Magnolia State Bank of Magnolia, Putnam county, with a capital stock of $25,000.

FORT WAYNE BANK TO ERECT SKY-SCRAPER

Hamilton National of Fort Wayne, Ind., is planning the erection of what will be the tallest building in the state outside of Indianapolis. The structure will be sixteen stories in height and the first floor will be occupied by the bank as permanent quarters. It is planned to begin work next spring.

NEW ILLINOIS STATE BANK

State Auditor Brady has issued a permit to Charles D. Moody, Thomas J. Hill, Mark T. Mason, Charles H. Poland and Timothy L. Lane to organize the Fillmore State & Savings Bank at Fillmore, Montgomery county, with a capital stock of $25,000.

KANSAS BANK CLOSED

Yates Center, Dec. 2.—The Yates Center National Bank was closed today by order of Bank Examiner A. C. Cutler. Failure to realize on securities was the cause assigned. The bank was one of the oldest in the county and had been regarded as one of the strongest. Its liabilities are said to be nearly $300,000, and its assets if realized upon, in excess of that amount. C. C. Ricker, president of the bank, said he believed the depositors would be paid in full.

Editorial Comment

AN ABLE STATE PAPER.

President Wilson has the intuitive gift of state paper making. His first annual message to Congress is the shortest and most direct on record. It is like a flash from the heliograph when compared with the department—prepared documents provided by his recent predecessors. In reading it one can almost forget the platitudes of Taft, the turgid rhetoric of Roosevelt and the mild evasions of McKinley. Years of study and the teaching of governmental science and economy have made Wilson the most ready, best equipped man in American public life. In world problems he has the genius of Gladstone.

The following extracts will give a lasting impression of the president's public address to the House and Senate:

"There can be no certain prospect of peace in America until Gen. Huerta has surrendered his usurped authority in Mexico; until it is understood on all hands, indeed, that such pretended government will not be countenanced or dealt with by the government of the United States. . . . He has forfeited the respect and the moral support even of those who were at one time willing to see him succeed. Little by little every day his power and prestige are crumbling and the collapse is not far away. We shall not, I believe, be obliged to alter our policy of watchful waiting."

"I think it will be easily agreed that we should let the Sherman antitrust law stand, unaltered, as it is, with its debatable ground about it, but that we should as much as possible reduce the area of that detachable ground by further and more explicit legislation, and should also supplement that great act by legislation which will not only clarify it but also facilitate its administration and make it fairer to all concerned."

"I feel confident that I do not misinterpret the wishes or the expectations of the country when I urge the prompt enactment of legislation which will provide for primary elections throughout the country at which the voters of the several parties may choose their nominees for the presidency without the intervention of nominating conventions."

"You already have under consideration a bill for the reform of our system of banking and currency, for which the country waits with impatience, as for something fundamental to its whole business life and necessary to set credit free from arbitrary and artificial restraints. I need not say how earnestly I hope for its early enactment into law. I take leave to beg that the whole energy and attention of the senate be concentrated upon it till the matter is successfully disposed of."

The paragraph on the currency bill will interest bankers most of all, but the one on the anti-trust laws is almost as significant of the administration policy. Direct presidential primaries is a forward step and the writing of party platforms by hold-overs and senators and congressmen-elect and by the presidential nominees seems to be a new form of public pledge.

It is presumed the president would have the second man in the presidential primary balloting become the candidate for vice-president. One high authority says, "the message gives the impression of a man who is strong without violence persistent perhaps to the point of obstinacy, devoted to high ideals, distinctly and intelligently progressive, a practical reformer—one who is doing his best to realize his own conception of the President as the national voice."

The President urges concentration by the Senate on the currency bill. His demand for credit facilities for the American farmer expressly declares against "extending the credit of the government itself," which is sound economics. The message as a whole clearly sets forth the clear vision of the president as to what he wishes to attain. Operative detail is left to Congress, where it belongs. The custom of reading presidential messages, an almost forgotten art, has been revised.

THE PROMISED CURRENCY BILL

Washington dispatches teem with promises of a currency bill before Christmas. Bankers are beginning to feel that years of hope are to be requited. Few of them can say that the present outlook as to details is fully satisfying, but the spirit of resignation has taken the place of that of combat to a large degree. Those who rushed in and sold their government two's in answer to a prejudicial cry in Wall Street, at a loss, have repented at their own cost. Few of those who volubly threatened to quit the national system will in the end find such extreme measures necessary, it is hoped. In part much of the opposition talk to the new bill has been political. Its provisions were not permitted to be convincing because not fairly studied nor fairly interpreted. One inconsistent opponent, after trying all the time-worn expedients of market manipulation, press "interviews," and after-dinner speeches, "then cried wolf when there was no wolf." In other words he charged that the new bill creates a "fiat" money system. This brought replies from the ablest bankers of the country, from Chairmen Glass and Owen, and proved to be a veritable boomerang.

Leading, broad-gauge bankers are now counseling those who declared their intentions of leaving the national system to reconsider. One of the leaders of western opinion, and always a peacemaker, John McHugh, of Sioux City, Iowa, has given an interview to the CHICAGO BANKER along these lines. Bankers admit that the Washington forces are sincere and that they are entitled to patriotic support. Sentiment in favor of continuing in the system and as Gen. Grant said, "Fighting it out on these lines if it takes all summer," is growing rapidly.

LATEST BOBBS-MERRILL BOOKS

"Love in a Hurry," by Gelett Burgess, is the newest and the funniest Bobbs-Merrill book out. Burgess is a genius at story-telling and the humor just bubbles and sparkles all the way in "Love in a Hurry." The plot gives the finest opportunities, for the story runs along in breathless haste for the reason that Hal Bonistelle has just twenty-four hours in which to get married to inherit $4,000,000 left him by his late uncle. Bonistelle is an artist photographer, and popular with the women, whom he makes a specialty of photographing. There is a little girl, the sweetest girl he knows, who helps him in the studio. This young girl also likes him, but Bonistelle is so blind that when he is informed that he must be married before his twenty-eighth birthday or renounce the fortune, his thoughts fly to every known woman of his acquaintance, but the woman of his heart. His numerous proposals are very amusing, and when, as the last hour draws near, and nothing has come of his efforts, Flodie takes things into her own hands, obtaining the marriage license, showing him that she "cares," putting the clock ahead an hour and finally marrying him, while he thinks the fortune is lost, and that he is marrying for love only. Then the truth is told him, and he dramatically exclaims: "Hurrah! I've won four million dollars!" Flodie stretches up on tiptoe and pulls down his extended hand. "No sir," she announces, "I've won it MYSELF!" Price, $1.25 net.

"Lahoma," by the author of "Fran," is also a new book, fresh from the Bobbs-Merrill press. The scene is laid in "No Man's Land," a strip of territory long claimed by Texas but later awarded to Oklahoma. It was the day of the gun toter and the adept with the bowie knife. John Breckenridge Ellis is a master at this sort of story telling, and the "period of the eighties" has not produced a greater thriller. The plot includes intimate relations with outlaws and desperadoes and life in a country where law was almost unknown. It will refresh the minds of those who can remember what that wild country was before statehood. Mr. Ellis has written a great book of former days of love and adventure in the great southwest.

GORGE WOORDUFF ON THE FALL OF NATIONS

fertility is the greatest national resource of the nation, and there is no reason why this fertility should become depleted, providing proper methods are taught and practiced. Soil surveys and experiment stations are the chief means by which scientific agricultural knowledge is acquired. The surveys should be extended and experiment stations should be increased in number and properly maintained. This information which is so important to the future of American agriculture should be put right home to the farm by county farm demonstrators and through extension courses under the auspices of the agricultural colleges. Greater crops should result from proper conservation, from the suggestions of the county demonstrators, and from the growing tendency toward more intensive farming. The advantages of diversification should become generally recognized on the part of farmers, one-crop sections should be turned into diversified districts and areas devoted entirely to grain raising should be changed into communities combining both grain farming and live stock farming.

More and better live stock is one of the growing demands of our land and our markets. This fact should be brought strongly to the attention of the farmer. The experience of nations has shown that one of the greatest incentives toward better live stock is found in the organization of a system of co-operative live stock insurance associations. Soil conservation, greater crops and more better live stock would bring added prosperity and stability to farming and would do much to give it the business dignity that attaches to so many other forms of industry, as a result of this new prosperity and business pride would grow the ability to obtain the desire for Better Living.

Better Living touches the social, religious and educational sides of life and consequently extends largely around the home, the church and the school. Probably the first requisite for the development of a general system of better living in any section is a better community spirit. This spirit will be born of Better Business. It should be encouraged and enlarged through the organization of a rural social center, a club house or in the community club house. Out of this social center would grow more culture, broader political understanding, and comprehensive plans for rural development. There should be a library, a gymnasium, a hall for dances and a meeting place for men and women's clubs. A series of lectures, travellogues, and weekly moving pictures should be arranged and this social center should compare favorably in its activities with the modern city club.

"Better home conditions are of vast importance to the personal comfort of the farming class. Farm houses should be arranged with the idea of utility foremost in the mind and the seldom used farm house parlor should not be a matter of first importance in home arrangement. More attention should be paid to the rooms that are used and particularly to the sleeping rooms. More home machinery should be introduced, electric or gasoline power should be substituted for windmills and muscle, and a washing machine should be indispensable in every farmer's home. Farm sanitation has been until recently a neglected science. Nothing is more important to the comfort of the rural classes and the maintenance of the health that naturally follows a life in the open. Better prepared food and a better understanding of the elements of which food is composed is of the utmost importance on the farm. The farmer of today enjoys more food and better food than many other classes, but it is oftentimes cooked in a distasteful manner, is poorly selected and a great percentage of waste exists. Waste is one of the great enemies of the farmer as of most other classes of our people and it should be eliminated in every department of his life.

"Better church conditions are of importance to the spiritual welfare of the rural community. Many of our present churches should be discontinued or consolidated and gradually by a process of elimination we should allow the survival of the fittest to furnish to the farming people the better church conditions which are now so necessary. As a corollary to the church, the extension of the rural Y. M. C. A. and the enlargement of its influence and work would do much to improve the spiritual and moral atmosphere of the rural community.

"Better school conditions are being demanded by the country population. School districts should be consolidated and the country schools should be graded, have high school departments and be in every way the prototypes of the city schools. Vocational courses should be provided for and particular attention should be paid to the teaching of agriculture and the domestic arts. Night school classes and part time classes should be arranged, and an education in the country should be in every way as thorough as an education in the city.

"Better means of communication always lead to Better Living conditions. The rural free delivery has already done much for the farmer, and the rural telephone is now quite common. Good roads should be encouraged and pushed in every rural community. They make it possible for the farmer to visit his neighbors, to get to church, to send the children to school and they enlarge the whole scope of the farmer's local activities, and permit of the adoption of larger units for religious and educational activities. The rural newspaper owned by the farmers is of importance not only in reporting the news events that transpire in the community, but also in stimulating the energies, the pride and the ambition of the farmer who finds his name on the front page and the farmer's wife or daughter who finds her home-made gown described in the society column.

"These various elements involving Better Living would bring to the farm a feeling of dignity and contentment, would do much to solve the vexing problem of farm labor, would result in more owners and fewer landlords and would substitute the busy, intelligent and prosperous country gentleman for the tiller of the soil whom we now sometimes read about in the joke books.

"America is not yet a sick nation, but the germs of the great disease have found their way to American shores. The cure is easy to take, involving as it does a transition from a dominating national life on the pavements, amidst the smoke, and menaced by vice, to an equalizing national existence in the sunshine with the birds, the flowers, the free air and the physical, mental and moral health of the open country. The interest and assistance of all those who have at heart the future greatness of America is necessary that we may profit from the lessons taught by the story of nations that have fallen."

BANK DIRECTOR WINS

The supreme court at Columbus, O., on Tuesday directed the Cleveland Trust as assignee of the defunct Euclid Avenue Trust to pay Ernest H. Klaustermeyer $5,000, which sum Mr. Klaustermeyer as director of the defunct bank deposited May 5, 1908, when the directors decided to raise $50,000 to strengthen the bank's account with the Union National. Three days later the bank went to the wall. The Euclid bank made an assignment to the Cleveland Trust for the benefit of its creditors and this bank treated Klaustermeyer's claim as that of a general creditor and allowed him only 50 per cent dividend, which he wouldn't accept.

CLEVELAND BANKER HURT

William D. Young, vice-president of the National City Bank, Cleveland, Ohio, who is confined to his home, will not be at his desk for some days to come. He fell while running for a car on Friday of last week and physicians believe he has a broken shoulder bone.

Cleveland

Central States News Letter

Cincinnati

Cleveland bank clearings for November this year were $92,141,600, comparing with $99,944,600 for the month last year. In great part the decrease is due to the recent storm, when on one day alone a decrease of 20 per cent was shown compared with the corresponding day last year. While clearings since the storm have not been uniformly ahead of those for corresponding periods last year, Cleveland has been holding well to the front. Notwithstanding the November total, Cleveland clearings for the eleven months of 1913 were $1,162,745,800, comparing with $1,062,554,500, and showing a gain of more than $100,000,000, or about 9½ per cent. The total is a new high record for any eleven months in the city's history.

Joins Otis & Company

Frank J. Smith, member of the Cleveland stock exchange, and broker in Cleveland even before the establishment of the exchange, on Monday associated himself with Otis & Company. Mr. Smith, among his other activities, will handle local business for the firm.

New Officer of Business Club

W. F. McWilliams, assistant cashier of the Guarantee Title and Trust of Cleveland, has been made assistant secretary and treasurer of the Young Men's Business Club of Cleveland. Mr. McWilliams is an active member of Cleveland Chapter, American Institute of Banking. The Young Men's Business Club is composed of business men, ranging in age from 21 to 35 years, is incorporated, and has for its purpose development of the young men along business lines. Meetings are held the first and third Fridays of each month, for which speakers of national or local reputation are secured and general business topics discussed. The officers and executive committee of the club are: President, E. J. Freer, with Pickands, Mather & Co.; vice-president, W. J. Brandies, with the Johns-Manville Co.; secretary and treasurer, I. K. Schnaitter, also secretary of the Cleveland Association of Credit Men; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mr. McWilliams. Messrs. Brandies and McWilliams and Attorney L. E. Skeel are on the executive committee.

Chicago Banker Guest of Realty Men

At the meeting of the Cleveland Real Estate Board on Wednesday of last week in the assembly hall of the Cleveland Athletic Club building, S. W. Straus of Chicago, bond and mortgage broker, talked on "Real Estate Bonds and Their Future."

New Brokerage Firm

H. S. Curtiss, office manager and J. H. Hord, Cleveland stock exchange representative of Otis & Company, have severed their connection with the firm and will form a brokerage firm of their own with memberships on the Cleveland and New York exchanges, beginning about January 1.

New Bank at Edgerton

Dr. Hathaway of Edgerton, is organizing a new institution, to be known as the Farmers Commercial Bank, at Edgerton, which will take over the Farnham & Company Bank, which has been doing business in that city for a long time. It is expected that the new bank will be ready for business about the first of the year. Dr. Hathaway will be president; Hiram Long, vice-president, and J. A. Jennings, cashier. The capital stock is $30,000.

New Bank at South Dayton

The Bank of South Dayton, South Dayton, N. Y., has been organized with sixty-five stockholders, $30,000 capital and $6,000 surplus. The officers are: Frank S. Peek, president; Eugene A. Hale, vice-president; Evans T. Twichell, cashier; Charles B. Whipple, assistant cashier, and J. B. Nash, F. H. Peacock, L. A. Parke, George W. Rood, A. M. Howlett, Frank Scott, E. T. Twichell, E. A. Hale and Frank S. Peek, directors. The new bank expects to open about January 1.

Shows Steady Growth

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hamburg (Pa.) Savings, was held last week for the election of the board of fourteen directors. Heretofore the board has consisted of thirteen members. The old board was re-elected and Milton W. Smith was selected as the fourteenth member. The business of the Hamburg Savings rapidly is nearing the million dollar mark. During the past year the deposits have increased over $100,000, now running approximately $700,000.

West Virginia Banks

That the past year has been a prosperous one in West Virginia and that business is stable is confirmed by the reports of the state banks and trust companies in the state, which show, in less than a year's time, an increase in assets amounting to $8,658,767.03. According to an abstract of the reports of the state banks and trust companies, compiled by Banking Commissioner Samuel V. Matthews, the deposits alone during the period from November 21, 1912, to October 22, 1913, show an increase of $6,627,242.38. Only two state banks were chartered during the year, bringing the total number in business at the close of business October 21, to 193.

Fines Imposed on Private Banker

L. M. Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., was fined $500 and costs recently when he was arraigned on a warrant sworn out by Charles A. Briding, charging him with doing a private banking business without a state license. Mr. Goodman attributed his failure to procure a license to neglect. The defendant has appealed the case to the higher court.

New Orleans Bank Examiner Transferred to Kentucky

William T. Marfield, of New Orleans, national bank examiner, soon will be transferred to the Louisville district, to succeed Percy H. Johnston, who resigned some time ago to become cashier of the Citizens National. Mr. Marfield formerly was connected with a bank in Chattanooga.

Ends Bank Liquidation

Completing liquidation proceedings begun twenty years ago, Logan C. Murray, president of the American National, Louisville, Ky., has paid final dividends to stockholders of four Louisville banks which suspended during the panics of 1893 and 1894. The old Merchants National is distributing a final dividend of 32 cents on each share of stock; the Kentucky National, $1.55 per share, and the Fourth National, 54.8 cents per share. The old Second National also figured in the liquidation. The cessation of business by the banks named twenty years ago resulted in the decision of their stockholders to subscribe $800,000 of their joint assets to the organization of the American National, which was formed with Mr. Murry, then of

New York, at its head. The American National became the liquidating agent for the banks. The Kentucky National has paid stockholders 102 per cent on its stock; the Fourth National, 95; the Merchants National, 75; and the Second National, 30 per cent.

Fines Bank Cashier for Court Contempt

After holding that the banks and trust companies of Hamilton County, Indiana, must submit to the grand jury the name of any depositor the jury may call for to ascertain whether the individual has reported the money he has on deposit for taxation, Judge Vestal, of Noblesville, stopped the jury's investigation along this line until the Indiana supreme court passes on his ruling. The case originated by Earl S. Baker, cashier in the Citizens State, refusing to give to the grand jury the amount of money Horace Brown had on deposit on the first of last March. He was cited for contempt of court and, because of his refusal, was fined $50. Judge Vestal held that bankers were entitled to no more protection in this respect than other witnesses who were called before grand juries. In fact, he believed there were stronger reasons for banks furnishing evidence of unlawful transactions than individuals because they are operating under charters granted to them either by the state or government and should help citizens enforce the laws.

Indianapolis as a Banking Center

Facts of interest concerning Indianapolis as a banking center are contained in an article prepared by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce as one of the incidents of its "Know Your City" campaign. Statistics covering the total capital, surplus, undivided profits, deposits and loans of the five national banks, sixteen state banks and eight trust companies of Indianapolis are given. New figures compiled by the clearing house, being compiled by the clearing house for the first time show the total transactions of the five national banks, instead of merely the clearings between members of the clearing house. These figures show that for the first ten months this year the total transactions of the five national banks of Indianapolis ran considerably over one billion dollars and have averaged more than one hundred millions a month. The special committee, under whose supervision the article was prepared, consisted of Andrew Smith, G. W. F. Quick, Felix M. McWhirter, William F. Fogarty and John F. Speer.

Quits Bank to Become Farmer

George S. Avery, cashier of the American National, Benton Harbor, Mich., has resigned, and within a short time will leave with his family for Greenwood, Miss., to take up life on a cotton plantation of 400 acres of which he is owner. His successor has not yet been named. Mr. Avery has been cashier of the American National for two and a half years.

Central States Notes

The Fraternal Building, Loan and Savings Company, of Van Wert, Ohio, has increased its capital from $300,000 to $1,000,000.

Noble Skidmore has been elected cashier of the Farmers and Drivers Bank, Pleasureville, Ky., in place of Marion Knight, resigned.

Ralph E. Jossman, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for wrecking the Clarkston bank, now is winding chairs in the Michigan Seating Company plant in Jackson prison.

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

Minneapolis clearings for the month of November are more than $8,000,000 less than for the same month in 1912. Those for the eleven months of 1913 are more than $33,000,000 in excess of the 1912 clearings for the same period. E. W. Decker, president of the Northwestern National, said, in explaining the decrease: "Last year the bulk of the grain crop was moved in November. This year it was moved in October. A year ago rains in September delayed harvesting, while this year fine weather enabled the crop to be handled several weeks earlier. That is the only reason I can assign for the decrease this month. I do not think the currency bill legislation had anything to do with it."

Kelsey S. Chase Reappointed

Kelsey S. Chase, state superintendent of banks in Minnesota, has been reappointed for a term of three years, beginning January 1 next by Governor A. O. Eberhart. Mr. Chase first was made examiner on January 1, 1911, and is completing his first term.

To Visit Morris Exposition

Many prominent Minneapolis business men will attend the corn and alfalfa exposition at Morris, Minn., December 11, on bankers' day. A special train has been arranged and those who already have reserved through the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association are E. J. Stilwell, F. E. Kenaston, Morris McDonald, George D. Dayton, C. S. Gold, E. J. Fairfield, S. W. Callender, A. H. Ives, Stephen A. Jamison, J. J. Freeman, H. K. Zuppinger, B. F. Nelson, E. R. Beeman and W. D. Gregory. Bankers who will go are making their reservations through George H. Richards, secretary of the Minnesota Bankers Association, who will attend, and President J. S. Pomeroy, of the association, or Stanley Bezoier, who will represent the Security National. Other bankers who will go are President E. Forest, of the Commercial National; Vice-President A. A. Crane, and Assistant Cashier P. G. Leeman, of the First National; E. L. Mattson, cashier of the Scandinavian American National; I. W. Chambers, assistant treasurer Minnesota Loan and Trust. Joseph Chapman, vice-president of the Northwestern National, is to be one of the speakers. Addresses also will be made by J. H. Erickson, cashier of the First National of Clinton; S. G. Eliason of the Eliason State, Montevideo, and W. H. Gold, of Redwood Falls, all prominent bankers. Douglas A. Fiske, president Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, and Hugh J. Hughes, of Minneapolis, are on the program. George E. Vincent, of the University of Minnesota, will preside at the banquet Friday night. The exposition will be held three days—December 10, 11 and 12.

Resign From First National

William A. Miller, vice-president, and Frederick Nienhauser, cashier, of the First National, St. Paul, on Tuesday presented their resignations to become effective at once. Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Nienhauser entered the service of the bank more than thirty-five years ago and rose to their positions from bank messengers. No successors have been selected. Last January the bank was bought from the stockholders by James J. Hill and its capital increased from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000, and surplus from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. The bank was merged with the Second National which Mr. Hill also bought.

Missing Cashier Sued

Suit for $30,000 has been brought by the First State of North St. Paul, against Arthur E. Nelson, former cashier of the bank, who disappeared October 1. His shortage, it is declared, is now known to be more than $30,000, and the bank is trying to recover part of it by getting title to real estate valued at $12,271.75. The complainant alleges that the property was bought with funds of the bank. Susie E. Nelson, wife of the missing cashier, and Wm. M. Clark, of St. Paul, are also named as defendants. It is alleged that Clark took over property valued at $4,000 from Nelson, and later turned it over to Mrs. Nelson by a quitclaim deed.

Approve Farm Loan Clause

The provision in the currency bill now before the United States Senate permitting national banks to loan money on land and farm mortgages has met with the unanimous approval of St. Paul business men. They say that allowing national banks to loan money on farms and farm mortgages will be one of the biggest booms to the development of the Northwest that has come in many years, and also will correct a violation of the law which has been general for many years. "There is no better security than farm mortgages," said W. A. Miller, vice-president of the First National, "if selected properly. The law cannot but help prove wonderfully beneficial to the Northwest. In times of distress farm mortgages are slow to realize upon, but the value is always there." John C. Oace, assistant cashier of the Merchants National, said that it would legalize what has been going on unlawfully for years, and greatly aid that part the country. Banks in the agricultural districts," he said, "simply cannot get along without it and they have been doing it in a roundabout way. This law will allow a free and easy expansion. With the right kind of safeguards it will be one of the best things in the new currency law."

Head of Defunct Bank Tried

John Sharp, president of the defunct State Bank of Commerce, Winnebago, Minn., was tried on trial in the district court at Blue Earth this week on the charge of falsifying a report to the state superintendent of banks. The bank was wrecked in 1912 by Harry Erker, the cashier, who now is in the Stillwater penitentiary. Last week a conference was held between H. H. Dunn, of Albert Lea, representing Sharp; Senator F. E. Putnam, of Blue Earth, representing the banking department, and Attorney General Smith, relative to a settlement. It is understood that Sharp agreed to pay the assessment of $16,100 levied against his stock without a fight if the criminal prosecutions were dropped. This plan did not appeal to the state authorities and the case went to trial. The liquidation of the assets of the bank has been in progress for over a year and it is estimated that the total amount secured will fall $50,000 short of paying depositors in full. Already 60 per cent has been distributed and suit has been instituted against stockholders for the value of their holdings.

Executive Council to Meet in January

Secretary W. C. McFadden, of the North Dakota Bankers Association, has announced that the special session of the executive council of the association, which was announced for December 9 and 10, will be held in Fargo on January 20 and 21. It had been the original plan to hold this meeting on the first dates open at the time when the directors of the North Dakota Better Farming Association would be in session.

Millions Added to Deposits

An increase of more than $7,000,000 in deposits subject to check in the state banks of North Dakota is the feature of the report just issued from the office of the state bank examiner. The report was made by the banks at 21, and is compared with the report of 1909. Another item in the comparative statement shows that there has been a decrease in bills payable of $782,446.00. There was an increase of nearly a half million dollars in bank certificates of deposits while the time certificates of deposits increased $249,507.24. There was an increase in cashiers' certified checks of $471,574.39, while the undivided profits increased nearly a quarter of a million dollars. There were 608 banks reporting in 1913. This number has been increased to 615, while the number of trust companies, however, has not changed. There was an increase in cash on hand and the amount from approved reserve agents increased from $8,797,470.06 to $13,930,024.15. There was an increase of close to a quarter of a million dollars in the loans and discounts. The statement shows a total increase in resources and assets of from $62,466,112.05 last August to $72,978,622.62 in the last report, or an increase of $10,512,510.57.

Over For Big Concern

The International Securities Company, capitalized at $100,000, against which the state of North Dakota began action recently, charging a violation of its charter rights, has been taken in the hands of B. I. Keating, of Fargo, Minn. Excessive commissions to agents in the sale of stock, and the sale of profit-sharing contracts were features against which the state complained. The investors number about 500 or 600 residents of northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota.

Gannon Heads Faulkton Bank

The Security State of Faulkton shortly will open its doors under a new organization and with new officers at the head. F. B. Gannon, president of the First National, Aberdeen, will be president; O. Christian, cashier, and Mrs. A. W. Morse, wife of the late A. W. Morse, former president, assistant cashier. The capital stock will be raised from $10,000 to $16,000. The Security State was closed November 14 and the state banking department placed in charge. The cause for the suspension was due to the fact that all of the stock is held by the estate of the late A. W. Morse, no administrator having been appointed to settle the estate after Mr. Morse's death recently. The reserve at the time of the suspension was about 30 per cent.

Bank Robbers Sentenced

States Attorney Barron and Sheriff Swale, Ipswich, S. D., took Shaffner, Hayes and Von Billard, three of the young yeggs who endeavored to blow the safe of the Farmers State at Mina last month, to Faulkton, where they pleaded guilty and were sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Clarence Johnson, another member of the gang, is out on a $1,000 bond, while the fifth member, named Maytag, left for parts unknown before any clues of who did the job were ascertained.

Must Pay 33 1-3 Per Cent

The South Dakota bank examiners department has instructed the Farmers State of Winner to pay thirty-three and one-third per cent to creditors who had deposits in that bank.

Goes to Fort Benton

Ralph C. Giddings, assistant cashier of the Missoula (Mont.) Trust and Savings, has resigned to become cashier of the Stockmans National at Fort Benton, one of the oldest banks in Montana and one of the strongest financial institutions in the Northwest. Mr. Giddings has been connected with the First National and the Missoula Trust and Savings for more than seven years. He succeeds Harvey Holt, well known in banking circles, who goes to Minnesota to join his father-in-law in the banking business. Mr. Giddings will be succeeded by John Friauf.

New Montana Bank

Articles of incorporation of the First Bank of Ashland, Mont., were filed recently with the county clerk. The bank is incorporated with $20,000 capital, $2,000 surplus and $1,000 undivided profits. The directors are Chas. Thex, Otter; W. C. McDowell, Brandenburg; Charles Decker, Stacy; H. S. Trusler, Ashland; Jud McKelvey, Ashland; R. P. Colbert, Lee, and F. N. Peck, Helena.

Northwest Notes

The Farmers State, Rock Creek, Minn., has opened for business.

Excavation for the First National, Britton, S. D., will be made this fall.

The First National of Yankton, S. D., celebrated the forty-first anniversary of its organization on Tuesday of last week. On that day they received word of their appointment as a United States depository for the government.

NEW HEAD FOR RED WING BANK

B. Gerlach was elected president of the Goodhue County National, Red Wing, Minn., by the board of directors on Tuesday. C. H. Boxrud was elected vice-president and E. H. Foot, new member of the board of directors. Mr. Gerlach also was chosen president of the Goodhue County Savings, and Mr. Boxrud was elected a member of the board of trustees of the same bank.

IRONWOOD, MICH., TO HAVE SECOND BANK

Arrangements have been completed for the opening in the early part of February of a new state bank in Ironwood, Mich., which is to be known as the Merchants and Miners State. The new bank will start with a capital stock of $50,000, surplus of $10,000. Calvin E. Houk, who has been postmaster in Ironwood for sixteen years, has been selected cashier. A lease has been taken on the old Bank of Ironwood building recently purchased by Martin Brogan. The building will be remodeled.

ST. PAUL CHAPTER

The second dinner meeting of the season of the St. Paul Chapter, American Institute of Banking, was held Tuesday night at the Merchants Hotel. Seventy-five members attended. Attorney John A. Pearsons spoke on "The New Negotiable Instrument Law and the Old One." Grant Van Sant told of the relations of farm mortgages to the new currency measure. E. O. Nordstrom, president of the chapter, presided.

BOY BANKER ELECTED CASHIER

The directors of the State Bank of Hazel Run, Minn., have elected Leslie Dahl of Minnesota as cashier of their bank. Mr. Dahl is just twenty-one years old and probably the youngest bank cashier in Minnesota. He has had previous banking experience in Hendricks and other towns and was acting cashier of the Hazel Run bank before he was elected.

NEW SOUTH DAKOTA BANK

The Bank of Victor, Victor, S. D., has been chartered by the secretary of state, capital stock $10,000. The officers listed are Newell N. Powell, president, S. E. Oscarson, vice-president; A. G. Molander, cashier, all of White Rock.

BOOKS OF BANK FOUND IN RIVER

A box containing the books of the defunct Chamberlain Bank of Tecumseh, Neb., missing since 1910, was found in the bottom of the Nemaha river last week. The bank failed in 1902. The cashier, Charles M. Chamberlain, disappeared at the time, but returned several years later. He was placed on trial for alleged violation of the banking laws, but was acquitted.

NEW GEORGIA BANK

The Empire State, Atlanta, Ga., with a capital of $100,000, opened for business Monday. George B. Pollock is president; R. F. Bryan, vice-president and W. A. Sims, cashier. Mr. Pollock also is president of the Union Trust of Atlanta and formerly was president of the American State of Rome. Mr. Bryan is president of "Our Bank," at Union Point, Ga. The Empire not only will do a general banking business but also will conduct a savings department, where four per cent interest will be paid.

GROUP FOUR, KANSAS

Group Four, Kansas, met at Concordia on Tuesday of last week. Among the speakers were J. W. Bailey, Charles M. Sawyer and Professor J. H. Miller. Charles F. McAdams was made chairman and Frank R. Spier, secretary. The next convention of the group will be held in Salina.

Council Bluffs banks are very proud of the showing made as a result of recent national and state calls. The state banks have gained nearly a third of a million in deposits in the past year. They now have $3,123,878.43 as against $2,800,885 last year.

Des Moines, Dec. 3.—Homer A. Miller, president of the Iowa National, Des Moines, gave out a very interesting interview last week as to the cause of the apparent financial stringency. Mr. Miller says that as a matter of fact there has been no contraction in currency, but on the other hand there have been tremendous business deals which have required more money than has been in circulation. The adjusting the country to the new administration with its tariff and currency policies which differ from those in the past has had its effect, but constantly expanding trade at a rate too rapid for the volume of the medium of exchange is the real cause for a falling off in bank clearings from $143,000,000 up to this time last year to $141,000,000 for the corresponding period this year.

Private Bankers Bankrupt

General interest has been aroused throughout Iowa in the bankruptcy of the firm of Peter Kiene & Son at Dubuque, private bankers. The schedule as filed with the federal court at Dubuque showed total liabilities of $251,254 of which $41,500 is secured and $209,754 unsecured, balance in rent and wages due. Assets of $871,241 comprise: realty, $36,150; bills, promissory notes and securities, $245,531; due on open accounts, $570,115; stocks and negotiable bonds, $19,665; money in banks, $524. It is estimated that the concern will pay about 75 cents on the dollar. There are rumors that the grand jury is to be asked to look into affairs and at the examination before the referee, the attorney for Mrs. Kiene brought out that following Kiene's death a year or so ago, the firm appropriated $50,000 belonging to Mrs. Kiene, the widow. This was used to pay interest on debts of the firm. In addition to this $50,000, $12,000 worth of securities belonging to Mrs. Babcock, a daughter of the deceased banker, likewise was appropriated. The firm of Peter Kiene & Son has long been prominent in Iowa financial circles, and developments which have followed the death of Mr. Kiene have been such as to cause much speculation.

Increased Value of Iowa Farms

When some years ago an Iowa newspaper predicted that land in this state would sell for farming purposes for $500 per acre, there was an issue which proved the topic for more than one debate. Yet it has come to pass. A report comes from Waterloo that a farm near that city was sold by William Galloway at that figure one day recently. This land was sold for farming purposes. Mr. Galloway bought the land, a worn-out farm, some years ago, and began to experiment with it. He put his farming operations upon a scientific basis and soon brought the soil to a high state of fertility. When it was offered for sale a man from Dysart grabbed it at the price above noted. All of which indicates to the Iowa Bankers Association that the statement of Joe C. man of Minneapolis that the "surface of I has only been scratched" is founded upon. It is a campaign to awaken Iowa farmer the importance of intensive and scientific farming that has been launched by the I. B. The Galloway farm here mentioned made profit of 9 per cent on alfalfa which was grown thereon. The Iowa City Citizen, in reference to this transaction recently, made the statement that with proper methods of agriculture the Iowa farm can be made to pay from 6 to 10 per cent even at $1,000 per acre.

Notorious Forger Arrested

Secretary P. W. Hall has been notified of arrest at Davenport of Gus A. Ralson, a P. C. Jose, alias F. A. Pendarvis, alias "the Penman." Ralson tried to cash a check $135 drawn on the Century Savings of Des Moines while in this city the other day. He had a check book and the check was made with a protectograph. Ralson was asked to leave the check for collection, but his act grew so suspicious that officers were called and he was arrested. He gave another name to the police, the name of a well-to-do business man at Canton, Kan. The police wired and found that the name given was that of a man who was O. K., so Ralson was permitted to go free. Later it was discovered that he had been passing several bogus checks in Des Moines, and Secretary Hall and Detective Gust Patek got busy. It was not long after that the arrest was made at Davenport.

Seek Release of Alleged Kidnapers

Iowa has been "fussed up," so to speak, by a peculiar case from Corning. One Earl Jones, a musician at that city, and Miss Grace Runyon, daughter of a banker at that city, figured either a kidnaping or an attempted elopement, just which seems to be in doubt. Jones was arrested on the charge that he forced the girl at a point of a revolver to accompany him to a nearby county seat, where they were to be married. Later he pleaded guilty to a charge of kidnaping and was sent to Anamosa for five years. After his incarceration, Jones declared that his plea of guilty was "due to a false perception of honor." His attorneys got busy and have been trying to get him paroled or pardoned upon a showing that Miss Runyan was not kidnaped but that she was a willing accomplice in what was intended to be an abridgment. His attorneys have submitted to the governor a long statement of the case, accompanied by a transcript of the evidence. This is a peculiar case and has been causing more gossip in southwestern Iowa than any single event since the murder of the Moore family at Villisca some months ago. Of course, sympathy is largely with the girl, whose name has been dragged into the affair through the publicity given, largely by the attorneys of Jones, who are seeking his release.

New Currency for Christmas

Lee Stevens of the Century Savings, Des Moines, is the first banker of this city to lay in supply of nice fresh currency for Christmas purposes. Mr. Stevens has ordered every coin, from new pennies to $20 gold eagles, and in addition nice, crisp bills. His idea is, he says, that bright new money has a "stimulating and brightening" effect upon the holder. A man with a pocket full of bright new coins is more cheerful and more nearly atune with the Christmas spirit, Mr. Stevens says.

Wrote "Blackhand" Letter

Albert Alley of Knoxville was found guilty of writing a "blackhand" letter to John B. Elliott, Knoxville banker, and sent up for three years by Judge Smith McPherson in federal court at Des Moines. Alley will do penance in the Stillwater penitentiary. He threatened to do things to Elliott unless the latter left $500 to him at a designated spot.

State Treasurer Refuses Check

Last week we spoke of a Des Moines bank which refused to handle $1,000,000 of state money received from the automobile owners of the state. This week we have to tell of the refusal of the state treasurer to receive a check for $29,200. It was tendered in connection with collateral inheritance tax from Hamilton county on the Riniker estate. But the treasurer discerned several little points with which his own figures did not agree and he sent the check back. He will not accept the amount, he says, until further investigation is made.

Completes Thirty-Two Years With Des Moines Bank

A. McKinney, president of the Capital State, Des Moines, completed his thirty-second year of continuous connection with that institution last Friday. It was Tuesday, November 28, 1882, that he first entered the employ of the institution as messenger and man of all work. Since then he has never been absent from the institution for longer than two weeks at a time and his climb from messenger to president has been gradual and merited. McKinney is likewise president of the Des Moines school board.

Notes

Mount Ayr reports an important bank merger. The Bank of Commerce has transferred its business to the Iowa State, and Walter Ingram goes into the real estate business. There have been three banks in Mt. Ayr but the business of the city was not sufficient to justify the maintenance of so many institutions. There are other towns in Iowa which might profitably follow the example of the Bank of Commerce.

Banks under the law enacted by the last legislature have been incorporating so as to become guardians of estates, trustees, etc. As a result, they are getting much of this sort of business that used to be without the province of a bank institution. Last week Augustus Hall of West Liberty, in his will and testament, named the People's Trust and Savings of West Liberty as executor of his large estate, which indicates that the new law is beginning to prove popular with the capitalists as well as the institutions.

Ernest R. Moore of the American Savings at Cedar Rapids was in Des Moines last week contracting with a Des Moines contractor to construct the new ten-story building which that institution has planned at Cedar Rapids. Col. Moore was formerly in the Iowa legislature and when he retired from that body he left a big hole.

Hugh Waddell, president of the First National at Colville, Wash., was visiting relatives and friends in Des Moines, Atlantic and Omaha last week. Mr. Waddell was formerly connected with a bank at Cumberland. His father was William Waddell, former banker at Atlantic and Cumberland and county treasurer of Cass county.

The First National at Corning has been trying to locate the will of the late Mrs. Eleanor David, widow of J. A. David. The bank has $2,700 in its vault, but at the time of this writing the certificates of deposit are missing as well as the will, and the bank wishes to be protected before it permits the money to leave.

The new building of the North Harrison Trust and Savings at Davenport is being pushed along rapidly and will soon be completed. It is expected that the formal opening will be held about the first of the year. The building is an individual affair and is a big improvement for this section of Davenport.

County Crop Advisor Kirkpatrick of Muscatine county has asked the bankers of that county to assist him in improving the quality of seeds offered for sale there. He encourages the bankers to buy alfalfa seed of the highest quality and sell it at cost, thereby stimulating the farmers to grow only the best obtainable.

Among out of the city bankers seen in Des Moines recently were Cashier M. B. Wright of Athelstan bank; Cashier George Grier, Citizens Trust & Savings, Iowa City; Cashier C. K. Boardman, State Guaranty, O'Keene, Okla.; President H. M. Pattee, First National, Perry; Cashier Charles E. White, Jefferson Savings; Cashier J. C. Collins, Citizens National, Knoxville; Vice-President R. W. Stephenson, Forest City National.

The Farmers is the name of a new $10,000 capitalized institution at Ely.

H. R. Joy is president and E. J. Avery assistant cashier of the State Savings at Logan.

Senator J. H. Allen of Pocahontas, while in Des Moines recently, announced the increase of the capital stock of the First National of that place from $25,000 to $50,000. He is president of the institution.

South Dakota Notes

The receiver in charge of the Farmers State at Winner recently paid creditors 33 1-3 of their claims. This was done in addition to a 25 per cent payment made earlier.

The state banking department has notified creditors of the Newark State that the assets were $47,000, and the liabilities $43,000 at the time the state took charge of the institution.

Cashier H. J. Meidell of the Beresford State died recently of acute nephritis after an illness of four days. He had been connected with the bank for twenty years.

The Farmers and Merchants is a new bank at Anna. It has for its president R. C. Moore and for its cashier J. T. Adams.

C. G. Peterson has been chosen cashier of the new People's State at New Effington.

WINS SUIT AGAINST OIL COMPANIES

The Calcasieu Bank and Trust, New Orleans, receivers of the Evangeline Oil Company, won its suit against the Gulf Refining Company and the Texas Company. The suit was brought by the Calcasieu bank on behalf of the minority stockholders to compel the defendant oil company to pay $283,662.66. The basis of the suit was the charge that three contracts which were entered into by the management of the Evangeline Company with the Gulf Refining Company and the Texas Company constituted a fraudulent combination and conspiracy to control the stock, property and assets of the Evangeline for the benefit of the two defendant companies, particularly the Evangeline's big pipe line, which was built by owners of oil lands in order to more readily market the product of their wells. Judge King, in granting a decision for the receiver bank and stockholders, charged the failure of the Evangeline Company to make any effort to collect the money was gross mismanagement.

SIX NEW TEXAS STATE BANKS

The Texas banking board has granted charters and issued certificates of authority to do business to six new state banks, all of which assumed the guaranty fund plan of protecting depositors. The new banks are Collin County State of Anna, capital $35,000; president, S. E. Moore, and John T. Adams, cashier; Geronimo State of Geronimo, capital $10,000; William Timmerman, president, and Eugene Tewes, cashier; Continental State of Sweetwater, capital $50,000; J. G. Wilkinson, president, and N. B. Bowle, cashier; Inez State of Inez, capital $12,000; H. C. Koontz, president, and R. H. Hasbrook, cashier; Peoples State Bank and Trust Company of Winsboro, capital $60,000; R. E. Skeen, president, and W. H. Holley, cashier; First State of Wolfe City, capital $100,000, R. F. Akridge, president, and L. V. Myrick, cashier.

NEW BANK RECORD IN MINNESOTA

The 808 state banks of Minnesota on October 21st last carried deposits to the amount of $148,023,360, which represents a year's growth of $20,785,657, and which Kelsey S. Chase, state superintendent of banks, pronounces the greatest increase in deposits for one year in the history of Minnesota. The call for statements found the state banks generally in very good condition.

"A summary of all our reports," said Mr. Chase, "shows an increase of more than $16,000,000 in loans and discounts, which, of course, is gratifying; highly so, for it represents business increase. The reduction in the item of real estate held by banks is commendable as banks should not engage in the real estate business. Particularly gratifying is the great reduction in bills payable, more than 25 per cent of that class of paper being wiped out in one year. It will be noted that Minnesota has chartered forty-eight state banks in the last year and that the banking capital has been increased $1,030,500."

MONEY EASIER IN CANADA

Montreal.—Signs of an easing in the money market due to the rapid marketing of the western crop, have been noted here in the offering of money by a Winnipeg bank. It is understood that the bank in question put out on call some $2,000,000 in Montreal, about $1,000,000 in Toronto, and a fairly large amount in New York within the last few days or so. The fears of an exceptional period of stringency in the Canadian call money market entertained early in the summer have not been realized. The fear of any strain is now past and late developments have pointed to an easing tendency.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 1.—Five hundred Pacific northwest fruit growers, bankers, railroad officials and business men who took part in six days of conferences at the sixth national apple show in Spokane last week, took steps to solve the problem of utilizing the lower grade fruits and to organize a northwest deciduous protective league embracing Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

H. C. Sampson, secretary-treasurer of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors, who was made chairman of a committee to handle the matter of conservation of fruit waste, has called a meeting to be held at Walla Walla, Wash., December 18, for the purpose of making more definite plans. His committee will gather data on output, what percentage of the fruit is wasted, freight rates and assembling rates, and also will compile statistics of existing northwestern by-product plants. This work will be largely one of investigation, and the committee's findings will be presented either to a convention of growers several months hence or to next year's conferences at the national apple show.

The other concrete accomplishment has to do with banding the growers together into a protective league, whose purposes shall be to secure uniform laws regulating the size of apple boxes, apple pack and grades; second, to educate the growers and to eliminate orchard pests; and third, to handle matters of demurrage and freight rates. The new league will cover everything relating to the fruit business except marketing, price making and distributing. The marketing side already is being cared for most satisfactorily by the North Pacific Distributors, a mutual non-profit organization, owned and controlled by the growers themselves.

Increase in Building Permits

Only four of the 56 principal cities of the United States surpassed Spokane's percentage of increase in building permits for the first ten months of 1913 over the similar period last year. Building permits up to November 1 this year were $3,287,000, an increase of 63 per cent over the figures for the first ten months of 1912, when they were $2,020,022. The figures are the more impressive because of the fact that the 56 cities as a whole showed an average decrease of 11 per cent over the first ten months of last year.

Spokane Banker Made Postmaster

Dana Child, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce, has been appointed postmaster of Spokane by President Wilson, and the selection has been ratified by the senate. He will succeed Walter P. Edris after the holidays. Mr. Child will continue as vice-president and as a director of the National Bank of Commerce, but will give up active work in the bank's interests. George K. March, one of the directors and brother of President F. M. March, will assume the work of Mr. Child. Mr. Child, who is fifty years old, has been in business in Spokane for nearly thirty years, and has been vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce since its organization. He founded the old firm of Child Bros. & Day, one of the earliest machinery houses here. In recent years Mr. Child has not been active in politics, but for several sessions he represented Spokane county in the state legislature, running on the democratic ticket. He has been chairman of the board of eminent domain commissioners for the city about ten years.

H. J. Dreher in Spokane

H. J. Dreher of Milwaukee, Wis., national president of the American Institute of Banking, was in Spokane this week inspecting the local chapter. He was kept busy and was entertained while here by a committee consisting of George C. Gage, A. E. Russell, W. N. Baker, J. W. Bradley and W. F. Kelly. Soon after arriving in Spokane Mr. Dreher visited the local banks. Wednesday noon, November 26, he was tendered a luncheon by the officers and members of the Spokane chapter, following which he saw Spokane from a touring car. The day concluded with a banquet in the Moorish room of the Hotel Spokane. Mr. Dreher spent Thanksgiving day in Spokane.

Successful Farming

"One thousand cows are now on farms near Kennewick, Wash., and the creamery there produces 12,000 to 14,000 pounds of butter a month," states Lee Johnson, president of the First National of Kennewick, who was in Spokane last week. The entire butter production finds a ready market in Spokane. "The farmers like the dairy business and are making fine headway on their payments," he added. "Dairying was introduced in August, 1911, and today is the important feature of the agricultural development. Our people are getting back to earth now and realize their permanent gain must come out of the soil. They imported Holstein and Jersey grades from Wisconsin, Missouri and the Willamette valley. Along with the dairying goes hog raising. Two years ago there were 200 pigs in the whole district and in the last twelve months we have shipped out five or six cars. Every farm has from 10 to 150 pigs. The farmers have their separators on their farms and know just what they are doing. Four or five new silos are going up in the district. We are raising corn, about 30 to 40 bushels to the acre, and can raise 50 bushels. It is fine fodder and makes the very best ensilage. It is a good alfalfa country and alfalfa is selling at $10 a ton. This year the farmers had good crops of fruit and hay and the district is prosperous."

In Spokane for Apple Show

Among the Spokane country bankers who came to Spokane last week for the national apple show were: F. S. Lusk, president of the First National of Missoula, Mont.; W. W. Papesch, president of the First State of Kellogg, Idaho; Charles F. Craig, formerly of the First National of Newport, Wash.; Lee Johnson, president of the First National of Kennewick, Wash.; L. D. Means, cashier of the Valley State of Post Falls, Idaho; George C.

Jewett, cashier of the National of Palou Wash.; E. E. Flood, cashier of the Bank Rosalia, Wash.; Mark A. Sherman, president of the Bank of Endicott, Wash., and Dr. J. Pogue of Pogue Flats, Okanogan county, president of the Omak State.

Oregon Prosperous

Fred Brown of Boise, Idaho, national bank examiner for the state of Idaho, was in Spokane this week on his way to make his office visit to the banks of northern Idaho. Included in his territory also is eastern Oregon, which he recently completed his examination of the banks. "I attended the annual convention of Group 6 of the Oregon Bankers' association at La Grande the other day," said Mr. Brown, "and every county reported prosperity. Collections are reported good and the banks are healthy."

Whitman County National at Rosalia

The Whitman County National bank at Rosalia, Wash., is getting out a unique statement of its condition at the last call of the comptroller of the currency. In addition to giving the usual information contained in the bank report, this statement has the information that the bank carries on business entirely on its own resources, which now aggregate more than $350,000. During the last harvest more than $75,000 of harvest loans were made to the farmers of that locality, without outside assistance, and without impairing the legal reserve of this bank.

BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

From Lathrop, Lee & Shepard come two books especially designed for boys and girls at the Christmas time. "The Half-Miler" by A. T. Dudley, illustrated by John Goss, is the story of a young man of positive character facing the stern problem of earning his way in a big school. While not a biography, it is true to life because concerned with things that have happened and may happen again and with individuals such as actually do exist. Incidentally, it treats of certain phases of popularity, and the conflicting demands of the school-room and athletic field. The hero is not an imaginary compound of superlatives but a plain person of flesh and blood, aglow with the hopeful idealism of youth, who succeeds and is not spoiled by success. He can run, and he does run—through the story.

"Betty Tucker's Ambition" is for the girls. It is written by Angelina W. Wray and illustrated by F. Liley Young. Betty was one of "Mother Tucker's Seven," which was another story by Miss Wray.

Betty, the oldest girl of the lively seven, has an ambition to win distinction as a writer, and in the face of discouragement actually does secure a place on the local paper, where her bright ideas come to be recognized as having genuine business value. The Tucker family, in spite of adversity, are an important element in the awakening of the community to better conditions, and, too proud to appeal to relatives for aid, raise enough by their combined earnings to lift the mortgage from their little home. Through it all they have an enviable good time together.

NEW CLARKSTON BANK OPENS

The Clarkston (Mich.) State opened for business on Friday of last week. Farriso Walter, one of the heaviest losers in the former institution, was the first depositor. The building was thronged during the forenoon with carnations and cigars being the favors for the visitors. R. M. Ackerson, for a number of years paymaster of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, with offices in Detroit, is cashier. Guy A. Walter, president; David R. Tegger

GEORGE M. COHAN'S "BROADWAY JONES"

Many novels have been dramatized but it rains for George M. Cohan's "Broadway Jones" to be novelized. This has been cleverly le by Edward Marshall with the result now ype, published by the G. W. Dillingham New York. Three laughs to the page is ow estimate. "Broadway," as those who ae seen Cohan's world beating play know, a country boy tired of the little town in ch he lived. His uncle died and left him 10,000, which "Broadway" and many others ight was a million. He went straight to "Great White Way," where everybody eed him spend it. Then the rich old lady i to wish herself on him, but in the end v triumphs and he marries the girl of his et. Costs only $1.25 net, and is worth ten ns as much.

INCREASE OF EIGHT MILLIONS
Figures compiled by the state banking de- ment of Alabama show that deposits in s of the state increased $8,022,174.01 and apaid in capital jumped $928,410.06 during e twelve months between October 15, 1912, cOctober 21, 1913. The total deposits on iber 15, 1912, were $40,904,173.72, while the psits this year were $48,926,347.73. Dur- he year the capital stock of state institu- increased from $11,871,975 to $12,800,- 55. Resources increased $10,385,455.13; and discounts, $3,045,166.82.

Small Banks Use Burroughs Ledger Posting Machines

The Peoples' Savings Bank of Midland, Michigan (2500 population) finds the Burroughs Ledger Posting Machine invaluable for Ledger Posting and for writing Customers' Statements.

When the Directors of this bank saw the machine in operation and realized the amount of time it would save on this work—besides being available for any other kind of bank figure work—they said "we need one of those!"

This is not an unusual case. Many small banks have already recognized the superiority of the Burroughs Ledger Posting Machine for bank figure work.

For instance, Magruder Bank, Port Clinton, Ohio, The National Bank, Kirksville, Mo., The Bank of Rowlands, Rowlands, N. C., The Alice State Bank, Alice, Texas, and many others—all in towns of less than 3,000 population—handle their ledger posting, statement or other figure work on this wonderful new Burroughs. They are all enthusiastic users. Some banks save from fifty to seventy-five per cent. of the time formerly required to handle the same work.

Of course, large banks also use this machine—The Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, for instance, is already using 24—a total of 83 in Chicago at this date.

The machine subtracts Checks, adds Deposits and Old Balances, automatically "Figures" New Balances and marks Overdrafts. It is as far ahead of the ordinary machine as the ordinary machine is ahead of hand work.

All the work is done automatically on the machine. All the operator has to do is to put in the amounts.

Our new System Bulletin on Bank Statements contains valuable information furnished by enthusiastic bankers who are using this machine.

ILLINOIS THIRD IN POSTAL DEPOSITS

Illinois stood third in number of depositors and fourth in amount of deposits in the postal savings banks June 30. The report of the trustees of the postal savings system shows Illinois had 24,390 depositors, whose deposits aggregated $3,093,506.

Chicago had 14,670 depositors and $1,808,248 in deposits; Indiana had 8,307 depositors, with savings of $1,050,190; Michigan, 9,738, with $1,479,842; Wisconsin, 7,476, with $905,263.

New York State led with 63,317 depositors and $6,863,124 in deposits. Ohio was second in number of depositors.

The total number of depositors for the entire country was 331,006, who had an aggregate of $41,701,383 on deposit. The average individual deposit was $102.

KANSAS BANKER DEAD

Benjamin F. Johnson, one of the most prominent stockmen in his section of the state and president of the First National of Englewood, Kan., died recently.

APPROVE RURAL CREDIT IDEA

Chicago bankers approve of President Wilson's idea of a system of lending which will enable the farmer to obtain money at such rates as will not work a hardship upon him. George M. Reynolds announced himself in favor of any plan by which the farmer can get money easily on proper security, and which contains the idea of an amortization period of twenty-five to thirty years, with proper safeguards surrounding it.

COLORADO BANK CLOSED

Mesa County National of Grand Junction, Colo., capitalized at $100,000, has been closed by the comptroller of the currency. Impairment of securities and the refusal of outside aid was given as the cause. Deposits amounted to approximately $54,000.

RALPH VAN VECHTEN'S VIEWS

Ralph Van Vechten, vice-president of the Continental and Commercial National, said this week to a representative of THE CHICAGO BANKER:

"The demand for money from our correspondent banks continues unabated and is the heaviest we have ever experienced. This is not confined to any one section of the country but applies with almost equal force to the entire Middle West, Northwest and Southwest. It is natural and legitimate at this season of the year as a result of the crop movement and cattle feeding operations. The unfavorable weather in the Southwest has delayed the movement of cotton. As a result the bankers in that section have been compelled to carry their customers longer than usual.

"In the Middle West there is a heavy movement of corn for stock feeding purposes, which has been belated by the continued warm and rainy weather. In the Northwest conditions are about normal and bankers are gradually meeting their obligations.

"Jobbers and manufacturers in heavy lines are doing a decreased volume of business with the result that they are laying off men and reducing their loans. A continuation of this should bring about easier money within the next sixty or ninety days unless the passage of the banking and currency bill should cause contraction of credit or the Mexican situation should require intervention on the part of the United States.

"We are hopeful that such modifications will be made in the banking and currency bill as to make it generally acceptable to the national banks of the country. If passed in the form of a sound, workable measure its prompt acceptance by these banks would do much to allay apprehension regarding the future."

ILLINOIS COUNCIL MEETING IN JANUARY

The mid-year meeting of the executive council of the Illinois Bankers Association will probably be called for the third week in January. Chairman George Woodruff in response to many requests for a complete list of the voting members, has asked THE CHICAGO BANKER to relieve the pressure by printing the names and addresses. This is made necessary by the disappearance of the 1913 proceedings book at the September convention. Following is the full list:

Expires 1914

J. S. Cable, Rock Island Savings, Rock Island.
V. F. Schafer, Elkhart Bank, Elkhart.
C. H. Wright, Second National, Belvidere.
I. A. Goddard, State Bank of Chicago, Chicago.
J. M. Lyon, Livingston County National, Maitland.
Ed G. Hudson, First National, Charleston.

C. P. BLINN, Jr.
BOSTON, MASS.

M. P. Beebe, president of the Bank of Ipswich, S. D., and C. P. Blinn, Jr., vice-president of the National Union Bank, Boston, were chosen by their fellow bankers to head the State Association at the last annual convention.

The bankers of South Dakota and Massachusetts in the selection of these gentlemen are assured of capable, trustworthy officials and of administrations which will be a credit to the associations.

INVESTMENT BANKERS' COMMITTEES

President George B. Caldwell of the Investment Bankers Association has announced the standing committees for the present fiscal year.

The chairmen are as follows: Revision of Constitution and By-Laws, Eugene M. Stevens, Minneapolis; Finance and Auditing, J. Herndon Smith, St. Louis; Foreign Relations, E. W. Bulkley, New York; Irrigation, Reclamation and Agricultural Credits, A. C. Foster, Denver; Legislation, A. G. Hoyt, New York; Membership, John E. Blunt, Jr., Chicago; Monetary Legislation, John Perrin, Los Angeles; Municipal Bonds, C. W. McNear, Chicago; Program for Annual Meeting, George W. Kendrick, III, Philadelphia; Publicity, Lawrence Chamberlain, New York; Public Service Corporations, J. E. Oldham, Boston; Railroad Bonds and Equipment Notes, S. L. Fuller, New York; Taxation, F. W. Rollins, Boston; Timber Bonds, Calvin Fentress, Chicago.

Dr. Jos. R. Noel, John F. Smulski and J. J. Arnold, all bankers of prominence, have been elected officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

H. R. DENNIS RECOVERS HEALTH

H. R. Dennis, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, has been in Chicago under medical treatment and is thought to be completely restored to health. He is making a collection of obituary notices, printed upon the erroneous report of his death. Mr. Dennis suffered some sort of a stroke a few weeks ago and remained unconscious for thirty-six hours, which caused reports of his death to be sent out. He says South Dakota and Northwestern Iowa are selling hogs and corn in a way to bring in large sums of money. Still talks a little of going back into the banking business.

TWO STATE BANKS GET PERMITS

Mainly About Banks and Bankers

ELIZABETH (Ills.) State Bank is starting on the fifth year with a quarter of a million resources, a sparkling tribute to the woman who organized it and is its cashier.

JOSEPH E. NASH was cashier of the Exchange Bank, at Elizabeth, for nearly five years when she organized the state institution.

HER bank has grown responsively and the figures detailing the increase in deposits show steady gains, each statement period.

MISS NASH is a regular reader of the CHICAGO BANKER and pays it this high tribute: "Your articles concerning private banks are read with great interest, for we find that a private bank makes hard opposition, since they do so many things a state or national bank cannot do. Having had experience in both the private and state banking, I can see a good many reasons why the private banks should be compelled to organize either under a state or national charter, and I hope that will soon be brought to pass in Illinois."

LENN PUBLISHING COMPANY of Philadelphia, has published "The Young Farmer," the work of George B. Hill.

ABOUT three years ago," say the publishers, "one of us heard a professor of the University of Illinois tell the story of an Illinois boy, who with the aid of some friends and a little technical education solved a hard farm problem and made good. This real incident is the basis of the story of Mr. Hill's book. He is himself a graduate of the agricultural department of the University of Wisconsin, and knows a good deal, therefore, about farms in the middle west and the boys on them."

HERE is a book which any bank might buy in quantity and make a big hit by judicious distribution to the young man farmer. It would prove a mighty help toward better farming.

MURKIN, KY., may now boast of having the only Bank on wheels in the world, so far as we know. The business of the Bank of Murkin is now being transacted in a six by twelve foot house on wheels that resembles much a traveling lunch stand. It sits in front of the burned bank building on the corner of Sixth and Adams streets, and C. H. Ellis, cashier, lets one customer in the "bank" at a time.

GARDINER, cashier of The Valley Center (Kas.) State Bank, is proud of a surplus and to his capital, and of deposits ten times as much. Sound banking has done this.

ANCHETT, the bond man, sees in immunity from income tax, a strong future for municipal bonds.

WE quote from a Treasury Department circular, just received, the following paragraph:

"Please inform all parties interested, giving information wide publicity, that the income tax is not levied from the interest upon the obligations of a state, county, city or any other political subdivision thereof, and upon the obligations of the United States or its possessions, is not subject to the income tax, and a certificate of ownership in connection with the coupons or registered interest orders for such interest will not be required."

W. G. EDENS is putting in some licks on a speech he is to deliver up at Traverse City, Mich., next spring. It was just outside of Traverse City that the good roads and good farming champion started in life as a farm hand. This is why he knows the other end of the story.

LEON F. TITUS is wise to the circumstance and among other points on the sight seeing trip, he plans to run Mr. Edens out to the "old farm."

THE organization in which Mr. Titus is active is the Northwest Michigan Bankers Club, of which he is vice-president, and A. Butters of Charlevoix is president.

IF you believe that the true solution of our banking and currency problem lies in a people's bank—the stock to be owned by the public, under control of a resident board of presidential appointees for life—why not say so to Washington? —John Harsen Rhoades.

EIGHTEEN Ohio bank examiners have been holding a conference to adopt a uniform system of examination for state banks and trust companies.

THEY expect wholesale conversions to state banks by private banks which do not like the new private bank law and by nationals which may not like the promised new regional law.

SECRETARY McADOO has issued a statement declaring that banks throughout the country reported to be restricting credits in order to meet the provisions of the expected currency law, are making a mistake.

HE announced that the resources of the treasury will be at the disposal of the banks to aid them in complying with the law when it is put on the statute books.

A WRITER in the Century says that "in accounting for yellow journalism, no one seems to have noticed that the saffron newspapers are aimed at a sub-American mind groping its way out of a fog. The scare-heads, red and green ink, pictures, words of one syllable, gong effects and appeal to the primitive emotions, are apt to jar upon the home-bred farmer or mechanic."

MOST everybody who wants a central bank on the square says it ought to be located in Chicago "where Wall street influences" never could touch it.

THOSE who only yell "central bank" to confuse the issue in congress pretend to want it in Washington, at the other end of the underground tunnel.

IN mechanics they have perfected the "noiseless blower." In the ordinary walks of life he continues to make considerable noise.

I'VE just discovered," writes mutual friend Crabtree, "that Moline Knight is an automobile. I thought all the time they meant Nelson Greene."

WE have been "curious to know," writes a correspondent as to what the triple initials of the old editor of the New St. Louis Banker stand for?

THAT'S easy. Rinaman says they stand for Industry, Virtue and Ability. The editor, being modest, writes it simply I. V. A. Wait.

THE new paper succeeds the Commerce Monthly, a costly experiment in house organing. Under Mr. Wait the new publication will be sound and clean.

FIRST NATIONAL, Minneapolis, soon will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary as a national. It began, in the day of small things, in 1857, as a private bank, and was for a time a state bank.

IT has grown amazingly, even for the Northwest. A fine monumental building erected in 1906 has been outgrown and a sky-scraper is contemplated.

MINNEAPOLIS TRUST, an affiliated organization, has had growing pains and is calling for more room.

MESSRS. Prince, Jaffray, Crane, Orde, Mackarcher, Willoughby, Lyon, Leeman and Byam constitute a general staff which might be called an "all star" combination. Not a dead one on the list.

JOSEPH CHAPMAN still is chairman of the Board of Charities and Corrections up in his town. He didn't retire from that one job at least. They wouldn't let him.

HANNIBAL, MO., has had a modified Hetch Hetchy problem on its hands, but the solution was reached by a committee of bankers headed by Jas. P. Hinton.

A BOND loan has been negotiated and the Hannibal water works taken over by the city. Total expenses to the city, $257, of which $200 was attorney's fees.

THIS is a splendid tip on how a commission government could do things in Hannibal. We suggest that Mr. Hinton and his fellow bankers be given an opportunity to demonstrate further.

ALABAMA heads the list in convention dates. Her 22nd annual will be held at Decatur May 12, 13 and 14, headquarters at Hotel Lyon. McLane Tilton at Pell City is secretary.

THE new secretary of state for Illinois has saved $15,000 by sending out the 93,000 automobile license plates by parcel post. His predecessor for some reason "stuck by" the express companies.

BIG packing companies, selling meat to dealers at 25 per cent less price than one year ago have been obliged to tell the public that the retailers have absorbed the reduction to the injury of the consumer.

MAUSOLEUM

The above is one of our classic four column front mausoleums. We have erected many hundreds of mausoleums, ranging in price from $2,000 to $100,000. The private mausoleum is the least heartrending method of caring for the deceased.

TWO large importing firms in New York have absorbed sixty per cent of the tariff reduction on goods handled by them and allowed forty per cent of it to the retailer as an extra discount. No change in retail prices in either case.

THUS it comes about that the consumer is the victim of the retailer's cupidity and of the importer's dishonesty. What's the next move?

UNITED SAVINGS BANK, will be the name of the enlarged Detroit United Bank after January 1. A stock dividend of $125,000 will be declared and the new capital will be half a million, or just twice its present size.

IN ten years the United, in spite of its awkward title, has grown to be a five million dollar bank. A great future is predicted.

HENRY M. ZIMMERMAN, former banking commissioner for the state, is the active vice-president. The bank was started by Frank B. Leland, and Ex-governor Fred. M. Warner has been a vice-president for several years.

THE State Bankers Association of Oklahoma, organized last spring, and not alone with the O. B. A., met in Oklahoma City Tuesday of this week. The guaranty law was the chief topic.

ATLANTA did not get the 1914 bankers convention, but it will surprise everyone if it isn't named as one of the regional reserve banks.

HER bank clearings have increased 40 per cent a year for ten years and this as a gauge of her business growth is infallible.

THAT Atlanta is a "center" cannot be denied. Having Col. Robert Lowry and John K. Ottley, makes her metropolitan. She should have a regional bank.

WE learn that the Investment Bankers Association furnished the argument which preceded most of the favorable treasury announcements on the income tax law. Quite a feather!

YES, and it was Breckenridge Jones, of St. Louis, who told the U. S. Senate that Missouri bankers could not go into the regional reserve system if double liability remained a feature. The senate fixed it at once.

THE bond talk made by our own S. W. Straus at Cleveland before the Real Estate Board is regarded by financiers as a complete reply to charges made by James J. Hill in Chicago before the Investment Bankers Association.

H. P. TAYLOR & CO., Pittsburgh, "There would not at present be any business uncertainty or recession if it were not for the selfish and unwarranted interference of certain powerful interests in Wall street. These interests are making use of their control over great corporations to create unfavorable sentiment and check certain great industries in the hope that by this means they may frighten timid legislators and hamper the administration at Washington in its efforts to enact a currency bill that will free the business of the country from Wall street domination."

ARKANSAS SUPREME COURT has sustained the validity of the "blue sky" act, passed by the last legislature, and held that the law applies to building and loan associations, bond and insurance corporations.

THE UNION NATIONAL BANK of Louisville has introduced an innovation by the installation of a large bronze box in the lobby of the bank, the purpose of which is to receive suggestions on improvements in the service of the institution.

CANAL BANK & TRUST, New Orleans, the result of mergers, now has $22,000,000 in resources. Canal-Louisiana and the German-American National formed the union.

THE Farnsworth bulletin—"On to Richmond"—was re-printed without credit in most of the banking papers. Some secretaries would cut them off the free list.

LEO E. STEVENS has a collection of antiques, but he isn't one. Growth of Century Savings shows that.

F. A. VANDERLIP is nursing his "fiat money" black eye at Hotel Maryland, Pasadena.

PHILADELPHIA has heard that she is not to get a regional bank. That would be rank discrimination.

GIRARD NATIONAL and Fourth National have started a movement to see that that leading center gets fair play.

PRESIDENT SHANBACKER of the Fourth shows that Pennsylvania has one-tenth of all banking resources in the country and that Philadelphia alone has much more than a billion.

R. B. Renwick has severed his connection with the Commercial Savings, Fenton, Mich., to become assistant auditor of the Willys-Overland Motor Company of Toledo.

COMPREHENSIVE SYSTEM OF RAPID TRANSIT SUBWAYS FOR PASSENGER TRANSPORTATION IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO.

Chicago, Illinois, November 15, 1913.
Sealed proposals will be received by the Committee on Local Transportation of the City Council of the City of Chicago and the Harbor and Subway Commission of the City of Chicago, until twelve o'clock noon, January 5th, 1914, at the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, number 139 North Clark street, Chicago, Illinois, for the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of rapid transit subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago, according to the terms, conditions and provisions of an ordinance entitled "An ordinance in relation to the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago," passed by the City Council of said City of Chicago, November 3, 1913, and in accordance with the general plans and specifications for said subway now on file in the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, and signed by the commissioners of said Harbor and Subway Commission, showing the proposed routes of the subway and the general form and method of construction, the number and location of the proposed tracks and approaches, and the alignment and grade and the number and general style and method of construction of the stations, and in accordance with detail plans and specifications for said subway to be hereafter prepared by said Harbor and Subway Commission, unless otherwise directed by said City Council, and in accordance with the general equipment plans and specifications now on file in the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission and signed by the commissioners of said Harbor and Subway Commission.

Proposals must be in the form prescribed by said Committee on Local Transportation and said Harbor and Subway Commission, copies of which may be obtained at the aforesaid office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, and be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to said Local Transportation Committee and said Harbor and Subway Commission, and endorsed "Proposal for the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago," and be delivered at said office of said Harbor and Subway Commission.

Each party making a proposal shall, concurrently with the delivery of such proposal, deposit with the City Treasurer of the City of Chicago the sum of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) in cash, or the party making such proposal may, in lieu of such cash deposit, or any part thereof deposit with said City Treasurer securities which shall be worth not less than One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) or such part thereof as is not so deposited in cash. If securities be deposited in lieu of cash, they shall be securities of which a schedule entitled "Schedule of securities to be deposited in connection with the proposal of (here insert name of bidder) for a comprehensive system of passenger subways," shall have been previously submitted to and approved by the Mayor and the City Comptroller of the City of Chicago.

The said City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

A deposit of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) will be required of each bidder to insure the safe return of the plans and specifications by such bidder.

Touches upon proposed banking and financial legislation by congress

WASHINGTON LETTER

By R. A. ALBERTSEN

Relates to administrative and department matters interesting to our readers

Senator Swanson in the course of the debate on the currency bill in the upper house this week, declared that powerful interests in New York were responsible for the panic of 1907. He said in part:

"The banks in New York, which hold more than two-thirds of these reserves or deposits, have never considered that they were put there to be used in time of danger or distress for the public good, but have considered that they were put there to be used for their own profit and selfish purposes. The banks in New York are dominated by the large financiers and speculators of this country, and these reserves have been used for their enrichment and not for public good. By this great concentration of reserves here the few financiers who control these banks in New York have been able to precipitate panics and produce depression and financial disturbance whenever their selfish interest dictated.

"The panic of 1907 has taught this nation a lesson which it will never forget. It proved beyond dispute that the banks and financiers of New York felt no public responsibility for the bank reserves under their control. The panic of 1907 was precipitated by wild stock speculations in the city of New York, engineered by the financiers there who control the great banks. Everything was adroitly and spectacularly arranged for a great rise and boom in stocks in order to unload and sell them to the public."

Compares Measure With Hitchcock's

Senator Nelson of Minnesota made an extensive analysis of the provisions of the administration bill, comparing them with those of the measure introduced by Senator Hitchcock. In discussing the note issue section he said:

The Hitchcock bill provides that Federal reserve notes shall be issued under authority of the Federal Reserve Board for the purpose of making advances to Federal reserve banks. The notes are to be the obligations of the United States and shall be receivable for all taxes, customs and other public dues, but shall not be held as reserves by member banks or Federal reserve banks; that they shall be redeemable in gold on demand at the Treasury of the United States, or at any Federal reserve bank. These notes are to be issued upon the application of Federal reserve banks, accompanied with a tender to the local Federal reserve agent of collateral security consisting of commercial paper that may be discounted in amount to the reserve notes applied for.

The Federal reserve bank may issue and circulate such notes either upon a reserve of coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates in amount to the face value of the notes issued and outstanding, or the bank may, at its option upon a gold reserve of 45 per cent of the deposit of collateral security consisting of such notes and bills as may be discounted under the provisions of this act, or revenue notes of the United States, or both, equal at their face value, to the face value of the outstanding reserve notes, or, to put the matter more briefly, reserve notes may be issued par for par in gold, or may be issued for a par of commercial paper backed by a reserve of 45 per cent in gold. Such gold reserves may, in emergencies, be reduced from 45 per cent to 30 per cent, but in case of such reduction the reduction is subject to a special tax regulated in proportion to the deficiency of the reserve. Such tax is to be at the rate of 1 per cent per annum upon every 2½ per cent of reduction, or fraction thereof, that the reserve falls below 45 per cent. In the particulars to which I have referred the Glass bill differs from both the Hitchcock and Owen bills in allowing the reserve notes to be redeemed in gold, or lawful money, instead of gold alone."

Republicans to Vote for Bill

It is expected that when the final vote comes many of the republican senators who are so bitterly opposed to the pending banking and currency bill will line up for the measure.

Chairman Glass of the House committee says that the country is anxiously awaiting the enactment of the bill into law.

"I find that the business men of the country are demanding that the currency bill be enacted into law just as soon as possible," he said. "They are very impatient at the long delay in passing this bill. In fact my experience on recent trips to the West has been that the business interests would even prefer a bad bill than no bill at all.

"I think the Senate has at last awakened to the necessity of putting the bill through as quickly as it can. I regard it to be the imperative duty of the House as soon as the bill has passed the Senate and is returned to us to send it to conference immediately and lose not a single moment in getting it ready for the President's signature. Heretofore, we have not had to resort to a rule in the House to hurry the bill along, and I am hopeful that we will not have to do so in the future.

"For one, I am willing to sit during the Christmas holidays all day and all night if necessary to prepare the conference report for adoption by both houses. I think a majority of the members of the House feel the same way about it."

Shape Trust Program

At a conference held at the White House Wednesday, between the President and six Democratic representatives, the attitude of the administration as regards the proposed trust regulation became fairly well defined. The Democratic representatives are members of the House judiciary committee, which is to undertake the preparation of the administration measures.

The measures to be advanced for action at this session will aim at the following results:

Definition of the various forms of monopoly and restraint of trade which would be "conclusively deemed" unreasonable and in violation of law.

Placing upon the defendant the burden of proof to show that there is no "unreasonable" restraint of trade.

Prohibition of interlocking directorates between large corporations.

Establishment of an interstate trade commission to exercise regulatory powers, make original investigations and aid the courts in carrying out decrees of dissolution of trusts.

The details of legislation were not worked out at the White House conference, nor was a complete understanding reached as to the number of bills that will be pressed for action at the present session.

The President made it clear, however, that he favors legislation along the general lines of the Lenroot-La Follette bill, which has been before Congress since last June, and which was designed to clear up the "twilight zone" of corporation activities.

This measure was the subject of much of the discussion, and members of the committee will take up its provisions for further consideration. It would define by law nearly a dozen forms of contracts, agreements, restraints, price cutting and the like, the "reasonableness" of which is now left to the courts. These would be "conclusively deemed to be unreasonable and in restraint of trade" by the new law.

The House committee will begin work at once on the preliminary draft of trust bills, but the members will seek further discussions with the President over the form of the measures before completing them for submission to the House.

The President emphasized in the conference today the need of legal bounds for business activity that will place the smaller business man upon an equality with the larger and that will give to the business world in general a clear legal definition of the forms of combination that are unlawful.

Wants Currency Bill Passed Soon

Marcus S. Sonntag, president of the American Trust and Savings, Evansville, and president of the Indiana Bankers Association, was in Washington last week attending the national rivers and harbors improvement convention. He gave out the following statement in which he urged the passage of a currency bill as soon as possible:

"I know that I am not making a mistake when I say that the bankers of Indiana are exceedingly anxious for the Glass-Owen currency bill to become a law. The sooner the new currency law becomes effective the better it will be for the bankers and their patrons. The delay of the Senate in passing the bill necessarily causes an unsatisfactory and unsettled condition in the business circles of Indiana and other states. My hope is that the currency bill will pass before the holidays."

PURCHASE BANK CONTROL

Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 11.—Andrew Russel and M. F. Dunlap have purchased the controlling interest in the Jacksonville National bank. The deal was effective today. Andrew Russel will act as cashier. These men now control three of the six banks in Jacksonville.

FRISCO SYNDICATE SUED

Suit has been instituted by William Nile of New York, against B. F. Yoakum, former chairman of the board of the St. Louis and San Francisco; James Campbell, former vice president of the road; Thomas H. West, chairman of the board, St. Louis Union Trust and W. K. Bixby, now receiver for the Wash. bash. Niles asks that restitution be made to the road of individual profits amounting to $3,975,000, alleged to have been made from the promotion and sale of feeder lines to the Frisco line.

The resignation of Mr. West as receiver was accepted and the personnel of the receivership was separated from the directorate and officership of the road when W. C. Nixon and W. I. Biddle, receivers, resigned as president and vice-president, and also directors. Mr. West was succeeded by James W. Lusk, a retired banker of St. Paul.

EDWARD O. RICE PROMOTED

St. Paul, Dec. 9.—Edward O. Rice, formerly of the Commercial National of Chicago and in charge of the credit department of the First National of this city, was elected vice president of the latter today to succeed W. A. Miller. Otto Nelson, assistant, was selected to succeed F. A. Nienhauser as cashier of the J. J. Hill institution. The retiring officials will organize a new bank.

NORTHWEST STATE PROSPEROUS

Northwest State Bank, Chicago, has declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable January 2, 1914, to stockholders of record December 24, 1913. Thirty thousand dollars have been transferred from the undivided profits to the surplus account.

CHICAGO VISITORS

PRIVATE BANK CONVERTS

A permit has been issued by the state auditor to Andrew J. Keiser, Emil C. H. Nieneyer et al. for the organization of the Mt. Olive (Ill.) State Bank as successor to the Mt. Olive Bank, a private institution. Capitalization will be $25,000.

The New Banking and Currency Bill

The new banking and currency bill known as the Federal Reserve Act, now under consideration in Congress, is of vital interest to every banker.

It is necessarily technical in its nature and therefore hard to understand.

We have prepared a Digest of the bill, concise, compact, and so arranged as to enable the busy man to grasp its essential features in a few minutes. A copy of this Digest will be sent to anyone on request.

PLAN STATE CONVENTION

The council of administration of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association met last week in the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, to formulate plans for the work of 1914. It was decided to hold the next year's convention at Bedford Springs in June. The conference was attended by twenty bankers, including Montgomery Evans, president, and D. S. Kloss, secretary. Following the death of R. E. James, L. T. McFadden was elected to succeed him on the committee of agricultural development of the association.

NORTH DAKOTA BANK CLOSED

State Bank Examiner S. G. Severtson of North Dakota has taken charge of the First State at Lankin, after refusing to accept about $2,000 in paper as negotiable. Incident to the action, Cashier H. N. Johnson resigned, effective immediately. That the depositors will lose nothing is the belief of the state banking officials. The bank is capitalized at $10,000 and has deposits of $120,000. Reorganization probably will be effected. The institution was ordered closed.

GEORGE H. PRINCE, SR., DEAD

George H. Prince, chairman of the board of directors Merchants National, St. Paul, and Frank M. Prince, president of the First National of Minneapolis, lost the race against death when a telegram was received in St. Paul that their father, George H. Prince, had died Wednesday morning at Amherst, Mass. The two brothers left St. Paul Tuesday night upon hearing of their father's illness. He is survived by four children, three of whom are officers in banks in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Milwaukee.

COMPLAIN AGAINST COMPETITION OF BANKS

Chicago real estate brokers are complaining against the activities of certain banks, who, they charge, are conducting a real estate brokerage business in violation of the purposes of their charters.

The state auditor was asked to notify the lenders that such acts are "ultra vires." The auditor, however, has declined to do this, and it is planned to institute "quo warranto" proceedings against the banks through the attorney-general's office.

PLAN CAPITAL INCREASE

Directors of the South Chicago Savings will recommend to the stockholders an increase in the capital stock of 50 per cent. Present capital is $200,000 and surplus $100,000. Undivided profits at the time of the last statement were $43,000.

The stockholders will be asked to yield 25 per cent of their rights to the new stock. This 25 per cent will be sold at 200 to persons desiring to become shareholders. The proceeds of the sale will be credited to the stockholder who waives his rights, so that the cost of the stock retained by him will be approximately $64.87 per share. The bank is paying dividends of 8 per cent regular and 2 per cent extra. It is thought this rate will be maintained.

The institution has in deposits $2,687,104.

SAYS WORLD HAS BEEN ON A DEBAUCH

Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., says that the world has been on a financial and commercial debauch, but that the United States, having more resources than European countries, will be the first to recover.

HULBERT ON THE BUSINESS SITUATION

E. D. Hulbert, vice-president of the Merchants Loan and Trust, looks for comparative dullness for the present with constantly increasing money rates. Mr. Hulbert says that liquidation has been general, not only in securities, but in everything for which there has been any kind of a market.

Continuing along the same lines, he said: "Considering the liquidation there should be no financial jolts between now and the first of the year. Everybody is doing a close business. There is no excess production. Merchants and manufacturers are doing a from-day-to-day business. Consumption is right up with production. In such a state of affairs there can be no serious casualties. When we shall have adjusted ourselves to the new tariff a betterment in general trade is altogether likely."

WINNERS OF FARM PRIZES VISIT CHICAGO

A group of boys and girls from farms in Utah, Iowa and Nebraska, who have won prizes in boys' corn clubs and girls' domestic science clubs, were guests this week of the Hawkeye Fellowship Club at its weekly dinner at the Auditorium. They are being taken to Washington, D. C., for showing what can be done through scientific cultivation of certain crops and excellency in housekeeping pursuits.

HARRIS TRUST DIVIDEND

Directors of the Harris Trust and Savings have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, and an extra dividend of 4 per cent, payable January 2 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 18.

FIND DANGER IN CURRENCY BILL

Philadelphia banking circles were much agitated last week over the discovery of a hitherto overlooked passage in the new currency bill pending in the Senate which apparently will bar all loans by national banks to trust companies or state banks, if allowed to stand. The clause to which exception is taken is part of Section 20 of the Senate currency bill, and reads as follows: "No member bank shall extend, directly or indirectly, the benefits of this system to a non-member bank, except upon written permission of the Federal Reserve Board, under penalty of suspension." The interpretation placed upon this paragraph by Philadelphia bankers was that it would prevent a bank which became a member of the new federal reserve associations provided by the bill from making loans to any banking institutions which remained outside the associations. Francis B. Reeves, president of the Girard National and president of the Philadelphia Clearing House, expressed surprise when this provision of the proposed law was called to his attention. He said: "I had not noticed that clause of the bill. Certainly, if it means what it says, it will work a revolution in present banking methods. However, we are not expecting much else from that bill."

MADE PRESIDENT ELMIRA BANK

The board of directors of the Second National, Elmira, N. Y., have elected by unanimous vote Samuel G. Hathaway Turner, as president of that institution, to succeed the late David M. Pratt. Mr. Turner long has been in touch with the affairs of the bank as an active director. He is well fitted both by temperament and training for the position to which he succeeds.

PROCEEDINGS BOOK A POCKET EDITION

Secretary W. J. Henry has issued the twentieth annual convention proceedings book for the New York Bankers Association in pocket form. The meeting held at Ottawa, Can., on June 12, was a notable one in many respects. It was held on a foreign soil for one thing, a decided novelty. On motion of Jas. G. Cannon, of New York, greetings on 100 years of peace were sent to King George V. at London. Addresses of welcome were made by leading Canadians. The program was one of the strongest of the year.

KANSAS GROUP MEETING AT CONCORDIA

One of the biggest meetings in the history of Group Four, Kansas Bankers Association, recently was held in Concordia. All the business meetings were held at the Brown Grand theatre. Chairman F. J. Atwood presided. Among the speakers were Ex-Governor W. J. Bailey of Atchison; Prof. J. H. Miller, dean of state agricultural college; Charles M. Sawyer, state bank commissioner; Fred D. Pierce, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Jerome Thralls, manager of the Kansas City Clearing House.

PROSPECT FOR EARLY PASSAGE OF BILL

There is an excellent prospect that the currency bill will have become a part of the law of the land before Christmas. Sessions are being held daily in the Senate till 11 p. m.

A number of important changes have been made in the original draft of the bill. The bill has been strengthened materially by putting the responsibility on the Federal Reserve Board, which must determine the number of national banks as between eight and twelve, and also will have power to determine or continue national banks which at the expiration of one year have not come into the system.

The agreement to cut the Federal reserve requirements in reserve cities like Boston and Philadelphia from 18 per cent to 15 per cent saves sixty million dollars in reserve transfers from the 315 reserve banks in forty-seven reserve cities.

Many more changes will probably be made in the bill which has already been amended in some to the extent of 60 per cent since it came from the House of Representatives.

The changes have been so rapid of late since the caucus method began that bankers generally have been unable to follow them.

Sooner were the two bills reported and passed from the Senate Banking and Currency Committee than the Democratic caucus took up the Owen bill and rewrote Section 19 relating to bank reserves and also provisions relating to present bank notes in circulation and bonds behind them.

Secretary McAdoo, who is co-operating in the matter, has privately expressed his intention to hold back the funds of the National Government in order that he may apply them to assist the present national banking system in making transfers of reserves to new reserve banks without financial or business disturbance. This is most important.

Frank E. Davis, former sheriff of Alexander County, has about completed arrangements to open a private bank in Cairo the first of the

NEW ORLEANS MERGER

The German-American National, German-American Savings Bank and Trust, and the Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust, New Orleans, La., have consolidated into the Canal Bank and Trust Company, and will occupy the offices in the new building at Gravier and Camp streets. W. R. Irby, at present head of the German-American National, will be president of the new concern and Charles Janvier, now president of the Canal-Louisiana Bank will be vice-president of the Canal Bank and Trust Company. This merger is the third within four weeks in New Orleans. The first was the absorption of the Third District Savings, Banking and Trust Company, of which Henry L. Frantz is president, by the Whitney-Central National. The second is that of the Exchange Bank with John Legier, Jr., as president, consolidated with the City Bank and Trust Company. Mr. Legier is president and F. Breckenridge Provost is chairman of the board of directors.

LARGE GAIN IN CLEARINGS

A gain of nearly $2,000,000 is shown in the bank clearings of Atlanta, Ga., for the week ending December 6, over the corresponding week of last year, and a gain also of more than half a million dollars is shown for the clearings of a single day, December 6, over the same day last year. The bank clearings for last week amounted to $20,150,918.34 and for the same week of 1912 to $18,193,279.62, an increase for this year of $1,957,638.72.

WANT LOUISVILLE MADE RESERVE CITY

Effort is being made to have one of the proposed regional banks under the Owen-Glass bill located in Louisville. Persons in Birmingham, Montgomery and other southern cities, believe that Louisville would be the most appropriate reserve center for their section of the country.

BANKERS BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMED

The National Bank and Trust Company Basketball League of Philadelphia has been finally organized by the election of the following officers: President, Henry L. Robins, president of the Real Estate Title and Trust; vice-president, H. H. Cowley, Fourth Street National; secretary-treasurer, Wm. A. Long, Fourth Street National. The teams in the league represent the following banking institutions: West End Trust, Union National, Philadelphia National, Fourth Street National, Southwark National and the Real Estate Title and Trust.

RIGHT OF CITY TO TAX NATIONAL BANK STOCK

The United States supreme court has upheld the right of the tax commissioners of New York to tax national bank stock on a parity with state bank, savings bank and trust company stock. The litigation has been under way since 1908, when the Amoskeag Savings of Manchester, N. H., as the owner stock in the American Exchange and Chemical National Banks of New York, appealed from the action of the tax commissioners of New York City on the ground that the state law conflicted with the federal statute.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

E. E. Crabtree, vice-president of the bank of F. G. Farrell and Company of Jacksonville, member of the executive council of the American Bankers Association and a former president of the Illinois Bankers Association, writes as follows about banking and business conditions in Jacksonville and Morgan county:

"Morgan county farmers have been disappointed in the crop yield this year except in wheat, which was a good yield. Oats were a failure and corn is shucking out a third to a half less than estimated with quality only fair, occasioned, of course, by the long summer drought, but the farmers are happy as to the price received. Feeders are paying from 70c to 75c per bushel in the crib, which, of course, is a good price. It is predicted that corn in this locality will go higher. There are lots of young hogs being marketed on account of the scarcity and high price of corn, which, of course, is detrimental to the farmers.

"Money conditions are better with us than they were six months ago. Our banks are all in good shape, with a fairly active demand. Not much real estate is changing hands. Merchants seem to be doing a fair business and our factories are running to the limit.

"Jacksonville is a well-known educational center. Our schools have a larger attendance than ever before and consequently the authorities are happy. Jacksonville's growth is demonstrated by the need of an additional high school building and one is now being erected.

"Our Chamber of Commerce has promoted a 'Made in Jacksonville Show,' and during the same week the 'Farmers Institute' and a successful 'Poultry Show' will be conducted."

J. A. Corbett Leaves Citizens of Decatur

One of the most important banking changes of the first of the year in Illinois is the announcement that J. A. Corbett, president and director of the Citizens National of Decatur and president of the Citizens Title and Trust Company of that city, will resign the presidency of the large Decatur institution to become personally associated with William B. McKinley, the well-known financier and traction magnate, in a confidential position as financial adviser. There have been persistent rumors in Illinois financial circles for several months to the effect that Mr. Corbett was soon to become associated with Mr. McKinley. Mr. Corbett will not become identified with the Illinois Traction System, of which Mr. McKinley is the president, but will be associated with the latter in a personal capacity.

A. M. Kenney, president of the Bank of Broadlands, a village in the southern part of Champaign county, has purchased a block of stock in the Citizens National of Decatur and will be elected president and director January 1st. Mr. Kenney is a man of wide experience and has made a distinct success in the banking business. Mr. Corbett has been prominently identified with the business and social life of Decatur for about ten years and, besides being a busy banker, has served for the past two years as president of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce. He is regarded as a large man in every respect and has done much to advance the interests of Decatur. He has taken great interest in the erection of the magnificent banking and office building owned by the Citizens Title and Trust Company and occupied by the Citizens National Bank on the ground floor. Before going to Decatur Mr. Corbett was a village banker in Philo, also in southern Champaign county, near the home of Mr. Kenney, so that that region has sent two able bankers from country banks into city banks. Mr. Corbett has served on the executive council of the Illinois Bankers Association, has attended many state and group conventions and is widely known in Illinois financial circles. He will make a most valuable addition to Mr. McKinley's staff of strong men and will take prominent part in the management of Mr. McKinley's colossal business affairs. Mr. Corbett's many friends unite in congratulations.

Elgin Banks Soon in New Home

The new banking rooms of the First National of Elgin and the Elgin City Banking Company, affiliated institutions, are rapidly nearing completion. The new quarters have attracted attention from the banking public for a number of months and the bankers of the state unite in congratulating these two banks of Elgin upon their magnificent new quarters. There are few banks in the state which will have more up-to-date and modern equipped rooms than the First National of Elgin and the Elgin City Banking Company. The safety deposit vaults will be in the basement and all the vaults will be as massive and secure as money can purchase. Rooms are provided on the mezzanine floor for directors and there are also small assembly rooms for the convenience of the public and for gatherings where a down-town room is desirable. The new building stands in the heart of the business district of Elgin and is in keeping with the growing business demands of one of the best cities of northern Illinois.

Elgin Banks Conduct Corn Show

The First National of Elgin and the Elgin City Banking Company will conduct a corn exhibit and contest December 15th in their beautiful new banking room which is now almost completed. George W. Glos, cashier of the Elgin City Banking Company, announces that a large number of farmers from the Elgin territory will be in attendance and if the contest proves successful, as is entirely without doubt, the show will be made an annual affair. The banks are offering to eight winners in this corn contest, the expenses, amounting to about $25 each, of attending the two weeks sort course in agriculture at the University of Illinois in January.

Mr. Glos, in outlining the corn contest, speaks as follows: "Our object is to interest farmers in this vicinity in better seed corn, larger production and in the advantages of scientific farming over the old methods which have been in vogue so many years. It will take a campaign of education, and as we now have a soil expert working in Kane county, we feel it any interest that we can arouse to the advantage of the farmers will be to the interest of the entire community. We have engaged Mr. Webb, of Lockport, to be here to judge of corn and we expect a large number of farmers to be in attendance. If this proves successful we may make an annual event of this affair. Corn in this district was greatly injured in the spring by a tornado which passed over this section and the yield is not up to the usual standard and grade that it has been in previous years. Therefore, the show-off at our contest will not be so good as it would have been under ordinary circumstances."

Illinois Notes

The Coles County Bankers Federation held their regular meeting Tuesday, December 2nd, at Charleston with representatives present from most of the banks of the county.

George Burroughs has been elected a director in the Woodford County National of Elgin to succeed Joseph Baker, deceased.

Frank L. Smith, president of the First National of Dwight, has been named vice-president of the Woodman Social Club of Illinois. This club is composed of members of the Modest Woodmen of America and is organized for social purposes only. A banquet will be held in Chicago January 12th, when covers will be laid for one thousand guests, and at which many of the prominent Woodmen of the state will be speakers.

Illinois bankers have been watching the soaring state tax rate with wide interest. The state tax rate for the next valuation will be seventy cents on the $100 of taxable property. This is thirty-two cents higher than for last year and is highest state tax rate on record.

The Merchants State of Centralia has authorized an increase in its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000 and the institution will begin business on the new capitalization January 1st.

John Stewart, multimillionaire of Elburn, has donated $50,000 to the Lincoln Highway Association, a highway memorial to Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Stewart desires each of his grandchildren to be a millionaire before his death and wishes himself to die poor. He is now touring Europe and has reached the advanced age of eighty-eight years. He wishes a marker at each end of the strip which his money will build in the Lincoln Highway as a memorial to himself.

Fred Dorman, president of the State Bank of Freeport, was recently held up by a highwayman and was robbed of $20 and his watch. He was warned that if he spoke of the incident before morning that he would be killed, but he nevertheless notified the police at once. No traces of the robber have been found and so far Mr. Dorman has not been murdered as was threatened.

Walter D. Strawn, banker and financier of Ottawa, died a few days ago at his home in that city. He was taken ill on a train while enroute home from Chicago. He was sixty-three years of age and had been interested in various financial matters in LaSalle and Livingston counties for many years, taking a prominent part in county fair work and in farmers' institutes. The town of Strawn, in Livingston county, was named for his father.

J. D. Phillips, president of the Green Valley Bank and last year president of the Illinois Bankers Association, showed some fine hogs at the recent International Stock Show in Chicago. Among other bankers in the state showing stock were J. W. Crabb, president of the Tazewell County National of Delavan and A. W. Bragg, president of Bragg, Helm and Company of Tuscola.

PHILADELPHIA CHAPTER

The Philadelphia Chapter of the American Institute of Banking listened to an interesting address on Friday evening, December 5th, by B. Gordon Bromley, Esq., on "The New Federal Income Tax." Mr. Bromley pointed out that the section of the Tariff Bill relating to the income tax was framed to meet an expected deficit occasioned by the new tariff regulations, and he expressed the opinion that it was so drawn that it would be a practical impossibility to evade it. The subject of the single tax was interestingly presented by James H. Dix, who used numerous concrete examples to give force to his remarks. The discussion which followed each address was an evidence of the deep interest the men of this chapter are taking in the live subjects of the day.

The membership committee feels encouraged at the influx of new members thus far, but there is still plenty of room for more. To date ninety-five names have been added to our roll.

Philadelphia Chapter has joined the American Bankers' Association. While the Chapter was a part of the American Institute of Banking, which was a section of the American Bankers' Association, our only representation was through the president of the Institute, who is a member of the executive council. Through the chapter's membership in the association, we are entitled to send a delegate to the national convention, thus securing actual representation by this chapter in the deliberations of the association.

The first public debate this season will be held Thursday evening, December 18th, between Philadelphia Chapter and the Lyceum League of America. The subject will be: "Resolved, That all corporations engaging in interstate commerce should be required to take out a federal charter, providing such legislation would be constitutional."

BANKER INDICTED

T. R. Sheridan, former president of the First National, of Roseburg, Ore., has been indicted by the grand jury on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. A bench warrant later was served on Sheridan, and he was released on $5,000 bail. His trial will come up during the February term of the circuit court.

MILWAUKEE

NEWS LETTER BY CHALMER B. TRAVER

WISCONSIN

The movement for perfecting county development clubs by bankers in various counties throughout the state has resulted in the organization of some of these counties during the past month.

On the evening of December 3 forty bankers of Wood county assembled at Grand Rapids and perfected the Wood County Development Association by electing as president Thomas Spalding of the American National, Marshfield; as vice president T. J. Crowley of the State Bank, Pittsville, with F. W. Ellsworth of the State Bank of Vesper as secretary and treasurer.

Very brief Constitution and by-laws were adopted and plans made for holding quarterly meetings throughout the year at various points in the county.

J. R. Wheeler, chairman of the Agricultural Committee, was in attendance at this meeting and interested the bankers by his enthusiastic talk along the line of agricultural development as benefiting banks and bankers. Ray A. Clemens, cashier of the First National, Neillsville, and a recent comer to Wisconsin, addressed the organization on the good results accomplished through such county organizations in Iowa, where he had previously been connected with similar work.

On the following evening, December 4, about twenty-five bankers of Sheboygan county and vicinity held their second meeting and completed the organization of the Bankers Development Club of Sheboygan county. A very enjoyable meeting was held and many items of local interest were freely discussed by the bankers present. It was decided to hold the meetings of this club quarterly, one session during the year being devoted particularly to social features.

The following officers were elected: E. A. Dow, Plymouth, as president; Richard Kiel of Kiel, vice president; Adolph Pfister of Sheboygan, secretary; and John Brethouwer of Oostburg, as treasurer. Nearly every banker present at this meeting decided he would distribute no more calendars after the year 1914.

The by-laws as adopted provide that annual dues of each bank run from $1.00 to $3.00, according to capital, and all officers, employees and stockholders of banks are invited to attend meetings of the club. It was also the opinion of bankers present at this meeting that a uniform size of checks and drafts should be recommended by the association, thus doing away with the innumerable checks of different sizes which are passing through the banks daily. Of the three checks, one will be known as a pocket check; the other as a customer's check and the third size for all bank drafts and certificates.

Sends Out Bulletin on "Blue Sky" Law

A bulletin of the main provisions of the new state "Blue Sky law" was mailed this week to each member of the W. B. A. by Secretary George D. Bartlett, following a conference with Banking Commissioner Kuolt. Licenses will be required of banks having in their possession, buying, selling, or acting as agent for the purchase or sale of any non-exempt securities. The commission will waive the filing of monthly reports by state or national banks of Wisconsin and will also waive the listing with it of securities owned by such banks on October 1, 1913. Neither license nor reports will be required of any bank unless dealing in securities as outlined above. The bulletin concludes with an appeal to members to assist in the protection of customers by giving as much publicity as possible to the license requirements of the law and by suggesting that all salesmen offering securities be requested to exhibit such licenses.

Take Canvass on Currency Bill

Leading bankers of the state have enlisted in the country-wide fight against the passage of the currency bill. A canvass is being made of many of the business men and as a result, the state members of Congress and especially Senator LaFollette, are being bombarded with telegrams in opposition to the bill. It is said that this canvass is one of the most thorough of any ever taken on a national question in Wisconsin.

Ex-Banker's Sentence Commuted

United States District Attorney Guy D. Goff has been notified of the commutation, by President Wilson, of the five-year sentence of Albert J. Eidsmoe, former cashier of the Cranston bank, to one year. Eidsmoe was indicted by the federal grand jury on November 4, 1911, being implicated with other bank officials in "fictitious" checks to the value of more than $1,000,000 and was apprehended after a spectacular pursuit. The commutation of the sentence was the result of a petition by Eidsmoe's friends after the men indicted with him had been acquitted.

Land Mortgage Companies Organized

Two new companies have been organized in Wisconsin to take advantage of the provision of the so-called land mortgage association act, passed by the last legislature. They are located at Marinette and Eau Claire. The purpose of the act is to provide money for farmers for long periods of time at moderate interest rates and with the installment payment privilege. Under the law such an organization may be incorporated by fifteen or more persons, with capital stock of not less than $10,000 and under the by-laws prepared by the state board of public affairs and the commissioner of banking. The funds of the association are loaned on first mortgage security and when these securities are deposited with the state treasurer the association may issue bonds to the amount of the bonds issued in this manner are sold and additional funds are thus provided. The commissioner of banking has even greater authority over these associations than over the state banks.

Wisconsin Notes

Wesley Stalheim, cashier of the First National Bank of Rice Lake, died Tuesday after a month's illness. Mr. Stalheim entered the banking business with the Whitehall State, leaving after twenty years' service to organize the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Stanley. He became cashier of the Rice Lake institution three years ago. Funeral services for D. Edgar French, Jr., cashier of the First National of West Allis, were held in Milwaukee last Friday. He died Wednesday while visiting in Stevens Point. Mr. French was a native of Milwaukee and a graduate of Yale University. He entered the banking business nine years ago.

According to the latest report of the postmaster-general there are 7,476 depositors in Wisconsin postal savings banks, the deposits aggregating $905,262.

Huben Peck, who attempted to rob the Farmers Bank of Omro last week, at the point of a revolver, has been committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh. In 1910 he was committed to the institution but released after serving six months. He is said to be a monomaniac.

Local capital has taken over control of the Sheboygan Railway & Electric company, Peter and John P. Reiss of the C. Reiss Coal company of Sheboygan, purchasing the interests of the late W. W. Gamwell of Pittsfield, Mass., W. O. Morgan, New York, and the Roeblings of New York. The property is capitalized at $1,000,000.

MR. M'HUGH'S SOUND VIEW.

Bankers who may be contemplating surrendering their national charters in preference to accepting the regulations imposed in the Glass-Owen bill will get no better advice than is given them by John McHugh, president of the First National bank of Sioux City, in an article in the current number of the CHICAGO BANKER. Mr. McHugh's advice, in short, is that all bankers do what they can to help congress frame the best possible currency bill, and then make the best of the best they can get. This enlightened view is particularly notable in being taken by a banker in a reserve city with the banking business of which the proposed federal reserve policy is bound to cause some interference.

The most effective feature of Mr. McHugh's argument, especially in its appeal to bankers, is found in a hint of the complications that must follow a rush of national bankers toward the state banking field. The first step toward retirement from the federal field is the retirement of outstanding bank notes. If one-fourth of the existing national banks should endeavor to retire their note issues by depositing cash in Washington for their redemption it would mean withdrawal from circulation for an indefinite period of some $200,000,000, a condition in itself likely to cause more interference with credits than the shifting of reserves contemplated in the Glass-Owen bill.

While not approving all provisions of the new currency bill, Mr. McHugh is not unwilling to admit the possibility he may be mistaken in some of his objections. He points out that most bankers were bitterly opposed to the postal savings bank system, and that none of the evils feared in connection therewith have actually developed. At any rate, he is wise in concluding there is to be an experiment with a new banking and currency law, and in advising bankers so to adjust their attitude that their suggestions will carry weight in case need for amendment is demonstrated during the early days of the experiment.—Sioux City (Iowa) Journal.

SEES GOOD IN CURRENCY MEASURE

Robert F. Maddox, vice-president of the American National of Atlanta, Ga., is of the opinion that prospects for the enactment of an efficient currency measure are good.

"In my judgment the pending bill has been improved by the elimination of the savings bank feature and by a more gradual rearrangement of deposits as well as by eliminating the national bank notes from reserves," said Mr. Maddox. "As a result the prospects are for a much superior measure. I understand that country banks will be allowed to make a moderate charge for the collection of checks. In view of the fact that 60 per cent of the national banks are really small banks, with $100,000 capital or under, this means a great deal in support of the new bill throughout the banking community."

HARRIS TRUST GETS TENNESSEE ISSUES

The city of Memphis has sold $500,000 levee 5 per cent bonds and $315,000 6 per cent street improvement bonds as a whole for a premium of $20,852 to the Harris Trust & Savings bank of Chicago. The levee bonds are dated Dec. 1, 1913, and run forty years without prior right of redemption. The street improvement bonds are dated Oct. 1, 1913, and are payable in five equal annual installments.

RAILROAD RAISES WAGES

Officials of the C. & A. have concluded negotiations with a committee of men employed in the shops at Bloomington, whereby the latter will receive a wage increase amounting to about $30,000 a year. About 1,200 men will be affected by the increase.

COUNTRY BANKS BORROWERS

One reason for the firmness in local money is said by local bankers to be due to the fact that country banks are rather heavy borrowers from their reserve correspondents.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

Bank clearings continued quite large during the past week. The demand for money was fair and nearly all of the loans were made at 6 per cent. New York exchange was in light offerings, with the demand moderate.

Banks to Divide Melon

Dividends aggregating $1,455,000 will be received by owners of St. Louis Bank and Trust Company stock during the present quarter, and practically all of the checks will be mailed early enough to be cashed by the recipients before Christmas Day. Several banks already have sent out their dividend checks. The figures given for the individual banks and trust companies are computed upon the dividends paid by them during the last quarter. The extra dividends already declared are taken into consideration as follows: International Bank, stock dividend of 100 per cent, amounting to $200,000; State National, extra dividend of 2 per cent, amounting to $40,000 and Franklin Bank, extra dividend of 3 per cent, amounting to $18,000. The dividend disbursements of the banks, stock of which are most actively traded in, amount to $935,000 and of the trust companies, $520,000.

Among the banks and amounts are the following: Boatmen's Bank, $50,000; Bremen Bank, $10,000; Broadway Bank, $4,000; Cass Avenue Bank, $4,000; Chippewa Bank, $2,000; Franklin Bank, $18,000 regular and $18,000 extra, total, $36,000; German-American Bank, $40,000; German Savings Institution, $25,000; Grand Avenue Bank, $2,000; International Bank, $200,000 stock dividend and $4,000 regular, total $204,000; Jefferson Bank, $3,000; Lafayette Bank, $25,000; Lowell Bank, $3,000; Manchester Bank, $5,000; Mechanics-American National, $60,000; Merchants-Laclede National, $51,000; National Bank of Commerce, $200,000; Northwestern Bank, $12,000; South Side Bank, $15,000; Southern Commercial and Savings, $4,000; State National, $80,000 regular and $40,000 extra, total $120,000; Third National, $60,000.

Dividends of the trust companies most actively traded in will be as follows: Bankers' Trust, $100,000; Broadway Savings and Trust, $2,000; Mercantile Trust, $45,000; Mississippi Valley Trust, $120,000; Mortgage Trust, $12,500; St. Louis Union Trust, $200,000; Title Guaranty Trust, $31,250; Trust Company of St. Louis County, $8,000; West St. Louis Trust, $1,250.

Festus J. Wade Reelected

The stockholders of the Mercantile Trust on Monday re-elected the following directors: L. E. Anderson, W. F. Carter, L. D. Dozier, D. Eiseman, R. L. Goode, George D. Markham, J. B. Moberly, Frank A. Ruf and John Scullin. J. Hugh Powers, manager of the bond department, and B. A. Brennan, assistant president of the company, were elected members of the board and were made vice-presidents. Thomas Rielley was appointed assistant manager of the real estate loan department. At the meeting of the newly elected board, the following officers were elected: Festus J. Wade, president; Paul Brown, George W. Wilson, William Maffitt, W. F. Carter, J. H. Powers, B. A. Brennan, vice-presidents; Edward Buder, treasurer; W. J. Duggan, secretary; Arthur F. Barnes, assistant secretary; John H. Kruse, assistant treasurer; R. K. Kauffman, manager real estate department; James W. Bell, manager savings department; J. B. Moberly, manager real estate loan department; Thos.

Rielley, assistant manager real estate loan department; J. M. Murphy, assistant treasurer; H. J. Scullin, assistant secretary; R. L. Goode, counsel; Virgil M. Harris, trust officer; George B. Cummings, assistant trust officer; John M. Whelan, assistant trust officer; A. V. Reyburn, manager safe deposit department; Joseph J. Reynolds, assistant manager safe deposit department; Arthur Smith, assistant manager safe deposit department; John Ring, Jr., manager publicity department and Miss Julia Kennett, manager woman's department.

Frisco Suits Set

Judge Sanborn of the United States Circuit Court has set the Frisco restitution suits for a hearing December 22, when the question of whether the receivers or stockholders will be permitted to continue the action to force Frisco officials to disgorge profits of more than $7,000,000, made by unloading "feeder" lines and promotion schemes on the Frisco, throwing the big railway system into bankruptcy, will be decided. Circuit Attorney Harvey said that the scandal had been called to his attention, but that no formal complaint had been filed calling for grand jury action, that if the evidence warranted he would present the matter to the grand jury. Attorneys for Miss Bridget Duffy, owner of 100 shares of Frisco stock, announced that in addition to requesting the receivers to file suits against the officials who were involved in syndicates charged with having loaded the Frisco with $40,000,000 of unnecessary indebtedness, they were contemplating action for restitution against all bankers, brokers and others who bought Frisco securities at usurious discounts. The petition of William Niles of New York to file suit for restitution as a Frisco stockholder elaborates in detail the charge that Frisco officials deliberately conspired to bring on the receivership, and quotes the transcript of evidence taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission to show, among other things, that both the Frisco road and the parties who sued for a receiver paid the same attorneys to handle the transaction.

No matter what may be the effect of Currency legislation upon the banking business of the Country, it is certain that the growing and marketing of live stock will continue as in the past.

Missouri State Banks

A splendid condition of the banks and trust companies operating under the state laws of Missouri is indicated by the figures compiled by Bank Commissioner J. T. Mitchell from returns received by him to the call issued for statements at the close of business November 1, 1913. As compared with the returns from the call of November 26, 1912, the statement is extremely satisfactory and shows that conditions are very good in Missouri. On November 21, there were 1,308 banks and trust companies reporting, this being an increase of forty-eight over the number last year. Loans and discounts have increased $12,021,789.26; real estate loans, $6,528,922.26; cash on hand, $33,326.14; capital, $2,206,771.00; surplus, $74,669.86 and deposits, $14,462,837.36. Only one item shows a decrease and that is the total of bills payable and rediscounts, which decreased $313,078.89. The total amount of money on deposit in the state banks and trust companies in Missouri on November 21, 1913, was $333,936,865.57, making the per capita wealth in state banks and trust companies $101.39, an increase of $4.39 since November 1, 1912.

The national banks in Missouri have on deposit $141,472,250.52 and the postal savings, $73,924.86. The total money on deposit by Missourians on November 21 was $475,983,009.57, a per capita wealth for the 3,500,000 Missourians of $144.22.

Deposits in state banks and trust companies at St. Louis on November 21 were $145,703,330.05; at Kansas City, $27,051,693.73; at St. Joseph, $6,781,491.17, and for the entire state outside of the cities, $154,400,180.62.

Indict Ten for Bank Frauds

Ten men formerly connected with the defunct American Union Trust of Kansas City, Mo., which began business in 1911 and was closed the same year, were indicted by the federal grand jury on Wednesday on a charge of using the mails to defraud. The savings banks of nearly 3,000 persons, mostly of limited means, were involved in the failure of the first company two years ago shortly after it had absorbed the All Night and Day Bank of Kansas City. Those named in the indictments are H. W. Richardson, Vancouver, B. C., formerly president of the trust company; John A. Thompson, formerly judge of the probate court of Nodaway county, Mo.; W. L. Moyer of Chicago, J. Bainbridge Jones, Hornell, N. Y.; Thomas L. Matkins, Los Angeles; A. R. Miller, Seattle; George L. Davis, Ernest D. Martin, Thomas A. Roberts and John W. Berry of Kansas City. Bonds of the indicted men were placed at $5,000 each.

Missouri Facing Debt

The State of Missouri will be in debt over $2,000,000 on December 31, 1914, according to reliable estimates based upon the receipts into the state treasury for the year 1913. The receipts for this year are practically the same as the receipts for 1912, while the cost of running the state government was increased enormously by the last legislature and democratic officials. The disbursements for the year will exceed the revenues between $800,000 and $1,000,000, it is said.

Missouri Notes

Sam Brown, former national bank examiner, died at Nevada, last week. He was born in Montgomery county in 1841 and for many years lived in Pike county. He was widely known throughout the United States as a financier.

The new home of the Bank of Seneca has been completed and is now occupied by the bank. It is built of Carthage limestone.

Raymond Begley, assistant cashier of the Butler County Bank, Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Miss Nora Chambers, were married on Thursday of last week.

The increase in St. Joseph bank clearings for November, compared with the corresponding month of 1912, was the greatest in percentage in recent years, amounting to 13.66 per cent, and was a greater increase than shown by any other western city. The total for last month was $32,725,836.83. For the corresponding month a year ago the total was $28,792,776.47.

The First National of El Dorado Springs, Mo., has declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent and $400 has been added to surplus.

New Arkansas Bank

The Bank of Pollard, Ark., has been chartered by the state with a capital stock of $10,000. J. P. Hilles is president, H. W. Moore, vice-president and R. H. Dudley, secretary-treasurer.

Action Against Investment Companies

W. W. Collier, commissioner of insurance and banking, Texas, will request that action be taken against a large number of investment companies together with Arizona corporations and trust companies for charter forfeitures, unless they comply with the state laws regulating the banking business. It has come to the attention of the commissioner that many corporations as above classed are receiving deposits in the form of certificates of deposits, and some of the investment companies are acting as depositories for independent school districts and other corporations. This, according to Mr. Collier, is an infringement on the banking business, and he will advise them to the effect that they have no right to receive deposits in any form.

Bankers Helping Farmers

That the Texas bankers' committee on agriculture is doing good work is the statement of Joseph Hirsch of Corpus Christi, who is chairman of the committee. In speaking of the work in South Texas, Mr. Hirsch says:

"The following counties in South Texas have recently appropriated $1,000 each for the employment of farm demonstration agents: Nueces, Cameron, Hidalgo, Jim Wells and Kleberg. The United States government has appropriated $400 in each of these counties to assist in carrying on this work. These demonstration agents have been installed in each of these counties, largely through the instrumentality of the Texas bankers' committee on agriculture.

"The Texas bankers' committee on agriculture is devoting itself largely to the work of getting a demonstration agent in as many counties as possible in the state. While the bankers association does not wish to take credit for all this work, we believe in a large measure the activities of the committee have assisted in widening the scope of the work.

"The committee urges the bankers of Texas generally to join in the movement for installing farm demonstration agents. We ought to have such an agent in every agricultural county in the state. The work of these demonstration agents has not only largely increased the yield per acre of the various staple crops of the state, but has also resulted in the farmers paying more attention to the matter of feed crops and to a stimulated interest in the dairy industry and the raising of live stock, and particularly hogs, on the farm. But probably the greatest good performed by these demonstration agents has been in stimulating the interest of the boys and girls of the farms and giving them an incentive to remain on the farm. There is no doubt that good farming is the best business we have today in Texas."

Jasper Banks Consolidate

The First National and the Jasper State, Jasper, Texas, have been consolidated, the Jasper State taking over the First National. The capital of the First National was $25,000, that of the Jasper State, $15,000.

Annual Report

W. W. Collier, Texas commissioner of insurance and banking, has filed his annual report of the banking division of the department for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1913. The aggregate of all capital stock on August 31, 1912, paid in was $26,537,500. It increased during the new year by new banks $3,358,500; also through legal increases $3,053,000 and was reduced through liquidation $445,000, and by decrease of capital stock $290,000, leaving $32,214,000, as paid in capital stock on August 31, 1913, or a net increase during the fiscal year of $5,676,500. During the fiscal year there were finally liquidated or dissolved fourteen state banks, with a capital of $325,000, and six now are in state of liquidation, with capital of $210,000; 111 banks and trust companies have been granted charters with aggregate capital of $3,358,500, as compared with 82 banks and trust companies having capital of $3,194,000, which were chartered during the previous fiscal year. The last call for statement of state banks in the 1912 fiscal year brought reports from 666 state banks and sixty-two bank and trust companies, a total of 726 financial institutions. The last call this year, August 9, elicited reports from 736 state banks and seventy-three bank and trust companies, a total of 809, but between August 10 and August 31 ten new state banks opened for business, making a total of 819 state banking institutions in operation on September 1. Thirteen were licensed but have not yet opened for business. Their combined capital is $352,500. With these added the total would be 832 state banking and trust institutions with capital stock of $32,566,500. The guaranty fund was not touched during 1913, although three state banks closed and liquidated. All depositors were paid in full without calling upon the guaranty fund. Sixty state banks with a capital of $7,171,000 have the depositor's bond security system, the aggregate bonds being the amount of capital stock given. All deposits of these banks on August 9, including banks, individual time and demand certificates and cashier's checks, was $6,710,000, so the bonded security for all the depositors is in excess of the sum of their entire deposits, being 107 per cent. Two national and two private banks have adopted the guaranty fund system. They are Farmers and Merchants Bank of Lipan, unincorporated, capital stock, $15,000; Merchants and Planters, Mount Enterprise, unincorporated, capital stock, $20,000; First National, Weatherford, capital stock, $100,000, and Campbell National, Campbell, $100,000.

Southwest Notes

Application has been made for the organization of the Citizens National of Skiatook, Okla., with a capital stock of $25,000. The incorporators are A. W. Lucas, L. L. Wiles, L. A. O'Brien and J. S. Hopping of Skiatook.

H. R. Eldridge, vice-president of the City National of New York, delivered an address before the Business Science Club in Houston on Wednesday evening.

Austin (Texas) clearings for the eleven months of 1913 amounted to $14,952,284.23 as compared with $11,441,626.03 for the first eleven months of 1912, a gain of $3,510,658.20.

STOCK EXCHANGE CONDITIONS

Members of the New York Stock Exchange are proceeding about an organization of firm members, the object being to meet certain public criticism and to protect investors. Not nearly all of the Hughes' Commission recommendations have been carried out. Those that have been have worked well. Congress has directed sharp attention to exchange conditions, and the time is ripe for reforms in methods and in measures to prevent fraud. These movements, coupled with assurances from Washington that, "persecution is to be no part of the administration's attitude toward business," helped the situation greatly this week. The Exchange is said to be moving toward compelling the late Frisco directors and officials to restore certain plunder to the company. This, if it be done, will clear the atmosphere greatly. The fact that prominent names are on the list ought to cut no figure. Restitution is the only salvation for the company and for the blasted reputations of the looters. There were at least five syndicates in which directors of the St. Louis & San Francisco profited through the sale of property to the road. Well informed interests say that reorganization needs of the Frisco will amount to $35,000,000. Tentative rehabilitation plans do not state what proportion of this will have to come from shareholders. Nearly eight millions alleged profits are in the hands of persons who loaded the company up with subsidiary companies, acting as syndicate managers and Frisco directors at the same time. Whatever the New York Stock Exchange can do in the matter of forcing restitution will be done to its own lasting credit.

THE PROMISED CURRENCY BILL

Careful polls of the senate by the great dailies of the country give promise that within a fortnight at the furthest the new currency bill will have taken another step toward becoming the law of the country. It isn't likely to change much from its present form, a form which has been studied carefully, although with misgivings by the bankers of the country. The business men of the nation have, in great numbers, indorsed the bill as likely to "take the tax off business," by which phrase they refer to exchange and collection charges. To many small bankers these earnings are important, but not vital. Advantages in the way of using home credit to their full, prompt market value will, it is claimed, more than offset the collection losses.

National bankers will have time in which to enter the new system, or, to convert to state banks. Much will depend upon the action of the leaders in making choice. In Washington they admit very little uneasiness as to the course of the nationals. The congressional committees believe there will be few desertions from the ranks when the matter comes up for final decision. Leading western bankers are urging acceptance of new conditions so that a fair, honest, patriotic trial of the new law may be made.

At no time have bankers who visited Washington come away feeling that the administration wanted any but the public good. It was seriously impressed upon all, however, that governmental supervision was a fundamental and would be insisted upon. Banking is looked upon as a quasi public business and subject as are railroads and corporations, to a measure of control, not to be dictated by banking interests alone. If hopes are realized the future of the new law will have been decided within another week. Within a short time past the holidays the decision of the chief nationals in choosing their future course should be known. Then every one will be pulling for better times and better business conditions.

ABSORBING HOME OFFERINGS

There never has been any trouble about absorbing home bond offerings in Chicago, when her favorite industrial organizations are concerned. The big packing companies are at the very top of the list. The ten-millions of Swift & Co.'s bonds were underwritten by the leading Chicago trust companies this week for the entire amount, less what may be taken at par by stockholders of record. The underwriting syndicate is headed by the First Trust & Savings, Merchants Loan & Trust Company, Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings and other home institutions as members. The present outstanding $5,000,000 is due July 1, 1914, and it is understood the underwriting syndicate will provide money with which to take them up upon presentation with interest in full. This deal is evidence of sound banking and business conditions in Chicago.

NEW YORK BANK SEES SLIGHT RECESSION

Fourth National of New York in its December financial letter calls attention to a slight business recession, which, however, it says has not been of such magnitude as to become serious. The letter says in part:

"The tendency of the commercial paper market is a little easier. The interior banks are sending back to the reserve centers a great deal of the money that was actively employed during the crop-moving season. The general bank position is relatively strong and the New York bank surplus compares favorably with the figures reported at this date in other years. There is usually a temporary advance in money rates during the closing days of December, and although some heavy engagements will have to be provided for, the outlook is for a satisfactory end-of-the-year settlement.

"The railroads will probably not attempt to purchase new equipment until the Interstate Commerce Commission takes action on the application for higher freight rates for the Eastern roads. It is to be hoped that this question will be decided without undue delay, as the public is very much interested in the controversy, since increased activity in many lines of trade would follow a revival of railroad buying. There are many other phases of the controversy, but, speaking generally, it is probably true that the public favors an increase in freight rates and will not oppose the application if it is shown at the hearings that the railroads have made out a reasonably strong case.

"The operations in the investment markets next month are likely to be the most interesting witnessed at that time in many years. They will reach every variety of financing, but it is clear that the efforts of the bankers will be exerted in the direction of refunding the short term notes through the sale of thirty, forty and fifty-year bonds. The maturities in the first three months of next year will be very heavy. Owing to the unusual conditions prevailing in the investment markets of late, several issues of short term notes have declined in price to a basis where an unusual income return is shown. This has excited apprehension in some quarters lest the loans should prove to be an unsafe investment. There is, however, apparently little basis for such fears for the reason that of the 125 short term note issues which have been sold during the last few years and which have been largely absorbed by investors, hardly 3 per cent of them have disappointed their holders."

BIG CROPS FOR IOWA

Des Moines, Dec. 10.—The value of the crops raised in Iowa during 1913 is far in excess of any other year in the history of the state, according to the annual report issued today by Dr. George M. Chappel, section director at the local weather bureau. The estimated value of all crops is $429,448,437. While the total yield of corn was only 329,343,000 bushels, or 92,025,000 bushels less than 1912, the output is worth $42,612,756 more, due to the prevailing high prices. The crop will bring more this year than ever before.

"SOPHIE SHOULD WORRY" A SUCCESS
by Thomas J. Nugent, President Chicago Chapter)

The musical comedy, "Sophie Should Worry," given by Chicago Chapter, American Institute of Banking, on December 5th and 6th was an unqualified success in every way, artistically, financially and socially. Critics, the press, and all those in attendance were unanimous in their expressions of delight at the entertainment afforded and unite in stating that it was the best amateur show they have ever witnessed. The house was in a continual roar from curtain to curtain and the acts of the "suffragettes," "sun-bonnet girls," "suffragette queens," and ballet, all impersonated bank men, induced a volume of laughter and applause rarely heard in a theatre.

Milwaukee Chapter was represented by a delegation and two of their number, Messrs. Collins and Janzer, participated in the play, thus reciprocating the action of Chicago Chapter last year when Messrs. House and Janzer put on an act in Milwaukee's minstrel show. So realistic, finished and enjoyable was the Turkish dance presented by the Cream team that many could not believe them amateurs. St. Louis Chapter was represented by Mr. Henry Ahle.

The general meeting of December 9th was presided over by Mr. John Z. White, whose subject "Henry George and His Philosophy," received deserved attention and applause. Professional vaudeville numbers rounded out an evening of merit and enjoyment.

The educational classes in Banking and Finance, Commercial and Banking Law, Accounting, Public Speaking, Debating and the like are well received and the sessions well attended.

Next big event—the annual banquet, January 4th.

MIDDLE WEST STORY BY LERIGO

The newest story from the press of the Chicago H. Revell Co. is "Doc Williams—A Story of the Middle West." Doc is one of the old-time country doctors curing in most cases by natural methods. He is the David Harum of the medical clan. A healing spring, yielding healing oil, was his stock in trade and to it he attributed his cures. He was ultra religious and a power for good in his community. From him then comes a waif who is adopted by the old quack. Whatever of poison the city doctor poured into the soul of this boy is ante-dated by the teachings of the old quack's loving mother. The home life of the old doctor, the unity of a small town, and the soul struggling with a manly young fellow constitute the themes of this well-told story. There is a love note throughout and the ending is happy and satisfactory. Life in a western village is the groundwork.

WOMEN IN BANKING

Nowadays it is not uncommon to find women in the banking field, not only in stenographic positions in the city banks but in filing and statement work and occasionally on special book work. Many of the big city banks have women's departments with competent women managers in charge who devote their energies especially to the wants of feminine customers.

One big city trust company has a woman presiding over its information bureau and in country banks it not infrequently happens that women are found filling such positions as principal bookkeeper and in many instances they hold official positions, such as cashier and assistant cashier.

In one state at least—Texas—a women's state bankers' organization has been perfected. This has prompted some of those connected with the banking business to suggest the possibility of an organization of this class of banking labor into a separate association, say a national chapter of the American Institute of Banking, where those in attendance at the national convention can get together, form mutual acquaintanceships, exchange ideas and assist generally in planning and extending the educational advantages of the American Institute of Banking to the women engaged in the banking profession.

Miss Leila G. Reider, employed in an important capacity in the First National of Berkeley, Cal., is an example of the value of woman's work in the banking business.

Should such an organization ever be formed it is to this type of women that the association must look for its inspiration in organization and management.

MAY INDICT JERSEY BANK OFFICIALS

Chief Justice Gummere, of the Supreme court, recommended this week the indictment of officials of the defunct Roseville Trust Company, which failed recently following the disclosure of a shortage amounting to $200,000. It is deemed probable that depositors who persistently and knowingly overdrew their accounts may also be the subject of action by the grand jury. The justice intimated that the directors, if indicted, providing such a course should be found justifiable, should be indicted individually as there is no evidence to show that the board as a whole was criminally guilty.

THE ISLAND OF THE STAIRS

Cyrus Townsend Brady has written a tale of adventure after the style of Monte Christo, but not the least in imitation. The story is a rousing, dashing tale of love, adventure and hidden treasure in the South Seas, with pirates, mutineers and cannibals furnishing all the excitement one could ask for. John Hampden, the hero, and Lucy Wilberforce, the heroine, are the bright lights of the adventures which, as lovers, they meet in their quest for pirate gold. They are attacked by mutineers, by pirates and by cannibals and many times are in perils dire. But the author causes love and right to triumph in the grand old fashioned way. It is a new rival for Stevenson's Treasure Island. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, at $1.35 net.

SEVEN BANKERS ARRESTED

Seven officials of the defunct bank of Donaldsonville, La., recently were arrested upon affidavits made by Philip H. Gilbert, district attorney, charging violation of the state banking laws. Charles Maurin, vice-president, and W. D. Park, cashier, were charged with feloniously swearing to a false statement of the condition of the bank. W. M. McGalliard, president; Edward C. Wathen, C. Kline, C. R. Alleman and Fred Rogge, Sr., directors, were charged in the same affidavit with concurring in the making and publishing of the statement. In another affidavit all are charged with receiving a deposit knowing the bank to be in failing circumstances. A third charges Maurin, Park, Wathen, Kline and Alleman with swearing to false appraisements of certain assets. All furnished bail and were released.

TRUST COMPANY BUYS BROOKLYN CLUB SITE

The purchase of the present home of the Brooklyn Club, Brooklyn, N. Y., by the Brooklyn Trust, whose building adjoins the club, has been announced. Since the consolidation of the Brooklyn Trust and the Long Island Loan and Trust was effected several months ago, the former corporation has been crowded for room and an extension of its premises was decided upon. It is said that the trust contemplates the erection of a building in about a year which will be used as an annex to the main office building now in use.

PAXTON TO HAVE NEW BANK

A new bank is being organized at Paxton, Ill., by Harry E. Duffield, formerly a practicing attorney in Paxton, but now cashier of the First National at St. Francisville, Ill.

Cleveland

Central States News Letter

Cincinnati

President Charles A. Hinsch of the Fifth-Third National, Cincinnati, expressed himself as well satisfied with the currency measure introduced by Senator Theodore E. Burton last week. "A central bank," said Mr. Hinsch, "with a reserve of $100,000,000, would make the United States the financial center of the world and more important than if it had ten regional banks with, say, $10,000,000 each. The central bank idea is not opposed to the Democratic currency doctrine, which only comes out openly against the Aldrich plan for a central bank. I am opposed to that myself." The report from Washington that Cincinnati might get one of the regional banks does not change Mr. Hinch's views. If Cincinnati were given such a bank it would mean that Cleveland, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis and other large cities in that section would not have one, thereby inconveniencing the banking interests of those cities, he declared. The central bank and branches, he believes, is the only system that would be fair to all.

Loan Man Convicted

The most important arrest in Columbus for violation of the banking and loan laws is that of P. L. Andrews of Toledo, who was convicted in police court last week of having received an assignment for three years on the wages of Calvin Dixon, for a loan of $36 which Dixon had negotiated. Andrews was fined $200 and costs. His attorneys filed a motion for a new trial and the case was continued. Dixon, who is a railway brakeman, testified he had borrowed $36.15 from the loan agent and given him an unconditional assignment on his wages for three years.

Ask for New Basis of Assessment of Banks

Ohio banking interests may attempt to have the special session of the legislature modify the new law which assesses the cost of examining state banks against the banks themselves. The complaint of the bankers against the statute is manifold. The most pronounced criticism they make is that the assessment is too high, particularly as compared with the cost of examining national banks. Another complaint is that the law does not justly assess the cost in proportion to the resources of the banks. Some of the bankers, including Secretary Rankin of the Ohio Bankers' Association, have suggested the framework of a new law whereby the assessments would be based upon the condition of the bank examined. Under such a plan the perfect bank would pay nothing and the institution in poorest condition the maximum. Those intermediate would pay on a sliding basis in proportion to their condition.

To Leave Lorain Bank

A change in the official personnel of the Central Bank of Lorain, Ohio, and of the Savings Deposit Bank and Trust of Elyria, to become effective January 15, has been announced. Charles M. Braman, cashier of the Central Bank since its incorporation in 1895, is to become active vice-president of the Savings Deposit and Trust, succeeding in that capacity Judge Wm. Boynton, who will retain an advisory connection with the bank. As cashier of the Lorain bank, Mr. Braman is to be succeeded by B. A. Foskett, now assistant cashier, who also began his connection with the local banking institution at the time of its incorporation. Mr. Foskett, in turn, is to be succeeded as assistant cashier by Ray Culbertson, now teller and an employee of the bank for about sixteen years. No change in the presidency and vice-presidency of the Central Bank, now held by W. B. Thompson and D. H. Aiken, respectively, is contemplated. The directorate however, is contemplating the creation of the office of second vice-president, to be occupied by Mr. Braman. Mr. Braman, for many years has been an active figure in banking circles in Lorain and Medina counties. A native of Elyria, he began his banking career in 1890 on the office staff of the Savings Bank and Deposit and Trust of that city. He aided in the establishment of the Savings Deposit Bank Company of Medina and in 1892 became cashier of the Medina Bank. He remained in that position until the incorporation of the Central Bank. The Elyria bank, to which Mr. Braman is to return, is one of the strongest banking institutions in the county. Its deposits exceed $2,000,000.

Pittsburgh Banker Found Guilty

Alexander L. Richmond, Jr., a former director of the Cosmopolitan National, Pittsburgh, was found guilty in the United States court last week on two charges of aiding the cashier in making false entries. There were seven counts in the indictment but on orders from the court the jury did not pass on the first two, charging misapplication of funds. Richmond was found guilty on two of the other five counts, all containing the same charges. Richmond has been out on $5,000 bail, but $10,000 now is required. There will be a new trial.

Says Banks should give Security

That the city of Pittsburgh is not being paid the highest possible rate of interest on deposits in banks of city money and that the bank deposit ordinance is in need of amending, is the contention of City Treasurer Adolph Edlis, who has addressed a communication to the council. Mr. Edlis says that the depository ordinance should at once be amended to conform to the recommendation of the New York bureau of municipal research, so that the banks will have to furnish security in the shape of municipal, state or government bonds for the amount of money carried. He pointed out that two months remain in which to do this, as new contracts will not go into effect until February 1. The treasurer also says that banks should be given inactive accounts with the city, according to bids, the highest bidders to have such deposits, and he pointed out that such a system of awarding deposits would have placed $81,000 in the city treasury during the last year. He stated that the city will have on deposit about $7,000,000 during the coming year.

Williamsport Bank Fifty Years Old

Celebrating its fiftieth anniversary on Wednesday of last week, The First National of Williamsport, Pa., shortly will take possession of its new seven-story fireproof bank and office building. The bank began business where the new building is nearing completion, December 3, 1863. The officers are Wm. P. Beeber, president; James J. Gibson, Henry D. Brown, vice-presidents; L. A. Sloatman, cashier; James J. Gibson, D. A. Howe, John M. Young, William C. Riley, A. D. Hermance, Valentine C. Lupert, G. W. Crooks, Henry D. Brown, Wm. P. Beeber, Jerome Moltz, directors. Deposits on November 24 were $1,482,245.78. The capital is $300,000; surplus $300,000 and the undivided profit account over $200,000.

New Trust Company

The Trust Company of Wyoming County Incorporated, Warsaw, opened its new bank last week. The company has a capital of $100,000 with a surplus fund of $50,000. The officers are: President, Henry A. Pierce, Castle; vice-presidents, Joseph C. Buxton, Clayton E. Gill, Warsaw; secretary, Chester A. Van Arsdale, Warsaw; assistant secretary, George P. Culp, Rochester.

New Home for Park Savings

The new building of the Park Savings, Washington, D. C., has been completed. In conformity with the plan of the directors to construct a building that should be modern in all its appointments, not only is the exterior unusually attractive, but the interior arrangements are both practical and luxurious. It is finished in marble and mahogany, with all the modern conveniences. The Park Savings is little more than three years old, but in that time it has outgrown its present quarters in the Arcade building.

Kentucky Bank Suspends

On request of the directors of the Madisonville (Ky.) Savings, the state banking commissioner has taken the institution into his hands for liquidation and the bank has been closed. The officials claim that the reserve fund had been impaired by recent loans which they had been unable to collect. James H. Laffoon is president and W. E. Wooten cashier. It was organized ten years ago under the state laws with a capital stock of $35,000. The cashier, in a statement, says that he believes the depositors will be paid in full as soon as the affairs of the bank can be settled.

Kentucky State Banks in Good Condition

The condition of the state banks and trust companies in Kentucky never were better, according to the statement of T. J. Smith, state bank commissioner. The 471 state banks and trust companies, as shown by their reports of June 4, 1913, have an aggregate capital of $19,732,560 and total resources of $114,107,997.83. During the year one state bank was converted into a national bank, the Lexington Banking and Trust Company was absorbed by the Phoenix and Third National and eleven new state banks were organized with an aggregate capital stock of $585,000. There are in the hands of the department in process of liquidation the Commercial Bank and Trust of Louisville; The Sardis Bank of Sardis, where the Farmers' Bank has since been organized; the Leesburg Bank; the Bank of Sherbourne; The First State of Middlesboro. The department was self sustaining the first year, though the banking act does not require it. With an income of $20,709.99, the department closed the year, $135.82 to the good.

Bankers Protest

A preliminary protest against the proposed increase of assessment of banks and trust companies of Louisville, which has been fixed at 80 per cent—an increase of 20 per cent—by the board of equalization, to conform with the state assessment, was carried to Mayor Buchmeyer last week, James B. Brown and John W. Barr representing Louisville interests. The bankers later will argue the matter before the board of equalization. It is considered possible that a compromise may be reached and the assessment fixed at 70 per cent.

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

W. A. Miller, vice-president, and F. A. Nienhauser, cashier, First National, St. Paul, following the acceptance by the board of their resignations, effective at once, have announced that they will organize a new national bank, with a capital and surplus of $500,000. They will open offices at 353 Minnesota street, a few doors from the First National bank building, to receive stock subscriptions and organize. Although the board of directors of the First National wanted Mr. Miller and Mr. Nienhauser to remain in the bank until January 1, they felt that they could not properly organize their new bank as long as they remained.

Lusk Named Frisco Receiver

James W. Lusk has been appointed one of the receivers of the Frisco Road to succeed Thomas H. West, chairman of the board of the St. Louis Union Trust, who resigned. Judge Lusk went to St. Louis on Monday and on Tuesday departed in company with Receiver Nixon for an inspection tour of the system, going first to Dallas, Tex. W. B. Biddle is the other receiver. Judge Lusk expects to live in St. Louis while acting as receiver. He is regarded as admirably equipped for the position by reason of his experience as a railroad attorney and also as a financier. When the National German-American Bank of St. Paul was in trouble in 1893 the comptroller of the currency named Lusk to reorganize the institution. He did this so successfully that the stockholders asked him to accept the presidency. He held this position for twenty years and resigned January 1, last, in order to retire from active business. Mr. West resigned as receiver of the Frisco last week, asking that he be relieved because of probable investigation which Judge Sanborn may have to undertake in Frisco affairs after the interstate commerce commission's inquiry last month. He said he did not want to embarrass the court by remaining in his place as receiver.

George H. Prince, Sr., Dies

George H. Prince, father of George H. Prince, Jr., chairman of the board of directors of the Merchants National, St. Paul, and of Frank M. Prince, president of the First National of Minneapolis, died this week at his home in Amherst, Mass. He was nearly eighty-six years old. The sons left Tuesday night for Massachusetts.

Crop Loan Returned

One quarter of the $500,000, which the government loaned to St. Paul banks to be used in facilitating the movement of the crops in Minnesota, will be returned the middle of this month. John R. Mitchell, president Capital National, St. Paul, which took most of the St. Paul allotment, made the announcement. The entire loan will be returned by March 1. The movement of the crop has been much easier than formerly.

In New Home

The Stock Yards National of South St. Paul on Monday took possession of its new home in the Exchange building annex on Concord street. The institution has enjoyed a rapid growth in the past two years and now ranks as one of the strongest country banks in Minnesota.

New Trust Company for Duluth

The Bankers Trust of Duluth is preparing to open up an office for business early in January. Its preliminary organization is being completed. The company will receive all forms of trusts and act as the administrator of estates. Deposit accounts will not be received. It is capitalized at $200,000.

Bond Issue Validated

Duluth may issue bonds for $200,000 to be used by the board of education, although the bonds may run for thirty years, according to a ruling made by the state supreme court on an appeal by A. A. Fider, of Duluth, who objected to the issuance of the bonds, contending that the law of 1905 provides that such a bond issue shall not run more than twenty years. The court holds that the 1905 law did not repeal the special law of 1891 which permitted bonds to run thirty years.

County's Debt Lowest in State

With a total outstanding bonded indebtedness of $953,797, compared with a total assessed valuation of $314,817,268, St. Louis county has the lowest bonded indebtedness of any county in Minnesota. The outstanding bonds include $250,000 railroad aid bonds, courthouse bonds to the amount of $520,000, Miller trunk road bonds amounting to $142,000, and ditch bonds totaling $41,797. The county will wipe out the $250,000 railroad bond indebtedness November 1, 1914. Interest has been paid at 5 per cent on this issue since 1893, and the retiring of this issue will save the county $12,500 yearly in interest, besides a saving by retiring the issue ten years before date of maturity, amounting to $125,000. The bonds were issued to assist in the financing of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, and were to run thirty years, the county reserving the right to retire them before maturity. A total of $80,000 of the $600,000 worth of courthouse bonds was retired this year.

Depositors Saved

As a result of a decision of the supreme court, stockholders in the Chippewa State, White Earth, Minn., which was closed, will receive all their deposits. State Superintendent of Banks Kelsey Chase, explained that this will result because the court held that the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber Company could not enforce a contract with a half-breed Indian. In 1907 an Indian made a contract with the lumber company to sell timber on his allotment on the White Earth reservation. The Indian's son borrowed money from the bank on the strength of the contract. Mr. Chase points out that now, as the bank will not have to pay the money back because the Indian could not dispose of his allotment, there will be sufficient funds to pay off the creditors.

Co-operate on Laundry Work

In Chatfield, Minn., the farmers have added to the equipment of their co-operative creamery a plant in which all laundry work is done. The price of the work is deducted each month from the farmers' cream credits, and in ten months a gross business of $4,800 has been done.

New Bank at Crosby

A new bank, known as the First State of Crosby, has been organized. J. B. Galarneault and C. P. DeLaittre, of Atkin, and W. S. Pitt, James Nelson and S. G. Latta, of Crosby, are the incorporators. The institution is capitalized at $10,000, with a surplus of $2,000.

St. Marion Bank

D. S. B. Johnston, of St. Paul, and interests associated with him, have disposed of their holdings in the Johnston State of Marion, N. D. The sale is in line with the decision of the Johnstons to close out all interests in Marion. James J. Early, of Valley City, will become the new president of the bank.

Farmers Still Plowing

owing to the warm weather, plowing in North Dakota still is in progress, and E. J. Weiser, president of the First National of Fargo, who was in Minneapolis last week, says the prospects for crops next year are excellent. "Thousands of farmers are in the fields and fall plowing is going to break all records," said Mr. Weiser. "The farmers are so busy that they have not time for business and the result is that there is some complaint of light prices from the Fargo merchants; but that will adjust itself. The grain the farmers are holding will be marketed just as soon as the farmers can come out of the fields, and then the plowing that has been delayed will be done as usual." Conditions in North Dakota are good, Mr. Weiser said, and the outlook is favorable for continued activity. Except for the unusual effect of the remarkable weather the commercial and financial tone of the state is excellent.

Former Cashier Charged with Forgery

C. R. Verry, former cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Park River, N. D., was arrested Monday, charged with making false reports of the condition of the bank. Under the state laws of North Dakota, Verry's alleged act constitutes forgery. The action against him is based on the report of the state banking board. He was bound over to the district court for trial, and released under $2,000 bonds.

South Dakota State Banks in Good Shape

The state banking department of South Dakota has issued a comparative summary of the assets of state banks operating in the state on November 26, 1912, and October 21, 1913. Deposits during the year increased $7,072,476 and the assets $7,248,141.70. There were 523 banks on both dates, the number of new banks organized in the year being covered by consolidations and liquidations of old banks. Loans and discounts increased $3,320,581.53 while the total resources of all the state banks this year were $73,780,921.64, an increase of $244,159.82. Deposits increased practically $6,000,000 from the call of August 9 of this year up to October 21, bringing the total deposits from $53,000,000 up to $59,000,000.

National banks on October 21 showed deposits of $91,459,934.72, an increase of $9,599,150.32 since the call of November 26 of last year, and of $1,684,000 over those of August 9, making the total increase in deposits in all banks of the state from August to October $7,500,000.

Aberdeen Clearing House Elects New Officers

The Aberdeen (S. D.) Clearing House Association has elected F. A. Brown president for the ensuing year; Isaac Lincoln, vice-president, and D. H. Lightner, secretary and manager.

Buy Alfalfa Seed for Farmers

Many banks are purchasing a thousand pounds of alfalfa seed at cost from the South Dakota Better Farming Association, which recently sent out letters to all bankers in South Dakota telling them of the large amount of fine alfalfa seed purchased by the association with the aid of the Aberdeen Clearing House Association. The banks are distributing the seed to the farmers of their vicinity at cost price to encourage the raising of alfalfa.

Resist Tax

Montana state banks are protesting against the assessment blank sent out this year for the banks to fill out and swear to and on which their assessment is based. In former years state banks were assessed practically on the same basis as the national bank and, of course, were taxed accordingly. This year the state board of equalization compiled a new form for them to fill out, which includes several items on which they were not formerly taxed, and several of which the bankers think are unjust.

Northwest Notes

The Clearwater County State at Bagley, Minn., has completed their new bank building. M. J. Kelb is president.

The First State of Aberdeen, S. D., is undergoing an extensive remodeling, to cost about $1,200.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Bank of Victor, Victor, S. D., capital $10,000. N. N. Powell is president; S. E. Oscarson, vice-president, and A. G. Molander, cashier. All the officers are of White Rock.

The First National, of Saco, Mont., and the private banking house of Nelson and Company of the same city have been consolidated.

C. F. CHILDS ON GOVERNMENT BONDS

C. F. Childs & Co. say regarding the market for government bonds:

"The existing stagnation in the government bond market is the natural result of the uncertainty which prevails respecting the ultimate plan for legislative reformation of our banking laws. Probably a smaller amount of bonds have actually changed hands during the last thirty days than in a like period for many years.

"Banks which acted earlier and sold their 2 per cent bonds or substituted other less speculative issues in order to forestall the existing situation are now concerned about the course of the market, and the banks which might now be expected to purchase more bonds while prices are depressed are not disposed to add to their present holdings. Virtually the only demand has been limited to a few banks which qualified to accept additional government crop deposits, and also the requirements of six new national banks, which were authorized to begin business and purchased a minimum of less than $70,000 par value bonds for charter purposes. Bonds deposited to secure national bank circulation showed an increase of only $76,510 and $49,500 bonds securing government deposits were withdrawn during November. This would seem to indicate that the national banks of the entire country increased their government bond holdings by only $27,000 last month.

"Proposed alterations and amendments to the currency bill when enacted should improve the market for all government issues, although the natural ultimate tendency in prices in general should be toward a 3½ per cent income basis, irrespective of the supporting influence of the circulation privilege which will continue to be attached to some issues. In our opinion a new federal bank act will be created, which will be sufficiently satisfactory and acceptable to the national banks as a whole to warrant nearly every bank remaining in the national system."

BANK FOR POTTERVILLE

The village of Potterville, Mich., is to have a state bank, an institution greatly needed since the closing of the doors, several weeks ago, of the Backus Private Bank. The men behind the project are M. K. Whitham of Aledo, Ill., and J. E. Whitham of Lansing, both of whom are heavily interested in the Capitol National Bank of Lansing, which they organized in 1906. With the Whithams in the Potterville bank will be associated C. A. Beers, present cashier of the First National of Aledo, Ill., who is expected in Potterville to complete the organization of the state bank.

BUILDING EXCLUSIVELY FOR BANKING PURPOSES

There now is a probability that the Wayne Home Savings of Detroit, will erect an exclusively banking structure six or eight stories in height on the site of the Home bank building instead of the 15-story office building which had been contemplated. Julius H. Haas, president of the bank, recently returned from a trip to New York and Chicago where he had been inspecting bank buildings and his choice and that of the architect incline towards an exclusive bank building. The building committee will decide before the first of the year and the work of construction will be started at once.

RESIGNS AS CASHIER

James R. Easley, cashier of the Farmers State of Pittsfield, Ill., has resigned, finding that his duties and interests at New Canton would make it impossible for him to continue with the Pittsfield bank. Harry S. Miller, who has been teller for several years, has been elected to succeed Mr. Easley. Ben M. Matthews resigned from the directorate and Judge Paul F. Grote was elected to succeed him. Congressman W. E. Williams was elected to succeed Mr. Easley as a member of the board of directors. The directors of the Farmers State have purchased the building in which the bank now is located, and also another room. The building will be remodeled, two rooms made into one, and a new set of fixtures and safety deposit vaults installed.

CORN EXCHANGE DECLARES DIVIDEND

Corn Exchange National this week declared an extra dividend of 8 per cent out of accumulated profits. The disbursement is payable December 15 to stock of record December 9.

Regular quarterly dividend of 4 per cent also was declared, payable January 2 to stock of record December 9.

The Massena Savings of Massena has moved into its new home, one of the handsome business buildings of that live town. The building is of red gas burned brick, while the fixtures are thoroughly modern and up to date.

Des Moines, December 11.—Iowa state and savings banks and trust companies are shown to be in splendid and flourishing condition in the report of State Auditor Bleakly, following the call of November 13. This report shows that deposits in the past year have increased $21,593,722.12. The report shows splendid increases all along the line except in the item of credits subject to sight draft, which shows a falling off of $2,085,144.06. The surplus shows an increase of $837,612, and the undivided profits an increase of $834,532. Overdrafts show an increase of $281,606. In the past year the number of state and savings banks and trust companies in Iowa has increased 40. Since September 10 there have been twelve new ones. The average reserve in all of the banks November 13 was 16 per cent.

Plan to Sell Bonds for Water Works

Mayor James R. Hanna of Des Moines advanced the theory that Des Moines will be able to sell bonds for $2,350,000 at 4 or 4½ per cent when the city gets ready to raise its water works fund. Some of the Des Moines bankers have, however, received the mayor's announcement with some doubts. John Hogan of the German Savings, treasurer of the school board, recalls an experience he had in selling school bonds not long ago. He sold a portion of them at 4½, but $276,500 were sold at 5 per cent. The water works election is some time off and times may change. Likewise the bankers know that long term municipal bonds are always in demand. Bankers in Des Moines regard the situation at present as much improved and say that farmers are borrowing freely. They are holding onto their crop yields for higher prices and expect to get 90 cents for corn which at present is worth 60.

Swindler Sent to Prison

John Nathan Smith, Des Moines attorney who defrauded his father-in-law, G. N. Thorley, a banker at Atlantic, Iowa, and Spring View, Neb., out of money, was sent to Stillwater, Minn., for a year and a day by Judge McPherson in federal court. He has a state sentence to serve when that time is up.

The tragedy surrounding the closing of the Citizens State of Colfax by the state insurance department last week has been a chief topic of conversation among Iowa bankers. The bank was closed after Mrs. Wheelock had received a note telling her that her husband's body would be found in the bottom of the Des Moines river. Mrs. Wheelock communicated with directors of the bank and they in turn notified Auditor Bleakly. Search was begun for Wheelock, but the general impression was that he had become deranged and had wandered away. However, his clothes were found on the bank of the Des Moines river by Detective Gust Patek of the Iowa Bankers Association. This led to the dragging of the river, and Wheelock's body was found in a deep hole Monday night. The cashier had filled a gunny sack with rocks, tied it around his neck, and had leaped into the river. Papers and about $1,000 worth of jewelry were found in his pockets.

In the meantime Chief Examiner Wolever of the state banking department had been looking into the affairs of the institution. This examination at this writing has not been completed, but it has disclosed worthless paper to the extent of perhaps $40,000. State Auditor Leakey ordered an assessment of 75 per cent against the stockholders, and it is probable that by this time the bank will be open.

The Citizens Bank had capital stock of $5,000 and deposits of $350,000. The state department has criticized the directors for permitting it to become a "one-man" bank. Wheelock's last report was late and the auditor had written him a letter urging him to hasten along. This letter was found in his clothes when he was pulled from the river. Wheelock was worth $150,000 and his wife about the same, according to reports, but it is probable that financial worries were responsible for Wheelock's breakdown. The deceased cashier was the son of the late S. B. Wheelock, vice-president of the bank, who died some six weeks ago. He had been connected with a bank at Stuart before removing to Colfax.

Government Money for Sioux City Banks

By the time this letter is in print it is probable that the national banks of Des Moines and Sioux City will have a million dollars of government money in circulation. The Valley National, Citizens National and Des Moines National will get $500,000 of this money. The Iowa National has been made custodian of the securities. These securities have been properly passed upon. The national banks at Sioux City are expected at this time to secure an additional $100,000. Sioux City is so well situated as a gate city to South Dakota and Nebraska that the banks there can use this amount to good advantage. While the money sent to Iowa is not for crop moving purposes, it is advanced largely to farmers for stock buying purposes. There is a heavy demand for money to tide over the holiday season and the government money will come in handy for this purpose.

Bank Celebrates Anniversary

The Scott County Savings at Davenport celebrated its thirtieth anniversary last week. The institution in its thirty years has secured assets of $5,000,000, which makes it the second largest bank in the state. The bank has a surplus of $300,000. The president, J. H. Hass, has been with the institution since it first started. He was at that time assistant cashier. Gus Steben, present cashier, has been with it eighteen years, and Jule H. Kerker, assistant cashier, has been with the bank for thirteen years. Vice-President H. F. Petersen has held that position since the institution first started.

Low Notes

The Algona State has completed the remodeling and furnishing of its home and is now ready there and ready for business. The institution expended $10,000 on modernizing the building and secured excellent value for the expenditure.

The Winneshiek County State at Decorah recently went after a bond issue of $65,000 put out by Winneshiek county and succeeded in selling the bonds over competitors representing some of the powerful bond companies.

Judge Smith McPherson in federal court has approved the sale of the Ft. Dodge, Des Moines & Southern to the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, on application of Homer Morgan, one of the former receivers. The court has granted permission to the company to issue bonds to the value of $2,000,000 to rehabilitate the property, operate power plant at Frazier and improve the property at Fort Dodge. The road was sold for $4,100,000.

The German Savings of Des Moines was awarded a verdict of $22,723 against the Granite Brick Company of Des Moines in district court last week. The brick concern was not able to meet notes to that amount held by the bank.

Frank Epperson, the well known Eddyville banker, sent out a pretty Thanksgiving card just before that day. It was handsomely pictured with turkeys and pumpkins and noted the various things for which people should be thankful—not forgetting their opportunity to patronize the Epperson bank.

William H. Atlee was elected president of the Lee County Savings at Fort Madison recently. He succeeds the late Samuel Atlee. No other changes were made in the officers.

Mrs. Chester Isham died in Des Moines last week. Mr. Isham is connected with the Valley National. Mr. and Mrs. Isham are well known and there is sincere regret at the taking away of Mrs. Isham.

The Spirit Lake National, one of the live banks of northern Iowa, has announced a new building in the spring. It is planned that the building now occupied will be razed and the bank will occupy temporary quarters while the new structure is growing.

The Citizens Savings at Eldora has expended $3,500 in bringing its interior up to date. The bank also has reincorporated so as to do a trust and administrative business and the capital stock has been increased from $40,000 to $50,000.

South Dakota Notes

Three years in the penitentiary for each was the sentence doled out by Judge Bottum at Faulkton last month to Messrs Shaffner, Haynes and Von Billard, three yeggs who tried to rob the Farmers State at Mina. The trio pleaded guilty. They are easterners. Clarence Johnson, suspected as a fourth member of the gang, is out on bond, while a fellow giving his name as Maytag has skipped.

The Northwestern State at Newell has completed its new institution and it is a fine building. The bank is not an old one and the building is all the more creditable on that account.

Miss Anna Mildred Franklin "slipped one over" on her father, N. E. Franklin, president of the First National at Deadwood. She was married at Washington, D. C., to David S. Traitel, a New York contractor, and she told reporters that her father didn't know about it although she had been keeping company with Traitel for two years.

New charters have been issued to these banks: State Bank of Grover; Citizens State of Bloomington; American State at Beresford; Beardsley State of Beardsley.

Joseph Wegener, a banker at Hecla, recently committed suicide, apparently without cause.

Expect to Hold Agricultural Conference Here

Chicago Clearing House Association has invited the conference of committees of state bankers associations on agriculture, education and good roads, to hold their next annual meeting in Chicago.

This conference usually is referred to as the Minneapolis Conference, being organized by Joseph Chapman and the initial meeting held in Minneapolis in 1911. The second conference followed at the same place and last year the bankers met in Kansas City. B. F. Harris of Champaign, Ill., head of the agricultural commission of the A. B. A., is president of the conference.

President Rawson of the Chicago Clearing House has announced a committee to develop plans for the reception and entertainment of those attending, who, it is understood will include some noted educators as well as prominent bankers.

The personnel of the committee appointed is as follows: W. G. Edens, Central Trust, chairman; Jno. F. Hagey, First National; Dan Norman, Continental; Henry S. Henschen, State Bank and Fred L. Thompson, Merchants Loan and Trust.

A FAMOUS PACKAGE OF CURRENCY

In speaking to a business man's banquet in Sioux City, the other night, President John McHugh, of the First National of that city, related this interesting "banking and currency" incident:

"In the cash in the vault of the First National Bank, of Sioux City, and constituting a part of the bank's required legal reserve, is a package of money—United States treasury notes—issued in 1863, when Mr. Spinner was treasurer of the United States, and known at the time as "Spinner bills." This package of currency commenced to do duty as a part of bank cash reserve on August 11, 1864—forty-nine years ago—when it was placed in the safe of the old banking firm of Weare & Allison, a bank that pioneered and served the community faithfully and well, and after enjoying a useful and honorable career of nearly half a century, wound up its business by consolidating, in 1901, with the Iowa State National bank, Mr. George Weare, of the old banking firm, becoming the president of that institution. Later on the business of that bank was merged with that of the First National Bank and the two businesses were continued as one to the present time under the title and charter of the First National Bank, of Sioux City. This package of currency, therefore, has continuously, during the past half century, constituted a part of the cash reserve of this banking business."

President McHugh spoke of the financial center and importance of Sioux City and quoted clearing house figures which were a surprise to all present. So effective were his remarks and so enthusiastic were his hearers that the Daily Journal of that city secured from him for publication an elaboration of his informal talk. It is a "booster" document sure enough, and a useful one.

PORTLAND CONSOLIDATION

Officers of the Scandinavian-American Bank of Portland, Oregon, capital, $100,000, announce the purchase of the business of the Commerce Trust and Savings, and that hereafter the business of the Scandinavian-American will be consolidated with that of the Commerce and transacted at the banking rooms of the last named bank.

The following is the official line-up under the new arrangement: C. F. Hendricksen, president; Will T. Wright, vice-president; Anton Eckern, cashier and O. C. Bortzmeyer and P. K. Enebo, assistant cashiers.

The combined capital of these two banks has heretofore been reported as $250,000; surplus and undivided profits $36,000 and total deposits $1,590,000.

The two banks have a fine line of customers. The location selected is good and the appointments of the building modern in every way and suitable for the convenience of the merged institution. This makes another strong institution for the growing city of Portland.

KANSAS BANKS

Every county in Kansas now has a bank. The list was made complete with the granting of a charter to a bank at Johnson, Stanton county. There now are 209 nationals and 930 state banks.

The Farmers State of Stetsonville has incorporated with capital of $10,000. J. F. Kadow-sky is president and A. Vonder Haar, cashier.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

At the close of November Spokane's building permits were $123,910 ahead of 1911 and $1,214,018 ahead of 1912 for the first 11 months of each year. In November 862 permits for a total of $77,610 were issued, bringing the total for the first 11 months of 1913 up to $3,364,610.

Farm problems of the Spokane country will be attacked from every angle at a week's demonstration school to be held in Spokane commencing Monday, December 8, and concluding Saturday, December 13, by the extension department of Washington State college, under the auspices of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. Headed by President E. A. Bryan, a dozen instructors from the state college will give practical talks each day, with demonstrations intended to help solve the problems of both men and women on the farms.

From the standpoint of the farmer the following are some of the things that will be discussed and demonstrated: "How to select cows for dairy and beef purposes;" "How to select the best pigs, poultry and horses;" "The best foods to make money out of live stock for various purposes;" "Raising corn;" "Building a silo;" "How to use the Babcock milk test and what it is worth to the farm;" "Diseases of animals and how to treat them;" "The care of the orchard;" "Pruning the orchard to get more fruit;" "Insect pests and how to spray for them;" "The care of the soil;" "Proper methods of irrigation;" "Raising vegetables for profit;" "Marketing the crop from the farm."

For the women of the family the following subjects will be treated: "How to test the cloth that you buy;" "Selecting foods that cost the least and are worth the most;" "Attractive menus for the farm home;" "Fireless cookers and other modern inventions and their use on the farm."

Stockholders of the Washington Water Power Company met at the head office in Spokane this week and authorized an increase in capitalization of $5,000,000, raising the total issue from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, the bulk of the proceeds of which will go toward paying for the Long Lake power plant, near Spokane. "We intend shortly to offer to present stockholders the right to subscribe one-tenth of their present holdings, and as $14,081,900 of the capital stock is now outstanding, this will mean the raising of $1,408,190 immediately," states President D. L. Huntington.

Frank J. Guse, who has been with the Washington Trust Company for seven years, has been promoted from assistant cashier with the trust company to be cashier of the Union Park bank. Hugh Winder, who has been cashier of the Union Park bank for nearly four years, will leave the first of the year for Tacoma, where he will take charge of his business interests on the coast. Mr. Guse began his new duties with the Union Park bank Tuesday. Bert A. Russell, who has been with the Washington Trust Company for four years, succeeds Mr. Guse as assistant cashier there.

George S. Brooke, former president of the Fidelity National bank, pioneer of Spokane and one of the best known financial men in eastern Washington, has been indorsed by Spokane citizens for appointment on the industrial welfare commission. The petition is worded in part as follows: "As citizens of the state of Washington, interested in its development, we take pleasure in requesting that you appoint George S. Brooks of Spokane as a member of the industrial welfare commission. Mr. Brooks is a pioneer resident of Spokane county, with a long and favorable record, and he is absolutely free from any business interests or alliances which could affect his judgment, and he has at all times used his best efforts for the moral, social and industrial up-building of the community. The appointment would assure the community that the questions involved in the impartial administration of the minimum wage law would be systematically and honestly determined to the credit of the state of Washington."

An income tax bulletin prepared by Herbert Witherspoon, vice-president, was issued this week by the Spokane & Eastern Trust Company. It contains a complete analysis of the new tax and clears up many hitherto controversial points. Mr. Witherspoon has spent considerable time in compiling the booklet, getting official rulings on many questions from Millard T. Hartson, collector of internal revenue, and from the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington. All the copy was passed on by Mr. Hartson as authentic before going to the printer.

At the last monthly meeting of the Spokane Clearing House Association resolutions were adopted mourning the death of Henry M. Richards, former vice-president of the Spokane and Eastern Trust Company and long a member of the association. A committee consisting of W. D. Vincent, cashier of the Old National bank; J. Grier Long, president of the Washington Trust Company, and E. T. Coman, president of the Exchange National bank, drafted the resolutions.

EDMONTON NEWS

Hon. Charles R. Mitchell, formerly minister of public works for Alberta, who has just been appointed provincial treasurer at the parliament buildings in Edmonton, has been a member of Premier Arthur L. Sifton's cabinet since the beginning of January, 1910, and has held three portfolios: Attorney-general, minister of education and minister of public works. He has been acting premier in the absence of Mr. Sifton. Prior to entering the cabinet as a member from Medicine Hat, he was a judge in the district court at Calgary and city attorney of Medicine Hat. He now represents the Bow Valley constituency in the provincial legislature. Mr. Mitchell's portfolio as minister of public works is now occupied by Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of municipal affairs until a few days ago, who has been succeeded by Wilfrid Gariepy, K. C., of Edmonton, representative for the Beaver River constituency. Hon. Malcom McKenzie was treasurer of Alberta until his death on March 15, since which time Premier Sifton has been acting treasurer.

Heads of the principal business concerns in Edmonton report that the low ebb of the financial depression throughout the western country has been passed, saying also that indications are there will be more money available within sixty days for general development work. The bank clearings for November showed a slight increase over the same month a year ago, when western Canada was on the crest of the wave of unprecedented progress. This is taken as a good sign for the coming year. Edmonton has been unusually fortunate during the last eighteen months and especially so during the world-wide disturbance in financial affairs, having had sufficient money to carry out its building program, which involved between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 for municipal work, in addition to $10,000,000 expended for private work. The marketing of the $120,000,000 crop in Alberta also is having a good effect throughout the province.

Four private companies, one of them backed by capitalists of Spokane, Wash., and another composed of J. D. McArthur, president of the Edmonton, Dunvegan & British Columbia Railway company and his associates, are preparing plans to lay before the council of Edmonton a number of offers to supply electric power to the city at a lower price than it can be made by the municipal plant. One of the companies has under consideration the development of power at a coal mine in the Lac Wabamun district, forty miles west of Edmonton, where 60,000,000 tons of lignite coal is in sight. The American interests have holdings on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad about 20 miles west of Edmonton, where a hydro-electric plant is to be installed. As the city of Edmonton owns and operates all its public utilities the matter of franchises will have to be determined by the rate payers.

Through the efforts of Mayor William Shore, K. C., of Edmonton, work for the winter has been provided for from 1,500 to 2,000 men in cutting railway ties. Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, has amended the dominion regulations so that ties for maintenance may be cut this winter. The regulations provided that ties may be cut in timber limits only for construction on new railways, and not for maintenance. This meant then that ties required for maintenance had to be obtained elsewhere and now that the regulations are amended work will be provided for many men throughout the winter months. The regulations, however, are only suspended temporarily.

John Perrie, deputy minister of municipal affairs, who has just returned from Portage la Prairie, Man., announces that at the next session of the Alberta legislature a bill will be introduced to create a commission to superintend all debenture issues by municipalities in the province. Part of its duties will be to ascertain whether the projects for which the bonds are floated are feasible, whether the municipality is sufficiently strong financially to assume the amount of the proposed indebtedness, and, if so, to advise and assist in the preparation of the bonds. The legislature of Saskatchewan is considering a similar bill at its present session.

Victor Revillon, president of Revillon Freres of France, has just paid $90,000 cash for a business site, 50 by 150 feet, at Jasper avenue and Sixth street, to the Northern Investment Agency, headed by P. O. Dwyer. Mr. Revillon, who was in the city the latter part of November, announces that a large building will be erected in 1914.

Three hundred thousand dollars has been paid by the government of Alberta to the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Company, Limited, representing the government's loan of 85 per cent of the cost of the fifty elevators now in operation in this province. A mortgage deed has been executed for $350,000, but the appropriation for 1913 is $300,000, and the remaining $50,000 will not be paid over until the beginning of 1914. The elevators now in operation represent a total value of $50,000.

Acting Postmaster Cairns has compiled figures, showing that the stamp sales at the Edmonton postoffice increased $111,332 in 1913 over 1910. The figures for the four years follow: 1910, $83,411; 1911, $113,031; 1912, $173,700; 1913, December estimated at $24,000, $194,400.

TWO OF SCRIBNERS BEST BOOKS

"The Heart of the Hills," by John Fox, Jr., captured the reading public, and the first enormous edition of 100,000 copies met with ready sale. The publishers, Charles Scribners Sons, New York, have brought a second issue in order to meet the Holiday demand. It appears to be conceded that this is Mr. Fox's finest novel and greatest success. His "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" have both been surpassed. This is the book to send to a friend.

"The Lost Road" is the title line for a collection of new short stories by Richard Harding Davis. The stories included are "The Men of Zanzibar," "The Long Arm," "Evil to Him Who Evil Thinks," "The Lost Road," "The Circle of Las Palmas," "The God of Coincidence," and one other. Mr. Davis is one of America's most virile writers and this book will be welcomed by his army of readers. Also published by Scribners, New York.

GOOD ROADS ENTHUSIASTS MEET

Members of the good roads committee of the Illinois Bankers Association met at the Hotel Hotel Thursday afternoon. Those in attendance were Chairman Bradt and Messrs. J. H. Traylor, McCartney and Riggs.

Ham S. Cable, president of the Rock Island Savings, and Edwin W. Woodcock, of Chicago, who are interested along with other bankers and business men of the Tri-Cities in the development of a good roads organization in their locality, held a meeting Wednesday evening to perfect a road improvement association in Rock Island county. The meeting was held at the Rock Island Club and members of the joint committee were guests of the club supper.

W. G. Edens, of Chicago, president of the Associated Roads Organizations of Chicago and Cook County, was present to give the gentlemen interested the benefit of his experience and advice in the matter of promoting good road agitation.

BANK DIRECTORS ELECTED

Two new directors of the First National, Chicago, N. Y., have been elected. They are W. Hudson, succeeding the late James Passmore, and Horace S. Wilkinson, taking the place of W. Loasby. Mr. Hudson recently moved from New York and was made vice-president in place of Mr. Loasby, who became president of the Trust and Deposit Company of Onondaga. The latter corporation has elected Carleton A. Chase a member of its board of directors.

RENEWS PLEA FOR FUNDS

That Georgia's destiny after the coming of the boll weevil will rest not with the farmers of the state but with the merchants and bankers, is the declaration of J. Phil Campbell, state agent in charge of the farm demonstration work. "These are the men who hold the key to the situation, and they must use it or be caught in the wreck," said Mr. Campbell. "They must do four things. First, they must lend money to farmers on other crops than cotton. Second, they must secure a competent farm demonstrator for every county two or three years in advance of the weevil's coming. Third, they must establish markets in every small town for grain, hay, live stock and truck crops. Fourth, they must refuse credit to farmers not producing sufficient food crops for home consumption."

Joseph A. McCord, vice-president of the Third National, Atlanta, indorses that view. "Every retailer, every banker, every wholesaler, will suffer seriously unless something definite is done," says he. "We buy our food supply from the west, pay the tariff of a protected market on it, pay the freight on it—and then produce our cotton, which we sell to a free trade country, England. How we have survived such a commercial creed is puzzling. Our unusual natural advantages have saved us. But we have gone the limit, and must change our program to diversified farming and the production of our own food supplies."

TRIAL POSTPONED TO JANUARY

Officials charged with frauds in connection with the failure of the Chickasaw Bank and Trust, Memphis, Tenn., will not be tried until the January term of court. Fifty-six cases against G. E. Neuhardt, S. L. Sparks and P. J. Nelson were dropped from the calendar of the first division of the criminal court, to be reset some time during the January term, which does not begin until the third Monday in January. The Chickasaw Bank and Trust failed January 7, owing depositors $172,000. A dividend of 15 per cent was recommended September 28, but none has been paid. The North Memphis Savings is acting without compensation and reports $27,000 on hand. The bank had loans and discounts of $236,000; capital stock, $25,000, and surplus, $7,284.

CHOOSES JAIL TO DIVULGING TRANSACTIONS OF CUSTOMERS

In the course of a grand jury investigation against corrupt election practices in Clark county, Ky., by State Circuit Judge Benton, testimony was sought from David B. Hampton, president of the Clark County National, Winchester, who was expected to throw light upon the corruption alleged. While Mr. Hampton was not concerned except in so far as the alleged corruptionists were customers at his bank, he declined to testify. He took the position that transactions with his bank were confidential and would always be so regarded by him. Upon being told that he either must testify or go to jail, he went to jail and still is there except for a brief summons to court each day, when he again is ordered to testify and again refuses.

Senate Approves Currency Bill

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The senate this afternoon approved the Owen-Glass currency bill. It is expected that the bill will become a part of the law of the land within a few days.

INTEREST RATES LIKELY TO BE MAINTAINED

A vice-president of one of Chicago's largest banks, a man who is regarded as a leading authority in financial matters, when interviewed this week by a representative of THE CHICAGO BANKER, said:

"The money market at present is in a somewhat uncertain condition. Under ordinary circumstances there ought to be a large reflow of currency to centers and a corresponding decline in rate. We are at present, however, not under ordinary circumstances.

"As a result of the Middle West the partial failure of the corn crop has resulted in heavy withdrawals from country banks, both on account of diminished receipts for produce and on account of purchase of stock. As a consequence the country banks have been heavy borrowers from their city correspondents. Loans have been drawn down so that they are at a lower ebb than they have been since 1907.

"The mercantile business has experienced a depression and many borrowers have been unable to carry over their loans. Under these circumstances interest rates, which usually go up at this season of the year, are well maintained and are likely to remain so for some time.

"What the currency legislation may bring about in shifting of deposits and capital is difficult to predict."

URGES SIMPLE LIVING

George M. Reynolds said this week that there has been so much extravagance in living that we have gone so far beyond normal restraintment ought to be regarded as a necessity instead of an evil.

"A little more wholesomeness in living and a reduction in expenditures will cause us to approximate more clearly the standard of normal activity which, in the end, must be accepted as the governing factor," he said.

URGE BURLESON'S RECOMMENDATION

Members of the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads have endorsed the recommendation of the postmaster-general that the government take over the telephone and telegraph lines of the country.

Bankers Who Are Attracting Attention

DES MOINES, IA.

LOIS E. NASH
ELIZABETH, ILL.

L. E. Stevens, president of the Century Savings, Des Moines, recently has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city and also has been selected to head the Des Moines Clearing House Association. Mr. Stevens is a popular member of the banking fraternity and always has taken an active interest in state and national association matters.

Lois E. Nash, cashier of the Elizabeth State, is one of the many women who are making good in the banking field. She was the principal factor in the organization of the bank and now is its leading spirit. Miss Nash is a pronounced advocate of supervision of all forms of banking and hopes to see the enactment of an adequate law in this state in the near future.

TO TAKE UP RURAL CREDITS

After the enactment of the currency bill into law it is expected that the president and congress will set about the task of providing an adequate agricultural credit system.

In a few days there will be submitted to both houses the report of the national commission which investigated the question in Europe. A bill will be submitted along with the report.

There will be two classes of credit, long time, or land mortgage credits, and short time, or personal credit.

The report of the commission suggests the segregation of notes. It is possible that the banks may be cooperative.

ILLINOIS PRIVATE BANK CLOSES

The Plainfield Bank, a private institution at Plainfield, ten miles north of Joliet, closed its doors today. John I. Evarts, the proprietor, is missing. The bank has been in business forty years and is the oldest in that section. Great excitement prevails.

PITTSBURGH BANK LIQUIDATING

Announcement was made this week that the Federal National of Pittsburgh, chartered in 1901, will liquidate through the Mellon National of that city. After all the depositors have been paid the balance will be paid to the stockholders.

Officers of the Federal are as follows: J. H. Jones, president; F. R. Babcock and G. W. Eisenbeis, vice-presidents; H. M. Landis, vice-president and cashier; H. W. Loos, assistant cashier.

NORTHERN TRUST PURCHASES PROPERTY

Northern Trust has purchased the property adjoining its building on the west, on Monroe street. There are leases which have six years to run yet, so that nothing will be done until the expiration of that time. It is possible that the bank then will build an annex to its present building.

The frontage of the newly acquired property is 27½ feet on Monroe street and it extends back 190 feet to an alley.

"STRING of trotters" was the only assets of an eastern failed brokerage firm. A parcel of fancy dogs was all a western broker had with which to pay his debts, when he was up.

MIGHT be well to refrain from dealing exclusively with those who give up too much time and money for fads, be they polo, hawks, chickens or trotters.

MILLARD F. DUNLAP and Andrew Russell compose the chief "boosters' committee" in Jacksonville, Illinois. They have built another bank, and if they keep on the same house will go out of business for lack of occupation.

This is the greatest possible boost for the Morgan county seat that two such astute men hold her future to be so secure.

The old firm of Dunlap, Russell & Co., private bankers, were among the first to recognize that the day of organized banking had come. They have had many followers.

AFTER buying the Ayers National, a splendid building, the finest and costliest in the city, was erected. Then they took over the Jacksonville National.

We hear that E. F. Crabtree nails the Farrell & Co. bank down when he goes home at night, so it will be there in the morning.

The new bank, if consolidation is the plan, will have resources of more than three millions, a regular town and business builder, in to its power.

THERE are scores of towns in Illinois where similar coups could be pulled off, for profit to all concerned.

The legal department of the A. B. A. Journal probably is the only one that survives the one published in the North Dakota Banker. Look it up and you will agree.

SOUTH DAKOTA Improved Seed Growers Association is right up to the times and doing fine work. H. L. Bolley, of the Agricultural College, is in charge of the information department.

The seed growers' contest is staged for January 13. No charge for entry, but valuable prizes will be given.

BOLLEY is strong on "vitality" and "purification," which is a sort of seed eugenics and is recently up to date.

QUAL Life of New York is catching up northwest for circulating documents and appear to throw doubt upon the solvency of all banks while glorifying the safety of insurance companies.

CLERK D. SHELLY KLOSS has issued the Pennsylvania proceedings book at the Pittsburgh convention. Next year the bug will be back at the much loved and old Bedford Springs.

Established 1904 60 Wall St., New York Member A. B. A.

PENNSYLVANIA has met four times in the last six years at her beautiful watering place and the attendance always is large. Shows bankers will go and pay for their own "entertainment" if given the opportunity.

THERE are a thousand saw mills in Arkansas and as many more in Louisiana. The lumber men cut all the trees that are large enough to make merchantable lumber and leave the small trees and underbrush standing.

THERE are ten million acres of land along the Rock Island Lines in these two states that have been "cut-over" in this way and the acreage is being increased daily, single lumber companies taking the timber from as high as twelve thousand acres a year.

H. M. COTTRELL, agricultural commissioner for the Rock Island, says these lands can be bought for from six to ten dollars.

HE will tell any one interested what the lands will raise—from peanuts and sugar cane to "pigs in clover." Lots of information free and reliable.

LUCKY for Edward O. Rice that he was on the spot when his opportunity came along.

NEW JERSEY Bankers Association has a wise committee on the currency bill. It sent a fine letter to the state's members of Congress with the following opening paragraph:

"WE desire to commend the efforts which the president and the congress have made to pass currency legislation satisfactory to the country and consistent with sound finance; and we record our conviction that all of those concerned have been actuated solely by a desire to obtain the soundest possible legislation."

THEN it filled in the changes it would like to see made. Pretty clever and in approved form. Recommendations were orthodox.

FRIENDS of Charles O. Austin, formerly cashier of the National Bank of North America in Chicago, but now at San Antonio, are asking the comptroller to appoint him as a national bank examiner.

HE has completely regained his health and wants to get back into the harness. He's fully equipped and has had lots and lots of banking experience. Help push it along.

EDITOR GLASS, of Birmingham, is the new senator for Alabama. He's a Princeton graduate and believes in President Wilson.

JOSEPH P. is he who took the tumult out of Tumulty.

LAURENS, IOWA, Sun has gotten out a fine boom edition and carries a full page ad for one of Charles B. Mills' banks—State Bank of Laurens. Mr. Mills is president.

FARMERS BANK at Grass Lake, Mich., has just concluded a corn show, not so big as that of the Corn Ex. at Philadelphia, but quite important to its community.

WHEN they tell you over in Michigan that "they have stopped slicing" up at Owosso, the "slicing" relates to sugar beets and not to golf balls.

MICHIGAN courts have upheld the new "Blue Sky" laws. It was a clear victory for the law, but the case will be carried to the Supreme Court by the complainants.

IF you will read carefully, the article on bank guaranty by Thornton Cooke, of Kansas City, in the current issue of Journal of Economics, you will find the subject treated by a not unfriendly critic.

THE JOURNAL is the official organ of Harvard University, and is a powerful and influential publication.

MR. COOKE is quite sure, in the end, that "guaranty has not turned bankers into rogues" as some predicted. Neither has it caused bankers to relinquish the usual safeguards and their eternal vigilance.

PHILADELPHIA Clearing House has at last acted in a matter long discussed in a quiet way.

IT has decided to put into force a system of rotation in the membership of the committees, so that each year the member oldest in service is ineligible for continued service and a new member takes his place.

THE retiring member is not eligible for re-election until the expiration of a year. Similar rule will apply to the office of president, who can only hold office for two years consecutively and then is ineligible for re-election for a year.

IN accordance with the rules, the proposed changes must be acted upon by the board of directors of each member bank and trust company, after which it becomes effective at the annual meeting of the Clearing House Association in January.

IN some form these same questions have been up in almost every clearing center in the country. The committees in many places are the important offices.

R. N. PAYNE - - MARIETTA, OHIO

SECRETARY S. B. RANKIN has proposed a solution of the great Ohio question as to who should pay the examiner.

THE banks favor the plan (theirs) of having the state foot the bills and the governor says the fee system is the only one.

HERE'S where Stacy B. gets in his angelic little suggestion. He would adopt a merit system whereby the banks with clean score sheets would not pay anything.

ONLY the bank with its liver out of order, or lame with the gout, etc., would pay. The worse their condition the more their fee should be.

THE scheme looks pretty good to an outsider, but it is for Ohio to settle it in the end.

THE broker who sits in his office and waits for business to come to him has plenty of leisure time on his hands. This is the time to advertise.

FIRST National in Cleveland has won a seven-years suit for $30,000 against Breakwater Co., on repudiated notes. The notes had come into the bank's possession as collateral.

NOW, then, if you can evade the income collector, you are invited to join a Millionaires' Colony to be established by F. A. Vanderlip at Palo Verde, in southern California.

FIAT money will not be taken. Mr. Vanderlip has bought 15,000 acres of land for $1,750,000 and will divide it up into villa sites for eastern millionaires. Big scheme!

A LANDSCAPE artist has been engaged to beautify each mansion spot and for general park development.

THE official title of the booster club is "Des Moines Chamber of Commerce," a modest but dignified but effective organization.

IT is the aim of the new president to secure in 1914 not less than 1,000 members. Better railroad service and more equitable rates are among the chief issues.

A POLL of membership shows that both the trust company and the savings bank sections of the A. B. A. are entitled to two members of the Executive Council, as per the Boston amendment.

IN settling the question, banks had to decide with which section—savings or trust—they would affiliate. The decision created a few vacancies in vice-presidential staffs which were filled by appointment.

WE never see a blooming thing in the A. B. A. Journal about the Illinois Bankers Association. Is it possible that the Colonist, too, has been cut off the mailing list?

PRESIDENT H. J. DREHER, of the Institute, has a leader in the December issue which every banker ought to read. He presents the problems of the educational section in an original and forcible style, quite his own.

They have a Bond Mens Club, in Philadelphia. The notion is spreading rapidly in bond centers.

Down at St. Louis they are talking of a new banking project with B. F. Edwards at the head of it.

We hear that the new St. Paul bank is to have a beautifully designed and tastefully printed ink spot for its emblem, to appear on all checks and statements, not by accident but with malice aforethought.

Judging by the editorials in several eastern banking papers, the new free literature from the B. F. Harris studio is looked upon as a sort of infringement of vested rights. One of them says:

The independent publishers of monthly banking literature will see in the introduction of this new monthly another menace to their subscription lists, for the publication will be more or less subsidized after the manner of the monthly issued by the secretary of the American Bankers Association, the unfair competition of which is reported to have made inroads in the paid list of many publications.

The Harris style, scripture is quoted also. We have no objection to semi-official literature, even when it's free.

For Harris and his cause will not get the wide range of their past publicity, even in the legitimate papers. That can be hoped. Perhaps the new form will be more effective, however, and we sincerely hope it may.

REAL estate brokers in Chicago find, so they say, that the business gradually is getting into the hands of the banks. Insurance and bond men have, at times, thought the very same thing.

WE are printing the name of the Illinois Bankers Association right here in bold type simply to keep it before the public. Haven't seen it mentioned in a banking newspaper since the September convention. Too bad!

THAT Omaha bank run is another reason why every banker should be a "dry."

IF the Chicago newspapers, which are after Mayor Harrison's political scalp, keep on and on about that school board fiasco, they will have every fair-play man out yelling for Shoop. Feminine unrest is another feature of it, we don't like.

ALL the banks in California which used the word "trust" as part of their title had to drop it. Goods have to agree with the label out there. In Illinois a loan shark can be a "savings bank" to lure the unwary. A pawn broker can be any kind of a "trust company," or, a "bank," if that helps his business any more.

Chicago, Illinois, November 15, 1913.
Sealed proposals will be received by the Committee on Local Transportation of the City Council of the City of Chicago and the Harbor and Subway Commission of the City of Chicago, until twelve o'clock noon, January 5th, 1914, at the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, number 139 North Clark street, Chicago, Illinois, for the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of rapid transit subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago, according to the terms, conditions and provisions of an ordinance entitled "An ordinance in relation to the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago," passed by the City Council of said City of Chicago, November 3, 1913, and in accordance with the general plans and specifications for said subway now on file in the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, and signed by the commissioners of said Harbor and Subway Commission, showing the proposed routes of the subway and the general form and method of construction, the number and location of the proposed tracks and approaches, and the alignment and grade and the number and general style and method of construction of the stations, and in accordance with detail plans and specifications for said subway to be hereafter prepared by said Harbor and Subway Commission, unless otherwise directed by said City Council, and in accordance with the general equipment plans and specifications now on file in the office of said Harbor and Subway Commission and signed by the commissioners of said Harbor and Subway Commission.

Proposals must be in the form prescribed by said Committee on Local Transportation and said Harbor and Subway Commission, copies of which may be obtained at the aforesaid office of said Harbor and Subway Commission, and be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to said Local Transportation Committee and said Harbor and Subway Commission, and endorsed "Proposal for the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of a comprehensive system of subways for passenger transportation in the City of Chicago," and be delivered at said office of said Harbor and Subway Commission. Each party making a proposal shall, concurrently with the delivery of such proposal, deposit with the City Treasurer of the City of Chicago the sum of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) in cash, or the party making such proposal may, in lieu of such cash deposit, or any part thereof deposit with said City Treasurer securities which shall be worth not less than One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) or such part thereof as is not so deposited in cash. If securities be deposited in lieu of cash, they shall be securities of which a schedule entitled "Schedule of securities to be deposited in connection with the proposal of (here insert name of bidder) for a comprehensive system of passenger subways," shall have been previously submitted to and approved by the Mayor and the City Comptroller of the City of Chicago.

The said City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

A deposit of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) will be required of each bidder to insure the safe return of the plans and specifications by such bidder.

IMPROVED FACILITIES AWAIT YOUR 1914 BUSINESS

Touches upon proposed banking and financial legislation by congress

WASHINGTON LETTER

By R. A. ALBERTSEN

Relates to administrative and department matters interesting to our readers

A senator who stands very close to the administration intimated this week that as soon as the pending currency bill shall have been enacted into law, a comprehensive investigation of the national banks of the country will be made. The idea is to ascertain what adjustments will be necessary in order to enable the banks to comply with the provisions of the new law.

It is contended by the Treasury officials at Washington that at the present time the national bank act is being violated in spirit, if not in fact, by some of the banks. It is proposed to correct this abuse and to fasten the blame upon the individual officials responsible for the alleged bad practices.

The intention of the government in conducting an investigation of this description after the enactment of the currency bill is to preclude the possibility of the banks claiming that the federal officials were actuated by motives of revenge as a result of the opposition of the former to the Owen-Glass bill. It is said that this is the reason final decision has been withheld in the National City Bank case in which it was charged by J. B. Gargth of Chicago that F. A. Vanderlip and Samuel McRoberts violated the national bank act in furnishing $44,500,000 to Samuel Insull and Henry A. Blair to finance the Chicago traction merger.

Calls Federal Reserve Board Weak

Senator Root this week characterized the federal reserve board as weak and the only barrier to money inflation. Senator Weeks criticised the guaranty of deposits feature, declaring that it was his belief that the majority of the people of the country would be opposed to such a plan.

Senator Nelson defended the compulsory feature of the bill, contending that it would be unconstitutional to compel the banks to participate under penalty of forfeiture of their charters.

Owen Defends Bill

Senator Owen said it was perfectly proper to allow the proposed notes of the regionals in the national banks to be counted as reserve, for otherwise there would not be sufficient money to meet the conditions imposed by the new law.

Hitchcock's Amendments Beaten

Wednesday the Senate passed the day in consideration of further amendments proposed by Senator Hitchcock, defeating by 41 to 37 his amendment to extend the guaranty of bank deposits to cover state banks that joined the new system, as well as national banks. Senator Owen approved this idea, but the democrats would not support it because it had not received the indorsement of the caucus.

A motion by Senator Hitchcock to increase to ninety to 180 days the maturity date of paper that could be submitted for rediscount at the regional banks also was defeated, 39 to 41.

The democrats gathered in a hurriedly called conference at 6 o'clock at night to settle all differences over the bill and agree on amendments they would support.

Caucus Adopts Changes

Following attacks on the note issue provision and the reserve requirements of the bill by those who contended the measure would open the doors to inflation, the democratic caucus revised the reserve section. The required gold reserve behind the new circulating notes was increased from 35 to 40 per cent, with a tax of 1 per cent on depletion of the reserve down to 32½ per cent. An attempt to fix an arbitrary limit on the amount of notes to be issued failed.

Other amendments adopted provided for the use of part of the surplus earnings of the regional banks for building up the gold reserve, for an increase in the compensation of the members of the federal reserve board from $10,000 to $12,000, as provided in the Hitchcock amendment, and that all the member banks must receive the proposed new notes at par was approved.

Remodel Trust Company Section

The conference also decided to remodel section eight, providing for the entrance of state banks and trust companies into the new system, and voted in favor of a provision whereby regional banks would be required to keep a fund intact in the treasury to provide for the redemption of outstanding notes. It took no action on the guaranty of deposits provision.

The conference considered but did not act finally on a point involved in one of the Hitchcock amendments defeated on the floor of the Senate. This would allow regional banks to rediscount for member banks a specified percentage of six months commercial paper to accommodate banks in the country districts of the middle west.

Submits Chicago Proposal

Senator Lewis prepared an amendment for submission to the caucus. This provides that bank examiners shall not be allowed to make public information, which they may obtain in their investigations, concerning the business of clients of the banks, such as the amount of individual loans and the nature of the collateral. Senator Lewis prepared this amendment, he says, at the request of the clearing house of Chicago, from which he received a telegram pointing out the need of such an amendment.

Senator Reed believes it would be a mistake to have the bank examiners bound to secrecy and may oppose the Lewis plan.

Republican senators joined Mr. Hitchcock in the afternoon against the provision of the Owen bill limiting to ninety days the maturity period of commercial paper that might be rediscounted at the proposed new regional reserve banks.

Scores Republicans

Speaker Clark, in a speech made in the House, charged the Republicans with endeavoring to create a panic and to discredit the administration in the eyes of the people. He said that everyone, regardless of his political faith, desires to see the country prosperous, and bitterly arraigned those who are attempting to bring about a feeling of unrest.

Mentioned for Federal Reserve Board

Among those mentioned as likely to be chosen to serve on the federal reserve board after the enactment of the currency bill are G. M. Reynolds, E. D. Hulbert and W. T. Fenton, Chicago; Joseph Chapman, Minneapolis; Jas. K. Lynch, San Francisco; Rome C. Stephenson, South Bend, Ind.; Andrew Smith, Indianapolis; Jno. McHugh, Sioux City; C. H. McNider, Mason City; E. O. Rice, St. Paul; D. L. Twohy, Spokane; J. W. Staley and G. E. Lawson, Detroit; J. J. Sullivan, Cleveland; C. P. Hinsch, Cincinnati; R. S. Hawes, St. Louis; Stoddard Jess and J. F. Sartori, Los Angeles; Sol Wexler, New Orleans; J. H. Puelicher, Milwaukee; Millard F. Dunlap, Jacksonville, Ill.; H. R. Dennis, Sioux Falls, S. D.; W. S. Guthrie, Oklahoma City; Louis G. Kauffman, New York; Jno. Skelton Williams, assistant secretary treasury; Jno. V. Farwell, Chicago; George W. Norris, Philadelphia; Prof. Sprague of Harvard.

The names of George M. Reynolds and James J. Hill have been mentioned as candidates for chairman of the board. Mr. Hill was endorsed this week by leading bankers of Chicago. It is said, however, that he does not look upon the proposition favorably on account of his age and desire to retire from active business. It is doubted by many whether Mr. Reynolds would be willing to make the financial sacrifice necessary. The name of E. D. Hulbert also was mentioned in connection with the position.

Want Regional Located in Memphis

Resolutions adopted by the Merchants Exchange will result in congressmen from five states being urged to ask that one of the regional banks provided for in the pending currency bill be placed in Memphis. If that support is obtained Memphis will have secured 43 votes in the House and 10 votes in the Senate. Letters will be sent senators and representatives from Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama and Oklahoma, explaining to them that Memphis is the largest inland cotton, cotton oil and hardwood lumber market in the world, and endeavoring to convince them it is to the best interest of the entire south that the bank for this section of the country be placed in Memphis because of the geographical location of this city.

The presentation of the resolutions brought expressions of approval of the currency bill by a number of Memphis bankers. They declare they are convinced the plan would be an efficient one.

Provision for Collection of Checks a Great Boon to Country Banks

Newton D. Alling, vice-president of the National Nassau Bank, New York, says that opponents of the Owens-Glass currency bill attack the clause regarding the collection of currency checks, claiming that it is not only hostile to the interests of the country bankers, but also that the expense involved by the Federal Reserve Banks assuming this collection without charge would be so great as to wipe out any profits that there might be in any other branch of the banking business. Those who take this view do not seem to grasp the fact that, if the Federal Reserve Banks are organized to receive on deposit at par, and without charge for exchange or collection, checks and drafts drawn by any of their depositors, all expenses are swept away. Still more is this so when Section 20, which requires the reserves of all member banks to be retained in the Reserve Bank in their region, is considered.

The only expense which would be left of the many which we have now would be the actual transfer of money from one section to another, and that would probably be only a fraction of what it is under the present system. Take, for instance, the shipping of currency which is necessary in the fall for crop moving from New York to the west; that outlay would be eliminated. New York would no longer hold the reserve for western banks, but it would be held by Federal banks in Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City, and Denver, each close at hand in its own district.

How the System Would Work

The collection of checks would be simplified to a greater extent. A check for instance drawn on a bank in Joliet, Ill., and deposited in a bank in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., would be sent by the Poughkeepsie bank for its credit in the Federal bank in New York, the Federal bank in New York would send it to the Federal bank in Chicago, which would credit the Federal bank of New York, and charge the account of the bank in Joliet. The bank in Joliet will send all of the checks deposited with it outside of its own city to the Federal bank of Chicago for credit to its account, thus naturally providing funds at all times to meet checks drawn on it and redeemed by its reserve bank. The check drawn on a member bank would be offset by the checks which it sent to the Federal bank for collection, just as checks now sent to a local clearing house are offset by those received from the clearing house by any member bank.

Thus would the member bank's reserve account always be kept in funds without the necessity of shipping a dollar of currency except in some exceptional circumstances. It would not be necessary for member banks to replenish their reserve account constantly at great expense by shipping currency, as has been erroneously stated by those who should know better. This clause in the bill will be the greatest boon to the country bankers that can or ever will again be granted to them. It will make their checks acceptable at par in any part of the country, on an equal footing with the largest New York bank. It will open the door to the markets of the country for local manufacturing and mercantile depositors. It will not be necessary for them to keep their accounts in Albany or Philadelphia or New York to comply with that little request on most every statement, "Payable only in New York exchange."

It is high time that the banks of the country went out of the balance-swapping business and devoted their time to simple banking. The Federal Reserve Act will eliminate all of this unnecessary expense, and will collect or exchange all of the checks of the country for one-twentieth or less of the cost of today, and the tariff on business will be removed entirely. President Wilson spoke truly when he said that this bill would "strike the shackles off business." When he signs this bill he will with one stroke of his pen remove all the vexing problems of the collection of country checks.

CHICAGO'S VISITORS

Among Chicago's recent visitors were L. N. Junkenz, cashier of the German Bank at Freeport; E. B. Wilson, State bank examiner, Des Moines, Ia.

F. A. Collman, manager of the San Francisco office of Hathaway, Smith and Folds Co., Chicago, was in Chicago this week and left Tuesday for a business trip to New York. B. F. Shadley of Galesburg, Ill., who represents the Isler-Tompson Lithographing Co., St. Louis, and travels in the northern Illinois banking territory, visited Chicago Friday.

WAY TO ACQUIRE 320 ACRES

The 320-acre homestead law, or, as it is often called, the enlarged homestead law, has made possible the entry of many millions of acres of dry land in the western states in tracts double the size now allowed under the original homestead law. Only land which has been "designated" by the secretary of the interior as "nonirrigible" can be entered under this act. More than 200,000,000 acres have been thus designated, but petitions and sworn statements requesting further designations are constantly being received.

DEPOSITORS TO SUE BANK HEADS

Following a meeting of the depositors of the defunct Feliciana Bank and Trust Company, New Roads, La., it was decided to enter suit against the directors for deposits. J. T. Miller, attorney of New Orleans, was directed to bring legal action. A committee appointed to examine the bank's books is composed of Pinckney, Johnson, W. C. Howell, O. Lejeune, D. C. McKay and W. B. Smith.

VANDERLIP IN CHICAGO

Frank A. Vanderlip stopped off in Chicago Wednesday on his way to New York from California.

Douglas McNair, who established the Commercial Savings of Standish, Mich., about a year ago, has consolidated with the Standish State and according to a report, will be cashier of the new institution.

The New Banking and Currency Bill

The new banking and currency bill known as the Federal Reserve Act, now under consideration in Congress, is of vital interest to every banker.

It is necessarily technical in its nature and therefore hard to understand.

We have prepared a Digest of the bill, concise, compact, and so arranged as to enable the busy man to grasp its essential features in a few minutes. A copy of this Digest will be sent to anyone on request.

URGENT INTEREST IN GOOD ROADS

The good roads committee of the Illinois Bankers Association, consisting of Messrs. Brit, McCartney, Edens and Riggs, had a meeting at a dinner at the La Salle Hotel last evening, A. D. Gash, president of the Illinois Highway Commission. After discussion of the provisions of the Tice bill it was decided that the committee should urge upon the bankers of the state an active interest in the matter of having their respective counties support the Tice bill.

Mr. Riggs was authorized to prepare some pamphlets for circulation among the bankers, dealing with the subject of the proper dragging of earth roads. Mr. Riggs formerly lived in Missouri, where the dragging of earth roads was first introduced, and is familiar with the improvement which has been made in Iowa as a result of their compulsory drag law. The committee representing the bankers' association hopes to have the continued interest of the bankers who assisted in the campaign for the passage of the Tice bill, and in addition the co-operation of other bankers throughout the state who recognize the necessity for constant agitation with respect to bringing about an improvement in the road situation.

Bankers in Cook county who are interested in the matter of having the state aid provided for the Tice bill available for improvement of the principal roads in this county should get in communication with the ten city members of the board of county commissioners and urge them to vote for an appropriation of $200,000 from Cook county's funds for the improvement of the roads, in addition to the amount which they may allow for bridge improvement in this county, so that we may secure the $120,000 we are entitled to under the Tice bill.

Chicago bankers who know these commissioners personally will be doing a great service in the matter of road improvement in this county if they will give the subject prompt attention.

CHICAGO CLEARINGS

Chicago's bank clearings for November totaled $1,294,670,412 as compared with $1,313,134 for the corresponding period last year. The clearings for the eleven months of this year are $14,636,588,314 as against $14,020,381,616 in 1912.

COLFAX (IA.) BANK IN BAD WAY

Investigation into the death of Cashier M. B. Wheelock of the Citizens State at Colfax has been proceeding both at Des Moines and Colfax, but at this writing no satisfactory explanation has been secured. It has developed that the institution was in bad shape financially. While the state banking department has ordered an assessment of 75 per cent, it is feared that this may not be enough and that the bank may not reopen. It is regarded as certain that the depositors will not lose, but it may require some of Mrs. Wheelock's private fortune, in case she consents, and the legal limit of 100 per cent assessment to do it. Investigation at the hands of the coroner as to what led Wheelock to drown himself in the Des Moines river is still in progress at Des Moines at this time, but no actual light has been shed upon this feature of the case except that financial worries were undoubtedly to blame.

PEOPLES STOCKYARDS EXTRA

Directors of the Peoples Stockyards State have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent and an extra dividend of 2 per cent, payable January 1. This makes 12 per cent on the bank's capital for the year.

RETURNS FROM NEW YORK

George M. Reynolds returned on Monday of this week from a trip to New York. He said that in the East the falling off in business is attributed to the new tariff rather than to uncertainty respecting the enactment of the currency bill.

"In many lines of business the effect of the lower duties has not been fully determined. It remains to be seen what efforts foreign manufacturers will put forth to secure American trade. I found among Eastern bankers and business men a disposition to await the more complete operation of the new tariff," said Mr. Reynolds.

SCHIFF BANK OPENS

On Tuesday of this week the Schiff & Co. State Bank succeeded to the business of the private bank of Schiff & Co., at 728 West Twelfth Street, with deposits of two millions. The new institution is capitalized at $200,000 and has a surplus of $50,000. Benjamin J. Schiff is president; Samuel S. Schuster, cashier, and Miss Lillian E. Schiff, assistant cashier. Directors are the foregoing and Samuel Phillipson and David L. Ettelson.

IDENTIFIES SUSPECT

E. W. Fisher, cashier of the Addison (Ill.), State, has identified Arthur Schowichow alias George Schmidt, as one of the men who held up the bank recently and killed Edward Rotermond, assistant cashier.

Schowichow was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., and now is lodged in the Du Page county jail charged with murder.

CONNECTICUT BANK CLOSED

Greenwich (Conn.), Savings has been closed by the state banking commissioners. The institution was incorporated in 1870, and on July 1 last, it had deposits of $868,000 and surplus of $73,900.

SOUTH DAKOTA BANK SOLD

The Berresford (S. D.), State Bank has been sold to George Ackly, cashier of the Dakota Trust and Savings, at Sioux Falls. Mr. Ackly contemplates taking actual control. The bank has a capital of $125,000, and has been doing a very prosperous business.

LORIMER TO OPEN ANOTHER BANK

William Lorimer and his associates plan the opening shortly after the first of the year of a new state bank to be known as the Ashland and Twelfth Street State.

The new institution will be capitalized at $200,000 and have a surplus of $10,000. At a recent meeting of the stockholders, C. B. Munday, vice-president of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings, was elected temporary president, and E. J. Potts was made vice-president.

CENTRAL TRUST APPOINTED

The Central Trust Company has been appointed receiver for the Trowbridge & Niver Co., formerly a leader in the irrigation securities field in Chicago. The company practically retired from business three years ago, since which time, through the activity and ability of Vice-President G. S. Speer, its debts have been reduced from $3,000,000 to $600,000. It is likely that had Mr. Speer been given time he could have cleared up the whole indebtedness.

EX-CHICAGO BANKER DIES

Thomas P. Phillips, who organized and was the first vice-president of the Federal Trust and Savings of this city, died on Friday of last week at his home in Altadena, Cal.

In 1885 Mr. Phillips organized the Chicago & Naperville Stone Company, which subsequently became the Dolese & Shepherd Company. The deceased was president of this company until he retired in 1905.

WOODLAWN TRUST DIVIDEND

The directors of the Woodlawn Trust and Savings of Chicago have declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent for the quarter ending December 31, payable at the close of business on that date to stockholders of record December 24. Also, $50,000 was taken from undivided profits and carried to surplus, raising that from $50,000 to $100,000, leaving approximately $20,000 undivided profits.

TO OPEN CHICAGO OFFICE

The New York banking firm of Kean, Taylor & Co. plans the opening of a Chicago office in the near future.

The large number of eastern firms which have opened offices in western territory is regarded as an indication of the growing importance of this section of the country as a base of operation for the distribution of bonds. The branch offices in many instances have grown to be larger than the home offices.

Kean, Taylor & Co. have for many years been identified prominently with the bond business. It is their intention to equip large offices in Chicago and to establish a staff of capable officials throughout their new territory.

PEOPLES STATE PLANNING ADDITION

Stockholders of the Peoples State of Detroit will vote shortly on a proposition to increase the capital of the institution to $2,000,000. The 100 shares of new stock will be offered pro rata to present stockholders at $200 per share. This will bring the surplus up to $2,000,000, the same as the capital. In connection with the increase in capital, the bank proposes to erect an addition to its present home. The addition would extend south from the present building to Congress street, giving the bank a frontage of 100 feet on Fort street and also on Congress street and a depth of nearly 300 feet on Shelby street.

BANK TO INCREASE CAPITAL

The University State of Seattle has increased its capital stock from $25,000 to $100,000. The new stock will be issued at the forthcoming annual election, at which time a new president to succeed the late J. C. Norton will be named. This is one of the few banks in Seattle which has less than $100,000 capital. No banks in existence before the law requiring banks in cities the size of Seattle to have a minimum of $100,000 capital.

NEW KANSAS BANK

The First National of Hiawatha, Kan., opened recently under new management. A substantial interest has been purchased by W. R. Guild of Sabetha, who has been elected president. Charles Knabb and Wm. Knabb have disposed of all their interests in the bank and will devote their attention to their personal affairs. George W. Williams, president of the First National of Seneca, and George A. Guild, cashier of the Central National of Topeka, are new stockholders and will be added to the board of directors at the next annual meeting. A. J. Collins, president of the National Bank of Sabetha, also is a new stockholder. George C. McKnight will continue his connection with the First National as vice-president, and J. W. Howie as cashier. W. R. Guild, the president, for the past six years has been cashier of the National Bank of Sabetha, and is mayor of that city.

NEW GEORGIA BANK

A charter has been granted to the Bank of Muscogee, Columbus, Ga., capital stock, $50,000. J. M. Murrah is president. Other incorporators are E. L. Murrah, W. L. Bush and S. J. McGrath, all of Columbus.

NEW NEBRASKA BANK

The Ralston (Neb.), State opened its doors for business recently. C. W. Skinner is president; C. H. Harris, vice-president, and L. S. Packard, cashier. The new bank occupies commodious quarters in a building of its own.

The Bennett Loan & Trust Company at Sioux City has increased its capital stock to $100,000. It has been $5,000. The Bennett block, in which it was quartered, has been sold and the institution will move to the Motor Mart.

INDEBTEDNESS OF CANADIAN FARMERS

It is declared that the total indebtedness of Saskatchewan farmers to Canadian branch banks is $15,106,726. It is believed that the farmers owe between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 for machinery. The amount owing on agreements of sale for land is also very considerable. To one company they owe $5,770,000 and to another $2,622,920. The amount due for pre-emptions, for horses, for store credit, for lumber, for bank credit and for miscellaneous debts, together with that owing on land, is placed at $50,000,000. The farmers of the province are said to be paying interest on $150,000,000, or $12,000,000 annually for agricultural credit. It is thought that the average indebtedness of the Saskatchewan farmer is $1,500, or $5 an acre of the total land occupied.

CAPITAL ONE MILLION DOLLARS

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

One of the oldest and largest banks in the Tri-Cities of Illinois and Iowa is the People's Savings Bank and Trust Company of Moline. Established in 1857, it has done a large and increasing business to the present time, and the future of the institution is promising. The capital and surplus of this bank now stand at $400,000. About New Year's Day of 1912 the bank removed into its beautiful new building, one of the best equipped in the Central West, and which was carefully described to the friends of the bank at that time in the CHICAGO BANKER. Moline, Rock Island and Davenport, with various suburban towns near them, form a large and important business center. Moline, especially, has been an active business and industrial city for many years, but at the present time, according to Nelson H. Greene, vice-president and cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust Company, business and financial conditions are not as active there this year as in former years. Mr. Greene, who has served as president of the Illinois Bankers Association and who has attended many state and national bankers' conventions, has a wide circle of friends throughout the country. In speaking of his city Mr. Greene says:

"I will say that there has been a general slowing down of business in this locality the last few months, and money is in great demand, with a very limited supply in local institutions. All manufacturing concerns here are running at about 75 per cent of their normal capacity. Crops the past season have been fairly good, with the exception of corn, which is below the average and the quality not so good as it should be. The tendency in this community points toward conservatism and everyone is trimming ship, so that he will be prepared for any emergency that might arise."

Death of Prominent Canton Banker

W. O. Dean, president of the First National of Canton and widely known over the country generally as a manufacturer of cigars, died at the Hamilton Club in Chicago, Friday evening, December 5th. The body was removed to Canton the following Sunday and burial was Monday morning, December 8th.

The three banks of Canton closed during the funeral services.

Mr. Dean learned the cigarmaker's trade when a mere youth, was successful, and having a natural talent for money-making, accumulated a fortune of about one million dollars. He had been president of the First National of Canton for a number of years and was interested in various financial enterprises. When the Canton interurban was in financial embarrassment, Mr. Dean came to the rescue with $100,000 which he invested in stock of the road, thereby vastly improving its credit.

As a manufacturer of cigars Mr. Dean acquired not only a fortune but his cigars were known the country over. At times his employees numbered 225 men, and his factory, being permanent and on a sound financial standing, was a good proposition for his home town. The factory is now known as the Beam-Dean Cigar Factory.

From Janitor to President

W. D. Plattenberg, cashier of the First National of Canton, has been named president of the institution to succeed the late W. O. Dean, who died suddenly at the Hamilton Club in Chicago a few days ago. Mr. Plattenberg thirty-two years ago as a young man served the institution of which he is now the head as janitor. He occupies a prominent place in the business and financial affairs of Canton and has a host of friends in that city. The First National of Canton is a large and prosperous institution.

Forger's Plans Fail to Work

A few days ago a stranger giving the name of Anton Post and his business a stock buyer of St. Paul, went into the First National Chillicothe, deposited $50 in cash, wrote check for $35 which the cashier certified. The check was made payable to Adler, Son & Co. of Chicago, a live stock commission house.

Post accordingly went to the office of the Adler company in Chicago, deposited the certified check, which had been raised to $35 and showed the deposit slip raised to $425. He informed the Adler people that he was to be in the city a few days to buy cattle. Suspicion developed and the bank in Chillicothe was written. Assistant Cashier C. B. Zins then wired the commission house about the details of the matter, and when Post reappeared in their office he was arrested as forger. Prosecution will be pushed in the case.

Ora Dilley, having passed worthless checks on Shelbyville merchants and having attempted to sell a forged note to the Shelby County State Bank, has been identified by various business men and by Cashier O. W. Walker and has been lodged in the Shelby county jail.

occupancy of their beautiful new banking room about December 15th. The announcement includes a history of the bank from the date of its charter, January 29th, 1865, to the present time. The First National of Charleston is one of the oldest national banks in the state and is the oldest bank in Coles county. All branches of commercial and savings business are transacted by this institution.

The new building is a credit to both the bank and to the town, and there are few cities of the 7,000 class in the state which have as elegant and complete a banking house as has Charleston in its First National Bank building. Fred G. Hudson, the cashier, is a member of the executive council of the Illinois Bankers Association. Will J. Kenny is the president; James A. Connolly, vice-president; and F. R. Blackford, assistant cashier. Frank K. Dunn, chief justice of the Illinois supreme court and a resident of Charleston, is a director in the bank. The capital and surplus are $25,000 and the deposits $470,000. The steady growth of the bank for the past few years especially is a matter of great pride to the officers and directors. The E. Jackson Casse company of Chicago were the engineering contractors of the building, and the magnificent vaults were installed by the Mosler Safe company.

Illinois Notes

men have been working nights on the new building of the Havana National so that it can be completed by January 1st.

S. E. Huff, prominent lumber dealer, has been elected president of the First State Trust and Savings of Urbana, vice S. W. Love, resigned.

Bank Hoblit, president of the First National of Lincoln, while ill for number of months, is not as serious as has been reported in own-state papers. He is still under the care of a physician, but is improving.

A new bank is being planned for Paxton, the third for that city, the other two being the Paxton State and the First National.

The Pilgrim Banking and Trust Association of Morgan Park has been given a permit to incorporate with capital of $25,000. Francis Harper, Joseph F. Connery and John J. Brett were given the permit.

St. Salle county citizens have asked the board of supervisors to pave with brick or concrete two main roads through the county. Some of the heaviest taxpayers are interested and the public attention in the matter is widespread.

SHEFFER FREED ON BOND

A. R. Sheffer, formerly a Houston (Tex.) banker, was released on $3,000 bond, shortly after he had been arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud, while he and his associates were promoting a banking scheme in Houston. The indictment against Sheffer and three of his associates, Monta J. Moore, J. D. Hefley and N. B. Eligh, was returned in Houston, October 16, following an investigation of the American Trust of Houston. They are charged with having made false statements to prospective subscribers, regarding the solvency of their bank, as well as to the state banking board, when they applied for admission to the state banking association. Sheffer said that he had resigned from the American Trust before the investigation started and the resignation resulted from the fact he opposed schemes of the board, that the resignation of his associates followed.

PAY LAST DIVIDEND

The last dividend to be paid by the old Hutchinson National, which failed twenty years ago, has been declared and a number of Hutchinson depositors have received notices that they still have a small sum coming from the old bank. Reno county was the heaviest depositor with $20,288, at the time of the failure. The county's share in the 1 3/4 per cent dividend declared is $354. Shortly after the failure 25 per cent was paid. The county has received $5,411.21.

BANK ROBBERS KILL CASHIER: GET $5,000

Los Angeles, Cal.—After killing the cashier of the Palo Verde Valley Bank at Blythe, bandits robbed the bank of $5,000 and escaped.

A posse of ranchers and cowboys was quickly organized and started in pursuit.

PLAN TO INCREASE BANK'S CAPITAL

It is proposed to increase the capital stock of the Northwestern Trust and Savings from $250,000 to $300,000. Final action will be taken at the annual meeting January 13, and on the recommendation of the directors, the new shares will be distributed to present holders in the form of a 20 per cent stock dividend.

The board of directors also recommends that the dividend rate on the enlarged capital be increased from 8 to a 10 per cent annual basis.

When present plans are completed the capitalization of the bank will be $300,000 and the surplus half that sum. George M. Reynolds is chairman of the board and John F. Smulski president.

SUITABLE BOOKS FOR CHRISTMAS BOYS.

F. G. Browne & Co., publishers, of Chicago, have brought out two most suitable books for Christmas purposes if there are boys in the family. "The Boy Woodcrafter," by Clarence Hawkes, is to add to the lure of the out-of-door life. The boy and "Old Ben," an accomplished woodman, "take to the woods," where the boy becomes a naturalist of the enthusiastic type. They study the homes and habits of every wild thing from bees to deer, including all kinds of birds and small beasts of the field.

"Field and Forest Friends," by the same writer, is a fine nature book for children. The method is that new one in juveniles where the various animals talk for themselves. The chapters are in reality short stories of the instructive, refreshing type. The books sell at $1.25 each. F. G. Browne & Co., publishers, Chicago.

FUGITIVE BANKER CAUGHT

Returning to Philadelphia following months of hiding in New York, Francisco Delli Paoli, whose bank at 414-416 South Eighth Street failed for $250,000 last April, was captured in the Reading Terminal recently. The warrant under which Paoli was arrested was sworn out by Francesco Dommico. It charges him with the larceny of $1500. He has been released on $4,500 bail.

"Dollars in Dairying" is the title of the bulletin for the current month issued to farmers by members of the W. B. A. The pamphlet is by George C. Humphrey of the state agricultural college. It is distributed through the various banks of the state with their respective imprints.

Suburban Bankers Association Meets

Banks of Wauwatosa, West Allis, South Milwaukee, Cudahy, North Milwaukee, Hales Corners and New Butler were represented at the organization meeting of the Suburban Bankers Association in Milwaukee last week. Thirty-five bankers were present. Officers elected are: President, M. B. Wells; vice-president, Charles H. Krohn; secretary-treasurer, Charles A. Nicholas. Insurance of bank deposits, examination by an auditing department, and the finger print system of identification were among the subjects considered.

New Officer of St. Louis Bank a Badger

News comes from St. Louis of the promotion of B. A. Brennan, formerly of Milwaukee, as vice-president and director of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis. Mr. Brennan left the service of the Allis-Chalmers Company several years ago to become identified with the St. Louis organization.

Krueger, H. M. Legnard, George F. McBride, Dr. H. McCabe, C. W. Miller, F. J. Phelan, J. G. Reilly, Robert Wagner. The bank, like several other new ones in the state, is organized under the provision of the new state law allowing investment of the funds received in first mortgages.

Big Crop for Wisconsin

Farm crops in Wisconsin were the largest this year in the state's history, according to the final 1913 crop report issued this week by Secretary of Agriculture James C. MacKenzie. With but few exceptions grains showed marked increase in number of bushels per planted acre. Climatic and soil conditions are named as the best in years. Paul Koschnick, a 20-year-old farmer near Fond du Lac, is acclaimed the champion corn grower in the state, having secured 138 bushels and 3 pounds of corn from a measured acre, where as the best previous record was 120 bushels. The corn was planted on May 17 and cared for at a cost of 10 cents a bushel.

NEW YORK BANKER DEAD

James McMahon, one-time president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings, New York City, and for more than fifty years a resident of Brooklyn, died last week at his summer home at Smithtown, L. I., at the age of eighty-two. Mr. McMahon was a director of the concern publishing the Bankers' Journal, a director in the New York Produce Exchange Bank, in the National Surety Company and also in the Equitable Life Assurance Society. In Brooklyn, he was connected in various capacities with the Peoples Trust, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences and the Realty Associates. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and two sons.

BANK'S STOCK DISSIPATED

Attorneys for Receivers J. A. McCain and V. C. Moore, of the Union Bank and Trust Company of Meridian, Miss., have filed an amended bill in chancery court against the directors. The amended bill carries practically all the allegations made in the original bill and charges that the capital stock of $300,000 and surplus of $60,000 was wholly dissipated and destroyed through the failure of the directors to supervise and conduct the business as provided by law.

CHECKS RUN ON BANK

A run was started on the private bank of I. W. Schwenk, New York City, recently. Mr. Schwenk withdrew $100,000 from several New York banks and, piling up the money in the paying teller's cage, allayed the fears of the depositors, who principally are foreigners. About $18,000 was withdrawn and much of this was returned the following morning. Mr. Schwenk believes that a story circulated by a business rival was responsible for the heavy withdrawals.

RENEW PROSECUTION OF JUNEAU BANK PRESIDENT

The Department of Justice at Washington has renewed prosecution of C. M. Summers, president of a national bank at Juneau, Alaska, whose indictment on charges of misapplication of the bank's money was recently set aside by the Supreme Court. The court found that the government had placed fifty-six counts in the indictment, whereas the Alaska laws then permitted only one count. Solicitor has asked the court to modify its decision, so that Summers, instead of going free, would be required to stand trial on one count.

PROTESTS BANK ASSESSMENT RAISE

Formal action protesting against the proposed increase in the basis of assessment of banks of Louisville, Ky., has been taken by the directors of the Louisville Board of Trade. They have issued a statement urging the authorities not to make an increase, which would put the banks of Louisville at a disadvantage with the banks of other cities in that section.

SCHOOL SAVINGS SYSTEM IN CEDAR RAPIDS.

John Burianek, Jr., president Peoples Savings, Cedar Rapids, Ia., which handles the school savings system for that city, announces that there is at present on deposit $6,470.29. The plan inaugurated by the bank has been very successful. It has been in operation about a year and a half.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR BALTIMORE BANK

John F. Sippel has resigned as president of the National City Bank of Baltimore, and also has given up his place on the board of directors. Henry S. Dulaney has been named as his successor. Mr. Dulaney aided in the organization of the National City and has been a member of its board since it started in business about three years ago. He is president of the Resinol Chemical Company, a director in the Maryland Casualty Company, with connections in several other institutions. Mr. Sippel, hereafter, will devote all his time to the affairs of the Terminal Heating and Refrigerating Company, of which he is president, and to other commercial enterprises. The other officers of the National City are: Murray Vandiver, vice-president; Michael Schloss, vice-president; Harry M. Mason, cashier, and E. A. Vavrina, assistant cashier. The bank has a capital of $500,000 and a surplus of $125,000.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

The position of St. Louis financial institutions as sources of money supply and financial reserves in times of need for the agricultural regions of the south and west, is shown in the year's figures just compiled and published by Forward St. Louis, the bi-weekly publication of the Business Men's League.

An excess of $44,000,000, or 49 per cent over the cash transactions of St. Louis associated banks and trust companies with rural financial institutions three years ago, is shown by the 1913 figures.

The year's total business, based on statistics for eleven months, and figures for December, 1912, was $134,179,943. Gold, silver and currency receipts from banks of the south and west amounted to $87,188,378, and the shipments of cash by St. Louis reserve agents was $49,991,565, with receipts $40,196,813 in excess of shipments.

Operations for the first half of the year totaled $65,262,417, the amount for the last half being $68,917,526. The receipts for the first half were $42,225,867 in excess of shipments, but in the last half the receipts were $2,029,054 less than shipments. Demand in the great agricultural areas served by local banking houses is shown by the figures which indicate the influx into St. Louis of money from these regions in the first half of the year. The latter half shows an opposite turn of the financial tide, with an urgent and immediate appeal to St. Louis for money for cotton and grain crop moving.

The inbound movement of currency was heaviest in February and January, for which months it went beyond $24,000,000, and exceeded $8,000,000 a month for April, May, June and July. The shipments exceeded $17,000,000 in September and October. The smallest receipts of cash arrived in August and October, while the shipments were lightest in April, January and May.

New Trust Company Opens

The formal opening of the recently organized Laclede Trust, St. Louis, was held on Monday in the new quarters at 6 South Jefferson avenue. The quarters were banked with flowers and the officers and directors held an all-day reception. The capital of the Laclede Trust is $100,000, of which half is paid up. The stock is divided among 175 stockholders, most of them people who are doing business in that vicinity. More than $80,000 was deposited on the opening day. William G. Mueller is president; Fred Heger and John C. Rodenberg, vice-presidents, and H. W. Kroeger secretary and treasurer. The directors are, besides the officers: Thomas F. Donovan, James A. Dacey, A. H. Donnewald, Leonard H. Ballman, F. W. Linn, G. F. Stevens, Leo J. Bayer, Alvert Theis and Wm. Kampmeier. H. H. Oberschelp is attorney.

Share Fund

As a result of three years' methodical savings of small amounts of money, two hundred and twenty-five employees of St. Louis financial institutions will share in the division of a $115,000 fund which has grown up since the plan started December 20, 1910. The plan for systematic saving among the Junior financial workers is organized as the Bankers Investment Association and is headed by Byron W. Moser, assistant secretary of the St. Louis Trust. The association is an outgrowth of the St. Louis chapter, and only members of the chapter were eligible to join. Shares of stock were issued in various amounts up to five for one person, and each share called for a monthly payment of $10. The few who withdrew from the fund were fined a percentage of the amount to their credit. Payments were made at the St. Louis Union by the members to the credit of the association, thus doing away with the necessity for any individual handling the funds. The funds were invested without charge to the association, by the committee on trust estates of the St. Louis Union. The advisory board of nine members was composed of officials from several of the largest banking institutions in St. Louis. It is estimated that the men will get a return of about 6 per cent upon the money invested.

North St. Louis to Have State Bank

A financial establishment to be known as the Water Tower Bank will soon be launched in North St. Louis. Among the organizers are F. E. Miller, a North Grand Avenue realty agent; A. G. Stickney and Sam B. Jeffries. A state bank with a capital of $100,000 is proposed. North St. Louis business men and property owners are subscribers to the stock.

Bank Loses Suit

A suit involving a sale of 770 shares of stock in the old Hagan Theatre of St. Louis was decided in the supreme court at Jefferson City adverse to the claims of the Continental National of St. Louis. John H. Havlin of Cincinnati indorsed two notes for O. L. Hagan, given to the bank, and aggregating $7,660, at the time it appears Hagan owed the bank an aggregate of $23,203, and had deposited 770 shares of the Hagan Opera House, valued at $89,000, as security. June 22, 1897, the bank sold these shares on the floor of the Merchants Exchange for $5,000, the cashier of the bank, Finis E. Marshall, being the purchaser. A week later Marshall sold these shares to J. C. Jannopoulos for $30,000. Meantime, the bank had collected from Havlin the two notes referred to. On August 1, 1897, Hagan sued for an accounting, and the circuit court sustained him, from which judgment the bank appealed to the supreme court.

No matter what may be the effect of Currency legislation upon the banking business of the Country, it is certain that the growing and marketing of live stock will continue as in the past.

Boosts Bank Deposits

T. M. Wingo, vice-president of the Rio Grande Valley Bank and Trust Company, El Paso, Texas, called on Richard S. Hawes, vice-president of the Third National of St. Louis on Monday. He said that although unsettled conditions along the border had the tendency to enlarge bank deposits, yet the harm to business has been so general that the banks cheerfully would relinquish the increase of deposits if tranquility could be restored.

Owned Only 216 Shares

Though B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the board of the Frisco Railway, said in his statement of defense Tuesday that he still was one of the heaviest stockholders of the system, an examination of the records shows that at the time receivers were appointed he owned only 216 shares in his own name.

Will Leave Clinton Bank

Fred W. Olson, who has been assistant cashier of the Clinton (Mo.) National, for some time past, has accepted the position of cashier of the First National of Windsor. His place at Clinton has not yet been filled.

Declare Dividend

Stockholders of the National Bank of Commerce will participate in the distribution of $200,000 just before Christmas, that being the last quarterly payment of the annual dividend of $800,000 declared as the earnings of 8 per cent on the capital of $10,000,000.

Suits to Enforce Contract

Suits with claims aggregating $50,000 were filed in the Belleville circuit court last week against M. M. Stephens, a former mayor of East St. Louis, and C. L. Gray, a contractor. Only the praecipes are filed, but it is said the suits are brought to enforce a contract requiring the defendants to take over about $50,000 worth of second mortgage bonds on East St. Louis and St. Louis realty. The claimants are the Bank of New Athens, First National of Belleville, First National of Freeburg, A. W. Baltz, Fred W. Baltz, and L. D. Turner.

Arkansas Bank Increases Stock

The capital stock of the Cleburne County Bank, Heber Springs, Ark., the oldest bank in the county, has been increased from $22,000 to $50,000 fully paid up. The officers are: President, Dr. Cyrus F. Crosby; vice-president, Judge W. L. Thompson; cashier, W. C. Johnson; assistant cashier, N. B. DeLoach. A movement is on foot to organize a third bank at Heber Springs with a capital stock of $50,000.

Meet at Oklahoma City

Two hundred representatives of state banks in Oklahoma attended the meeting of the State Bankers Association in Oklahoma City last week. By virtue of the new banking law passed by the last legislature the association was organized for the benefit of the state bankers, so that they shall have more to do with the enforcement of the bank guaranty law. J. J. Gerlach of Woodward, president of the association, made a plea for more co-operation, because, he declared, there was nothing on which success depended more. He said that the guaranty deposit system is sweeping the country and that there is a possibility of getting into the national banks was evinced when an attempt was made to insert the guaranty feature in the new currency measure. W. R. Samuels urged an educational propaganda on the features of the bank guaranty fund, so that the public could be enlightened on the merits of the system. A. E. Stephenson, president of the Central State of Enid, strongly urged the state bankers to carry their reserves in state instead of national institutions. Mr. Stephenson said this position was not taken with an animus toward the national banks, but on the ground that it would make greater state deposits and thus increase the revenue that makes the guaranty fund. The following officers were elected: A. D. Kennedy of Okmulgee, president; A. E. Stephenson of Enid, vice-president; W. C. Baker of Altus, treasurer.

Oklahoma Group Meetings

Dates and places for the annual group meetings of the Oklahoma Bankers Association have been announced as follows: Group 1, Lawton, February 23; Group 2, Woodward, February 24; Group 3, Guthrie, February 25; Group 5, Ada, February 26; Group 4, Nowata, February 27. A special train composed of compartment cars and a hotel car will make the rounds of the groups for the accommodation of reserve city bankers and officers of the Oklahoma Bankers Association. This train will leave Kansas City Sunday night, February 22. Reservations can be made with R. C. Menefee, treasurer of the Commerce Trust, Kansas City, or through the Oklahoma Bankers Association, Enid, Okla.

SOUTHWEST GROUP BANKERS ORGANIZE

Permanent organization of the Southwest Group Number Four, Washington Bankers' Association, was formed in Olympia recently in accordance with the action of the state association convention at Bellingham several months ago, which provided for the organization of branch organizations. J. W. Alexander, president of the Security State, Chehalis, was elected president; Frank M. Kenney, cashier of the Olympia National, vice-president, and W. L. Boomer, cashier Farmers and Lumberman's Bank, Elma, temporary secretary, was chosen secretary and treasurer. The executive committee will be composed of these three officers and W. L. Adams, president First National, Hoquiam, and Frank A. Luce, vice-president Fidelity Trust, Tacoma. Those present at the organization were W. L. Boomer, cashier Farmers and Lumberman's Bank, Elma; E. E. Colkett, cashier Willapa Harbor State; Ross W. Daubney, cashier United States Chehalis National, Chehalis; A. L. Cory, cashier Chehalis National; W. H. France, cashier Montezano State; G. H. Raleigh, assistant cashier, Bank of California, Tacoma; E. C. Johnson, cashier Scandinavian-American Bank, Tacoma; J. W. Alexander, president Security State, Chehalis; W. L. Adams, president First National, Hoquiam; W. Dean Hays, manager and cashier State Bank of Tenino; D. A. Young, assistant cashier National Bank of Tacoma; G. B. Mason, manager Union Loan & Trust Company, Centralia; A. S. Hoonan, assistant cashier United States Bank, Aberdeen; C. J. Lord, president Capital National, Olympia; Frank M. Kenny, cashier Olympia National, and F. A. Luce, vice-president Fidelity Trust, Tacoma.

SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Besides the regular semi-annual 5 per cent dividend, the Merchants and Farmers Bank, Ponchatoula, La., has declared an additional dividend of 3 per cent, making a total of 14 per cent so far this year. F. Watkins Sherman, Paul J. Clement and Bernard Antony were elected as directors. J. R. Abels was re-elected president; H. R. Mitchell, first vice-president and re-elected cashier; A. J. Pusey, second vice-president; W. M. Mitchell, assistant cashier.

NEW YORK STATE BANKS

New York state banks, of which there are 196, had a prosperous year, according to the report of Superintendent Van Tuyl of the state banking department. The dividends paid to shareholders of banks during the year ended September 30, 1913, was $4,065,065, which was 4.726 per cent on the combined capital and surplus, comparing with a little more than 4½ per cent paid in 1912. The surplus was increased $1,740,000 and there was a gain in resources of $2,300,000. Eight new state banks were authorized during the year and the careers of three such institutions ended. One of the latter, the Bank of Northport, was merged into the Northport Trust. The business of the Albany County Bank was taken over by the New York State National of Albany, and the Woodhaven Bank of Woodhaven, L. I., was closed by the department. Deposits during the year increased $1,645,472; loans $13,854,975, and cash holdings, $4,244,261. The aggregate stock and bond investments were diminished during the year by $3,926,904, and there is noted a growing tendency on the part of the banks to substitute commercial paper in the place of purchases of securities to be held as a secondary reserve of the institution.

BROOKHAVEN BANKS HAVE BIG DEPOSITS

Over one million and a quarter in deposits is the showing made by the Commercial Bank and Trust Company and the Brookhaven Bank and Trust Company, Brookhaven, Miss., according to their annual published statement. The total amount of deposits is over $1,330,000. Both of these banks report that they have been very fortunate this fall in collecting the full amount due them on accounts from farmers, whom they have been carrying since the advent of the boll weevil six years ago. Many new accounts have been opened in these two banks and in the Merchants and Farmers Bank, a young institution. Indications now are that money will be easier from now on, and that better lumber conditions will prevail.

EL CENTRO BANK CHANGES HANDS

J. H. Scales, who has been cashier of the Bank of Hemet, Cal., for the past six years, has resigned to accept the presidency of the Security Bank of El Centro. Mr. Scales and his associates have been buying the stock of the El Centro bank for some time, and in connection therewith have organized a loan and trust company with a capitalization of $250,000. It is understood that Mr. Scales will be the active as well as the official head of both of these institutions.

NATIONAL BANKS TO HAVE NEW RULING

Effective January 1, the national banks of Fort Wayne, Ind., which are members of the Fort Wayne Clearing House Association, will not print the names of depositors on blank checks. This has been the rule of banks for many years, and no matter how small a man's account was, the bank printed his name on the check free of charge. Under the new ruling, the individual depositors will be required to pay this expense themselves.

TO LIQUIDATE BANK

Henry Streb of Canal Dover, Ohio, has been appointed special liquidating agent for the Beech City Bank by State Superintendent of Banks Emory Lattanner of Ohio, to succeed Representative M. A. Warnes, who recently resigned.

NEW STUDY AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Report is that "golf" will be added to the regular curriculum of the University of Illinois. Not the kind that Herd or Foulis teaches, but the kind of a truly educated landscape engineer or artist should know. The laying out and construction of golf links, and the improvement of old ones will be part of the life work of every well-equipped landscape architect. Tom Bendelow cannot always be with us on the practical end. Little England, the island proper, has 960 golf links; Scotland has 388, while in Ireland and Wales there are 178. This is against only 1,200 in the whole United States. It is thought that in the future the landscape architect will be in large demand in this one field alone.

The University will acquire the land and the students in course architecture will lay out and improve an eighteen-hole course. Succeeding classes will study them with a view to scientific attainments. Other students will play for exercise and increased skill. Altogether it seems to be a forward movement on the part of the great up-to-date college at Urbana, an institution of which every Illinoisan is proud.

ABSURDITIES IN LEGAL PHRASEOLOGY

That legal phraseology often takes on a ludicrous aspect is apparent to anyone who ever has had occasion to examine such documents as indictments, pleadings, court records, etc. Repetition is constant and violation of the principles of good English so flagrant that one sometimes doubts whether the authors are educated men.

The force of this defect in the law is beginning to be appreciated more than was the case a few years ago. Nevertheless, it is admitted by all that there still is room for radical improvement in many jurisdictions.

Foremost in the progressive movement which has been inaugurated is the State of New York. The governor has appointed a commission to rewrite the banking code, couching it in such terms as to make it readily understandable and rendering court decisions as a means of interpretation unnecessary.

Another forward step which has been made in one county of the Empire State, is reduction in the number of words necessary to draw an indictment. Formerly 911 words were required; now it is only ninety.

A lawyer would be stupid, indeed, if he were unable to find some sort of a defect in 911 words of jumbled-up matter.

All legal documents should be as brief and concise as possible. It is common knowledge that justice often is subverted through technical errors in pleading, etc. Our legal sys-

BEATING THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD TO IT

The new public utilities board will go into office in Illinois on January 1. Thereafter increasing capital stock of the "fully paid" variety will be a matter of some negotiation, just as it is in Wisconsin and California. Many going companies have seen the point and have been sprinting to beat the board out of an opportunity to practice its new powers upon them. Active corporations in Illinois have paid the state $200,000 in fees for increases of capital stock aggregating approximately $200,000,000 since September 1. The normal business in this line at the office of the secretary of state would have been about $25,000.

The interpretation put upon this rush of business at Springfield is that the corporations—perhaps, not all—feared the scrutiny of the new board and the particulars required by the law creating it.

CONDITIONS AROUND SEATTLE

Seattle (Wash.) National is sending out to its friends a resume of conditions in that territory. The belief is expressed that the currency bill will have the effect of enlarging the credit facilities of the country to a very great extent.

The report of the bank says in part:

"We, as a nation, are naturally optimists, and optimism we think is to be found in its most acute form in the Pacific Northwest. We are expecting really tremendous benefits to come by reason of the opening of the Panama canal. We believe that nowhere in the world will economic conditions be bettered so quickly or so much as on the Pacific coast, and we believe that the Puget Sound country in particular, by reason of its unusual harbors, rail connections and short trade routes, will get a very important share of the benefits accruing. In no other section will it be so simple a matter for the emigrant to attain his final hope, or owning his own land and home as in this section.

"Millions upon millions of acres of good land lie within a few hours' ride of Seattle, waiting to be cultivated. Our legislatures are making laws to help that situation, and nowhere will the man who really wants to become a self-supporting farmer, and not a resident of back streets and byways, find more encouragement toward his end than in the Pacific Northwest. We have, with the single exception of Niagara Falls, the cheapest water power in the United States, and immense quantities of it. The manufacturer must soon come to recognize the ideal conditions to be found here for his business.

"Alaska promises to soon have her final recognition. She has paid thousands of per cent in dividends to the United States on the investment originally made, and she now calls for an additional investment on the part of the United States, upon which, beyond all question, she will pay lavish dividends.

"As for immediate local conditions, they are highly encouraging. Seattle wholesalers report business away ahead of last year, and the retailers as well report good business in most all lines.

"Interest has appeared within the present year in real estate, such as has not been observable for five years previous, and real estate agents report that they have not had as few vacancies since the reaction came in real estate in 1907. We are told that it is no longer an easy matter to find a desirable vacant house in Seattle.

"Bank clearings and port business have increased greatly over last year, and our population is increasing, according to every indication by which we can informally ascertain this rise and fall of population.

"These same conditions are reported quite uniformly throughout this section of the country."

FRANKLIN TRUST DIVIDEND

Directors of the Franklin Trust and Savings declared a quarterly dividend this week of 1½ per cent.

To care for the dividend disbursement $15,000 was voted to the surplus fund, making that item $120,000. The capital of the bank is $300,000.

BANK'S CAPITAL MAY BE DOUBLED

Stockholders of the Central State National of Memphis, Tenn., have been called to meet on December 27, for the purpose of considering the advisability of increasing the capital stock to $600,000. The present capital is $250,000.

THE NEWEST BOOKS FOR CHRISTMAS

A book for boys, and for bankers who believe in keeping the boy on the farm, is "The Young Farmer," by George B. Hill. Mr. Hill got his motive when he had heard a lecture by one of the enthusiastic professors from the University of Illinois—possibly Cyril D. Hopkins—and after completing his course in the agricultural school of the University of Wisconsin, he wrote the book. It tells how and why a new era boy conquered an old, worn out farm and reduced the prejudices of the neighborhood to friendships, and his critics to imitators. It is a better farming book if ever one was written, and a good story included. Published by the Penn Company, Philadelphia, at one dollar net.

"Mark Tidd," by Clarence B. Kelland, and published by the Harpers of New York, is a boy's book also. It abounds in humor and adventure, the doings being those of four live country boys, led by the courageous and resourceful fat boy. Any normal boy from 8 to 14 will devour and enjoy "Mark Tidd."

"Brave Deeds of Revolutionary Soldiers," by Robert D. Duncan, is still a boy's book, along historical and patriotic lines. The tales are of the individual bravery of the Revolutionary heroes, told with fire and spirit. In addition to the heroes that every schoolboy knows, Nathan Hale, Francis Marion, Sergeant Jasper, and the rest, there are tales, fascinatingly written, of men whose bravery was of a less spectacular sort, perhaps, but who are none the less heroes.

There is Christopher Martin, the boy whose spirit kept Washington's army alive during the winter at Valley Forge; John Champe, the continental who "deserted" from Lee's legions to plot a daring scheme to capture Benedict Arnold and bring him back into the American army, and a group of other tales, twelve in all, with that gripping interest that stirs the patriot's blood in all of us. Published by George W. Jacobs, Philadelphia, at $1.50 net. Fully illustrated.

For older boys and grown folks, there is "The Escape of Mr. Trimm," by Irvin S. Cobb, the one writer who can make you forget your troubles every time. Everybody laughed at his "Judge Priest" stories last year, and they will grow fat laughing at the plights of Mr. Trimm. Trimm is a banker, smug and selfish, on his way to the penitentiary after his conviction, who in a railroad wreck is freed and as a perfect opportunity to escape justice except that he is still wearing the handcuffs of the law.

His efforts to hide himself, to get the iron racelets off, and to find food, and the final horrible condition in which he turns himself over to the law, are described with a calm, unimpassioned vividness that burns into the reader's consciousness as do De Maupassant experiences. This story is a cold blooded horror, yet there isn't a single melodramatic word in it.

There are several other merciless crime stories showing the best planned and executed crime brings only misery, though done in this simple, noninterpretative way which is like painting a picture on the wall to carry the message. Cobb's pictures don't need any explanation. There are also several typical human little stories, so the book altogether is well worth while.

Published by George H. Doran Company, New York, at $1.25 net.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
White River Junction, Vermont

"Deuces Wild" is a beautiful pocket volume by Harold MacGrath, who gave us "The Man on the Box," "The Goose Girl," the "Lune of the Mask" and other world-beaters. "Deuces Wild" is a companion story to "Hearts and Masks," by the same author.

Mr. MacGrath has given his public a brilliant, whimsical story of adventure. One of the chief characters is a popular artist who yearns to be a detective, just as Eddie Foy, the comedian, yearned to play Hamlet all his life. There is the millionaire collector of things gruesome, but who has safe-cracking as a sideline. Two wonderful women characters in curious environment, and a real, sure-enough detective, with the true William J. Burns instinct. The plot is a gem and the book a novelty. Published by Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, at one dollar net.

ASKS COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Wyatt H. Ingram, Jr., former trust officer of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, is seeking to regain his freedom, after serving four years of a twelve year sentence in the penitentiary. His defalcations while an officer of the bank amounted to over $100,000.

VERMONT BANK HAS FINE BUILDING

First National of White River Junction, Vermont, is justly proud of the fine building it occupies. The bank recently had some alterations made and it now has a home which is surpassed by none in any town the size of White River Junction. Everything has been planned with the idea of serving the comfort and convenience of its patrons, who are enthusiastic in their praise.

The First National has capital stock of $100,000 and resources amounting to more than $1,700,000. Robert E. Smith is president and William W. Russell cashier.

NEW MISSISSIPPI BANK OPENS

The Hattiesburg Bank, successors to the Hattiesburg Bank and Trust Company, is the name of the new institution which opened for business recently in the Hattiesburg Trust and Banking Company's building at Hattiesburg, Miss. The new institution has been organized with a capital stock of $100,000, $50,000 of which is new capital and $50,000 approved assets of the old bank, which originally had a paid-in capital stock of $150,000. The new institution guarantees the depositors of the old bank amounting to $220,000. J. S. Love, cashier of the old bank, is liquidating officer of the new. The officers are H. A. Camp, president, re-elected; Jno. Kamper, vice-president, re-elected; J. S. Love, vice-president; Jos. O. Rea, cashier, succeeding J. S. Love; G. G. Woodward, assistant cashier, re-elected; directors, H. A. Camp, Jno. Kamper, J. S. Love, Jos. O. Rea, W. G. Gillespie, W. M. Hemeter, H. Katz, R. B. McLeod and P. C. Edmison. The new bank guarantees the deposits, cash on hand and other liquid assets of the old bank and transfers them to the new. All other assets are conditionally pledged as collateral securities for obligations assumed by the new bank. It was the original intention of the promoters to make it the National Bank of Hattiesburg. Pending legislation in congress affecting banks and banking caused them to organize as a state bank for the present.

TO BECOME BANKER

Joseph A. Feldhake, for fourteen years foreman in the office of the LeCrone Press, publishers of the Effingham Daily Record, has resigned to take a position as assistant cashier of the Effingham (Ill.), State.

Cleveland

Central States News Letter

Cincinnati

By recent action of the board of directors of the Cleveland Trust, A. G. Tame was advanced to the position of first vice-president; E. B. Greene, formerly secretary, was elected second vice-president, to succeed A. R. Horr, and P. T. White was made third vice-president. Other changes are contemplated at the annual meeting in January next.

Elect Two New Directors

At the annual meeting of the Equity Savings and Loan Association, Cleveland, all the old officers were re-elected and two new directors, David Frackleton and H. D. Messick were added to the board of directors. The yearly report of President Henry W. S. Wood showed deposits of over $2,000,000 and construction loans almost $1,000,000. The semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent was declared payable December 15, and $25,000 was added to the surplus, which now is $125,000.

Bank Dividends

Directors of the First National of Cleveland have advanced the date of the dividend payments one month to conform with the quarterly periods of the calendar year. Hereafter dividends will be paid on the first day of January, April, July and October. This action is the equivalent, so far as shareholders' income is concerned, of an extra dividend of $\frac{5}{6}$ of one per cent. The directors of the First National have declared the usual $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent dividend, payable January 2 instead of February 1.

The Hough Bank and Trust Company, Cleveland, has declared a special dividend of 1 per cent in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, both payable January 1.

Accepts New Banking Position

Rollin H. Scribner has resigned as treasurer of the Security Savings, Bank and Trust Company, Toledo, to accept the office of third vice-president of the Second National, of that city, effective January 1.

Freed in Cincinnati Bank Case

The refusal of Walter L. Jessen, of Chicago, to come to Cincinnati to testify resulted in the nolle of all but one of the remaining cases growing out of the grand jury investigation of the former Cincinnati Trust. Those whose cases were nolle are Norman G. Kenan, N. S. Keith, F. R. Williams, I. N. Miller, C. H. Davis, James M. Hutton, and Dr. J. F. Heady.

Gifts for Bank Employees

The board of directors of the Western German Bank, Cincinnati, have decided to pay all of its employees 4 per cent of their annual salaries as a Christmas gift. These presents will total several thousand dollars. The regular quarterly dividend of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent also was declared.

Chooses Bank Directors

J. George Jung, Frederick L. Emmert, Nicholas Diehl, C. F. Gotheim, Edward Wagner, H. W. Meier, Peter Ruehlmann, Joseph Kattus, Frank W. Folz, Albert Bode, O. W. Mueller, Edward Pfeiffer, William Miller, George Kattenhorn and Frank Hegner have been elected directors of the Unity Banking and Savings Company, Cincinnati.

Donnelly Claims Settled

A compromise settlement of the claims of the defunct Citizens Bank, Napoleon, O.,

against appellate Judge Michael Donnelly, has been approved by the probate court. In the agreement D. D. Donovan, assignee, states that Michael Donnelly disputes the claims and that they are difficult of collection. The claims aggregate $175,000, without interest and Judge Donnelly is to pay $47,000 within four months. The compromise is to be held valid if Judge Donnelly is not adjudicated a bankrupt in the U. S. court.

Bank Capital Not Adequate

The state tax commission of Maryland, which was appointed by Governor Goldsborough in conformity with an act of the last legislature, has issued a supplemental bulletin on taxation of corporations, taxation of shares of stock of banks and other financial corporations. The bulletin states that the increase in capital stocks of banks during the past ten years is not satisfactory and that banking capital is not adequate to the demands of the business upon it. The fact also is brought out that the net earnings of Baltimore banks are lower, with one possible exception, than those of any other city. The earnings passed to surplus are small. The commission refrains from making any recommendations in reference to a change in the system of taxation of banks.

German Bank of Louisville to Build New Home

A decision to put up a new building at the northwest corner of Fifth and Market streets, as the permanent future home of the German Bank, Louisville, has been reached by the officials and directors of that institution, according to an announcement by President P. Viglini. The new building will be one-story and will be used for banking purposes exclusively.

Fight Tax Assessment

A number of Louisville bankers last week appeared before the Board of Equalization to present arguments against the proposed increase of from 60 to 80 per cent in the basis of assessment of banks. The arguments of the bankers were presented by Major Leathers, president of the Louisville Banking Company; Oscar Fenley, president National Bank of Kentucky, and John W. Barr, president Fidelity and Columbia Trust, after hearing which the board took the matter under advisement. On Saturday the board took formal action, fixing the assessment upon banks and trust companies at 60 per cent, the old rate.

Must Pay Bank

The First National of Louisville won an appeal of its case against Charles J. Doherty and C. C. McClarty in the court of appeals which, in an opinion, said the Jefferson circuit court erred in directing a verdict for the defendants and not sustaining the motion of the bank to instruct the jury peremptorily to find a verdict for it against Doherty and McClarty, requiring them to pay notes, aggregating about $40,000, given to the bank for loans made to the Paracamp Company. The case was reversed and remanded for proceedings consistent with the opinion. In 1907 all the directors of the Paracamp Company were directors of the First National. C. C. McClarty, who was secretary of the company, was also president of the bank. Doherty was a director of the bank and president of the company. The company owed the bank some $60,000, for which notes were given, signed by Doherty, McClarty and George M. Boone as surety. On May 2, 1907, these three men signed an agreement, agreeing "in consideration of loans already made and to be made by the First National of Louisville to said Paracamp Company, to be jointly bound to said bank on all obligations of that company endorsed by either one of us to the extent of $70,000." Subsequently the three agreed that when the notes fell due they would renew them, each becoming surety on notes representing one-third of the total amount. The Paracamp Company went into bankruptcy and Boone died solvent. Doherty paid the renewal notes he signed, but refused to pay those signed by McClarty or Boone, whereupon the bank sued on the agreement of May 2, 1907. The defendants contended that it was a private agreement, with which the bank had nothing to do. The court of appeals, however, held that there was sufficient consideration for the agreement and inasmuch as it was apparent from its language that it was for the benefit of the bank, the bank was right to sue on it.

Southwestern Michigan Bankers Club

A special meeting of the Southwestern Michigan Bankers Association was held at Kalamazoo last week to fill vacancies on the executive staff of that organization. Charles C. Green, president of the City Bank of Battle Creek, was elected president; J. B. Showerman, cashier of the National Bank of Sturgis, vice-president; Wm. A. Marsh, vice-president of the Benton Harbor State, secretary, and George T. Wolf, president of the First State of Three Rivers, treasurer. F. Williams, of the First State of Allegan, was named as a member of the executive staff to serve with B. S. Stafford, president of the Branch County Savings of Coldwater. The next meeting will be held in Battle Creek.

Wayne-Home Bank Declares Extra Dividend

The directors of the Wayne County Home Savings of Detroit, have declared a special Christmas dividend of one per cent, amounting to $20,000, to be distributed among 275 stockholders. This is in addition to the one per cent a month which the holders of the stock have received regularly, making an aggregate of 13 per cent for the year. The ninety employees of the bank have been voted a Christmas gift of $3,500, to be divided among them.

New Director for Union Trust

Jerome H. Remick has been elected a director of the Union Trust of Detroit to succeed the late George B. Remick. All old directors were re-elected at the annual meeting. The Detroit Trust and the Security Trust re-elected their boards.

Ford Company Discontinues Checks

The Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, has announced to firms from which it buys materials and supplies that hereafter accounts due for purchases will be paid by depositing the amount to the name of the creditors in the Highland Park State and that the old system of paying by check will be discontinued to save time and labor. It is estimated that the company has been paying $6,000,000 each month by check, keeping two stenographers busy continuously. The new system has no exact analogy in the recent history of business.

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

The German-American Bank, Minneapolis, has voted to increase its surplus fund from $100,000 to $200,000, which makes its surplus fund equal to its capital, and entitles the bank to a place on the roll of honor of banks in the United States. The institution was organized in 1886 with $50,000 capital by Robert B. Langdon, A. H. Linton, John Heinrich, Anthony Kelly, Edmund Eichhorn, George Hahn, Henry Winecke, Robert Pratt, J. C. Oswald, A. W. Henkle, John A. Schlener, Charles Gluck, Henry Doerr, J. M. Griffith, F. E. Towers and George W. McClelland. It has paid dividends at regular periods and from time to time increased its capital and surplus to meet requirements of the north and northeast sections of Minneapolis, which it principally serves. When the bank moved into its new building eight year ago, its deposits amounted to $1,000,000 as compared with $2,700,000 today. The growth enforced enlargement of working space and additions to equipment which now place the institution among the most modern and efficient. The officers are Francis A. Gross, president; Henry Doerr, vice-president; George E. Stegner, cashier, and J. A. Kunz, assistant cashier.

New Trust Company Formed

Articles of incorporation for the Citizens Loan and Investment Company, a trust company to operate in South Minneapolis, were filed last week. The new company is capitalized at $50,000, and the highest amount of indebtedness is placed at the same figure. The new company will be conducted in the offices of the Citizens State, and will deal in real estate, manage estates and do a general trust company business. The incorporators are N. D. Samels, Manley L. Fosseen and F. J. Venie.

Banking Laws Compiled

A compilation of the banking laws of Minnesota, the first issued in ten years, is being distributed to the bankers of Minnesota and others interested from the office of Kelsey S. Chase, superintendent of banks. In addition to the banking laws, the booklet also includes the laws relating to mortgages, negotiable paper and other subjects of interest to bankers.

Suffrage for Bankers

Suffrage engrossed the attention of the members of the Minneapolis Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at their monthly dinner Wednesday evening. The wives, sisters, cousins and aunts of the members of the chapter were special guests, and the women employes of the banks also were invited. Dr. Mabel Ulrich was the speaker of the evening and her topic was "The Feminist Movement." Miss Brenda Ueland made an "anti-suffrage" speech.

New Bank Named

The National Bank of Commerce will be the name of the new St. Paul bank being organized by W. A. Miller and F. A. Nienhauser. An application for a charter has been made to the comptroller of the currency. The new bank will open about January 1, with a capital of $400,000 and a surplus of $100,000, in the old Merchants National bank quarters, Fifth and Jackson streets. The subscription fund of $750,000 is being pared down to $500,000 by reducing the largest subscriptions and making room for subscribers in small amounts. Ten per cent of the stock subscription will be called for this week and 40 per cent on January 1, the balance payable 10 per cent a month. Two offers from St. Paul capitalists to erect a building for the bank, both proposing sites in the financial center with two blocks of Fourth and Minnesota street have been received. It is said that the building alone will cost $250,000.

H. Humason Heads Credit Men

Harry Humason, cashier of the American National, St. Paul, on Monday was elected president of the Retail Credit Men's Association. F. H. Koch, of Schuneman & Evans was chosen vice-president; J. G. Russell, of M. L. Rothschild & Co., treasurer, and J. C. Barnes, of the Union Credit Company, secretary.

Favor Currency Bill

Sentiment among the city and country bankers of Minnesota and the Northwest, veering in favor of the pending currency bill, according to G. H. Richards, secretary of the Minnesota Bankers Association. "I talked with a number of the country bankers at the corn and alfalfa show at Morris," said M. Richards, "and most of them have ceased to predict the end of the world as an immediate result of the passage of the bill. Sentiment has changed greatly, especially among the country bankers. It is true the bill has been amended and is much less drastic now than in its original form. But so far as sentiment can be gauged at this time, few of the bankers will withdraw from the national system."

Bank Replacing Losses

The full extent of the operations of A. I. Nelson, alleged absconding cashier of the First State of North St. Paul, may not be known for months, according to President John Luger of the institution. The stockholders of the bank are replacing all losses as soon as they become known, and business is not impaired by the absence of the former cashier. Mrs. Nelson is living in the home which her husband deeded to her before he left and other property in lieu of his alleged shortage. The bank is trying to get title to this.

Sauk Centre Bank Changes

J. A. DuBois, who for years has been president of the Merchants National, Sauk Centre, Minn., and J. A. Caughran, president of the First State of Sauk Centre, both resigned their positions last week. Mr. Caughran then was elected president of the Merchants National and Mr. DuBois president of the First State.

Anamoose Banks Merge

The two national banks of Anamoose, N. D., have been consolidated by the purchase of the First National by the Anamoose National. The officers of the latter will remain unchanged. They are: J. J. Schmidt, president; A. M. Tanser, vice-president; B. J. Hoffer, cashier, and Max Thurow, assistant cashier. The building of the First National will be used for the consolidated concern.

Bank One Year Old

The Farmers and Mechanics Savings of Grand Forks, N. D., recently celebrated the first anniversary of its founding, the doors having been first opened for business December 2, 1912. At that time the total resources of the institution consisted of its capital, which amounted to $50,000. Today they are close to $200,000. W. E. Fuller, treasurer, said that he was much gratified over the progress which had been made during the last year, and attributes much of the bank's success to its policy of extensive advertising.

Lankin Bank Will Resume

The First State of Lankin, N. D., which was taken possession of by Bank Examiner Severson and Deputy Examiner Nelson last week, because of the refusal of the bank examiner to accept approximately $12,000 worth of paper carried by the bank, will soon re-open for business. A. E. Wambem, president; C. G. Gardner and Mrs. F. B. Overby, wife of the late president, will be the principal stockholders appearing in the new organization. No receiver has been asked for and the condition of the affairs, so far as is known, are satisfactory, with the exception of the paper refused by the examiner. H. N. Johnson, former cashier, has resigned and will not be connected with the reorganization.

Improved Seed Growers Association

Members of the North Dakota Bankers Association are earnestly urged by the officers of the association actively to interest themselves in the work of North Dakota Improved Seed Growers Association, and just at this time in the Improved Seed Growers convention in Fargo, January 20-24. Professor Bolley of the Agricultural College, state pure seed commissioner, is devoting a vast amount of labor and energy to this work and as secretary of the seed Growers Association is sending out many blanks and premium lists in connection with the contest. The campaign for better seed grain in North Dakota is a work of such importance that its value cannot be estimated and the assistance that can be given by the bankers of the state in enthusiastic and hearty support to the seed growers association will be of estimable value.

Madam Contralto Improves Farm

Madam Schuman-Heink has announced that she will make extensive improvement upon her North Dakota farm during the coming season. The farm is located near Grand Forks and at present is being rented. It is understood to have produced an excellent crop during the season just past.

New Montana Bank

Work has been started on the construction of a new bank building in St. Ignatius, Mont., which is to be occupied by the new St. Ignatius State. The new bank is not entirely organized, the subscription of the stock not yet being completed. It is expected that a meeting of stockholders will be held soon for the selection of officers.

Northwest Notes

The First State of Crosby, Minn., has been chartered by the state and it is expected that it will be doing business in a few weeks. J. B. Galernault of Aitkin is among those interested in the project.

G. E. Linderson, cashier of the Barnesville (Minn.) National, has resigned. The new cashier has not been appointed.

The most expensive building operations of the season in New Ulm, Minn., have been those of the Citizens State. Their new home is nearing completion and they expect to occupy it about February 1.

The Northwestern Trust of Grand Forks, N. D., is named in the will of the late R. M. Murphy, a former resident of North Dakota, as executor of his estate, which it is believed will amount to nearly $250,000. At the time of his death, Mr. Murphy was president of the Farmers National of LaMoure. He also was interested in the First National, Portland; First National, Mayville; Farmers and Merchants, Hatton; Farmers State, Lawton; First National, Hampden; First National, Northwood.

A. G. Molander, who has been assistant cashier of the First National at White Rock, S. D., has been elected cashier of the institution.

The Big Timber (Mont.) National has surrendered its charter and has taken out articles of incorporation of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company, by which name it will be known hereafter. The Big Timber National was established twenty-five years ago with J. A. Hall as president. John F. Asbury, who has been president of the bank for a number of years, still is at the head of the institution, and associated with him is C. T. Busha, one of the original trustees of the bank.

MISSISSIPPI BANKS MERGE

The Bank of Commerce and the State Bank of Gulfport (Miss.), have been consolidated and will be hereafter known as the Bank of Commerce. The new bank will have assets of $750,000 and will be one of the strongest banking institutions on the coast between New Orleans and Mobile. R. R. Perkins will be president; Mat Owen, vice-president; T. W. Milner, cashier, and L. B. Joyce, assistant cashier; George P. Hewes, formerly cashier of the State Bank, will be connected with the Bank of Commerce.

PRIVATE BANK TO LIQUIDATE

Indemnity Bank of Mineral City (Ohio) will liquidate, according to an announcement made in Columbus, the proprietor advancing a sufficient amount to meet all obligations.

This is the seventh institution which has gone out of business since the Kennedy act providing for private bank inspection became effective.

THE best things the progressives did at their meeting this week was to agree to pay up 1912 debts (Eh, Carmichael?) and to name Frank G. Allen for the United States Senate. Allen will proselyte thousands of republicans and democrats.

THE Moosers choose their leaders like some business men choose their banks—on account of their surplus.

SPEAKING of appropriate Christmas gifts, how would a couple of 45-calibre automatics do for "Moss" Enright?

BATH HOUSE JOHN tells us the reason he never affiliated with the City Club is because they serve only imitation cocktails at their functions.

WE LEARN from Excelsior Springs, Mo., that L. E. Stevens of Des Moines has been in training at that place for the two jobs wished on him by his fellow citizens.

HE WAS elected president of the Des Moines Clearing House only a day or two after he had been made president of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

BANKER J. D. LELAND of Corunna, Mich., lost one of his gloves. He wrote out a "lost" notice neatly and tacked it and the other glove up in the postoffice lobby. It read:

"WILL the finder of the mate to this glove either leave it here for me, or take this one, so that someone will have the pair?"
J. D. LELAND."

S. W. STRAUS & CO., the big bond and mortgage bankers of Chicago, have announced their preparedness to shoulder "the white man's burden" for their clients on income tax matters.

THE client fills out one general blank, stating whether he is or is not exempt—like a blanket mortgage—and the firm does all the rest. All other certificates are taken care of by clerks employed for that purpose. Clever!

STRAUS & CO. are sending out a 1914 pocket diary of the best quality. It contains the usual "useful information" and calendars.

MR. VANDERLIP kindly stopped over in Chicago long enough to declare all panics off for the present. He will give of his time liberally to the establishment of the new millionaires colony in the Pasadena country.

FIRST REAL TEST FOR CURRENCY BILL

The first real test for the administration currency bill came this week when two amendments proposed by Senator Hitchcock were defeated. It was proposed by the senator to establish from four to eight regional banks with public ownership and also to place in the hands of the government the control of the regionals by giving the central board power to name five of the nine directors.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS WITH BANK

On Tuesday of this week E. K. Boisot, vice-president of the First National of this city and of the First Trust and Savings, completed thirty-five years of service with the former institution.

The officers and employees of the bank presented Mr. Boisot with a large silver vase and an immense bunch of American Beauty roses.

A forger slipped into Perry, Iowa, one day last week, passed a number of bogus checks, drawn on the Perry Savings, and disappeared. He has not been caught at this writing.

Des Moines, Dec. 19.—Dr. George M. Chappel, head of the Iowa Crop Bureau, has compiled his annual crop report from Iowa and it is a most satisfactory showing. Dr. Chappel figures that the total crops of the state this year are worth $429,443,437 as against a valuation on last year's yield of $392,420,668. In fact, Dr. Chappel's valuation is the highest ever placed on the crop yield of the state. Dr. Chappel states that the corn crop this year totals 329,243,300 bushels as against 421,368,400 last year. This is a falling off of 92,025,000 bushels from last year's crop. But corn this year is selling at 59 cents while last year it was 45.8. This explains the fact that the corn crop this year is valued at $194,311,370 which is $42,612,756 more than the value of the crop last year. Dr. Chappel states that the crop this year is a good average in everything except potatoes, which fell off. Considering the dry season, the showing is regarded as exceptionally satisfactory. That Iowa should produce a crop so good against adverse conditions is a striking tribute to the fertility of the good old soil of the best agricultural state in the Union.

Des Moines Clearing House Elects

Lee Stevens, president of the Century Savings, was elected president of the Des Moines Clearing House association at the annual meeting last week. C. T. Cole, Jr., of the Valley National, was elected vice-president; A. O. Hauge, of the Iowa Trust and Savings, second vice-president; George E. Pearsall, Citizens National, secretary and manager. The showing on clearings is splendid. The total amount of business passing through the Association in the twelve months preceding December 1 was $234,266,878, which is an increase of $31,478,604. The total clearing business for the eleven months ending December 1, was $906,282,625.35.

Publicity to Prevent Forgeries

The Davenport Clearing House Association has taken up the question of forgeries. The banks in that city have had more of their share of this sort of business and the bankers will put an end to it. The big weapon they propose to use is publicity. For instance, one fellow passed some $300 in checks on Davenport business houses after he had signed the name of a contractor to them. If publicity had been given the fact that this fellow was working as soon as the banks knew of it, these merchants would have been protected. The bankers also have asked that the merchants make it a policy never to cash checks for strangers. One bank has followed this policy for years most satisfactorily. No matter how small the check, the stranger is forced to identify himself before the money is given him.

Mason City Merger

An important bank merger is reported from Mason City. The Iowa State has turned its business over to the Security National and goes out of existence. John F. Senneff is president of the new organization which has a capital stock of $100,000. Sam Schneider is vice-president and E. W. Clark, cashier. The Iowa State has been in existence for twelve years.

Five Years Added for Attempted Escape

James Gleason, the suspected yegg who was sent up to Fort Madison for ten years for breaking and entering from Emmetsburg, Palo Alto county, has an extra five years coming to him because of an attempt to escape. Gleason was caught and brought before Judge Hamilton who promptly went on record against the practice of subjecting long term men to the temptation to escape. He said that the love of liberty is inherent in any man's breast and that the opportunity for liberty often proved too much for a man to stand.

Bank Clerks Elect

The Waterloo bank clerks' association is a life organization. The annual meeting was held a few days ago and these officers elected: F. C. Kimm, Commercial National, president; Harold E. Rugg, Black Hawk National, vice-president; Verne Bartling, Waterloo Savings, secretary; Robert Stewart, Security Savings, treasurer. Walter Stevens continues as chairman of the social committee and George Williams of the program committee. F. W. Edwards addressed the bankers on commercial law. The organization has twenty members and is in fine condition. The members are deeply interested in the course of study recommended by the American Bankers Association.

Discussed Rural Credits

Dennis P. Hogan, president of the Farmers Savings at Massena, addressed the Des Moines Bankers club at its regular meeting last week. Mr. Hogan was named by President Taft to study agricultural conditions in Europe and last summer he toured that country. His talk to the Bankers club was on the subject of farm credits. Mr. Hogan advocates a system whereby Iowa farmers can secure long term loans at a lower rate of interest than is now possible under the short time loan system. He proposes the organization of a company with facilities to handle the work and make only loans of this character. The necessity for the Iowa farmer to borrow money in order to increase the size and productivity of his farm was pointed out and interesting comparisons drawn with European conditions. Des Moines bankers were very much interested in the address and asked Mr. Hogan many questions. J. L. Waite, the veteran editor of the Burlington Hawkeye, was a guest at the meeting which followed dinner served at Younkers Tea Room.

Iowa Notes

Frank Van Gordon, forger, who some time ago bilked a Des Moines bank out of $350, has been heard from back east, where it is said that he has been traveling under the name of 'F. Stanford.' His methods at Worcester, Mass., were almost exactly the same as those employed in Des Moines.

Will Helberg, cashier of the Citizens Savings at Anamosa, lost his automobile in a fire which destroyed a garage in that city one day last week.

Otto Lage of the German Savings at Davenport passed out the cigars recently as a means of announcing his engagement to Miss Hartman, a charming St. Louis miss.

L. E. Stevens, the hustling president of the Century Savings, Des Moines, was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual election last week. The general consensus is that he will prove a corker.

Burglars forced an entrance to the Morning-side bank, at Morningside, a suburb of Sioux City, and made way with a small amount of money.

The Citizens at Pleasantville has completely remodeled and otherwise improved its quarters and is now located in its handsome new quarters.

Odebolt is to have a new state savings bank. Farmers are to be the stockholders.

J. P. Merritt was sent to the penitentiary from Des Moines to do fifteen years for raising a mortgage check of $1,000 on the Central State of Des Moines.

Woodbury county will issue bonds for $100,000 to cover the cost of a new court house at Sioux City.

John Hahn was arrested at Omaha on the charge that he was implicated in the securing of $430 from the People's State at Mason City on pass book that it is now said was stolen.

The Des Moines city council refused to sell $100,000 in fire protection bonds at a private sale to the Bolger, Mosser & Williman firm of Chicago. The councilmen held that any such sale must be at public sale and in open council meeting.

South Dakota Notes

The Carter State at Dallas has been sold to Guenther Brothers by Jackson Bros., formerly of Des Moines. F. H. and E. A. Guenther took possession of the institution December 16. They are well known bankers in the Rosebud country and are experienced financiers.

The new bank at Chester will have a capital stock of $10,000. A. L. Butler will be president and H. C. Jensen will be vice-president, while M. Christenson will be cashier. They are residents of Chester. E. J. Rudd, of Colman, and E. W. Brown, of Wentworth, are on the directory board.

The De Smet National, at De Smet, makes a showing of $377,710.39, an increase of $50,000 as compared with the previous showing, which is considered a splendid record.

E. Florell has resigned after eleven years with the Granite City Bank, at Granite City.

The new bank at Waverly is now occupied by the institution.

A. H. Peterson, of Winton, Minn., is the new cashier for the First State of Buffalo.

The bank clearings of Sioux Falls have gone above the million dollar mark with satisfactory regularity the past few weeks.

President A. W. Morse of the Security Bank, at Faulkton, died suddenly of heart failure while en route to church. He was one of the best known financiers in South Dakota.

President George R. Freeman, of the First National at Elk Point, died suddenly at his home in that city.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION FOR ROCK ISLAND COUNTY

The Rock Island County Highway Improvement Association was organized on December 10 at the Rock Island Club. Representatives were present from the cities of Moline, East Moline and Rock Island. The election of officers resulted in the selection of a prominent banker of Rock Island to head the association—Phil Mitchell, president of the State Bank of Rock Island and a former president of the Illinois Bankers Association. Edwin W. Woodcock, of Moline, was elected secretary.

Other bankers present and interested in this meeting were Hiram S. Cable, president of the Rock Island Savings, who acted as chairman; William Butterworth, president Deere & Co., and also of the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust, Moline; H. E. Casteel, president of the Rock Island National; O. F. Anderson, cashier of the Moline Trust and Savings; F. G. Allen, president of the State Savings Bank and Trust of Moline, and Geo. W. Ross, president of the Manufacturers State at East Moline, were chosen vice-presidents of the association.

It is the purpose of this organization to arouse interest in the matter of road improvement in Rock Island county, and particularly to bring together the citizens of the Tri-Cities for co-operative support of the plans of this organization.

A committee headed by President Mitchell waited on members of the Board of Supervisors of Rock Island county and conferred with them regarding plans for the use of state aid funds under the Tice bill and other items relative to road, bridge and culvert improvement in Rock Island county.

Bankers in other sections of the state would do well to follow the example of bankers in Rock Island county, get behind the good roads movement and assist in having provisions of the Tice bill effectively applied in their respective counties.

In order to perfect a working organization of the Rock Island County Highway Improvement Association, President Mitchell called a meeting of the elected officers Thursday evening at the Moline Commercial Club, at which time sixteen additional directors were chosen and also an advisory board consisting of twenty-one members from different parts of the county to act until the regular annual meeting in March.

BANK MAKES IMPROVEMENTS

The directors of the Hudsonville (Mich.) State have completed the installment of expensive and needed improvements in their bank building. An acetylene gas lighting plant with all the latest improvements in lighting by gas was placed in the basement. In addition they have built a lavatory.

IN NEW BUILDING

The Farmers Bank of Losantville, Ind., now is located in its new quarters, their new brick building recently having been completed.

HITCHCOCK PRESENTS AMENDMENTS

Thursday night Senator Hitchcock presented to the Senate his amendments to the currency bill.

The first amendment presented was that which would provide for the organization of four regionals instead of eight or twelve, providing for the sale of the stock by public subscription, underwritten by the banks.

Senator Root proposed an amendment relating to the guaranty of deposits and suggested, also, that member banks be required to maintain a reserve of 50 per cent against demand liabilities.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

Steady, substantial and business-like progress is the outstanding feature of the year just drawing to a close, so far as the financial and general industrial and agricultural development of Spokane and tributary territory is concerned. Money has at all times been available for legitimate business enterprises, and the bankers are satisfied with the imprint of Father Time's footsteps for 1913. Since banking here is concerned very vitally with agricultural development, it is pertinent to remark that at no time in the history of the Spokane country have the farmers been better situated. Crops of all kinds have been abundant, and prices good. Since harvest many farmers have been able to readjust themselves financially and to make improvements and extensions. The exceedingly extensive orchard industry of the four Pacific northwestern states has had this year for the first time co-operative selling facilities, through the North Pacific Fruit Distributors. The growers are making money and have every prospect of continuing prosperous.

Spokane bankers have been in the vanguard of the forces responsible for sounding the new note in farming-diversification and live stock. The year 1913 has witnessed the birth of an exceedingly lusty movement for the displacing of the single crop system. The next few years undoubtedly will bring concrete results in the way of larger farm profits and a more prosperous community generally.

Commercial conditions in Spokane have been good this year, and prosperity has attended the wise and thrifty merchant. Building activity has been unusually good, such accomplishments as the $2,000,000 Davenport hotel, the half-million dollar Welch building, the union passenger station and numerous others of smaller proportions marking 1913 as a year presaging wider development to come.

Send Out Christmas Savings

Christmas spending money, aggregating $25,000, is being mailed this week by the Fidelity National of Spokane, to 1,000 depositors who joined a Christmas savings club last April. Since last April each of these has deposited from 25 cents to 50 cents a week, with the understanding that this could not be drawn upon, but would be mailed by check for the sum deposited, plus earnings, on December 10. "The average amount to be mailed each depositor will be about $25," states Thomas H. Brewer, president of the bank. "We have prepared an elaborate Christmas cashier's check, which will be filled out and sent. This is the first time the Christmas savings plan has been tried in Spokane and we are highly satisfied with the results. It will put $25,000 into circulation, practically all for Christmas gifts, whereas this sum would almost certainly have been lost sight of during the year but for the saving plan." Instead of waiting until April the members of the 1914 Christmas Savings club will start their "nest eggs" December 26, this year.

District 5 Elects Officers

C. W. Johnson, cashier of the Washington National of Ellensburg, was elected president of the Washington Bankers association branch in district No. 5, comprising Kittitas, Yakima, Benton and Klickitat counties, at a meeting in North Yakima. L. J. Goodrich, vice-president of the First National Bank of Toppenish, was made secretary-treasurer, and the following were named vice-presidents: Frank Carpenter, president of the Cle Elum State Bank; A. L. Carlson, president of the Mabton bank, Mabton; M. W. Matacheck, cashier of the Bank of Kennewick, and C. T. Camplin, cashier of the State Bank of Goldendale. The seven officers will constitute the executive board. After the organization session the bankers were guests of the North Yakima Clearing House association at a banquet. Those present in addition to the newly elected officers were E. H. Snowden of Ellensburg, Elmer Dahlin of Selah, Harry Jones of Wapato, J. D. Cornet of Toppenish, Lewis H. Kuhn of Zillah, H. E. Schroeder of Outlook, F. Sears of Prosser, Guy H. Pearl of Prosser, H. A. Boese of Sunnyside.

Hogs Prove Profitable

Farmers in the vicinity of Colfax, Wash., 60 miles south of Spokane, received over $1,000 a day for hogs during the first half of November. With them the hogs were merely a side issue in connection with their grain. The hogs brought an average of $1,500 a carload when shipped to Spokane over the Spokane and Inland Empire electric railroad. Dissemination of such figures is having a potent influence in the campaign for diversified farming in the Spokane country. From a banking standpoint it is pointed out that the one-crop system is the most important hindrance to the development of the rural credit system. An average of 25 to 30 cars of hogs a month is being brought to Spokane from the Palouse country, making a monthly turnover of $45,000 to Palouse country farmers from one Spokane packing plant. The E. H. Stanton Packing company is now getting the bulk of its hogs from the surrounding country, whereas two years ago most of them had to be shipped in from points east.

Power Company Sold

Walter C. Sivy, president of the Big Bend Light & Power Company, has announced the sale of the franchises and distributing systems of the company, in the Big Bend country, west of Spokane, to the Washington Water Power Company. This consists of the systems at Reardan, Davenport, Harrington, Bitzville, Sprague and Lind. "The proceeds of this sale, together with other assets of the company, will pay our stockholders a little above par on their stock and the company will be discontinued," states Mr. Sivy. "We will pay the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent January 1. The surplus, composed of notes and negotiable papers, will be cashed in and distributed soon after January 1. The company purchased power for the Washington Water Power Company from the Little Falls plant, owned the distributing lines in the towns above mentioned and furnished power to six flour mills. The Washington Water Power Company owned the transmission lines. The stockholders will meet the latter part of the month to approve the sale. The stock is held mainly in Spokane."

Trustee Company Declares Dividend

Unit holders in the Trustee Company, which controls five office buildings in Spokane, received a total of $44,000 in dividends this week, this being the twenty-seventh distribution of the company and bringing this year's dividends up to $120,875. A total of $581,544 has been disbursed in dividends since the unit ownership plan was adopted. The Trustee Company has taken up with its attorneys and the department of internal revenue the classification of its trustee units and will treat the income on these merely as rentals. This is in view of the fact that the earnings come from leases on the Eagle, Hyde, Wolverton, Temple Court and Empire State buildings, which the company owns.

Urges Support of One-Cent Letter Postage Campaign

W. L. Clark, auditor of the Spokane & Eastern Trust Company, has sent letters to country bankers surrounding Spokane and prominent business houses in the city, urging their participation in the crusade of the National One Cent Letter Postage association for a cheaper letter postage. The Spokane & Eastern Trust Company is taking the lead in the movement in this district. Mr. Clark estimates that his company's annual postage bill would be cut about in half with a one-cent letter rate, saving $1,500 a year, and he believes other banks and firms could save a proportionate amount. He points out that while letters constitute only 15 per cent of the tonnage of the postal department, they pay 75 per cent of the revenue.

Appointed Superintendent of Banks

Within a short time of his appointment as deputy bank examiner of the state of Oregon, S. G. Sargent, formerly of Spokane, has been appointed state superintendent of banks by the state banking commission. Mr. Sargent up to the time of his first appointment, was vice-president of the United States National Bank of Salem, Oregon. He was formerly connected with banks in Spokane, Pullman and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. His father, J. B. Sargent, resides at St. Joe, Idaho.

DEPOSITORS PAID

All those who held certificates of the state guaranty fund calling for their refund from the failure of the Abilene (Kan.) State received payment from Charles M. Sawyer. The guaranty coupons had been drawing 6 per cent interest from the time they were granted until payment. Flack's total embezzlement amounted approximately to $90,000. This included his defalcations from other associations and from private individuals. The bank shortage exceeded $70,000. The double liability of the stockholders and the value of the assets held by the bank and sold by the receiver, Edward Makins, brought the actual loss to the bank deposit guaranty fund down to $22,455.98. Stockholders of the bank lost heavily. They were held for double liability and several who had thought their stock was sold were made to pay because no record of their stock transactions had been made on the books by Flack.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER SPOKANE'S PROSPECTS

R. L. Rutter, vice-president Spokane and Eastern Trust and head of the clearing house association of that city, stopped off in Chicago Tuesday on his way to Philadelphia. Mr. Rutter says the Pacific Coast country is the greatest in the world. Speaking of conditions in his section he said:

"The live stock industry has received a great impetus during the past year. They are shipping in hogs and milch cows by the train-loads. Prices for hogs and cattle are high and those engaged in the raising of this class of stock have had excellent returns this year.

"Prof. Holden's 100,000 mile campaign over the Spokane country under the auspices of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, has had a salutary effect. The thirteen-year-old girl near Rosser, who won a prize for the production of 108 bushels of corn to the acre, demonstrated conclusively that corn can be raised successfully.

"The mining business around Spokane never was so profitable and there never were so many men employed as at present. The lumber business is dull and has been for the last six years."

RECEIVER NAMED FOR PLAINFIELD BANK

Erastus W. Willard, of Joliet, has been appointed by Judge Carpenter to conserve what is left of the estate of John I. Evarts, proprietor of the Plainfield Bank, a private institution. Evarts disappeared the day preceding the failure of the bank to open its doors.

The aged mother of Evarts has indicated her willingness to make good all claims of creditors if necessary.

Depositors in the defunct private bank passed a gloomy Christmas as a result of the disappearance of John J. Evarts, the proprietor. It is believed by many that the funds of the institution were lost in speculation. The general opinion is that Evarts will not return. The cashier stated there was some money in the vaults, but was unable to say how much.

Evarts frequently was urged by his fellow citizens to convert to a state bank, but always replied there was no money in that kind of banking.

VAN BUSKIRK TO HEAD NEW BANK

It is expected that W. F. Van Buskirk, vice-president Standard Trust & Savings, will be president of the new Insurance Exchange State to be organized with capital stock of $20,000. The bank will be located in the Insurance Exchange building.

L. G. KAUFMAN IN TOWN

Louis G. Kaufman, president Chatham and Phoenix, New York, was in Chicago Friday.

Southern Association Officers

T. H. DICKSON
Jackson, Miss.

S. JACKSON
Cheyenne, Okla.

T. H. Dickson of Jackson, Miss., and S. Jackson, president Cheyenne State, Cheyenne, Oklahoma, respectively, were elected secretary and treasurer of the bankers associations of their states.

Each enjoys the esteem and confidence of his fellow bankers and it is confidently expected that the high standard of efficiency which has been established in the secretarial and treasury departments of the Mississippi and Oklahoma Bankers Associations will be maintained throughout the new administrations.

OMAHA BANK CHANGE

J. R. Cain, Jr., president of the Nebraska Bankers Association, has been chosen vice-president and director of the State Bank of Omaha. Mr. Cain will become actively associated with the bank about January 2. He resigned his position as cashier of the State Bank of Stella, Stella, Neb., and will be succeeded by Clyde Roberts, cashier of the Bank of Howe. The State Bank of Omaha is the only bank in Omaha operating under the state bank guarantee and has shown a wonderful growth in the short time of one year it has been in business. It is capitalized at $300,000.

ADVOCATES GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF TELEPHONE LINES

Representative Lewis, of Maryland, wants the government to take over the ownership of the telephone lines of the country, operating certain of them as telegraph lines and thus competing with the private telegraph companies. Such an enterprise could be financed, he asserts, at a cost of approximately $900,000,000.

FIRST NATIONAL DIVIDEND

Directors of the First National met this week and declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent and a special dividend of 1¼ per cent, making a total of 17 per cent for the year.

Both of these dividends are payable January 2 to stock of record December 31. The directors of the First Trust and Savings added a million to the surplus account, raising that item to $3,500,000. No dividends were declared on the capital stock, it being the policy to build the surplus up to five millions, after which dividends will be resumed.

CHICAGO BANKER DIES

Albert G. Farr, vice-president Harris Trust and Savings, died suddenly Monday at his residence, 5757 University avenue. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Farr became associated with the Harris interests in 1891 when he was admitted to partnership in the firm of N. W. Harris & Co. He formerly was a practicing attorney here.

Mainly About Banks and Bankers

TEXAS RECORD says Joseph Chapman is the one man who dug up and made the banker-farmer idea a go. Of course, he did. We can prove it by Joe. Hirsch.

"OLD ED." HOWE, of which westerners hear so much, has nothing in common with our own "old" Ed. Howe, of Princeton, N. J.

HES BEEN talked of for comptroller and now for a reserve governor. He'd suit a lot of people mighty well.

F. O. WATTS says many bankers went wrong on the new currency bill because they did not discriminate between principles and details. Very neat and very true.

SOME went wrong because they had been life-long republicans and a few because they were newly-fledged progressives or didn't like Bryan. Small potatoes, but potatoes just the same.

JUDGE A. L. MATLOCK is rumored to be preparing to open a new half-million state bank at San Antonio, Tex.

THE YOUGH TRUST CO., Connellsville, Pa., on December 15, sent out 2700 checks for about $70,000 to the members of its Christmas Savings Club.

TWICE as many depositors saved over three times as much as was the case in 1912. Secretary E. R. Floto states that the club will be continued with some new features.

FORD CITY, PA., will have a new $50,000 bank on February 1.

MELLON NATIONAL, Pittsburgh, has assumed clearing house liabilities of the liquidating Federal National. The Federal was entirely solvent but was a heavy creditor in the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Coal Co. failure.

OHIO bankers probably will not fight the new Ohio proposed legislation to segregate savings from commercial deposits.

DETROIT TRUST has made four new vice-presidents: Lawrence K. Butler, Joseph Bower, Charles P. Spicer and McPherson Downing.

THE DETROIT TRUST has been growing so rapidly that the staff had to be increased. The new v. p.'s will each go into a different department of the bank, trust, bond, finance and office.

THE AMERICAN STATE, Detroit, has moved down town to the offices formerly used by the Commercial National. Another case of growing pains.

THE FORD COMPANY, Detroit, has $2,000,000 capital, $28,000,000 surplus, cash and bills receivable $15,180,000.

THE New England investment field has been described as knee deep in blood. An editorial in the Boston News Bureau points out that in the past year of almost uninter-ed liquidation, the New England investor has been hit as never before, with the result that the gilt-edged investment market is in a state of semi-demoralization.

WITH the approach of the end of the year it is more clearly apparent that disbursements already received by security holders and those to be made in January have created an excess of funds that is already seeking employment. The situation is becoming one in which money will rule cheaper and will seek investment.—Ware & Leland.

ROLLIN P. GRANT had to enlarge the Irving National calendar this year to get his marvelously tall new building on it.

MANAGER ALFRED H. CURTIS, of S. H. P. Pell & Co., New York, has remembered the firm's clients with a neatly bound pocket diary for 1914. It is in the A-1 class.

STATE SAVINGS, at Rolfe, Iowa, is sending out one of the handsomest 1914 calendars of the season. W. S. McEwen is the new president, Robert Bruce, vice-president; James Bruce, cashier, and Joseph and D. D. McEwen, assistant cashiers.

NORTHWESTERN NATIONAL, of Birmingham, has sent out appropriate Christmas greetings to all friends and patrons.

GUARANTY TRUST, New York, has issued its December 9 statement folder behind a beautiful frontispiece composed of a full-figured pantographic reproduction of its monogram. Clever stunt.

WHEN in doubt, ask F. W. Ellsworth, the Guaranty's famous publicity man, for samples of his printing. He's a good fellow.

LAKE VIEW STATE, George W. McCabe, president, is paying six per cent dividends, and otherwise doing quite well for an infant—not two years old until April 8.

THERE were a lot of the very nicest gentlemen in Chicago "over the week-end" (English) and all of them just dropped in.

MOST of them met at breakfast and conferred frequently during Saturday. They, in part, were Judge S. B. Montgomery, of Quincy; Col. J. S. Aisthorpe, of Cairo, and George Woodruff, of Joliet, known in official life as "the administrative committee of the I. B. A."

THE others who happened in were Charles S. Rutledge, of Jacksonville, and Springfield; Robert P. Munger, of East St. Louis; E. J. Burke, of Champaign, all of them chaperoned by R. L. Rinaman, of St. Louis.

THEY didn't come to see the big Christmas tree on the lake front, but the real object of the assembly was not fully disclosed.

SECRETARY J. E. PLATT, of South Dakota, sends out notice that his executive council has chosen Aberdeen for the 1914 convention, to be held June 24 and 25.

HE also assures that it is going to be "some convention" and that the Aberdeen bankers already are planning the entertainment features.

SECRETARY PLATT is president of the Security Bank, at Clark, and will reply to all inquiries.

THE SHELDON (IA.) MAIL had out a splendid Christmas boom number with the First National and the Sheldon Savings in cover positions, showing loyalty to home interests.

P. J. O'KEEFFE, one of Chicago's most distinguished attorneys, has reviewed the income tax for the Manufacturers News, of this city.

THE review takes the shape of a high-class legal critique and raises many questions which, no doubt, will be solved finally by the courts.

WE hasten to explain that those bankers who have been referring to the forthcoming board of governors of the federal reserve banks as "a bunch of politicians" were only talking through their hats.

THE new currency bill, income tax and lowered tariff are new conditions which are entitled to a fair chance with loyal support. The biggest banks are crowding the line to get in first.

CLEVELAND claims a "walk-over" in her race to be a regional center. Colonel J. J. Sullivan has his war paint on and you all know what that means.

THE FIFTH-THIRD, Cincinnati, through its president, Charles A. Hinsch, is contesting that requirement of the income tax law requiring an indemnity bond for coupons payable in a foreign country.

MR. HINSCH has carried the matter to Washington. He thinks a national bank itself or, at most, a government bond deposit, should be enough to cover a matter which seldom would run above $5,000 in any bank.

THIS is that same little eccentricity that Charles A. Hinsch, of Cincinnati, has been kicking about.

IRVING NATIONAL HAS WEEKLY DINNER

With a view to increasing efficiency and developing a fraternal spirit throughout its staff, one of New York's leading commercial banking institutions has introduced a somewhat novel feature into its life. This consists of weekly dinners for the bank's employees, where everyone may meet on a social basis. When this idea was first suggested at the Irving National, where it now is in operation, it was thought that, with the dinners given to the whole banking force, the attendance would be too large to permit of informality. This objection was eliminated by setting aside different evenings for interrelated departments, so that men of the same interests during banking hours might develop their social interests after banking hours. There is but one restriction placed upon these affairs—it is strictly taboo to talk "shop" or to touch upon any subject that savors too much of daily business. The entertainment features are presented solely by the bank's employes, and sometimes quite elaborate preparations are made for these after-dinner amusements. It is this phase of the dinners that tends to develop a genuine social spirit among the staff. Men who are in the same department and yet not in personal touch during the day, have, at these functions, appreciably broadened their friendships. There is one serious feature common to every diner. This is a short talk on the general subject of efficiency, the speaker being one who has made a special study of the subject. The more general rules for the best use of both mind and body are explained in a chatty, entertaining manner, the remarks often including serious analyses of the fundamental qualities of human nature. During the course of these "efficiency talks," as they are called, the speaker always explains that he is giving them to the staff, not for the purpose of showing them how to "size-up" the other fellow, but rather to encourage everyone to master his own failings and shortcomings. The dinners were launched as an experiment, but they have proved so satisfactory that the Irving will, no doubt, continue them throughout the winter.

BANK HELD LIABLE

The supreme court of Indiana held, in a ruling handed down last week, that the First National of Tipton, Ind., must pay to Mrs. Sarah C. Peck, of Indianapolis, $7,000, which Wm. H. Marker, its cashier, drew from her account and transferred to his own funds prior to his sentence to the federal prison for violating the banking laws. Mrs. Peck had an arrangement with Marker by which she was to deposit the money at the bank with the understanding that he was to make good loans for her. He had authority to check against it for that purpose. After his arrest the books showed that he had loaned the $7,000 to S. G. Young, but no such loan was made. He had transferred the money to his own account. The bank contended that it was not responsible because it had no authority to act as a broker for others, but the supreme court held that the only question involved was whether the money was given into the care of the bank and then misappropriated.

Currency Law Indorsed by Chicago Bankers

Chicago bankers this week united in praising the new currency law. They all concede that it remedies the vital defects of the old system and are of the opinion that the benefits which will be derived from the enactment of the law will be many. A great many of the bankers have announced that the institutions which they represent will accept the provisions of the law and come in under the new system promptly.

"It seems to me the country is to be congratulated upon the new currency bill as a whole," said Byron L. Smith, president of the Northern Trust. "It has turned out to be much better than most bankers hoped for when the proposition to enact new currency legislation first was launched in congress.

"The new bill is not perfect. Some flaws in it will develop, and what are now considered by some to be flaws may work out to be among the strongest features of the new legislation. It is my belief the kinks all will be worked out in further legislation as necessity dictates."

Views of W. A. Tilden

"We have promptly signified our intention of joining the system of the federal reserve banks. Many of the things recommended by the Chicago conference have either been incorporated in the bill or left to the discretion of the federal board.

"The control of the regional reserve banks and the passing upon credits are left under the control of the member banks through the directors, a majority of whom are elected by the banks themselves. And when we say that the banks entering the system have control of the regional reserve bank through its directors, and that each federal reserve district is represented upon the advisory board, it means that we believe the entire system will be dominated by able and experienced men, upon which its success will ultimately depend."

Hulbert and Reynolds Praise Law

Foremost among bankers to accept the new currency law were George M. Reynolds and D. Hulbert, of Chicago. Each said that he would recommend to the stockholders of his bank that they come in under the new system.

Mr. Reynolds said:

"The bill is now so amended that I shall recommend to our stockholders that the Continental and Commercial National become a member bank of the federal reserve system. The measure creating the system now is one of the laws of the land, and is of such commanding economic importance that I believe I am patriotic enough to assist to make the measure a success, trusting that the common interest of the people and the banks will bring about amendments that later may be deemed necessary.

"While I have talked conciliation, I have also fought, as long as it was worth while to fight, against the retention in the bill of certain objectionable features. I now conceive it to be an obligation of citizenship to see what can be worked out under the good features of the plan.

Local financiers indicate willingness of their institutions to accept provisions of the statute. Many expressions of commendation heard.

"We retain unimpaired under it our system of clearing houses with their primary and regulatory powers, and something must be left to the good sense of the American banker. If the president shall secure for governor of the federal reserve board at Washington a man of such unqualified fitness for the position as, for example, J. J. Hill, who has been mentioned, the president will do more by this one act to invite the good will of the banks and confidence of the public to promote the success of the plan than by any other possible move now remaining open to him.

"It is my belief that a wise administration of the new banking law will render improbable the recurrence of panics of the character of 1907 and others that have been due to like causes. The bill provides for elastic credit and elastic currency, two fundamental desiderata in our present banking and currency system, and I believe that when the banks as a whole come to figure upon the actual effect of the changes in reserves they will look upon the bill with much more favor than at present."

Mr. Reynolds said the contention that the new law will result in a serious contraction of credit is without foundation. He pointed out that there will be released $474,000,000 on account of decreased reserve requirements. He also is of the opinion that the interests of holders of bank stock will not be affected injuriously.

Mr. Hulbert, who was in close touch with the framers of the bill during its course through both branches of congress, said:

"While this bill isn't altogether what bankers wanted, it is a bill well calculated to strengthen our banking system in its weak parts. I do not think the business men of this country have been complaining about the bank credit or the bank service they get in normal times. What they want is the assurance that this service and this credit will not be withdrawn or disastrously curtailed whenever banks get frightened. I believe the bill will protect the business public from this danger.

"I have no doubt that the important banks of the country, both national and state, will go into this system generally. While I cannot speak for the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, the matter not having been considered in any way by its board of directors, I can say that the officers of the bank will recommend that the bank join the new system, as every effort has been made by the framers of the bill to protect the interests of state banks and trust companies."

Goddard's Views

L. A. Goddard, president of the State Bank of Chicago, declared that he would put the question of joining the new federal reserve bank system up to the stockholders at the next annual meeting, which will be held in a week or so.

"That is a matter for the stockholders to decide," he said, "and I intend to submit it to them at the annual meeting, which will be held in the next week or so. My personal opinion is that they will all go in, but I cannot speak for the bank, because the question has not been discussed with the stockholders since the bill was passed."

President Signs the Bill

The President made the currency bill a law at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, by affixing his signature in the presence of a distinguished gathering, consisting of Chairmen Owen and Glass, cabinet officers and others.

After signing the bill, the President explained in a masterful way the motives which actuated the democratic leaders in the enactment of currency legislation, and told of the principles which will govern in the passage of future laws:

President Wilson's remarks follow:

"It is a matter of real gratification to me that in the case of this bill there should have been so considerable a number of republican votes cast for it. All great measures under our system of government are of necessity party measures, for the party of the majority is responsible for their origination and their passage, but this cannot be called a partisan measure. It has been relieved of all intimation of that sort by the cordial co-operation of men on the other side of the two houses who have acted with us and given very substantial reasons and very intelligent reasons for acting with us. So that I think we can go home with the feeling that we are in better spirits for public service than we were even when we convened in April.

"As for the bill itself, I feel that we can say that it is the first of a series of constructive measures by which the democratic party will show that it knows how to serve the country. In calling it the first of a series of constructive measures, I need not say that I am not casting any reflections on the great tariff bill which preceded it. The tariff bill was meant to remove those impediments to American industry and prosperity which had so long stood in their way. It was a great piece of preparation for the achievements of American commerce and American industry, which are certain to follow.

"Then there came upon the heel of it this bill, which furnishes the machinery for free and elastic and uncontrolled credits, put at the disposal of the merchants and manufacturers of this country for the first time in fifty years. I was refreshing my memory on the passage of the national bank act, which came in two pieces, as you know, in February of 1863 and in June of 1864. It is just fifty years ago since that measure, suitable for that time, was passed, and it has taken us more than a generation and a half to come to an understanding as to the readjustments which were necessary for our own time. But we have reached those readjustments.

"I, myself, have always felt that when the democratic party was criticised as not knowing how to serve the business interests of the country, that there was no use in replying in words. The only satisfactory reply was in action. We have written the first chapter of that reply.

"We are greatly favored by the circumstances of our time. We come at the end of a day of contest, at the end of a day when we have been scrutinizing the processes of our business, scrutinizing them with critical and sometimes with hostile eye. We have slowly been coming to the time, which has now happily arrived, when there is a common recognition of the things that it is undesirable should be done in business and things that it is desirable should be done. What we are proceeding to do now is to organize our peace, is to make our prosperity not only stable but free to have an unimpeded momentum.

"It is so obvious that it ought not need to be stated that nothing can be good for the country which is not good for all of the country. Nothing can be for the interest of the country which is not in the interest of everybody; therefore, the day of accommodation and of concession and of common understanding is the day of peace and achievement of necessity.

"We have come to the beginning of that day. Men are no longer resisting the conclusions which the nation has arrived at as to the necessity for readjustments of its business. Business men of all sorts are showing their willingness to come into this arrangement, which I venture to characterize as the constitution of peace. So that by common counsel and by the accumulating force of co-operation we are going to seek more and more to serve the country.

"I need not tell you that I feel a very deep gratification at being able to sign this bill, and I feel that I ought to express very heartily the admiration I have for the men who have made it possible for me to sign this bill. There have been currents and counter currents, but the stream has moved forward. I think that we owe special admiration to the patience and the leadership and the skill and the force of the chairmen of the two committees; and behind them have stood the committees themselves, exercising a degree of scrutiny and of careful thought in this matter which undoubtedly has redounded to the benefit of the bill itself.

"Then there has grown, as we have advanced with this business and the great piece of business which preceded it, evidences of team work that, to my mind, have been very notable, indeed. Only constructive action, only the action which accomplishes something, fills men with the enthusiasm of co-operation, and, I think that at this session of congress we have witnessed an accumulating pleasure and enthusiasm on the part of the membership of both houses in seeing substantial and lasting things accomplished."

Send Applications to Washington

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—Banks in several of the large cities of the country today telegraphed Secretary McAdoo their applications for membership in the new federal banking system. Two national banks in New York, the first from that city, applied, and St. Louis, Cleveland, Denver, Seattle, Philadelphia, all came along with one or more applications.

Additional Illinois banks which telegraphed their desire to join were: Central National bank, Peoria; Joliet National, Joliet; State National bank, Springfield; Olney Trust and Banking company, Olney; State National, Bloomington; Lincoln National, Lincoln, and the First National, Lawrenceville.

Three trust companies, one in St. Louis, one in Baltimore, one in Washington, applied. The clearing house associations of Kansas City, Mo., and Atlanta expressed approval of the law and their intention to recommend to member banks the desirability of entering the new system.

Among other cities which sent applications were Savannah, Ga.; Houston, Texas; Birmingham, Ala.; Norfolk, Va. If priority of filing application is counted in admitting banks to membership, the honor of being first will go to the Lynchburg National bank of Lynchburg, Va. Lynchburg is the home city of Chairman Glass, of the House banking and currency committee.

Farwell Praises the Law

John V. Farwell, head of the National Citizens League, which, during the period of its existence, interested its members in securing adequate currency legislation, indorsed the new currency law this week.

"The banking and currency bill is a good bill," said Mr. Farwell, "and while it does not contain many of the provisions which the bankers and business men advised, and includes some things of which they disapproved, it is much better than those who are in close touch with the situation hoped for.

"As far as the machinery goes, it would have been much better if they had provided for the establishment of four or not over five federal reserve banks, as the system would have worked much more smoothly under such an arrangement than with a larger number.

"It contains, however, the fundamentals which every one insisted upon:

"The mobilization of reserves.

"Short time commercial paper as a basis for expansion of credit and currency.

"The machinery for making notes elastic.

"Better control of the gold supply through the regulation of the rates of interest and otherwise.

"Better facilities for doing international banking business, so as to aid in the large export business to which this country is entitled.

"And, last of all, will prevent such panics as we have been accustomed to in the past.

"Such broad, direct and contingent powers are given to the federal reserve board that the success of the system will depend to a large extent on the personnel of that body. The first great requisite on the board is a man of inter-

The New Banking and Currency Bill

The new banking and currency bill known as the Federal Reserve Act, now under consideration in Congress, is of vital interest to every banker.

It is necessarily technical in its nature and therefore hard to understand.

We have prepared a Digest of the bill, concise, compact, and so arranged as to enable the busy man to grasp its essential features in a few minutes. A copy of this Digest will be sent to anyone on request.

national reputation as financier, so that confidence in the system will be world-wide. The other appointed members should naturally be men of national reputation, and I believe we can trust the President to select the right ones.

"While the government has control of the regulation of the system, the banks have control of the actual banking operations through the election of two-thirds of the total number of directors on the regional bank boards. This is as it should be, and will give business men confidence in the careful operation of the banks."

PLEASED WITH NEW LAW

Treasury officials at Washington are receiving scores of messages from banks throughout the country commending the new banking and currency law. Secretary McAdoo said this week that it is practically certain the greater portion of the banks will come in under the system.

National Shawmut of Boston, one of the leading banks of the country, wired that its executive committee had voted unanimously to accept provisions of the new law.

Comptrollership Vacant

As is well known, there is at present no comptroller of the currency, the President having failed to name a successor to Lawrence O. Murray. The currency law provides that the comptroller shall be one of the three members of the organization committee having in charge the division of the country into federal reserve districts and the organization of the federal reserve banks.

It will be impossible now to appoint a successor to Mr. Murray until January 12th at the earliest. The adjournment of congress until that date not being construed as a recess precludes the possibility of a "recess appointment" by President Wilson.

Secretary McAdoo favors the selection of John Skelton Williams, his chief assistant. It was rumored in Washington this week that in the event of such a choice the senate might refuse to confirm the appointment owing to Mr. Williams' connection with the absorption of the United States Trust by the Munsey Trust. If such shall prove to be the case McAdoo could withhold his approval of any other candidate and thus render the comptrollership vacant indefinitely.

In the event of the non-selection of a comptroller in the near future the brunt of the organization work will fall upon the shoulders of Secretary McAdoo, for Houston, the Secretary of Agriculture, never has professed to have had much experience in banking matters.

Forgan Says Banks Will Enter

David R. Forgan, president of the National City, expressed the belief that eventually all national banks would enter the system. He said that he did not believe, on the face of present indications, that any of the national banks would give up their charters rather than join the new banking system.

"I believe that all the city's national banks will go in. There is no way in which they may stay out and keep their charters. It is not a question of voluntary action. We have not decided yet upon our course of action," he said.

Fenton's Bank to Come In

W. T. Fenton, vice-president of the National Bank of the Republic, announced that application of that institution for membership in the new system had been made last Saturday, the day after the bill was passed by the senate.

Many Cities Want Federal Banks

Quite a rivalry among the large cities of the country exists with respect to the location of the regionals under the new currency law. The plan now is to have but eight banks established at the outset, although it is possible to organize twelve under the law.

Three southerners have been mentioned as candidates for the federal reserve board. They are Sol. Wexler, of New Orleans; F. W. Foote, Hattiesburg, Miss., and Ashton Phelps, a newspaper man of New Orleans.

UNIONS TO TAKE DEPOSITS FROM INDIANAPOLIS BANKS

As an aftermath of the recent labor troubles and strikes in Indianapolis, it has been announced that officers of international unions with headquarters in Indianapolis, have decided to withdraw from the city banks on January 1, all the funds of the international organizations. The deposits amount to between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. It is said that the withdrawals will not seriously affect any one bank. In a statement issued, it is set forth that the reason for the withdrawal is "we have reason to believe that said money is being used by the merchants, manufacturers and team owners of Indianapolis to destroy and crush out the working people." The statement was signed by the officers of the barbers', carpenters', bricklayers', plasterers', bookbinders' and teamsters' unions.

SEEK MISSING BANKER

A warrant for the arrest of C. G. Ricker, formerly president of the defunct Yates Center (Kans.) National, has been issued, and a nation-wide search for the missing banker is being made. The Yates Center Bank, capitalized at $50,000, was closed December 2. Bad loans, accommodation paper, some of it fictitious, and other discrepancies are said to have reached a total of $175,000. The institution had deposits of $206,755.

FAVOR BANK GUARANTY LAW

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Peoples Bank, Donaldsonville, La., a resolution was introduced and adopted favoring a state bank guaranty law, such as now is in force in Nebraska.

TWO PERMITS FOR MAGNOLIA, ILL.

A short time ago a permit was issued by the state auditor to organize a state bank at Magnolia in Putnam county. The incorporators were Dr. W. A. Simons, Vivian Hawes, John C. Clemens and George P. Johnson. The bank is to be capitalized at $25,000.

On December 22, the auditor announces the issuance of a permit to Robert A. Ward, William H. Skelton, E. A. Mathias, A. B. Wilson and R. W. Spencer to organize a state bank at Magnolia with capital stock of $25,000. The last named group represent the private bank at Magnolia and show how many of these institutions are hustling to incorporate in order to take advantage of state supervision ahead of the new groups of capitalists who are starting state banks in various sections of Illinois.

COMBINES TO OBEY LAW

President Wilson in conversation this week intimated that the recent act of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in agreeing to dispose of its interest in the Western Union and to conduct the operation of subsidiary companies to meet the approval of the government, is likely to be imitated by other large combinations.

Everywhere, said the president, there is manifest a disposition to comply with the provisions of the Sherman law. It is desired to have the law interpreted in all its phases so that those affected by it may know how to proceed in their endeavor to comply with the statute.

VINCENNES BANK BUILDING DEDICATED

The new First National Bank building, Vincennes, Ind., formally was dedicated on Tuesday of last week. It is estimated that more than ten thousand people visited the bank during the day. This is one of the Indiana banks with a history and was the first in the Middle West to resume specie payment after the civil war. President Bayard gave a dinner in the evening at the Grand Hotel to the following guests: John P. Frenzel, Merchants National, Indianapolis; Gwinn Patterson, cashier Indiana National, Indianapolis; Joseph Vorhes, president First National, Bedford; H. C. Johnson, president First National Bank of Seymour; Henry Reis, president; Major Gilchrist, vice-president; F. R. Wilson and Mr. Brazee of the Old State National, of Evansville; Mark Soontag, president of the American Trust and Savings, Evansville; Samuel L. Orr, Evansville; Samuel Heston, president Bankers National of Evansville; E. E. Hooper, president Farmers Bank, Sumner, Ill.; Paul U. Bayard, cashier of the First National of Lawrenceville; Maurice F. Bayard, of the Indiana Trust, Indianapolis; Thomas Sheerin, manager bond department of the Fletcher Trust of Indianapolis; John Hagey, assistant cashier of the First National, Chicago, and J. R. Pierce, cashier of the First National of Bicknell.

HEINZE BANKRUPT

Otto C. Heinze, of New York, one of the great copper group, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy; liabilities amount to about $2,500,000.

NEW MINNEAPOLIS BANK

The Franklin Avenue State, Minneapolis, will open for business early in January, when its building at 1504 E. Franklin street is ready for occupancy. The new institution has the backing of a number of the most reliable men on the South Side and, with its central location, will be a great convenience to Franklin avenue merchants. It will have $25,000 capital stock and a paid in surplus of $5,000. Robert K. Blinkenberg will be the cashier and act as manager. Other officers and directors have not yet been named.

The demand for government bonds in blocks of $500 each to absorb the savings of depositors who are patronizing the postal savings bank of Spokane, has grown steadily the last few weeks, according to Assistant Postmaster T. J. Smith. No depositor is allowed to put in more than $500, but he may buy bonds with his deposits. The postal savings bank now has on hand $74,500, which has been re-deposited in the Spokane banks.

W. J. Kommers, assistant cashier of the Old National bank, who has made a study of the new income tax law, addressed the Spokane Bar association Wednesday evening on the new law. The association asked Mr. Kommers to discuss the question when it was found he had been selected by the bank to secure all available data in order to instruct clients.

Irvin J. Green has been elected assistant cashier of the Rock Island Savings.

CHANGE IN PRIVATE BANK LAW

A meeting of the Van Tuyl commission to revise the New York banking law has been called by A. Barton Hepburn, chairman, for Dec. 30, at 9 o'clock a. m., at the Chamber of Commerce, in New York City, for the purpose of receiving reports from the various sub-committees. The first draft of the proposed law regarding private bankers under the supervision of the superintendent of banks, as prepared by George I. Skinner, first deputy, was submitted to the committee in executive session. The committee will undoubtedly recommend, subject to the approval of the full commission, a law which will repeal the present statute providing for the supervision of private bankers by the comptroller of the state, and it will propose as a substitute a law placing them under the superintendent of banks and materially increasing the powers of the supervising officer.

WASHINGTON BANK CHANGE

On Wednesday of last week Cuno H. Rudolph became president of the Second National, Washington, D. C., succeeding William V. Cox, who held that position continuously for twelve years. Mr. Rudolph was vice-president of the National Metropolitan Bank and resigned upon its acceptance of the presidency of the Second National.

MICHIGAN BANK GETS SETTLEMENT

A settlement has been made of the claim of the Central Savings, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., against the Maryland Casualty Company, the amount involved being $2,250. The case against the Casualty Company grew out of the refusal of the company to pay a claim for $2,000, which, the bank alleged, was due it by virtue of an arrangement for protection against loss furnished by the company.

AUGUSTA CASHIER TO BE ARRESTED

A warrant charging forgery has been sworn out against Cashier Jas. P. Armstrong, of the Irish-American Bank, Augusta, Ga., the doors of which institution were closed recently by the state bank examiner at the instance of the board of directors. It is alleged that Armstrong forged the signature of an Augusta business man as the endorser of a note on which he secured funds. According to the family and friends of Mr. Armstrong, he will give himself up to the officers on his return to the city. Bond in the sum of $10,000 has been arranged and he will assist the auditors in clearing up the tangled affairs of the institution. As a result of the Irish-American failure, the Industrial Lumber Company, with liabilities of over $175,000, was placed in the hands of a receiver by the United States court at Charleston, S. C.

RESIGNS AS CASHIER

Samuel H. Fulmer, cashier of the Penn National Bank, Reading, Pa., has tendered his resignation, to take effect April 1, 1914. Mr. Fulmer has been identified with the institution since its organization in 1883. He has had his retirement under consideration for some time.

CHANGE BANK NAME

The stockholders of the Farmers State of Augusta, Ill., at a meeting recently held, changed the name of that institution to the First Trust and Savings Bank.

CHANGE AT INDIANA BANK

Arthur Ritchie, of Camden, has been made cashier of the Bank of Sedalia, Sedalia, Ind., to succeed Henry Lauchner, who is critically ill. Mr. Ritchie has had five years' experience as cashier of the Camden bank.

The new Citizens Bank, Charlottesville, Ind., has been opened. James T. McClarnon is president; Luther V. Symons, vice-president; Clarence Haskett, cashier; H. T. White, C. T. Binford, J. N. Addison and Frank Craft, directors.

NEW INDIANA BANK

R. T. Calendar of the Farmers Trust and Savings, Marion, Ind., and Glen E. Buzick of the same place, have organized a new bank at Battleground, Ind. The new bank will be known as the Battleground State and will be capitalized at $25,000. It is the only bank in the town, which is a trading center for one of the richest districts in the state. Mr. Buzick has been elected cashier.

South Dakota Notes

The Farmers Savings, at Sioux Falls, is doing business with Mr. William Ontjies as president; R. A. Goodwin, cashier; Charles Vauk, vice-president; Robert Vauk, assistant cashier.

The First National at Rosholt is now open for business.

The People's State at New Effington, is open for business, with C. G. Peterson, of Morris, Minn., as cashier.

The Bonesteel State at Bonesteel has installed a new 4,000-pound safe.

NAMED STATE BANK EXAMINER

John Scullans, formerly cashier of the Toluca (Ill.) Bank, has been appointed state bank examiner and will move to Springfield the first of the year.

TALBERT IMPROVING

Word comes from New York that Joseph T. Talbert, the New York banker who was stricken with paralysis this week, is improving steadily. There is an excellent chance for his recovery.

LAW TO HELP COMMERCIAL PAPER SALES

It is expected that the new currency law which permits the rediscount of commercial paper at the federal reserve banks will result in increased sales of such paper. Already the effect is beginning to be felt.

ILLINOIS BANKING NEWS

By C. C. Burford

Good crop reports in the northern part of the state are indicated by Chandler Starr, cashier of the Winnebago Bank & Trust Company of Rockford, in a recent letter to the Illinois correspondent of the CHICAGO BANKER. Mr. Starr has many friends in Illinois banking circles and they will be pleased to read a few lines written from his part of the state. The bank of which Mr. Starr is now the cashier has been in business since 1848, and is one of the oldest banks in Illinois. The bank was established, as that of Robertson and Holland, in 1848, followed by that of Robertson, Coleman & Company, in 1851, which in turn was followed by Robertson and Starr in 1863. In 1863 the institution was nationalized as the Winnebago National, an old historic Indian name being selected as Rockwood is in Winnebago County. A few weeks ago a state charter supplanted the national bank and the name is now the Winnebago Bank & Trust Company. The bank always has had a close connection with the Robertson and Starr families.

Regarding business and crop conditions around Rockford, Mr. Starr says:

"Agricultural conditions in our part of the country, northern Illinois, for the year 1913, are very much better than in large portions of the country. The oats crop was rather short, but the berry was most excellent and the good price nearly made up the shortage in comparison with the season of 1912. During the summer, we had timely showers here, so that corn was not dried up as in many parts of the country. The crop of corn perhaps was not of quite so high a grade as the crop of 1912, but I think it has proved better than an average crop. Hay, pasture, and feed have all been abundant during the present season and I believe that the entire crop is very little behind that of 1912. Farmers in our part of the state are in good condition, and prosperous. A good portion of the farms in this vicinity are run by tenants, the owners having retired from active business and living in town. Conditions in Rockford have been exceedingly good throughout the year until, perhaps, the last two months, as there has been something of a let-up in manufacturing in many of our lines here now, and some men have been thrown out of employment, but not in large numbers."

Elgin Banks Award Corn Prizes

The successful corn contest which was conducted by the First National of Elgin, and the Elgin City Banking Company proved an interesting event for many farmers and fifty of them entered exhibits. The awards were made to various townships so that each section of Kane county was represented and first and second prizes were offered to four groups of townships. The two banks of Elgin giving this contest attracted wide publicity for themselves besides aiding the farmers in stimulating a desire to raise better corn. Banks can do a large measure of good for their localities by encouraging agricultural and other business arts.

Addresses were made on the growing of standard corn by William Webb, soil expert of Kendall county and J. E. Readheimer, soil expert of Kane county. Various types of corn suited for northern Illinois were presented by the soil experts and farmers were urged to grow standard corn as well as thoroughbred live stock. Mr. Webb served as judge of the corn. The motto of the contest was "corn efficiency," and no better ideal could be offered to Illinois farmers than just such a slogan.

Two Jacksonville Banks May Unite

There is some likelihood that the Ayers National of Jacksonville and the Jacksonville National may be merged following the purchase of control of the latter by Messrs. Andrew Russel and Millard F. Dunlap. In case of a merger the magnificent new building of the Ayers National, which was occupied only about a year ago, will be used. The purchase of the control of the Jacksonville National by Messrs. Dunlap and Russel was one of the largest bank stock deals made in Illinois for some years. The stock acquired by Messrs. Dunlap and Russel consisted of the following holdings: John R. Robertson, $44,000; Henry Oakes, $21,000; T. B. Orear, $11,000, and Julius E. Strawn, $8,500. With the interests of Charles B. Graff, who will serve as vice-president and who has $35,000 of stock, the new purchasers will have control.

Millard F. Dunlap will be the president of the Jacksonville National; Charles B. Graff, vice-president, and Andrew Russel, cashier. Robert M. Hockenhull and O. F. Buffe, with the above named, will be the directors. The history of Messrs. Russel and Dunlap is interesting to bankers and few men in the state have more friends than have these Jacksonville bankers. The Jacksonville Courier, in speaking of their careers, says:

"The banking history of Messrs. Dunlap and Russel is interesting. Mr. Dunlap started his banking career with the First National in 1876. Mr. Russel entered the Jacksonville National two years earlier. In 1891 these men formed the partnership known as Dunlap, Russel &

"That the same success which has attended their previous endeavors will result from the acquisition of the Jacksonville National will not be doubted."

Group 6 at Sidell, June 12, 1914

The executive committee of Group 6 of the Illinois Bankers' Association, met in the bank of Bragg, Helm & Co., of Tuscola, recently, and decided to hold the next annual meeting at Sidell, June 12, 1914. The meeting was followed by dinner at the Beach House. Those present were Grover R. Helm, assistant cashier Bragg, Helm & Company, of Tuscola, and chairman of the group; John A. Cathcart, cashier First National of Sidell, and secretary-treasurer of the group; E. I. Burke, vice-president and C. L. Maxwell, cashier Citizens State, of Champaign; George W. Telling, cashier Commercial Trust and Savings, of Danville; Fred G. Hudson, cashier First National of Charleston, and S. Y. Whitlock, cashier First National, of Tuscola. Messrs. Hudson, Telling and Whitlock are members of the executive council of the Illinois Bankers' Association.

Crime Increases Bank Deposits

A wave of crime which recently has swept over Springfield, has tended to increase bank deposits so far as small sums are concerned, being evident that people are unwilling to leave money about their homes. "It generally happens," says President B. R. Hieronymus, of the Illinois National, "that right after a burglary or a number of burglaries have happened in a neighborhood people in that particular locality who have been keeping their money in their homes or on their persons come to the banks and deposit their savings. I cannot tell just what effect it makes upon the safety deposit business but it is safe to say that some of the people who have valuables take pains to conceal them in a secure place when there are burglars about."

Christmas Savings Funds

Many banks in Illinois, as well as in other states, are giving particular attention now to their Christmas Savings Clubs, which are conducted very successfully in many localities. The advertising which promotes these clubs has aroused considerable publicity ability among bankers and some interesting and clever advertisements are now appearing in newspapers and leaflets calling attention to the opening of the Christmas Club for next year as these funds begin a year ahead. The Taxpayers Club is proving a success in some localities and as a factor in the thrift campaign of today stands somewhat higher than the Christmas Fund as the former gives the patrons money with which to meet a necessary expense, while the Christmas Club may encourage saving with an idea of spending under the Christmas stimulus which may not be the best plan for certain classes of people.

Illinois Notes

Second National of Danville was the headquarters of a Tag Day for the benefit of Lakeview Hospital of that city.

"The Farmer and the Bank" is the title of an article by Professor E. W. Kemmerer, of the department of finance of Princeton University, which has appeared in the Illinois press.

Practical thrift is seen in statistics from the Moline high school, where 171 boys and girls out of a total of about 500 are engaged in some occupation to help defray their school expenses. The pupils earn during the school year about $12,000 in various after-school and Saturday tasks.

The Champaign Chamber of Commerce will give an honorary dinner to Professor David Kinley, director of the courses of commerce in the University of Illinois, on the evening of January 5th. The dinner is a compliment to Dr. Kinley upon his election as vice-president of the state institution. Dr. Kinley is well and favorably known among bankers and business men.

The opening of the new building of the First National of Charleston, Saturday, December 13th, was a successful function and the bank was thronged with visitors throughout the day and evening.

O. P. Bourland has been elected president of the newly organized Pontiac Loan & Trust Company of Pontiac.

Jacksonville Citizens defeated the issuance of $50,000 of bonds for the rebuilding of the electric light system of that city by a vote of 2,096 to 1,156.

COMMERCE ASSOCIATION SELECTS BANK COMMITTEE

The annual meeting of Subdivision 11, Banks and Bankers, Chicago Association of Commerce, was held at the La Salle hotel, Tuesday. The following were selected to represent this membership on the Ways and Means committee for the ensuing year. Chairman John S. Broeksmit, cashier Harris Trust; vice-chairman, Henry S. Henschen, cashier State Bank; James G. Wakefield, assistant cashier, Corn Exchange; Frank F. Winans, Northern Trust; Thomas E. McGrath, auditor, Hibernian Banking Association.

Resolutions were adopted complimenting retiring chairman Dan Norman, of the Continental, special reference being made to the splendid report made by him for his subdivision at one of the regular meetings of the Ways and Means committee in which the financial history and banking power of Chicago was ably set forth.

ATTACKS CONSTITUTIONALITY OF ROAD LAW

Jacob Martens of Anchor, McLean County, Illinois, has questioned the constitutionality of the provision of the hard roads law enacted by the last general assembly which empowers the highway commission to create the offices of road engineer, bridge engineer and third assistant engineer.

CASHIER DISAPPEARS

Edward Morgan, cashier of the First National, Jamestown, N. Y., has disappeared following the disclosure of a shortage of $14,500 in the cash reserve of the bank. The directors have charged off the deficiency and removed Morgan from his position.

NEWS LETTER BY CHALMER B. TRAVER

WISCONSIN

To the Batavia National of LaCrosse belongs the honor of being the first national bank of Wisconsin to come under the new currency act. The application was made December 8 in a telegram from Vice-President E. M. Wing, of the bank, to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. The Bank of Wisconsin of Madison is the first state bank to make application under the new provisions.

Milwaukee bankers said on Monday in regard to the new law:

Oliver Clyde Fuller, president Wisconsin Trust Company—

"I believe that every national bank will come in under the new currency law. The bill as passed by the senate is a good one; in fact is much improved over the house bill. I do not approve of the clause providing for the guaranty of deposits, that is, the setting aside of a fund for that purpose. Oklahoma and other states have tried it out and it has proven a failure in each instance. Bank failures can never be prevented until human nature is changed. The new measure is a great improvement over the present banking system."

J. W. P. Lombard, president, National Exchange—

"I think most of the national banks will accept the new currency system. The bankers cannot do much of anything else because their circulation privilege would be taken away. The bill has been very much improved in the senate and the reserve conditions have been made more favorable to banks, but I still believe country banks will continue to make their loans from their own correspondents instead of through the reserve system. It would have been better to have had only one bank, instead of eight or more but there is no possibility of obtaining such a concession."

Herman Wolf, vice-president, Wisconsin National—

"The banks will have to abide by the currency system. The measure is long and complicated and it would take several days to study it out properly. Bankers, no doubt, will accept the plan. I don't see how the national banks can do anything else."

Arthur H. Lindsay, vice-president, Marine National—

"The currency bill is less objectionable now than in its original form."

A. J. Frame, of Waukesha stated that the underlying principle of the law is good and is confident that the details, some of which appeared to him defective, can be remedied.

Bank Clerks Get Gifts

A rumor spread through the Milwaukee banks Tuesday that the Owen-Glass act would forever abolish the gentle practice of bank directorates in making the customary acknowledgments of their good will to employees before Christmas. The particular clause referred to contains something disagreeable about clerks getting nothing but their regular salary at any time. But Santa Claus visited the Milwaukee banks before the bill became a law and most of the Milwaukee bank employees have already received the customary bonus, ranging from a few dollars to half a month's salary.

Forger Sentenced

Sidney T. Kauders, entering a plea of guilty to a forgery charge, was sentenced last week to one year in the house of correction. The two specific instances to which Kauders pleaded guilty were the passing of two bogus checks, aggregating $2,925 on the Kenwood Trust and Savings of Chicago, and the Milwaukee office of the American Express Company. He is a traveling salesman.

Bankers Scored

Bankers as a class underwent a severe scoring at the hands of Justice R. M. Wanamaker, of the Ohio Supreme court in an address before the City Club at the Hotel Wisconsin, Monday.

"Twentieth century machinery is as necessary to successfully run the government as it is to run the farm, factory, business house, or bank," said Mr. Wanamaker. "Probably no other class of our business men is so vigorously and vehemently opposed to many of the progressive policies as our bankers. And yet no department of all our business and commercial life has exhibited more substantial evidence of business reform than have our banking institutions.

"What would be the amount of deposits of a bank that would use the old-time safety deposit vault generally in use half a century ago? Just as the bankers demand and secure the latest and best burglar proof safe to protect their stockholders and depositors from yeggmen, so the people feel the need of burglar-proof, bribe and corruption-proof machinery and vaults to protect the people's rights, privileges, powers and property from political and official yeggmen."

Condition of Wisconsin Banks

Total resources of $230,073,789.53, an increase of $6,307,346.98 since August 9, are reported by Wisconsin banks on December 1, according to Banking Commissioner Kuolt's last report. During the three months deposits increased $95,645.77; time certificates, $2,080,771.66; savings deposits, $1,564,393.38, and loans and discounts, $4,809,383.92.

SUBMIT RURAL CREDIT PLAN

President Wilson has received from the commission appointed to evolve a system of rural credits a definite plan submitted through Senator Fletcher, of Florida, chairman of the commission.

It is proposed to establish a system of mortgage banks to be located in different states or sections of the country.

The co-operative system of Germany, the report says, would not be applicable to conditions in the United States. Two other rural credit systems are discussed—the establishment of a central rural credits bank and a series of rural credits banks in the different states or groups of states similar to the regional system of the currency law.

The proposed banks would have a cash capital subscribed by the stockholders and their scheme of organization would be similar to that of the ordinary banking corporation. The capital would be mainly used as a guaranty fund, debentures being issued of an equal value to the loan and sold, the proceeds to be used in furnishing money to borrowers.

Each institution would be under the control of a federal supervisor and all appraisements would be made in accordance with rigid regulations, with loans up to a certain percentage of the appraised value of the farm.

The House committee on banking and currency has taken up this question and is preparing a bill to carry out the recommendation of the President's message. Senator Fletcher will have charge of the matter in the Senate.

MANY CITY MEN STUDY AGRICULTURE

According to a report made recently there are 930 students in the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, these figures including 137 women students in household science courses included in the college of agriculture. Chicago and Cook county furnished 151 of these students, 492 came from towns and villages and 323 from the farm direct, so we see that many young people from the cities and towns are interested in farm work. Each county in the state, with the exception of eight, is represented and thirty-two states of the Union and twelve foreign countries are included.

Fifteen years ago the college of agriculture was such a small part of the University of Illinois that it was with difficulty located by strangers, as it occupied basement rooms in scattered buildings and had almost no equipment nor buildings. Now the college of agriculture is practically an institution in itself with a large corps of instructors, clerks and workmen and with an organization as perfect as a model business plant. That the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois is taking a prominent part in advancing the progressive ideas of present-day American life such as better crops, better roads, better rural life and a cheaper and more wholesome living for the people, is evident and bankers who are vitally interested in the larger side of their work are pleased to note this progress.

TENNESSEE BANK EXAMINERS NAMED

J. O. Hutton, state superintendent of banking, Tennessee, has announced the appointment of state bank examiners as follows: A. J. Williams, cashier of the First National, of Savannah; John F. Joyner, cashier of the Broadway National, of Nashville; D. C. Borden, auditor of the Holston National, of Knoxville; N. B. Gentry, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, of Newbern; I. L. Emerson, formerly cashier of the Athens Bank and Trust. Offices have been opened in the First National Bank building at Nashville, but the actual work of examining the state banks will not begin until the first of the year. Mr. Hutton says that the work of the state banking department will be constructive rather than destructive, and that the bank examiners will extend a helping hand rather than wield the big stick. There are 450 state banks in Tennessee, and these will be examined at least twice a year. An annual report will be made by the state superintendent of banking to the governor and each state bank will be required to report at least twice a year, and also on special calls by the state department.

TENDERED APPOINTMENT AS BANK EXAMINER

Joseph A. Carroll, assistant treasurer of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Trust, has been tendered by State Banking Commissioner Doyle an appointment as state bank examiner. Mr. Carroll has been a resident of Grand Rapids for about three years and previous to the organization of the Grand Rapids Trust was associated with the Michigan Trust. His home is in Mount Pleasant and it was there he began his banking career as a messenger for the Isabella County State. Subsequently he served two years as assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants State at Lakeview.

MISSISSIPPI BANKS INCREASE CAPITAL

The Commercial Savings, Greenville, Miss., will, on January 1, increase its capital from $50,000 to $100,000. W. P. Kretschmar is president and A. M. Lyall, cashier. The Greenville Savings Bank and Trust company will increase its capital from $28,500 to $100,000. J. Albert Lake has resigned as president to give attention to his large real estate interests. J. K. Hazlip, of Vicksburg, has been elected president, to succeed Mr. Lake and Frank L. Harbison, formerly cashier of the Bank of Washington, has been elected cashier. Read P. Dunn, present cashier, will remain in an important position.

John H. Underwood, expert accountant, who has been employed as assistant cashier of the G. W. Jones Exchange Bank at Marcellus, Mich., has accepted a position in the state banking department.

Willis Evans, executive secretary of the Peoria Association of Commerce, was named vice-president of the Central Association of Commercial Clubs at their convention held in Omaha.

St. Louis and Southwest Banking Letter

By R. L. ROBINSON

St. Louis bank clearings during the past week has been quite large, while the demand for money was fair, most of the loans being made at 6 per cent. New York exchange was in fair offerings and the bulk of the sales between banks was at par.

Snowden to Memphis

Eugene Snowden, for eight years the representative of the National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis, traveling in ten of the southern states, has formed a connection with the Weston-Stevenson Company, a Chicago investment house. He will have headquarters in Memphis, Tenn., where he was in the banking business ten years ago, before moving to St. Louis. Mr. Snowden writes that Memphis is on the eve of a big development. A "prosperity banquet" will be held there by the Business Men's Club on January 14.

To Head Commonwealth

Daniel G. Taylor, former circuit judge, is slated to become president of the Commonwealth Trust at the directors' meeting on January 15, according to a report which he has affirmed. He will succeed Albert N. Edwards, whose retirement is caused by the transfer in control of the trust company from the Edwards interests to a syndicate headed by R. B. Dula, Samuel W. Fordyce, E. F. Goltra, Adolphus Busch, III, and Charles A. Lemp. Judge Taylor plans to retire permanently from the practice of law and to devote the rest of his career to the upbuilding of the Commonwealth Trust. W. C. Fordyce will remain as first vice-president and no other changes in the official staff are anticipated at this time.

St. Louis Bank Elections

All of the national banks in St. Louis and most of the downtown state banks will elect directors January 13. The National Bank of Commerce will fill vacancies caused by the death of Elias Michael and resignations of B. F. Edwards and Charles Rebstock. The Third National will name a successor to the late Adolphus Busch, and also increase the membership of its board from twelve to thirteen. The Merchants Laclede will name a successor to the late C. F. Gauss, while the St. Louis Union Trust will fill vacancies created by the deaths of Dr. William Taussig and Captain John A. Scudder. The Mercantile Trust recently elected directors.

County Deposits

The annual compilation of the total deposits, capital and assets of all the banks and trust companies of St. Louis county by F. J. Hollocher, secretary of the St. Louis County Bankers Association, shows that the twenty-two banks and trust companies of the county have deposits aggregating $5,744,357.86; capital aggregating $868,600, and assets aggregating $7,126,215.63. The aggregate deposits of 1913 show an increase over 1912 by $233,422.86 and an increase in total assets of $423,722.61.

Edwards May Join Bankers Trust

J. E. Franklin, president of the Bankers Trust, has denied a rumor that Ben F. Edwards is to become president of the Bankers Trust and that he, himself, is to become chairman of the board, but does not deny that Mr. Edwards might become actively associated with the company. Mr. Edwards formerly was president of the National Bank of Commerce. When he retired he was given $50,000.

No matter what may be the effect of Currency legislation upon the banking business of the Country, it is certain that the growing and marketing of live stock will continue as in the past.

by the directors not to engage in the banking business again before January 1, 1914.

St. Louis Briefs

George H. Dunscomb, assistant cashier of the First National, Chicago, and W. F. McCaleb, president of the West Texas Bank and Trust, San Antonio, Tex., were visitors at the National Bank of Commerce last week.

A dividend of 4 per cent has been declared on the capital stock of the Cass Avenue Bank, payable January 1, to stockholders of record December 20.

Members of the Bankers Club of St. Louis have sent a telegram to President Wilson endorsing Rolla Wells for appointment on the Federal Reserve Board.

Mrs. Edward H. Downing, wife of the assistant cashier of the International Bank of St. Louis, is in a serious condition from injuries suffered Tuesday evening of last week when a robber, who had invaded her home, struck her over the head and rendered her unconscious. A ring valued at $350 was stolen; also her purse containing $4.

Buys Bank of Crane

A deal was negotiated recently in which J. W. Coleman, president of the Bank of Marionville, Mo., purchased 140 of the 160 shares in the Bank of Crane, assuming possession. The present officers of the Crane bank will hold their respective positions until January 13, when new officers will be elected.

Defunct Bank Officials Fined

E. W. Fannin and E. L. Hickman, former president and vice-president of the Choctaw Commercial Bank of Spiro, Okla., which failed last February, pleaded guilty in the district court at Stigler, Okla., to accepting deposits when they knew the bank was insolvent and each was fined $1,000. They were indicted on four counts along with other officers of the bank, and took a change of venue to Haskell county. The bank carried $75,000 deposits.

Loses His Property

A verdict was rendered at Poteau, Okla., recently for judgment of $15,000 against ex-County Treasurer J. H. Hinton and the Southern Surety Company of Muskogee, which was on his bond as treasurer, Le Flore county being the plaintiff. Hinton held the office of treasurer from statehood until last July, when he retired, $15,000 short, by reason of the closing of the Choctaw Commercial Bank, in which the county funds were kept. A bond of $8,000 for the protection of the county funds was found to be worthless, following the closing of the bank. Through the judgment, Hinton will lose all his property.

Pendarvis Sells Interest

E. A. Pendarvis, of Waukomis, Okla., has disposed of his interests in the Farmers State to L. O. Steenrof, of Wichita, Kans., and the change has been made in the bank. L. W. Green, who has held the position as assistant cashier, now is cashier and Mr. Steenrod is president. The Farmers State was organized about a year ago.

To Go With Bank

D. W. Boyer, ex-county treasurer of Comanche county, Okla., has accepted the position of cashier of the First National, at Walter, and has entered upon his duties. Mr. Boyer is an expert accountant as well as a conservative and competent business man, and possesses a wide acquaintance throughout both Cotton and Comanche counties.

Texas State Savings Banks

A condensed statement of the condition of savings departments in twenty-five state banks in Texas shows resources and liabilities amounting to $2,927,062.27 at the close of business, November 29. First mortgage bonds to the amount of $2,077,066.46 are held on real estate worth twice that amount. The amount due depositors was $2,885,115, and undivided profits amounted to $41,947.27. The required cash reserve of 15 per cent of the deposits, amounting to $432,798.68, was exceeded by $126,608.27.

New Bank at Marshall

At a meeting of the state banking board a certificate of authority to do business in Texas was granted to the Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank of Marshall, capital $75,000. This bank has assumed the guaranty fund. Frank Davis is president and R. J. Miller cashier.

Southwest Notes

James P. Harlin, Fred Caldwell and W. T. Harlin were elected president, vice-president and cashier, respectively, at a meeting last week of the Howell County Bank, West Plains, Mo. G. H. Carter is the retiring president.

The Bank of Manchester, Manchester, Mo., has been incorporated by August Meisch, B. T. Ferguson, D. C. Taylor, Adam W. Seible, Geo. T. Trusdale, Hy. Druhe, and others. The capital is $25,000.

Samuel L. Gibson has tendered his resignation to the board of directors as cashier of the Peoples Bank at Browning. He will continue as a member of the board.

The trial on the seventeen indictments against A. C. Tindle, former cashier of the Pemiscot County Bank, Kennett, Mo., charged with wrecking that institution, was continued in the circuit court at Caruthersville until the next regular term in February. The continuance was granted Tindle on the plea of his wife's illness.

Henry Freeman has resigned his position as assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank, Foreman, Ark., to take effect the first of the year. He will go to New Mexico for the benefit of

THE BANKER AND THE PUBLIC

By S. M. Jackson, Manager of the Bank of California, Tacoma

Banking is a business which involves great social benefit and responsibility. No better confirmation of the truth of this statement can be found than the official attitude of the three foremost civilized nations of the world towards banking. The United States, Great Britain and Germany, by their system and supervision of banks have recognized the power of banking to promote social welfare and national stability. Whatever is done by the bankers of this country to promote a knowledge among the people of the principles of sound banking is a public service.

I know of no other business or profession where those engaged in it take so much interest in its development along safe and sane lines. We have an American Bankers Association with 14,000 bank members and few, if any, of the states are without their local state organization, which meets annually to discuss matters pertaining to the improvement of present banking facilities and increased security for depositors.

These meetings are attended by the bankers with keen interest. I have had the pleasure of attending both national and state conventions and fully realize their value and importance to the banking interests of this country, but it seems to me that we overlook what is to my mind of equal importance as the internal affairs of banking. I refer to the necessity of educating the people both as to the uses of banks and the security they offer.

Banking is far from being properly understood in its intimate and beneficent relations to the people. Banks are created and brought into being for the general use of the public and it would seem to me that there is great opportunity for organized effort to do much in the way of disseminating non-partisan information regarding the value and uses of banks.

Almost daily I meet some one who has use for some function of a bank, but lacks the necessary knowledge to enable him to take advantage of it. Take, for example, checking accounts. Business men, of course, use them. They find them useful and indispensable. Others seldom make that useful privilege theirs principally for lack of knowledge of its advantages. There are countless numbers of people who conduct their financial affairs without this convenience, but who if they knew how convenient it was to have a checking account would wonder how they got along without one.

Again, take the advice a trained banker can give his customers as to investments. Surely a banker, whose business life is largely taken up with the consideration of the investment of money, is well qualified to advise on matters of investment, and I am sure bankers generally are always ready and willing at all times to give advice where it is needed. If more use were made of this function of banking, we would hear less of losses from bad investments by those who can ill afford to lose.

A better knowledge of the security offered by one of the national banks of America to-day would result in bringing out from the dark places, stockings, holes in the ground and safe deposit boxes, money that could be earning interest for its owner.

It is a mistaken idea that banks are for the wealthy. The money of this country is not held only by the capitalists and those in affluence; it is also owned and largely controlled by the wage earners, and it would be more so if we had educational facilities for dispensing this knowledge. Banks are not only a convenience in our commercial life, but a safe place for the surplus earnings and accumulations of the people.

Success in life resolves itself into due preparation for the day of adversity and that is where our savings banks play such an important part on the economic side of our national life. While no one is under compulsion to save his surplus money, there is no getting away from the fact that sickness and old age are sure to come and affect one's ability and capacity to work. The lesson that each man must provide for himself is a hard one. Nevertheless, he must realize that his success depends upon his own capacity and thrift. The life stories of successful men of affairs attest the fact that the foundation of wealth lies in the habit of systematic saving.

TO RELEASE HUGE SUM

It has been pointed out by leading financiers that the new currency law will release over a billion in gold, as the national banks will be required to keep on hand only $500,000,000. At the present time there is approximately $1,700,000,000 gold in the treasury and the banks.

COUNTY ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

The Jewell County Bankers Association of Kansas at its recent meeting at Jewell, re-elected its old officers. D. H. Stafford is president; G. O. Seaton, vice-president; W. A. Matson, secretary, and P. H. O'Brien, treasurer.

CASHIER WEST VIRGINIA BANK

G. T. Partridge has been elected cashier of the First National, Parkerburg, W. Va., to fill the position that has been vacant since the death of H. H. Moss, Sr., several months ago. Mr. Partridge has been assistant cashier and has been with the bank for the past twenty-two years.

SEES PROSPEROUS CONDITIONS

Joseph E. Otis, vice-president, Central Trust, sees in 1914 an unusually prosperous season. He believes that economic conditions in this country have been greatly improved.

J. G. De Camp of Lansing, Mich., has been appointed to the examining staff of the state banking department by Banking Commissioner Doyle.

Thomas Friant has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) National City and City Trust and Savings to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lester J. Rindge.

The National Bank of Commerce, Detroit, has leased the entire ground floor of the Union Trust building excepting the safety deposit vaults of the Union Trust, and will occupy the entire space by January 1st.

THE NEW CURRENCY BILL

Peace on Earth; Good Will to Men. Coming at the Christmas time, the new currency bill has created a wonderful calm in financial circles. The "opposition" appears to have given way to a peaceful loyal resolve by bankers to give the new, advanced legislation an earnestly fair trial. To this it is entitled beyond all controversy. Harsh things which have been said, threats which have been hastily uttered, all will be forgotten and a return to active, sane prosperity be pursued industriously. The country demands as much, and bankers, first of all, are good citizens—financiers afterwards. Think of the battle put up to defeat the harmless and helpful postal bank. Twenty years were consumed in getting the parcel post and already we could not get on without it. The lower tariff came slowly, but along with the increased use of credit facilities will bring and maintain good times for all time. The new currency law is one of the most far-reaching measures relating to finance that has been enacted in many years. The magnitude of the subject, the diversity of interests affected and the length of the debates in both branches of congress have made it difficult for the ordinary observer to follow the changes and grasp the essentials of this highly technical measure in its important bearings on money, finance, banking and the entire range of fiscal subjects, public and private, which it affects. With a view, therefore, of presenting succinctly and in nontechnical language an epitome of the salient features of the measure as finally framed, the following summary is given of the bill as a whole and of its principal details: Generally speaking, the first steps to be taken to bring into operation the nation's new financial system will be through an organization committee. Banks have reasonable time within which to file their applications for membership in the new system; and one year's time is allowed before the government will compel the dissolution of any national bank that refuses to join. The new law will make little direct change in the operation of the present national banks, except to allow them to loan a certain amount of their funds upon farm mortgages. Its chief purpose is to add a new piece of machinery to the banking system that will "take up the slack" during the changing business conditions of each year; that will give the banks a place quickly to convert their assets into cash in time of need, and that will bring out new federal currency when it is needed and retire it when money becomes "cheap." Banks are now required to keep a certain percentage of their deposits as "reserves," part in cash in their own vaults and part of which may be redeposited in the banks of New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other designated cities. In times of sudden financial demands, when banks have loaned up to the full limit of their resources, these reserves furnish little relief, because if they are paid out to meet demands the banks are left in a precarious condition. The basic principle of the new law is to get these reserve funds out into circulation when necessary, without lessening the safety of any bank, and to provide a place to which local banks may rush in a crisis and get cash for the "prime commercial paper" they hold in their vaults. This is to be accomplished through a chain of regional reserve banks, or "reservoirs of reserves," in which all banks shall deposit a stated part of the money they are required to hold as reserves. Under the new system, when a financial flurry comes, the banks can take commercial paper, such as notes, drafts and bills of exchange, to these "reservoirs" and secure the use of their own reserves, or, if necessary, even the reserve of other banks, by depositing this security. The new regional banks will receive about one-half of the bank reserves of the country. They, in turn, will be permitted to loan back to the banks all but 35 per cent of these reserves, so that in case of emergency millions of cash can be brought into circulation quickly. The banks will have to pay for these loans, however, as individuals have to pay for a loan from any local bank; and this charge is expected to prevent the too free use of the reserves held by the regional banks. A new form of paper currency is also provided for, to come out in case of emergency, and which is expected to go back into the hands of the government when times are normal. These "treasury notes" will be printed by the government and issued through each regional reserve bank, and will bear the guarantee both of the regional bank and of the government. If the demand for currency in any section of the country exceeds the supply of circulating money, a regional bank can secure this new money from the government and put it into circulation; but a gold reserve of 40 per cent, and commercial paper equal to the full value of the note, must be held as a reserve behind each note so issued. This provision is expected to be the influence that will drive the new money back into retirement when it is no longer needed. The more technical features of the new bill will be studied carefully by bankers.

THE INCOME TAX

The Income-tax law will no longer prove a puzzle to those who read the interesting and enlightening article on it in the current issue of Lippincott's Magazine. Edward Sherwood Mead, Lippincott's financial expert, is the author.

"It has been held that the State has been defrauded out of a large part of revenue which rightfully belonged to it, because persons would not declare their income. Even when the taxpayer was honest, he resented the necessary inquiry into his private affairs involved in the assessments of his income and the inquiry necessarily incident thereto. The present law, copying the English income-tax law in this regard, aims to cure these defects. In the first place, every tax-payer must fill out his own statement of income and forward it to the Collector of Internal Revenue if he is liable to the tax. No one calls upon him, no one asks him any questions, the matter is placed entirely in his hands. If, however, he neglects to file the return or if he files a fraudulent return, he is liable to penalties ranging from doubling his assessment to the fine of $500.

"In order that this great latitude given to the tax-payer may not be abused, the law collects the tax wherever possible at the source of the income; that is to say, the person who pays the tax is not the one who receives the income, but the one who pays it. The law provides that corporations and those others having the control or payment of fixed or determinable annual gains, profits, or income are required to deduct the normal tax of one per cent from the payment made to the person entitled to receive the same, as, for instance, salary due an employee. Such corporations and others deducting the tax are made personally liable therefor, and are required to make a return of the tax thus collected, which shall, in every possible case, recite the name and address of the person whose tax has been thus deducted. This deduction, except as otherwise hereinafter indicated, is not made at the source unless the payment of income due from one certain corporation or other concern to an individual tax-payer amounts to $3,000 for the year.

"There is one notable exception, however: interest due on the debt of domestic corporations, and interest or dividends due from foreign countries or foreign corporations not subject to the terms of this act, are liable to deduction from the interest. The tax is deducted prior to payment to the owner, irrespective of the amount. The reason for this second provision is found in the fact that most of the interest on the $28,000,000,000 bonds of domestic corporations is represented by coupons payable to bearer, negotiable instruments which enter the channels of circulation exactly as do checks, without reference to their ownership. It was feared by the framers of the law that a man who was entitled to receive, for example, $60,000 of interest represented by bearer coupons might divide these coupons into thirty lots of $2,000 each, put them through thirty banks for collection, and thus escape the payment of the tax.

"It is this provision which has caused the greatest confusion and uneasiness among holders of coupons and among officers of financial institutions. The law is very plain: if the holder of coupons amounting to $1,000, who is not liable on his entire income to pay the tax, is unwilling that the bank where he deposits the amount for collection should deduct the tax for him, he must fill out a certificate setting forth that he is the owner of certain bonds, certain coupons, giving their numbers and describing the bond issue to which they refer. He further states that he claims the exemption of $3,000 or $4,000 previously described. The bank receiving this certificate gives the owner credit for the full amount. This ends the transaction so far as he is concerned. The coupons go through the usual channels, and are finally paid in full by the corporation which owns them. If, however, the owner of the coupons is unwilling or neglects to fill out this certificate of ownership, one per cent is deducted from the amount of coupons which he presents for collection or credit, and the bank which receives the coupons obtains, if possible, his name and address, and includes these in a certificate which he sends with the coupons, setting forth that it has paid the tax for the owner."

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK TRUSTEE UNDER CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RAILWAY MORTGAGE

The general and refunding mortgage of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, which was authorized by the board of directors and stockholders at their annual meeting held in Milwaukee, Wis., on the 27th of September last, has been formally executed by the officers of that company and of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the trustees under the mortgage.

The mortgage is an open mortgage, that is, is not limited to any specified amount. Bonds may be issued thereunder to three times the then outstanding capital stock of the company. This mortgage makes provision for taking up all the underlying bonds of the company which mature from time to time in the future, commencing July 1, 1914.

The mortgage also provides for issuing bonds from time to time in the future when necessary to acquire or construct additional lines of railway, extensions and branches, construction of additional main, spur and passing tracks, double tracking, block and other signal safety systems, elevation and depression of tracks, additional terminals, yards, shops, additional rolling stock and other improvements that are chargeable to the capital account of the company.

The bonds, when issued, may be coupon or registered bonds in denominations ranging from $100 to $10,000, the rate of interest to be determined by the board of directors at the time of the issue of any particular series of bonds.

THE IMPORTANT CHANGES IN THE CURRENCY BILL

Explained by

GEORGE M. REYNOLDS

President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank

1. The guaranty of national bank deposits goes out.
2. The Senate provision permitting the use of reserve notes as reserves of member banks is eliminated.
3. The Secretary of Agriculture will not be a member of Federal Reserve Board, but the Comptroller of the Currency will be.
4. A new provision for retiring the 2 per cent bonds goes into operation two years after the inauguration of the new system. These bonds are to be retired at the rate of $25,000,000 a year, to be taken over from national banks by reserve banks. On one-half the bonds so taken reserve banks will issue notes similar to those of national banks. The remainder of the bonds are to be retired through substitution of twenty-year 3 per cent bonds or treasury gold notes, renewable each year for thirty years.
5. A compromise of $4,000,000 was reached as the minimum capital stock of regional reserve banks, the House fixing it at $5,000,000 and the Senate $3,000,000.
6. The Senate won out on the number of reserve banks. They will be "not less than eight nor more than twelve."
7. The Senate surrendered to the House by striking out its permission to national banks to discount acceptances based on domestic shipments of goods.
8. The House accepted the Senate's subscription plan of 6 per cent of the member bank's capital and surplus instead of 10 per cent of the capital stock.
9. The Senate yielded on its provision that no director of Class B of the reserve banks can be a stockholder in a member bank.
10. The House accepted the Senate amendment increasing to 6 per cent the cumulative dividends to be paid to member banks holding stock in the reserve banks.
11. In defining the qualifications, etc., of members of the federal reserve board, instead of being distributed solely according to geographical boundaries, they shall be selected according to the "financial, industrial and geographical" divisions of the country.

"THERE is one thing more. We do not think that country banks will have paper of character which will be admissible for discount at the federal reserve banks in an amount sufficient to meet their needs at all times, and that they must continue to rely on their correspondents for funds. And the amount of reliance is only equal to the amount of money they have on deposit with their correspondents. As bankers, we have asked the conference to allow one-fourth of the amount admissible for discount to consist of the balances due from the correspondents. We hope this change will be made."

1. Good. (This is all the comment Mr. Reynolds would give on this paragraph.)

2. Splendid. This will create a tendency against possible inflation. Will enable the money question to be handled easily under the most distressing conditions. While we do not anticipate the arrival of these conditions, this section will prove an efficient check.

3. Here I believe the Senate bill making the Secretary of Agriculture a member of the Federal Reserve Board was better. Because as the bill now stands the Comptroller of the Currency is now practically prosecutor and judge—whereas his functions should be purely judicial.

4. This is good as far as it goes. The treatment of government bonds is not as liberal as I would like to see it. This is a step in the right direction, but it would have been bigger and broader if the government had gone farther.

5. This compromise is satisfactory.

6. I am sorry this number is not smaller. The larger the number of banks the more competition and the less coherence arises. It will be difficult to make the twelve banks pay from the beginning. It would have been better to begin with three or four reserve banks and gradually increase the number.

7. I am not familiar with this section.

8. This is all right. My own impression is that 10 per cent of the capital is better than 6 per cent of the capital and surplus.

9. This is a wise change for the reason if all the directors of Class B of the Federal Reserve Banks be not allowed as stockholders or directors in banks this would give as six directors men who are not connected with banks and without banking experience.

10. Six per cent as a maximum dividend is much better than 5 per cent.

11. I think this is a fair division, although I had no fault to find with the geographical division of selecting members. Where we have a preponderance of wealth it would be only natural to have a preponderance of representation.

Northwest Letter

Banking news from Minneapolis—St. Paul financial center, and surrounding States, compiled by F. C. Redmond

George H. Prince, chairman of the board of directors of the Merchants National, St. Paul, who returned from Chicago and New York on Saturday of last week, said that he believed the currency bill to be a good one. "I am satisfied," said Mr. Prince, "that the bankers of the nation will do everything they can to make the law successful and good for the whole people. There is no disposition in New York or Chicago to throw anything in the way of the operation of the new law. The bill, as I said, is a good one, but it has many defects that will have to be remedied. When the defects are seen from actual operation there is no doubt that the people of this country will order them corrected. It will take at least a year to make the currency law workable and thoroughly understood. During that time Europe will be a little cautious. There is absolutely no reason for any serious change or depression.

"The Northwest and one section of the South are the best parts of this country today, so far as business conditions are concerned. We occupy an independent position to a great degree because ours is an agricultural section. As we grow crops we bring new wealth into this section and we will, in a large measure, be independent of depressions or stringencies in the East and other parts of the nation. The currency law may become workable much sooner than is expected and it may be even better than its supporters have predicted. Regardless of how it works, there is no sign of hard times and there cannot be because the basic conditions are too sound. Next year should be much better than the one which we are just finishing and I do not think many people can complain about times during 1913."

Prods Bank Directors

In a circular sent out last week to each director of a state bank, Kelsey S. Chase, superintendent of banks, asked the directors to take a personal interest in the affairs of their institutions and advocated caution in the declaration of dividends.

New Bank Auditor

Henry B. House, formerly of the Continental and Commercial National of Chicago, has entered the First National of St. Paul as auditor. Mr. House was associated for five years with the national bank examiner's offices in the Northwest under C. H. Bosworth. He will make his future home in St. Paul.

See Good Year Ahead

It is the consensus of opinion of St. Paul bankers that the year 1914 bids fair to be the most prosperous one in the history of the city. The November letter of the Capital National, which reviews trade conditions for the last two years, says the best business conditions are found in the states bordering the Great Lakes. The letter says:

"There is almost a boom area covering Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, northern Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. A careful analysis of the business situation at this time shows clearly that the majority of complaints heard about the business operations during the last two years have been without real foundation or reason. Taking the totals of all big things in business for the past twenty-four months, we find that new records have been set for the two-year period by nearly every one of them and the sum total of them all sets a decidedly new record in transactions. Bank clearings, foreign trade, production of gold, coal and the base metals, earnings of railroads and crop production have all, during this period, exceeded any similar period in the history of the country."

Bank Deposits Gain

Bank deposits in Superior during the past year show a gain of over $800,000 over the year 1912 for the six banks in the city. On November 26, 1912, the total deposits were $4,060,076. For the corresponding date this year, the bank statements show the deposits to be $4,891,153, or a gain of $831,077.

New Minnesota Banks

The Farmers State of Garden City was organized last week with M. F. Crane, president; George John, vice-president and E. H. Monroe, cashier; directors, George W. John, M. F. Crane, E. J. Naylor, E. H. Monroe, George Richardson, U. G. Ward and E. W. Gates. The institution is capitalized at $10,000, and has forty-seven stockholders who are representatives of the best farmers and business men in the country surrounding Garden City.

A third bank is being organized in Tyler. The promoters are K. R. Duus, Hans P. Johnsen, S. H. Oxholm, Hans Duus and others.

Banker's Wife Captures Burglars

Compelling two burglars whom she captured in the house, to stand against the wall until she searched them, Mrs. Fred A. Irish, wife of the vice-president of the First National, Fargo, N. D., last week coolly talked over the situation with the men she had found ransacking her home. She locked the door to prevent the intruders' escape, but when she went to telephone the police, her prisoners escaped. They later were captured in Moorhead. Mrs. Irish was alone and unarmed.

Peterson, Grand Forks; vice-president, E. A. Wambem, Lankin; cashier, P. Knappen. The directors include, in addition to officers, O. S. Hanson, F. L. Goodman, I. S. Torgerson of Grand Forks, Mrs. Overland and C. G. Gaarder, of Lankin.

North Dakota Convention

The annual convention of the South Dakota Bankers' Association will be held at Aberdeen, June 25.

North Dakota Bank Fails

The Farmers State of Cresbard, S. D., closed its doors on Friday of last week, a lack of revenue and a failure to collect on outstanding paper being the cause of the failure. The general opinion is that the bank's paper is in good condition and that the loss will not be great. H. Rowley is president and L. L. Rowley, cashier.

North Montana Bank

Articles of incorporation for the Mission State of St. Ignatius, Mont., were filed last week. The capital stock of the bank, consisting of 200 shares sold at par, is subscribed entirely by western Montana men, many of them Missoula citizens. The directors of the new bank are Colonel George W. Morse, of Missoula; George H. Beckwith, of St. Ignatius; Joseph Grenier, Jr., of St. Ignatius; W. Morse, of Missoula, and Andrew Magee, of St. Ignatius.

Northwest Notes

Approximately $500,000 worth of bonds will be offered for sale by the sinking fund committee of St. Paul soon after the first of the month to finance paving jobs.

J. H. Hamilton has been elected president of the Commercial Trust and Savings, Great Falls, Mont., succeeding George H. Stanton, who resigned.

John Sharp, the former Winnebago banker, indicted for falsifying reports to the state banking department, will be tried December 29.

The Farmers State of Sacred Heart, Minn., has installed an electrical chime and clock system.

Samuel L. Doughty, cashier of the Billings (Mont.) State, and Miss Carolina V. Smith are married recently.

The Bank of Bruce, S. D., has announced that it will be incorporated as a state bank and will continue under the same management.

HENRY B. HOUSE TO ST. PAUL

Chicago Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has recently lost to St. Paul one of its brightest and most active members. Henry B. House, the clever author-actor of "Janitress Met" and "Sophie Should Worry," two big box successes of the Chapter, has been appointed auditor of the First National of St. Paul, Minn.

His experience in banking particularly fits him for the new position. Coming from Springfield, Ill., in 1904, he became associated with the national bank examiner for the Chicago district, resigning in 1909 to become auditor of the old Commercial National of Chicago. On the consolidation of that bank with the Continental National in 1910, he resigned to engage in the accountancy business. For the past year or so he has been in the bond business.

Chicago Chapter, and particularly those in the organization who knew him best, will sadly miss Mr. House and his loss is to be regretted. He has the best wishes of the Chapter for continued and increased success.

Pacific Northwest Banking News

Eighteen million dollars' worth of minerals has been extracted during 1913 from the mines of the Coeur d'Alene region in northern Idaho, east of Spokane, according to conservative estimates of mining operators, based on figures from the principal properties. Many authorities say the figure will be closer to $20,000,000.

Using the smaller amount, the production since 1902 is $156,354,991, the sworn statements of the Coeur d'Alene mines showing a total production between 1902 and 1912, inclusive, of $138,354,991. For the 18 years preceding 1902, estimates place the production at between $100,000,000 and $125,000,000. Thus, in their 30 years' history, the Coeur d'Alenes have produced minerals valued at between $256,354,991 and approximately $281,000,000.

This is largely from silver-lead, although in the earlier days of the district, gold was the principal value, and of late years some copper and zinc values have been saved. The year just closing is declared by mining men the most prosperous in the history of the Coeur d'Alenes.

The largest silver-lead mine in the world, the Bunker Hill & Sullivan, at Kellogg, Idaho, began producing in 1886, and is now said to have more ore in sight than at any time in its history. Mining experts say this mine has at least 80 years of productive life ahead. To date it has paid $14,729,250 in dividends.

Based on reports of the 1913 experiences of fruit growers of the Spokane country, apple producers of the four Pacific northwestern states will save nearly $100,000 by purchasing apple boxes co-operatively next year. Orris Dorman, vice-president of the Fidelity National Bank, and president of the Spokane Fruit Growers' company, a co-operative selling organization, handling the crop of the districts surrounding Spokane, states that his association last season purchased boxes for 8½ cents a box, saving from 2 to 2½ cents on each, or about 20 per cent.

With a good yield in 1914 the North Pacific Fruit Distributors, the co-operative marketing organization, which handles 60 per cent of the product of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, expects to ship about 8,000 cars, necessitating the purchase of about 5,000,000 boxes. If two cents per box is saved by co-operative buying, the growers will have to pay $100,000 less for boxes than if they purchased individually.

"We do not claim the makers charged too much for boxes before," states Mr. Dorman, "as under the methods of bad collections they were obliged always to figure on a long wait for their pay, and, in some cases, they were never paid. They have told us that they prefer selling to a well-financed organization, even if the price is 20 per cent lower than to an individual."

Tentative plans for the annual convention were discussed by the executive committee of group two of the Washington State Bankers' association, which met in the rooms of the clearing house association in the Exchange Bank building at Spokane. Several subjects were discussed as topics for addresses at the annual meeting. Questions dealing with currency reform, now pending and of great interest to the banking fraternity, make it impossible to select topics definitely at present. The committee is preparing some educational features and will endeavor to secure two or three outside speakers. The committee adjourned to meet within 60 days to complete the draft of the program. Those present were F. J. Wilmer, of Rosalia, president of the group; E. W. Anderson, of Newport; O. M. Green, of Spokane, secretary of the group, and E. V. Klein, of the Traders National bank of Spokane.

Bankers and commercial club officials of Whitman county, which adjoins Spokane county on the south and which is in the heart of the famous Palouse wheat belt, are urging the creating of the position of agricultural expert. J. P. Duke, a Palouse (Wash.) banker, who is chairman of a committee that is in charge of the movement, says: "The cost will not exceed 20 cents for each 160 acres of land in the county, and I believe that the plan, if followed, will result in increased taxes on added outputs of live stock, poultry, dairy products and better crops, so that it will be a good investment and increase the taxable property more than enough to pay its cost. The commercial bodies want it. The farmers' union wants it, and the railroads, the best taxpayers in the county, want it."

Prosperous conditions are reported by Orris Dorman, president of the Farmers & Mechanics' bank, of Spokane, which has just completed its year and held its last meeting of the directors. A 10 per cent dividend was declared for 1913. On a capitalization of $50,000, the dividend represents $5,000. In addition to the declaration of the dividend, the directors voted to add $2,000 to the surplus and $6,000 to undivided profits. Orris Dorman and his brother, Ortho Dorman, who is cashier of the bank, acquired control about two years ago and a steady growth has been experienced since.

"Quite generally I find an increasing interest by the east in the Pacific northwest as a field for investment, particularly in municipal securities," states J. E. Ferris, of Ferris & Hardgrove, Spokane investment bankers, who has just returned from a five weeks' business trip to eastern centers. "One of the large insurance companies at this time holds approximately $800,000 of Spokane city bonds. In one or two places inquiries were made as to reports of vacant house and office buildings in the western cities, and I informed one New Yorker that there were more vacant offices in the Woolworth building than in all Spokane and more vacant stores on ten blocks on Twenty-third street or Forty-second street, than in our entire city."

A. W. Harris, president of the Des Moines City Railway Company, was in the city attending the annual meeting last week. Mr. Harris is president of the Harris Trust Company of Chicago, which concern owns the Des Moines property.

Des Moines, Dec. 26.—While Dr. George M. Chappel, of the Iowa Crop Bureau, submitted an optimistic report of the yields of Iowa farm lands the past season, Uncle Sam comes back with even a better one. The government crop report places the corn yield of Iowa at 338,300,000 bushels, while Dr. Chappel estimated the total at 329,343,000 bushels, a gain in favor of Uncle Sam's figures of 8,957,000 bushels. On oats, Uncle Sam gives a total of 168,360,000 bushels as against Dr. Chappel's 164,851,000 bushels. On wheat the government estimates 16,395,000 as against Dr. Chappel's 13,136,953. The government places the value of the corn crop at $202,980,000 while Dr. Chappel figures it at $194,311,370. This is an unusual situation, for in former years Dr. Chappel has usually given estimates which have shown more bushels than the government. On this account, Dr. Chappel has been accused of being too anxious to make a good showing for his own state, and his figures have been questioned somewhat on that account. The fact that Uncle Sam has outdone Dr. Chappel this year is regarded as the best possible proof that the assertions hitherto have been unfounded.

Facts Concerning Iowa Banks

A Des Moines newspaper correspondent has been doing some figuring since the last report of the state banking department was issued. He draws conclusion as follows:

Iowa banks have greatly expanded their commercial loans.

Iowa banks have increased their deposits, but not as rapidly as they have increased their loans.

Iowa banks have reduced their obligations to each other but increased their obligations to outside or correspondent banks.

Iowa banks are letting their profits lie in banks undivided and permitting their surplus funds to increase, which appears in the form of more cash in the tills.

Iowa banks have permitted their capital and loans to increase more rapidly than their reserve funds, so that at present the reserves are at the lowest point in history.

Following these statements, he tabulates reserves for several months showing that they were up to 24 per cent in November last year, 21 per cent in November, 1911; 20.5 per cent in November, 1910, and 16 per cent this past November.

Des Moines Visitors

Among out-of-town visitors to Des Moines banks recently were President F. M. Hopkins, Peoples State, at Guthrie Center; President F. W. Rining, Lorimor Bank; Cashier H. J. Lanphere, Citizens National, Grinnell; President W. M. Greeley, Union National, Ames; Cashier E. R. Burkett, Bank of Granger; Cashier E. H. Say Banks Charge Too Much Interest

The Des Moines school board has come to the conclusion that the Des Moines banks have been charging too much interest for carrying warrants on funds that are overdrawn. Accordingly, the board voted to reduce the 6 per cent interest to 3 per cent. At present the banks have been charging 6 per cent interest and paying 2 per cent for daily balances, thereby clearing 4 per cent. Whether the banks will fall in with the idea and co-operate with the school board seems to be a matter of doubt. The bankers are inclined to resent the dictatorial attitude on the part of the board and believe more would have been accomplished had the members of the board conferred with the bankers and asked them in a friendly sort of way to make the proposed reduction.

New Savings Plan

The Leavitt & Johnson National at Waterloo has evolved another savings club idea. This one is called the "Panama-Pacific" club. Its idea is to get members to deposit certain stipulated amounts weekly. The bank will pay interest, and when the exposition starts, the depositors will have on hand enough money to pay their way to the San Francisco show. The bank proposes six different classes from those who deposit $1 per week up to those who put in more. The institution quite successfully conducted a Christmas club savings campaign, and expects even more out of this newest one.

Bank Record Spoiled by Colfax Failure

The state banking department regrets that the Citizens State bank at Colfax, in closing so abruptly following the disappearance of Cashier M. B. Wheelock, has broken a splendid record. Not since 1907 has a bank under the jurisdiction of the state banking department closed its doors. In those troublesome times, the First State at Corwith, the Farmers and Drivers at Seymour, the Princeton Savings and the Green Mountain State were compelled to shut their doors. The Green Mountain paid in full. The banks at Seymour and Princeton paid 75 per cent and the Corwith bank 60 per cent.

Will of Banker's Widow Probated

The will of the late Mrs. Lois G. Stuart was probated last week at Audubon. Mrs. Stuart was the widow of one of the well-known early-day bankers and loan men and it was after him that the town of Stuart was named. Mrs. Stuart left an estate valued at $1,000,000. Personal property alone totaled $382,150. By the terms of the will, thousands of dollars were divided among Presbyterian churches and institutions. The Audubon school district gets $10,000, each grandchild $10,000, and distant relatives various other amounts.

Iowa Notes

E. S. Harlan, formerly a banker at Atlantic and later receiver for the now famous Atlantic North and South Railway, has been indicted on seven charges of embezzlement. The total amount of which he is accused is $1,200.

Mason City has another bank merger. The City National and the People's State have formed a merger, and Cashier M. J. Nolan, of the People's, is now connected with the City National. A few days ago the Security National took over the Iowa State so that Mason City seems to be setting a pace that might be followed with profit in other Iowa towns and cities.

The Des Moines city council has authorized the issuance of $117,000 bonds for the purpose of securing money with which to buy fire apparatus and police equipment. The securities will bear 5 per cent.

Cashier Guy H. Hall, of the Bank of Dallas Center, won a victory in the supreme court of Iowa last week when the supreme court reversed the holding of the lower court, which had granted Mrs. Hall a divorce and alimony. Thus the couple are married again.

Cashier F. E. Border, of the Union State at West Bend, refused to pay a check for $500 signed by John C. Fehlman, deceased, and presented by his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Jensen. The cashier declared that the signature must first be verified, whereupon the woman took the case into court.

W. E. Briggs, cashier of the Stock Yards National at St. Paul, and recently elected president of the Twin Cities Bankers Club, was for years a resident of Madrid, Iowa, and organized the Madrid State in 1895.

The Northwestern State, at Orange City, has announced prizes of $150 for the best alfalfa stand in June.

The Farmers State of Solon has filed articles of incorporation at Iowa City. The capital stock is $25,000. R. H. Bowman, Solon, president; John Serovy, Solon, first vice-president; Louis Woukon, Cedar Rapids, second vice-president; Emil W. Smykil, Solon, cashier.

W. H. Babcock, cashier of the Waverly Savings at Waverly, has been very ill. An operation for gallstones relieved him and he is said to be out of danger.

John Martin was given fifteen years for forging a check for $38.60 and passing it on the bank at Keystone. Martin was arrested, pleaded guilty, and in forty-eight hours after the crime was committed, was on his way to Anamosa.

Charles C. Norton, who has been cashier and president of the Farmers National at Corning for 42 years, has disposed of his stock and will enjoy a rest. He has been active in the organization of three banks and is one of the best known of southwestern Iowa financiers.

J. J. Hogan has severed his connection with the Farmers Saving at Massena afen ten years to become cashier of the Farmers National at Corning. S. D. Wyckoff has purchased the Hogan stock in the Massena institution. Wray Wilson will succeed him as cashier.

Oskaloosa's new institution, the Peoples Trust and Savings, will begin business January 1st. The capital stock is $50,000. C. E. Beman is president; G. G. Woodin, vice-president; George F. McCarty, cashier. The institution has secured a lease on the Fitch building and is making it over into splendid quarters.

It isn't usual that an editor gets stung on a forged check, but John Sayer, editor of the Struble Journal, is short $21 as the result of cashing a check for a stranger. When the check was presented at the First National, Editor Sayer learned that he had been deceived.

The Security National at Sioux City has been approved as reserve agent for the Laurel National, Laurel, Neb.; Cedar Rapids National, Cedar Rapids; First National, Rochester, Minn.

J. H. Wegerslew, assistant cashier of the First National at Marathon, is active in the formation of a new bank at Albert City.

The First Bank is a new institution at Quachita. R. J. Tayot is president; J. B. Butler, vice-president; J. D. Knight, cashier.

The Farmers Savings and the Bank of Runnels have consolidated under the name of the Runnells Savings. F. F. Johnson is president.

TEXAS RESERVE AGENTS

The Texas department of insurance and banking has approved the following banks as reserve agents for state banks: Guaranty State Bank and Trust, Dallas, and La Salle street Trust Savings, Chicago, for the First State of Wolfe City; Red River National of Clarksville for the First State of Bogata; Prendergast, Smith & Company of Mexia, for the Guaranty State of Kirvin; Central National of St. Louis, for the Merchants State of Port Arthur; Oklahoma Stock Yards National of Oklahoma City, for the First State of Abernathy; Guaranty State Bank and Trust Company of Dallas for the Guaranty State of Personville; Texas State of Fort Worth and Traders State of Cleburne for the Farmers and Merchants State of Burleson; First National of Houston for the First State of Belton; Continental Bank and Trust of Fort Worth, Commercial State of Sherman and Continental State of McKinney for the Continental State of Sweetwater; Hanover National of New York for the Brookshire State of Brookshire; State Bank and Trust Company of San Antonio and First National of Houston for the First State of Liberty; National City of New York for the First State of Gainesville.

FALCO BANK TO OPEN

With new capital, the Bank of Falco, Ala., which suspended recently, resumed business on Thursday of last week.

KANSAS BANKERS AT WICHITA

The Kansas Bankers Association will hold its 1914 annual convention in Wichita, on May 21, 22 and 23.

L. E. Maddox, president of the First National, Montpelier, Ind., has sold his stock in that institution and has retired. D. A. Bryson, who has been cashier, has been elected president.

Harry G. Hayes, assistant cashier of the Hastings (Mich.) National has been appointed cashier to succeed his father, the late Wm. D. Hayes. Assistant Postmaster Wm. N. Chidester became assistant cashier.

Weil, Roth Company, of Cincinnati, have purchased the $75,000 emergency bonds of Butler county, on a bid of $1,042 premium and par and accrued interest on the $50,000 issue and $822 on the $25,000 issue, a total premium of $1,864.

President David M. Pratt of the Second National, Elmira, N. Y., died recently.

The Pontiac (Mich.) Savings recently celebrated its fifteenth birthday by moving into its new modern banking home.

G. F. M. Ward has been elected a director of the Ham National, Mt. Vernon, Ill., to fill the vacancy left by G. T. Ham.

Earl Lundy, assistant cashier of the Centerville (Ind.) State, has resigned his position, the resignation to take effect January 1.

Henry C. Graves, one of the original members of the board of directors of the City National and the City Trust and Savings of Dayton, Ohio, is dead.

KANSAS BANK CLOSES

The Severy (Kans.) State was closed last week following a meeting of the stockholders, and the affairs of the institution were placed in the hands of the state bank examiner. Inability to realize on outstanding paper, due to bad crops, is said to be the reason for the bank temporarily closing. The stockholders are all able to meet the obligation of the depositors and the depositors also are protected by the state guaranty law.

Cincinnati

Directors of the German-American Savings, Cleveland, have declared a semi-annual dividend of 7 per cent payable January 1. This is an increase from a 12 to 14 per cent annual basis and is the highest dividend rate paid by any Cleveland bank. The German-American also has transferred another $10,000 from undivided profits to surplus, making the latter item $70,000. After deducting the dividend just declared there still remains $13,000 in undivided profits account. The capital stock is $50,000 and surplus and undivided profits $83,000. The gain in deposit for the year was $250,000.

Will Increase Capital

The authorized capital stock of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company, Cleveland, will be increased from $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 at the annual meeting of the stockholders, January 24. The additional capital stock will be in the form of $2,000,000 6 per cent preferred, making the total authorized amount of that class of security $5,000,000. The increase will not be sold but will be held in the treasury to provide future improvements.

Baxter Found Guilty

Clement L. Baxter, former state bank examiner of Ohio, on Saturday of last week was declared guilty of having embezzled $3,140 from the Columbus Savings & Trust Company, when it failed nearly two years ago. Baxter, whose family long has been prominent in financial circles in northwestern Ohio, formerly was city treasurer of Lima. He became a state bank examiner under the administration of his brother, Frank E. Baxter, as state superintendent of banks, about two years ago. He resigned that position shortly after Frank E. Baxter relinquished his connection with the state banking department. Frank E. Baxter was acquitted some months ago of the alleged wrongful use of $35,000 of the funds of the defunct bank.

Bank Building Sold

Only one bid, according to the conditions of the sale, was made to Emery Lattanner, state superintendent of banks, last week, when the twelve-story building of the defunct Columbus Savings & Trust Company was offered for sale, and as a consequence Superintendent Lattanner sold the building to this one bidder. Harley E. Burns, representing the depositors' committee. The price was $633,350. The building, which cost more than $1,000,000, had been appraised at $950,000.

Columbus Bank Settles Claim

The claim of the state of Ohio against the Commercial National of Columbus, for the use of funds deposited in the bank by former state treasurers, has been settled by an agreement of the bank to pay the state $55,000. Twelve other banks are being pressed to pay interest on state funds said to have been deposited in the same way. The total amount the state alleges the banks owe is approximately $255,000. Officials of the Commercial National denied the claim was valid, but asserted they were acceding to the demand in order to "avoid the risk of the claim being sustained as sound by a technicality."

Bucyrus Banker Dead

G. K. Ziegler, president of the Second National and owner of the flour mills at Bucyrus, Ohio, died recently, aged seventy-nine.

Made Vice-President

Charles M. Braman, cashier of the Central Bank of Lorain, Ohio, will assume the vice-presidency of the Savings Deposit Bank & Trust of Elyria, on January 1. He has been identified with the Lorain bank for the last eighteen years. His first banking experience was obtained in the institution of which he becomes vice-president, his father having held that position before him.

Mineral City Bank Taken Over

State Superintendent of Banks Lattanner, has announced that the state has taken over the Indemnity Bank of Mineral City, Ohio, and that arrangements have been completed for the bank's liquidation. Depositors, he said, will be paid in full. The Indemnity Bank is a private institution with resources amounting, it is said, to about $50,000. It is the seventh bank that has gone out of business since a law providing for state inspection of private banks became effective last spring.

Ask Bankruptcy for Bank

Ten creditors of the Exchange Bank of Bloomville, Ohio, filed a petition in bankruptcy in federal court last week, setting up the charges, supported by schedules, that the bank owes $252,485.49 and has assets amounting to only $189,134.83. The creditors have claims aggregating $5,771.82. The case grows out of the failure of Jacob A. Klahr and Frank C. Samsel, partners, who owned the controlling interest in the Peoples Bank of Sycamore, now in bankruptcy. A large part of the claims of the Bloomville bank are against the Sycamore institution.

Zanesville Bank Wins Suit

The Franklin county court of appeals in the case of the American Trust and Savings Bank Company of Zanesville against Frank E. Baxter, former Ohio state superintendent of banks, last week held that state banks do not need to maintain a fifteen per cent deposit of trust funds, but must have fifteen per cent of other deposits in compliance with the Thomas banking act of 1908. The supreme court refused to receive the case on appeal, giving the appeal court final jurisdiction. The Zanesville bank sought and was granted an injunction preventing Baxter from taking over the 15 per cent trust fund deposit. The court of appeals affirmed the lower court in granting the injunction.

Bank's Fiftieth Year

December 15th, was the fiftieth anniversary of the Third National of Syracuse, N. Y., the original charter of the institution having been granted in 1863. There was no formal observance of the occasion. The work of remodeling the bank building, which has been in progress for the last year and a half, will be completed January 1.

New Kentucky Bank

The new city of Wayland, being built by the Elk Horn Coal Corporation on Beaver Creek, north of Whitesburg, Ky., is to have a new banking institution, a national bank, organized by John E. Buckingham, of Paintsville, and others, which will begin business on the first of the year or soon after. Interested stockholders are John C. C. Mayo, of Paintsville; J. W. M. Stewart, of Ashland; Clarence W., and George T. Watson, of Fairmont, and Senator Camden, of Versailles, and others.

Corn Show Successful

The second annual corn show of the Anderson Banking Company, Anderson, Ind., was held recently. There were 137 entries and every township in the country was well represented at the show. Fred C. Palin, of Newton, Ind., the winner of the W. H. H. Kellogg $1,000 prize for the best ear of corn at the Omaha National show in 1909, was the judge at the contest.

Detroit Bank Goes to New Quarters

The American State of Detroit is putting into effect a number of changes which will be in operation under the new plan about January 15, and now is moving its main offices from east Jefferson avenue to quarters in the south half of the Moffat building, formerly occupied by the Peninsular State. These offices now are undergoing the necessary alterations and when completed will provide splendidly equipped quarters with ample room for the transaction of the present business of this rapidly growing institution. The American State opened for business February 1, 1907, as the Fairview Savings. Deposits this year, since the change in name, show an increase of 60 per cent, and now total $1,500,000, while resources are $1,800,000.

Spring Lake Bank Elects Directors

Stockholders of the new Spring Lake (Mich.) Bank have elected the following directors: Aloys Bilz, George W. Christman, Herman F. Herbeck, Leroy Heath, Thomas Johnston, Paul Markoff and Milton G. Morse. The directors will elect officers and arrange for the opening of the bank soon. No location has yet been obtained for the new institution.

Banking Notes

William Munford, receiver of the Union National, Columbus, Ohio, has accepted a position in the Citizens Trust & Savings.

The Central National of Buffalo, now is a member of the Buffalo Clearing House.

Sylvester W. Treat, president of the banking house of S. W. Treat & Company, Weedsport, N. Y., which firm he established in 1869, died last week.

The First National of Elizabeth, Pa., closed its doors last week and a bank examiner has been placed in charge.

James Mahaffey, aged 83, the oldest bank man in Pittsburgh, died last Monday. Mr. Mahaffey was connected with the old Iron City Bank in the capacity of general bookkeeper until the merger of that institution with the Bank of Pittsburgh in 1907, when he resigned. Clyde Morrison, held on a charge of making false entries and for other irregularities connected with the recent failure of the Clarkston bank, has been bound over to the January term of the circuit court.

J. T. Hadwin, who has been cashier of the Sebewaing (Mich.) State, has disposed of his interest and will retire to go into another line of business. George E. Everingham of Bad Axe, will succeed him the first of the year.

Ben T. Bole has been elected a director of the Cleveland Trust to fill one of the vacancies on the board of that institution. Directors of the Cleveland Trust have declared the usual dividend of 2½ per cent, payable January 1.
